CONSERVATIVE M.P.P'S MEET IN TORONTO

Impression Gained Is That The Premier Will Go To London

Conservative Members of Legis lature Are Guests of W. H. Ireland, Party Whip, at Lun cheon, After Which Members Hol d Caucus.

MANY PRESENT FEEL THAT HON. HOWARD FERGUSON WILL ACCEPT CA NADIAN COMMISSIONERSHIP

TORONTO, Ont., November 27 (By Frank Flaherty, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — As Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature gathered here to-day for the caucus the conviction grew that Premier G. Howard Ferguson would accept the appointmen. as Canadian High Commissioner in London. Many of Mr. Ferguson's 80-odd followers in the Legislature are convinced they will have to say farewell to their leader before they return to their homes.

The Premier and his followers were guests at luncheon arranged by W. H. Ireland, Conservative Whip, in the Parliament Buildings to-day, and immediately afterwards the caucus began.

While a few days ago Mr. Ferguson stated he would consult the wishes of his party before deciding on the London post, there is a strong feeling among the rank and file of the members he has already made up his mind. Undoubtedly he will be pressed to remain in Ontario, but the pressure will not be so strong when his own wishes are known.

Should no statement be made after the caucus this afternoon, it is possible Mr. Ferguson's appointment may be announced simultaneously by himself and a member of the Dominion Government at the Ontario Conservative Association banquet here on Tuesday night.

Whatever Premier Ferguson decides to do in connection with acceptance of the post of High Commissioner in London will be acceptable to his followers in the Ontario Legislature, said W. H. Ireland at a luncheon. Immediately after Mr. Ireland's speech the reporters were requested to leave, and Mr. Ferguson addressed the caucus behind closed doors.

EXCESS IN GOLD GIVEN $5 BONUS FOR EACH OUNCE

Australia Hopes to Attract Several Millions of British Capital.

WORK FOR 50,000.

Mineral Industry Five Per Cent of Total Agricultural and Industrial Production.

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 27. — (C. P. Cable via Reuter's).—Australia will subsidize the production of gold.

The Commonwealth Labor Government to-day announced that it would pay on an equitable basis, a bonus of $5 for every ounce on all gold produced in Australia which is in excess of the total production last year.

The Labor Party contends the bonus will attract several millions of British capital and the extra production will provide work for 50,000 persons.

Australia's mineral industry constitutes about 5 per cent. of her total production—agricultural and industrial. Though she has contributed well over three billions of dollars to the world's gold supply, her gold production has been steadily declining from the record of £16,300,000 (about $80,000,000) in 1903, being only about $10,500,000 in 1927.

TILLS ARE RIFLED IN BARBER SHOP

Thieves Gain Entrance Into Robertson's Barber Shop Through Back Door.

TWENTY DOLLARS TAKEN.

The series of store burglaries and gas station thefts that have almost reached crime wave proportions in the city during the past month was renewed early yesterday morning, when thieves broke into George Robertson's barber shop on George Street and escaped with a supply of cigarettes and more than twenty dollars in cash.

The thieves gained entrance to the store by forcing the lock on the rear door. One of the two cash registers was locked and the burglars used a screw driver to break it open. Both tills were rifled of all they contained, more than twenty dollars. Also the thieves carried away a quantity of cigarettes. They inspected the store room in the basement, but a check-up has failed to disclose anything missing from the stock there.

Police are actively engaged in trying to run the thieves to earth, since it is believed that the same small gang is responsible for the many similar thefts made here recently.

Woman's Bones Found In Western Bluff

EARL GREY, Sask., Nov. 27. (CP) Murder is believed to lie behind the scenes in the gruesome discovery of the bones of a woman adult and an infant which were found by a farmer of this district in a bluff about four miles north of here.

As a result of an extensive probe now being carried out by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, it is disclosed that marks and scars on the woman's skull lead to the suspicion that she died as the result of a fractured skull. A scarred and mutilated pelvic bone also lead police to believe the woman died as the result of violence. There were no marks on the bones of the infant.

Condition of the sack in which the bones were found would indicate according to police, that it has not been the receptory for the bones from the time death took place presumably about three years ago, but were only conveyed recently to the spot where they were found.

Although not committing themselves, police state that the disappearance of a woman of this district some years ago may have something to do with the present case.

LINDSAY YOUTH BEATS CHAMPION

Lloyd MacKay Eliminates Billy Struthers in Singles Horseshoe Series.

SIX TEAMS IN FINALS.

TORONTO, Ont., November 27 (C. P.). — Over another long series of preliminary stepping stones, six teams moved into the finals of the Canadian horse shoe pitching contest last night.

A number of upsets occurred but generally speaking the results were true to form, with the favorites entering the finals to be played to-night. Young Billy Struthers, of Sarnia, holder of the Canadian single championship, went down to defeat before another youngster, 17-year-old Lloyd Mackay, a dark horse from Lindsay, Ont. In the doubles, however, Struthers and his partner, Buckingham, entered the finals without a defeat, while Riley and Simons, the Canadian open champs, entered the finals with only a single defeat suffered in the last tilt with Smoke and Simenton, another duo of Indians from the Brantford Reserve.

GRANDI AND BEY CONFER AT ROME

ROME, November 27 (C.P.). — Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, met Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister, at the railway station to-day upon his arrival here for several days' visit.

While here Grandi and Tewfik will confer at length regarding the mutual problems of their Governments. The Turkish Foreign Minister also will confer with the King and Premier Mussolini.

His visit is arousing considerable comment, coming as it does on the heels of the meeting at Milan of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and Grandi.

Three Children Are Burned in Barn Fire

Following the razing of barn of Thomas Willman, near Belleville, by fire, three small children were cremated in the blazing structure. The three small bodies were found yesterday morning in the ruins of the barn. ABOVE are shown: (1) Mrs. Thomas Willman and Baby Hazel, one of the children; (2) Thomas Willman father of the children, and (3) Hazel, aged 3, one of the tots burned to death.

FATE OF CASSIDY DECIDED TO-DAY

CHERNETZKY FACES CHARGE

HULL, Que., Nov. 27.—(CP)— The fate of Austin Cassidy, 28-year-old Ottawan charged with the murder of Bert Marshall, young athlete of the Capital, will likely be placed in the hands of the Hull assizes jury today. When court adjourned last night evidence for the defence was nearing completion following the winding up of the crown's case early in the afternoon.

Star witness for the defence yesterday was Sam Ellis, a tailor of Ottawa, who told of a conversation between the accused and John Chernetzky, he overheard a short time after Marshall had been shot through the heart on a Hull street corner, during an argument over a trifling automobile smash. Chernetzky, who also faces a murder charge in connection with the case, and Cassidy were arguing when he came upon them on an Ottawa street late on the fatal night, Ellis related. In answer to his query as to the cause of the argument, witness stated Cassidy told him that he and Chernetzky had got into a slight scrape in nearby Hull; Ellis quoted Cassidy as saying, "we heard a shot fired and made ourselves scarce."

Cassidy had further told him, Ellis testified, that on another occasion within two weeks of October 15 when Marshall was slain, he had heard a shot in close vicinity to himself.

"Cassidy seemed to think someone was out to get him," Ellis added, "and he told me he thought it best that he get out of town for a time."

North Monaghan Gets $1,000 Relief Grant

Members of North Monaghan Township Council were successful yesterday in obtaining a Government grant of $1,000 as the result of an interview in Toronto with J. M. Ellis, secretary of the Railway and Municipal Board.

The sum represents fifty per cent. of the expenditure which will be put into the construction of sidewalks. The municipality will be required to assume responsibility for the other $1,000.

Accompanying Bruce Johnston, clerk to North Monaghan Council, on the mission were Messrs. Whitfield, Byers and Patton.

"The difficulty we had to encounter," said Mr. Johnston, "was that the secretary of the Railway and Municipal Board said we could not receive two grants—that is, one from the Highway Department and a further grant for the construction of drains which we had anticipated."

Port Hope Man is Killed in Halifax

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 27.—(C. P.)— Mrs. Winnifred Gormley was arraigned in police court yesterday for preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering Gordon Lister, of Port Hope, Ont., who was found stabbed to death in a Water street house on Saturday morning. She was remanded to December 2.

LIFE SENTENCE GIVEN SLUGEIS

WOUNDED OFFICER.

TORONTO, Ont., November 27 (C. P.). — Found guilty on a charge of attempted murder, Michael Slugeis was sentenced to life imprisonment by Mr. Justice Logie in the Criminal Assizes to-day. Slugeis was surprised on April 28 by Constable W. A. Creighton while in the act of robbing a store, and when ordered to "Come out" he fired at the policeman. Creighton fired in return, wounding the man, who was then taken to the hospital.

Slugeis pleaded not guilty The jury deliberated ten minutes.

"Slugeis, you have been found guilty of the next most serious crime to murder,' said His Lordship in imposing sentence on the Russian. "The people of this province will not permit such crime in their midst. The police, a brave, competent, law-abiding set of men, are to be protected in their duty. The sentence of the court is that you are to be confined at hard labor for the rest of your natural life, and to be deported."

SNOW FALL WAS LOCAL COUNTY COUNCILLORS SAY

Members of the county council bring the information that the first snow of the year in this area centered its attention upon Peterborough. It passed from west to east in a path extending from the vicinity of Fraserville, north to Nassau.

A few farmers were still plowing on Wednesday morning, but as one member of the council said this morning "if you turn in the snow you find that it makes the ground cold in the following spring, and you find the difference in the crop."

This may be only a personal notion, but expresses the attitude of farmers toward plowing in the snow.

Some farmers, it is related, do not consider the fall complete and successful unless early winter overtakes them in their plowing. They are probably the procrastinating few who are breaking ground when most of their neighbors are finished.

REV. BRETHERTON DIES IN HASTINGS

Father Bretherton Has Been Parish Priest in Hastings For Past 26 Years.

BORN IN ENGLAND.

HASTINGS, Nov. 27.— (Examiner Correspondence.)— In the passing of the Rev. Father C. S. Bretherton this community is bereft of a man of high nobility of purpose and design an a man loved and respected by all regardless of creed and profession.

His death which occurred early this morning, was not totally unexpected. He had been ailing for some time past and his illness had made considerable inroads into his reserves of physical strength, nevertheless the news of his death came as a sad blow to his parishioners and numerous friends.

The Rev. Father Bretherton had ministered in this town, as parish priest of our Lady of Mont Carmel Church, for about 26 years. Previous to coming here he was parish priest at Downeyville, and had also held curacies at Lindsay nad Bracebridge.

He was born in Birkenhead, England, 75 years ago, and was educated at St. Michael's College, Toronto, and at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, being ordained 47 years ago.

He has no near relatives in Canada, but leaves one sister in England.

The funeral will be held from Our Lady of Mont Carmel Church on Saturday morning at 9.30 to the Catholic cemetery here.

GIRLS INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Vehicle Owned By John Dixon Overturned on Highway Near Omemee.

MEDICAL AID CALLED.

(Special to The Examiner)

OMEMEE, Nov. 27. — Miss Helen Spratt of Lindsay and a Miss Doig of Toronto, victims of a motor accident near this village on Tuesday night were able to proceed to their home after receiving medical attention from Dr. Earl. Miss Spratt sustained severe bruises to both ankles while her companion received head injuries.

It is stated that the car in which they were driving was owned by John Dixon of Lindsay. Immediately before the accident the car was coasting, it is alleged, with the consequence that it got out of control. The girls were imprisoned in the overturned car, and were obliged to break the windows to make their exit.

COUNTY TRIBUTE TO W. J. PORTER FORMER WARDEN

Resolution of Condolence to Otonabee Family Recently Bereaved.

MORNING'S SESSION.

Bensfort Bridge Open to Traffic—Engineer Con- Congratulated.

The County Council this morning paid honor to the memory of a former Reeve of Otonabee, W. J. Porter, who died recently, but whose service to the county, nearly twenty-five years ago, is recalled by his picture in the group of members for the year 1907.

A resolution of condolence by Reeve John Clark, seconded by Reeve F. D. McIntyre, was entered in the minutes and a copy of it will be sent to the family of the late Mr. Porter, who was a former Warden of this county. "Mr. Porter was highly respected not only in the township of Otonabee," said Mr. Clark, "but also throughout the county and wherever he was known. He gave valuable service to his township and to this county."

Mr. McIntyre supplemented Mr. Clark's tribute, stating that Mr. Porter had been held in high respect by the people of Otonabee both for his personal qualities and his public activities as a member of the Council some years ago.

Humane Society's Appeal

Thomas Sargent and James Skinner, representing the Peterborough Humane Society, thanked the Council for their former grant of $50 to the society, and asked for a renewal of this assistance and, if possible, an increased grant. Their request was referred to the Finance Committee.

Shower Baths at Jail

Implementing the recommendation of Grand Juries and also the report of their own sub-committee, the Property Committee this morning confirmed a proposal to provide a double shower bath at the jail. The motion was made by Reeve Tedford and seconded by Reeve Cavanagh. A small room on the upper floor is available, and will be equipped with two nozzles.

Mr. Clark moved, seconded by Mr. Parker, that Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry's room at the Court House be furnished for his use.

JACKSON GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

CHARGE AMENDED.

Harry Jackson, who was arrested last Wednesday night when police raided his home at 1001 Water Street, was sentenced this morning by Police Magistrate Langley to three months in jail. Jackson pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in his possession without a permit. He was charged as a third offender under the L.C.A.

Previously he was charged with keeping liquor for sale, but this morning this charge was altered to one of merely possessing. The penalty is the same under both charges, and the police selected to try him under the one most easy to prove. Witnesses were ready for the trial, but they were not permitted to tell what they knew when Jackson pleaded guilty.

John Davidson, of Otonabee, was charged with doing actual bodily harm to Jean Clarkson at Laing on November 16. The girl was seriously injured when Davidson's car struck her. Police say that Davidson was going slow at the time, but carried the girl almost a hundred feet on his fender before stopping. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded on bail of $1,000.

The Weather

The temperature last night was 12 degrees. This was the lowest to date. After an exceptionally fine Fall, cold weather is due. It is hardly probable that the present snow will remain, as the ground is but little frozen. As to the coming Winter, there is a general opinion expressed that it will not be severe, and it is to be hoped that the prophecies of the weather prophets (amateur and professional) will prove true.—W.P.

Three Feet of Snow Falls in Strathroy

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 27. (CP) Three feet of snow fell at Strathroy last night as a peculiar snow storm swept Western Ontario. Twenty miles west of Strathroy there was now snow, while at this city, 20 miles to the east, only 3 inches fell. The temperature in this city dropped to 7 above, the coldest of the year.

BUTTER IMPORTS CALLED DISGRACE BY HON. KENNEDY

Something Wrong With Farmers of Ontario is View of Minister of Agriculture.

IMPORTING TOO MUCH.

Hopes By United Effort to Bring Back Prosperity to Ontario's Dairy Industry.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 27.—(By the Canadian Press.) — Importation of about $15,000,000 worth of butter into the province reflected on the farmers of Ontario, Hon. Thomas Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, declared at a joint banquet last night under the auspices of the Canadian Creamery Association, the National Dairy Council and the Ice Cream Association.

In his welcoming address Mr. Kennedy said the heavy importations were in "a very real sense, a disgrace to the farmers of Ontario. If other communities can manufacture butter cheaper than we can, there is something the matter with us. We are importing millions of dollars worth of foodstuffs that we should grow ourselves."

Promises Legislation.

Mr. Kennedy stated the whole related problem of agricultural imports required undivided national attention. He hoped at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature to bring in legislation making it compulsory that the sources of "outside" products be shown in all displays when the goods are for sale. "If we can't sell our own products to our own people someone must be making them better and cheaper," the minister said. "Let us hope that by our united efforts we will bring back prosperity to the dairy industry of the province."

At the meeting of the Canadian Creamery Association earlier in the day the dumping of Australian butter into Canada was deplored.

It was suggested that importation of Australian and New Zealand products might be regulated "by way of license" with appropriate provision made against "undue dumping" in this country, as a result of the bonusing of butter exports from Australia.

"If we are to have tariffs against New Zealand butter these dominions should be treated on a parity," said F. M. Robinson of Richmond, Que., President of the Canadian Dairy Council.

GANGSTER GETS THIRTY YEARS

Authorities Behind Chicago's 'Public Enemies' Drive Score Again.

SAMMONS ONE OF 28.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—The authorities behind Chicago's drive against "public enemies" scored again—this time by sending back to the penitentiary for 30 years, James (Fur) Sammons, beer gang gunman, who has been at odds with the law for more than thirty years.

With little or no ceremony, but with the utmost precision, the Graying gangster was returned to the penitentiary at Joliet yesterday, thus becoming the second "public enemy" to be put behind State prison bars. At Joliet Sammons joined George (Red) Barker, another "public enemy" and alleged Labor union racketeer, recently committed. Sammons, like Barker, was sent back to prison as a parole violator.

Sammons became the ninth of the 28 "public enemies" named by the Chicago Crime Commission, removed, temporarily at least, from illegal businesses. Two, Jack Zuta and Joe Aiello, were killed by gangland bullets.

SUICIDED IN CELL.

DETROIT, Nov. 27 (C.P.).—Joseph Walters, 26, of Omaha, Neb., hanged himself in his cell in the county jail to-day while awaiting the start of his trip to the Michigan branch prison at Marquette, where he was to have begun a sentence of from 30 to 40 years for robbery.

COUNTY TO HAVE SLIGHT DEFICIT FOR YEAR 1930

Debenture Debt in Peterborough County is Less Than $100,000.

REMARKABLE SHOWING.

Arbitrators Report on Cost of Administration of Justice is Submitted.

Peterborough County's debenture debt at the end of this year will be considerably less than $100,000.

This salient fact in the financial condition of the county was set forth with emphasis and satisfaction by Reeve C. S. Tanner, Lakefield, chairman of the Finance Committee of the County Council, in his review of the year's income and outgo on Wednesday afternoon.

"When you realise that neighboring counties have from $500,000 to almost $1,000,000 debenture debts for road building," Mr. Tanner observed, "you must give credit to the present and previous Councils of the County of Peterborough."

Liabilities.

Bank overdraft, Oct. 31	$185,019
School accounts (estimated)	13,000
Administration of Justice	3,000
Roads, bridges, etc.	6,000
House of Refuge	400
Miscellaneous, unforeseen	4,000
	$216,419

Estimated Receipts.

Roads and bridges (Govt.)	$ 42,000
City of Peterborough	19,000
County taxes	152,338

HOMELESS START TO BUILD HOMES

For Second Time Within Seven Years Many Japanese Have Lost Their Homes.

253 KNOWN DEAD.

TOKYO, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—Thousands of homeless on the Izu peninsula, the northern part of which was struck by an earthquake yesterday, turned to the task of restoration today.

Awakening to a bright, warm morning after a night of terror, the homeless attacked the work of rebuilding dwellings, shops and farmhouses with the aid of hundreds of soldiers and firemen from cities adjacent to the stricken area.

For many this was the second time within seven years they have gazed at the ruin and desolation left by an earthquake. In September, 1923, nearly 100,000 were killed.

Virtually complete reports on the property damage in yesterday's earthquake indicated that while the material losses had been heavy they had been confined largely to rural communities and hot springs resorts, sparing the larger centers of population.

The effect of the 'quake on Japan's industrial and commercial welfare thus is expected to be small.

The Shizuoka Prefectural Government announced there had been 253 deaths and 345 persons injured. Houses destroyed were listed as numbering 2,256 and damaged dwelling totalled 5,562.

Besides the damage to private property, railways, highways, communication systems and power plants suffered heavily. The total damage probably will approach $50,000,000, but authorities refused to make any estimate.

13 Members of Circus Are Killed

WILD ANIMALS ARE RELEASED AFTER EXPLOSION

LIONS ARE FREE.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 27. (CP)—An explosion of gasoline killed 13 members of a circus and released a number of wild animals as the circus train collided at Guadalupe, near Irapuato, yesterday.

Sixteen other persons were injured.

Frenzied creatures, including lions, broke out from their quarters in terror and scattered those attempting to rescue the sleeping performers as flames spread through the train.

Frightened villagers fled to their homes until rifles were obtained and some of the animals were slain. A few animals escaped to the countryside, however, and searching parties were on their trail.

The blast was due to a collision of the circus train with a tank car, and the personnel of the show were asleep in wooden coaches when gasoline sprayed upon them and caught fire.

They were trapped inside shrieking and moaning, and the hubbub set up by the frightened animals added to the pandemonium. Besides those animals which escaped, many perished in the flames.

COBOURG STARTS RELIEF PROGRAM

75 MEN OUT OF WORK.

(Special to The Examiner)

COBOURG, Nov. 27. — Cobourg's $20,000 program of winter relief work began on Wednesday when Mayor A. R. Willmott was assured that the government would allott $10,000 as Cobourg's share of the Federal-Provincial Winter Relief Fund.

The first work initiated by His Worship was the laying of a storm sewer to drain the northern portion of Victoria Park and some 40 men, heads of families, were given work at $3.00 a day.

A double shift system may be inaugurated later to provide work for the single men. The obtaining the grant is ascribed to the efforts of Mayor Willmott and Councellor Frank McGuire, with the assistance of F. J. McArthur, M.L.A.

The proposal, however, was fought by Deputy Reeve Pratt, head of the streets committee who informed the Council at its recent session "That Cobourg would not get a cent owing to the fact that only 30 unemployed men had registered at the Town Hall at that date."

Mayor Willmott met that attack by asking Mr. Pratt if he proposed informing the Ontario and Federal Governments of Cobourg's supposed happy position in the matter of employment, and then declared that 75 men out of work, and heads of families, would be registered as soon as they had any hope of obtaining more than a spare time job.

Man Thought Dead Found in Street

L'ASSOMPTION, Que., Nov. 27. (CP)—Jean Baptist Arbour, itinerant medicine vendor, of no fixed address, unconsciously caused a sensation when he appeared in the streets of this village yesterday. The first person to recognize him was Joseph Lapointe, local undertaker, who thought he had Arbour's body in his funeral parlor.

Arbour's appearance, alive and well, upset police theories that it was his body, with the skull crushed and half burned on what was apparently a funeral pyre, found in the woods three miles from here last Sunday. The body, difficult of positive identification, was apparently that of a man about sixty, and bore a marked resemblance to the herb-pedlar, who had not been seen in his usual haunts for a considerable time.

PREMIER FAVORS PRICE FIXTURES

Saskatchewan Desires Minimum Price of $1 a Bushel For Canadian Wheat.

FORM OF PROTECTION.

REGINA, Sask., November 27 (C.P.). — An important recommendation in the interests of the Canadian wheat grower was sent yesterday by Premier James T. M. Anderson to Sir George Perley, Acting Premier of Canada, reading as follows:

"In the interests of Canadian agriculture, the Saskatchewan Government favors a minimum price of $1.00 a bushel for Canadian wheat sold in Canada for Canadian consumption.

"This would involve a minimum price on 100,000,000 bushels of our wheat, and obviously would have a stabilizing ebect on Canadian grain prices." Premier Anderson said

"This would undoubtedly be a form of protection extended to grain and I think a further protection might be well extended to this basic industry, encouraging the purchase in Canada of more agricultural products now being purchased beyond our borders."

FORGED PERMITS FOR IMMIGRANTS

TRAFFICKING IS CHARGED.

HAMILTON, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—Extradited from Italy over a year ago, Flavio Masi, charged with uttering forged immigration permits, knowing them to be false, faced Judge Carpenter in Criminal Court and will appear again Monday when decision will be given.

Masi, testifying on his own behalf, said he had friends in Ottawa, Winnipeg and Toronto, who aided him in securing the documents. "I had nothing to do with mishandling these permits. I just handed the list of names to a high politician, or whatever it was, and he let me have the permits later on," accused explained. He added that he believed the permits to be legal. With Crown Attorney Ballard was F. W. Griffiths, K.C., special counsel representing the Department of Justice. C. W. Bell, K.C., M.P., defended Masi.

Luigi Meconi, steamship agent of Windsor, said he had known Masi for 10 years, and that he had informed him that he had "pull" with members of Parliament at Ottawa. A number of immigration permits for the entry of Italians into Canada were shown. Subsequently negotiations were entered into and Meconi declared that on September 6, 1927, he purchased 24 permits and paid $2,000 for them. Further transactions were made from time to time, and witness said he paid $20,220.41 in all.

When cross-examined by Mr. Bell, witness denied accepting 6,000 lire for a single permit, and he further denied that a complaint had been made to the Attorney-General's department regarding excessive charges.

CANADA OUTDOES RUSSIA DUMPING MEMBER CLAIMS

Wheat Sold at Half the Cost of Production in England at Present Time.

DUMPING MUST BE PROVED.

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Conservatives lost a vote on a private member's motion this afternoon, by 224 to 139, when Lieut.-Colonel A. Hamilton Gault, member for Taunton, and formerly of Montreal, invited the House of Commons to deplore the Labor Government's inaction regarding the dumping of foreign cereals—a phrase generally taken as aimed especially at Soviet wheat.

Colonel Gault, in urging immediate counteracting measures, declared that out of 71,000,000 hundredweight of wheat imported during the nine months ending Sept. 30, 3,500,000 came from Russia at about 26 shillings a quarter, which, he said, was about half the cost of production in England at the present time.

In the past three months, declared Colonel Gault, England had imported nearly 6,000,000 hundredweight of Russian wheat at a figure much lower than 26 shillings, the average declared value recently being as low as six shillings and nine pence a hundredweight.

Liberals Side With Labor

Sir Donald McLean, one of the leading Liberals of the House, pointed out that Canada had exported to England the largest amount of wheat sold below the cost of production. He agreed with Right Hon David Lloyd George, his Leader, that a free-trade country could not submit to dumping, but dumping he added, must first be proved.

S. F. Perry, member for Kettering, and a Laborite, charged that the "great glut of Canadian wheat in the last few years had done more to lower the price of English wheat than anything else.

Here a Canadian-born Labor member, A. W. Haycock, Salford West, said that if dumping was a crime the Canadians were by far the worst criminals, as they dumped several hundredweights to every hundred-

STORE IS ROBBED BANDIT ARRESTED

WAS OUT OF WORK.

TORONTO, Ont., November 27 (C.P.). — Within an hour from the time an armed thug had entered a Chinese grovery store here last night and robbed Wong Laisang of $15.00 in silver, police entered a house in the downtown district, and arrested Harley Ambrust, 30, on charges of robbery while armed, and attempted robbery while armed.

Ambrust was asleep in bed when police entered his room. In the bed, police say, they found a loaded revolver and the silver, alleged to be the loot of the holdup.

Confronted by police with the charge, Ambrust is alleged to have confessed to the robbery, and attempted robbery. "I am out of work, up against it, and had to do it to feed wife and five-months-old child," he said.

The prisoner, police say, admitted attempting to rob a drug store earlier in the week. He thrust a revolver in the clerk's face, but the latter, James Anderson, struggled with the man and frightened him off.

Action Is Expected In Price Of Flour

OTTAWA, Nov. 27. (CP)—Important developments in the Dominion government's campaign for lower bread prices are anticipated at an early date, unless the price of flour is reduced. Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, has been investigating the prices of bread and flour for the past four months with the assistance of the staff of the Combines Investigation Branch, and the investigations have now reached the stage where action of one sort or another is impending.

Lansdowne Farmer Shoots Arctic Owl

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Nov. 27—On Friday last George S. McCullough, Lansdowne Township, shot a large Arctic owl, the first noticed in this locality. The bird was a large one, and beautifully mottled in black and white. When shot it had just descended in Mr. McCullough's orchard. It dropped straight from the sky upon a Plymouth rooster, grasping each wing with its talons and with its short but powerful beak tore the neck of the rooster to shreds. The owl weighs about seven pounds and has a wing spread of at least two feet.

Fawn Follows Car, Mistaken for Dog

LINDSAY, November 27. — Thinking a dog was trotting beside their car, taking advantage of the headlights, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Prentice, of Minden, travelled several miles between Coboconk and Lindsay before they discovered the animal to be a fawn. It fled when they pulled up.

Will Spend $25,000 In Improvements

COBOURG, Nov. 27. (Special to The Examiner). — F. J. McArthur, M.L.A., announced on Wednesday that the Ontario Government has authorized immediate construction of $25,000 of new buildings at the Northumberland Fish Hatchery at Codrington. This program of improvements, he stated, will make it the finest hatchery in the Dominion.

In addition, the hatchery property is to be enlarged to provide for a Government pheasant breeding center.

Work begins this week-end and 25 unemployed men will be taken on the construction staff.

YOUTH GIVEN THIRTY DAYS

IN COBOURG COURT.

COBOURG, Nov. 27 (Special to The Examiner).—Thirty days in the Counties jail will possibly teach Wilfred Hickerson that the limits even to friendly kindness and Cobourg's habit of regarding youthful misdemeanors with tolerant charity have been reached. This young man boarded with Clarence Hie, who befriended the youth on his arrival in Cobourg. Lately, Hickerson moved away and Mr. Hie missed a valuable watch, an heirloom of his family. He approached Hickerson, who confessed and returned the watch.

The watch, however, failed to run properly and Mr. Hie, still unsuspecting, sent it to his jeweller asking what it would cost to put it in repair. "It will cost you $45.00," the jeweller told Mr. Hie, and added that the works, with which he was familiar, had been replaced by those of a cheap watch.

This time the quality of mercy was strained past endurance and Hickerson was arrested and charged with theft. Mr. Hie got his watch's proper works back.

U. S. Celebrating Thanksgiving Day

NEW YORK, N.Y., November 27 (C.P.). — The traditional Thanksgiving turkey succumbed to-day to the lively rattle of knives and forks in the United States.

Indiations were that few would go hungry, though in the large cities special measures were needed to care for the needs of the unemployed, whose ranks have been swelled this year to record numbers.

For those more happily situated the day brought a holiday from work. All business was suspended. The annual "trip home for Thanksgiving" swelled rail, boat, and air travel yesterday and to-day.

GERMANY TO ENTER PROTEST

BERLIN, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—The German Cabinet, after a night session which lasted until nearly dawn, decided to-day to present Germany's complaints of alleged Polish terrorism toward German inhabitants of Upper Silesia to the next regular meeting of the League of Nations Council.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Indigestion So Bad Was Afraid To Eat

Mrs. A. T. Bowman, 157 Rebecca St., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I had been troubled, for years, with indigestion and suffered so badly I was afraid to eat. I am on my third bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and can now eat anything I like without distress after, and can enjoy my sleep every night without fear of suffering. I cannot praise B.B.B. too highly for what it has done for me."

WOULD RESTORE TITLES IN CANADA

Deputy Speaker Also Wants to Call Dominion, 'Kingdom of Canada.'

NOTICE OF MOTION GIVEN.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—A move to restore the granting of titles to Canadians, to change the official name of Canada from the "Dominion of Canada" to the "Kingdom of Canada" and to change the official title of the governor-general to that of "viceroy," is contained in official notices of motions given for the coming session of parliament by Armand Lavergne, Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons and Conservative member for Montmagny.

Mr. Lavergne's motion on titles follows:

"That, whereas all foreign countries distribute in Canada medals, decorations and titles, this House is of the opinion that a humble address be presented to his Majesty the King, requesting His Majesty to exercise his royal prerogative by granting such titles and decorations as he will think advisable to persons who have been recommended by the Canadian Governor-in-Council."

Mr. Lavergne's motion on the changing of the name of Canada follows:

"It is in the interests of the Empire and of the Canadian federation that the official name of Canada be changed from 'Dominion of Canada' to the 'Kingdom of Canada'."

The motion to change the title of the Governor-General is as follows:

"That it is in the interests of the Empire and of Canada that the official title of His Majesty's representative in the Dominion of Canada be changed from 'Governor-General' to 'Viceroy of Canada'."

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Affected by a big curtailment of crop yields in Argentina, wheat prices showed an upward trend most of the time yesterday. Authoritative unofficial estimates received here indicated 19,000,000 bushels less Argentine wheat to ship for export than a recent forecast had pointed out. On the other hand European purchases of wheat from North America during the past 24 hours were figured as touching as much as 1,750,000 bushels, and the aggregate of probable feeding of domestic wheat to live stock this season was predicted to be in excess of 200,000,000 bushels.

Closing quotations on wheat were steady, ranking from 1-8c to 1-4c off to 5-8c up compared with Tuesday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 1-8c higher with oats at 1-8c decline to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 2c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—Prices were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter was unchanged at 29c to 29½c a lb. To retailers, solids were 32c and prints 33c a lb.

On the cheese market, Ontario was quoted at 12½c to 12¾c, and Quebec at 12c to 12¼c a lb.

On the potato market, New Brunswick Green Mountains were 90c per 80-lb. bag.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 27.—(By The Canadian Press)—Hogs 800; holdovers 500; active to all interests; anove 150 lbs. 12 higher; lighter averages steady; bulk desirable 130-250 lbs. 8.90-9.00; 130 lbs. down 9.00-9.25; 260-300 lbs. butchers 8.75-8.90; packing sows 7.00-7.50.

Cattle 275; generally steady to strong; grass steers 8.25.

Calves 40; vealers 50 higher, 13.00 down.

Sheep 600; lambs active 25; mostly 50 higher; good to choice ewe and wether lambs 9.00.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—Live stock receipts at the Union Yards, Wednesday, were:—

Cattle	867
Calves	240
Sheep and lambs	1,350

Hog prices were unsettled at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, with bids down another 25 cents for the week, at $3.75 f.o.b. bacons, or at $9.75 to $10 off cars. The offering amounted to 1,200 head—about the same as Tuesday's run.

Trading was fairly active in cattle, and by closing time receipts were cleared up. Prices remained steady at Monday's 25c advance. There were 400 head carried over from Tuesday's market, making a total offering of 867 head. A few odd lots of good and choice handyweight butchers sold at $7.25 to $7.75 per cwt., and with two loads of choice heavy steers selling at $7.75. Common to medium butcher battle ranged from $4.75 to $6.75. Butcher cows sold firm, at $3.50 to $5.50, with a couple of koshers selling up to $6 per cwt. Bulls went at steady prices, with bolognas bringing $3 to $3.75, and good butchers up to $5 per cwt. Supply of store cattle was limited, with plain quality selling at $4.25 to $5.25 per cwt.

Calf prices were firm at $12 to $12.50 for choice quality. Three head sold as high as $13. Common to medium vealers went at $7 to $11, with a few heavy grassers bringing $4.50 to $5.25 per cwt. Thirty head of fed calves sold steady at $8 to $10.50 per cwt.

Lambs sold strong, with the bulk 50c higher for the week, at $8.75 for good ewes and wethers. A small lot of 92-lb. lambs brought $8.85. Culls and bucks went at $6.25 to $7 per cwt. Sheep prices were firm at $4 to $5 for good light ewes and downward to $1.50 for culls. The lamb run so far this week has been very light for the season.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, November 27.—Again foreign markets influenced the grain market here yesterday and at the close, wheat had scored gains of ¼ cent to 2¾ cents.

Strong markets at Liverpool and Buenos Aires and bullish private reports on the new Argentine crop accounted chiefly for the advance in value here.

Argentine crop reports indicated damage from both frost and rust.

Good buying orders were attracted to the local pit and despite fairly liberal offerings on every bulge, the market held its ground fairly well.

Millers and exporters were in the market for virtually all grades of cash wheat, but light offerings held down the sales volume. There was a moderate export trade overnight.

In cash coarse grains all commodities were in demand, exporters being the bidders. Fair sales were reported.

SHORT COURSE OPENS IN MADOC

Three Months' Short Course Being Conducted in Agriculture and Home Economics.

44 ARE ATTENDING.

MADOC, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—The three months' short course in the various branches of Agriculture and Home Economics for the rural boys and girls of Madoc and vicinity, started on Tuesday, with an initial enrollment of 42. The girls are meeting in the Community Hall, and the boys' classes are being held in the Town Hall.

The whole course is under the supervision of Joseph Wilson of Stirling, who is Representative for the Hastings district of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and he is assisted by J. H. McLeod, B.S.A., of Newburgh; M. McKenzie of Galt; Miss Cameron of Carleton Place, and Miss Hamilton of Toronto.

Twenty-six young men are in attendance at the opening classes and eighteen young ladies, and several more are expected to enroll at once. The instructors present were J. McLeod and M. McKenzie, who are in charge of the instruction in Farm Management and Farm Dairying. Miss Cameron has charge of Domes-Science, and Miss Hamilton is in charge of Home Nursing and First Aid.

The school will be conducted for twelve weeks, beginning November 25 and ending February 27, allowing from December 19 to Jan. 5 for Christmas holidays. Classes will be held every day except Saturdays and Sundays.

The only fee asked is a deposit of one dollar a month from each pupil to provide for materials used. Diplomas are to be awarded to all students successfully completing the course, and prizes are being offered for efficiency in the most important subjects.

WEDDINGS

(Examiner Correspondence)

BROWN—NICKLE

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Eleanor Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Nickle of Madoc, Ontario, to Lewis Day Brown, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, U. S. A.

The wedding took place on Wednesday, Nov. 26th, 1930, at 4.15 p.m., in St. Matthews Protestant Church, in Wheeling, West. Va., the ceremony being performed by the Rector, the Rev. J. H. A. Bomberger. The Church was decorated with potted ferns and white chrysanthemums, and the wedding music was played by the regular organist.

The simple ceremony was attended by only the members of the immediate families and a few close friends. The bride wore her travelling dress, a navy blue princess gown with velvet turban to match, and carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias and lily of the valley.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a short wedding trip to Cleveland and other points, and on their return will reside in Pittsburg, Penn.

The bride was graduated in 1923 from the Reynolds Memorial Hospital Training School for nurses, at Glendale, West Va. She spent three years after graduation as supervisor, in the Pediatric Department of the Ohio Valley General Hospital at Wheeling, West Va., and for the past several years has been specializing in Obstetrics in Pittsburg.

The groom is the son of the late Mr. L. D. Brown and Mrs. Brown of Pittsburg. He is an alumnus of the University of Pittsburgh, and of the Law School of Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Brown is manager of the McClintic Marshall Steel Corporation in their Pittsburgh offices.

COBOURG MEMBER ATTENDS MEETING

Opposes Ferguson Being Given High Commissionership—"Ontario Needs Him."

COBOURG, Nov. 27. (Special to The Examiner).—F. J. McArthur, M.L.A., is in the Legislature with Premier Ferguson. Mr. McArthur will be one of the leaders of those who oppose Premier Ferguson's accepting the post of High Commissioner from Canada to Great Britain. "It is not only the Conservative Party, but the Province of Ontario, that needs Premier Ferguson and must have him" Mr. McArthur declared on the eve of his departure for Toronto.

"Could Not Live"

"We ought to ask Canada to give us a fair deal," declared the former Capt. H F. Owen, Hertfordshire, Liberal, also labelled Canada the "worst dumper of the lot." Russia, he believed had secured better prices for her grain by better marketing and clever manipulation of the market.

Canada, Argentina and Australia, last year supplied 96 per cent. of Britain's needs in wheat, pointed out M. A. Gillett, Secretary of the Department of Overseas Trade, and this year they supplied only 80 per cent. The balance came from Russia, France and Italy, said Mr. Gillett, but the Opposition seemed to attack only Russia, ignoring completely the extraordinary position created by the CANADIAN BOAT SEIZED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27.—(By the Canadian Press.)—No protest against seizure of the Canadian oil screw vessed Good Luck had been received at the Canadian Legation to-day.

Reports were that consel for Captain Donovan, Lunenburg, N.S., master of the vessel, planned a protest to Canadian authorities against the seizure of the boat as a rum-runner. The Good Luck was captured Sunday by the destroyer Porter of the coastguard service and towed to Providence, R.I.

Members of crew asserted the vessel had been subjected to machine-gun fire and that the capture had been made beyond the 12 mile limit. The crew was released but preparations are under way to confiscate the ship and its cargo of 501 cases of liquor.

ELEVEN DEATHS IN COLD WAVE

Chicago Has Zero Weather With Heavy Fall of Snow.

TRAFFIC TIED UP.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—A night of zero and near zero temperatures in the wake of widespread snowstorms to-day piled higher the cold wave's drifts of misery and fatalities.

Eleven deaths had been added to the toll and though the Weather Bureau promised moderation of the severe cold in most of the Chicago forecast district, snow flurries were also predicted to increase the blanket which covered much of middle America.

A night blizzard in Ohio brought five traffic deaths and grounded all planes at Cleveland; three deaths occurred in Indiana and three more were attributed to the cold wave in Chicago as the mercury dipped below zero in the suburbs.

Besides several hundred unfortunates who passed the bitter night at Chicago police stations, unemployment shelters cared for upwards of 2,300 jobless and homeless throughout the country.

Throughout the North Central States, communications were hampered by snow drifts.

Government Probe Into Spontaneous Combustion

COBOURG, Nov. 27 (Special to The Examiner).—That the Ontario Government should probe spontaneous combustion, as affecting farming districts particularly, is the earnest suggestion of Codrington citizens. This fall, and within a radius of five miles, six barn fires have occurred. Five of them contained field crops and the loss is estimated at $30,000.

A scientific enquiry into spontaneous combustion and how to prevent it is recommended, as the theory of incendiarism in the local fires is scouted. Low insurance was carried and vagrants have not been seen as frequently in the village as nearer the highway.

MAYOR HOUDE OPPOSES ELEVATED C.N.R. TRACKS

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 27.—(CP) Mayor Camillien Houde, in a speech at a meeting of the electors last night, declared that he would oppose the Canadian National Railway plan to buil elevated tracks from Val-Royal to Longue Point in the northeast end of the city, so long as the people of the district concerned would stand behind him. The mayor was supported in his stand by Father Boileau, cure of one of the northern parishes of the city. The mayor will endeavour to induce the Canadian National to lay these tracks underground, and urged the people to organize and take their case before the railway board.

These totals indicate a slight deficit on the year's business. Mr. Tanner state that the Old Age Pensions outlay, municipal indigents, schools, and some other accounts, seemed to exceed their estimated appropriations last June. Some of them were new demands, and therefore to a large extent unknown, and it was impossible to prepare in June correct estimates of the money they would require.

Mr. Tanner thanked the members of the Council for their co-operation in keeping the year's expenditure within such satisfactory bounds.

Arbitrators' Report.

The report of the arbitrators on the proportionate payments of the cost of the administration of justice for five years, from 1930 to 1934 inclusive, was deliberated by the Finance Committee. The arbitrators were W. R. Morris for the city and George B. Nicholls for the county. Cost of administration of justice includes such items as repairs to the Court House and Jail, its maintenance, heating, etc., selection of jurors, and other expenditures which are jointly defrayed by the county and city.

The arbitration determined that the city shall pay $9,731.80 annually.

The total payments from 1925 to 1929 inclusive were $71,748.81; the yearly average $14,349.72, to which was added $3,848.90 as interest on the capital account, the annual total being $18,198.62.

The proportionate payments for the next five years were based on the city and county populations, as follows:

City, 21,856	$ 9,731.80
County, 19,015	$ 8,466.82
	$18,198.62

The report also dealt with the cost of the addition to the Court House and the erection of the caretaker's house and razing of the old registry office.

Court House enlargement, 1926-28	$38,059.48
City's proportion	17,758.81
New house, etc.	4,244.98
City's payment	2,252.60

County Clerk Elliott informed the committee that the effect of this arbitration of the proportionate cost of the administration of justice imposes a loss of interest upon the county amounting to from $900 to $1,400 for five years. It also, he stated, means a loss to the county of insurable interest at 5½ per cent. on the capital account of $31,333 not only for the next five years, but for all time, if the present report is sustained.

As a result of Mr. Elliotts explanation of the details of the award, a sub-committee composed of Warden Hawthorne, Reeves Tanner and McIntyre and County Clerk Elliott was appointed to consider further action. It was stated that the county does not feel justified in accepting the award of the arbitrators, and the sub-committee will discuss with the county's solicitor whether an appeal will be entered against the arbitration's apportionment of costs.

NINE CENTS POUND BOUNTY ON AUSTRALIAN BUTTER

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 27.—(CP)—The reason Australian butter can compete on the Canadian market is because there is a bounty of about nine cents on every pound exported, thus giving the Australian exporter leeway in price-cutting according to J. A. Calder, former president of the National Dairy Council of Canada. Mr. Calder addressed the Electric Club at their luncheon here yesterday.

Mr. Calder pointed out that for every four pounds of butter produced in Australia, one pound was for export.

HOW TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS OR HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels, you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in may instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist a 1 oz. bottle of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing, and mucous dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. If nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh, there must be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple home treatment

TIME TO GET TOGETHER.

The County Council should be interested in the announcement made some time ago that an appropriation had been made for the construction of a new swing bridge at the Locks Bridge and that the Federal Department of Railways and Canals intends to go ahead with the work presumably next summer.

As The Examiner pointed out at the time, the construction of a swing bridge in these days of rapid transportation is out of joint with the times.

What is really needed is a high level bridge over the canal at this point, a structure that would do away with the interruptions to motor traffic, present no inconvenience to navigation and relieve the Government of the cost of maintaining a swing span.

The route of the new provincial highway lies across the Locks Bridge, which is another powerful argument in favor of the proposed span.

The whole question deserves attention, and the various authorities interested should get their heads together and consider whether it would not be in the general interest to erect a modern bridge and do away with the old-time swing.

Both the Provincial and Federal Governments are concerned in the matter, and no time should be lost in arranging a conference to discuss the possibilities of doing something more in accordance with present-day conditions than is at present proposed.

NORTH MONAGHAN'S REQUEST.

It is unfortunate that the township of North Monaghan has been refused a share of the unemployment relief fund for which the municipal authorities recently made application.

North Monaghan differs from most townships by reason of the fact that its population includes a large number of suburban residents, among whom there is a considerable amount of unemployment.

Providing for the relief of these residents is likely to prove a serious problem for the North Monaghan Council, and there does not seem to be any sound reason why the township should be discriminated against in the distribution of the special unemployment relief fund.

When the need is as great as it is in this case, assistance should be as readily forthcoming in the case of a township as it has been in the case of cities and towns—and the modest amount asked for by North Monaghan to help the township take care of its citizens who are without work and therefore without income might well have been granted.

It is realized, of course, that there have been heavy demands made upon the relief fund, but it would be better to shave a little off the appropriations for the larger centres in order that something may be done for the unemployed in the outside districts.

THERE IS MONEY IN CANADA.

In spite of business depression, there is plenty of money somewhere in Canada, though it must be admitted that the grain producer, who receives about thirty cents per bushel net for his wheat, and the urban workman, who has been out of employment for months, have not got their share of it. The favorable condition of the radio industry, whose products may be classed almost entirely as luxuries, would indicate that the buying power of the community is far from being permanently crippled. The people have become "radio-conscious"; the industry has been established on a firm basis, and will in all probability stay there. Another indication that there is a very large portion of the populace not stricken with the direct poverty is the large sale of tickets at high prices for big rugby and hockey games, as well as good attendances at theatrical, musical and other kinds of performances.

It is, of course, to be remembered that while many business and professional men, as well as workers, are feeling the pinch of "hard times," the man on a regular wage, who is sure of the permanency of his job, is better off to-day than he has been for many years, due to the reduced cost of living and his general scale of prices. Just as in years of economic prosperity there is a tendency on the part of the general public, at times, to spend too freely, with the result that undue inflation takes place, so in times of depression there is often a similar psychological tendency to be more conservative than is really necessary, which aggravates and prolongs the depression. Undue extravagance, "living beyond one's income," is never justifiable, but money must be spent and purchases made by those in a position to do so if a revival in general trade conditions is to take place.—Brantford Expositor.

MR. FERGUSON AND THE CAUCUS.

It is believed that the question of whether or not Premier Ferguson will accept the appointment of Canada's High Commissioner in London will be definitely decided by the caucus of Conservative members called for to-day.

The Premier, according to reports, will abide by the decision of his supporters and will go or stay according to the majority opinion of to-day's caucus.

And if the elected members look upon the question merely from the viewpoint of party advantage and have sized up the field of possible successors, there are many political students who believe the advice of most of the members to the Premier will be to remain at his post in Ontario.

The simple truth is that while the Cabinet possesses some Ministers who have shown themselves capable of good service in their own departments, there is considerable doubt as to their qualities as party leaders and more as to their ability to hold the confidence of the people.

The choice would seem to lie between Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, an amiable gentleman who is personally popular, but seems to lack the flair for leadership; Hon. W. H. Price, the Attorney-General, whose administration of his department has more than once come under fire, and Hon. Wm. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, who has much to commend him, but whose partizanship is sometimes regarded as extreme.

When it comes to leading a party or keeping in touch with public opinion none of these Ministers is a Ferguson, and that fact is likely to impress itself so forcibly upon the Government supporters in the Legislature that they will endeavor to persuade the Premier that his place is at home.

THE POLICE AND POLITICS.

Toronto municipal politicians who seem to be drifting in the direction of political control of police departments would be well advised to study conditions across the border before pressing their campaign further.

Those who are familiar with the situation in American cities are under no illusions as to the folly of having the police department made an adjunct of the political machine.

In that connection there is an illumining article in a recent issue of Collier's that should give our Toronto friends something to consider. Here is an extract:

"The first step in any successful effort to throttle crime in any American city is to take the police, the court and the penal authorities out of politics. No policeman, no judge, no prison warden is free to administer law and to protect society so long as his appointment to office and his hope of promotion depend upon the favor of politicians. We have used these public offices as the perquisites of partisan politics and we have reaped a harvest of corruption, crime and violence unparalleled in any modern country."

That indictment is so obviously true that it is surprising to think that there should be a suggestion anywhere in Canada that the American method of controlling police departments should be introduced into this country.

Police and politics cannot be mixed without arriving at a composition decidedly dangerous to the public interest.

That is not a theory but a simple statement of fact borne out by the experience of the United States where, as the article printed above correctly points out, it has been responsible for a "harvest of corruption, crime and violence unparalleled in any modern country."

KEEP OUT DOLLARS, TOO.

Congress meets in Washington on Monday, and one report from the Canadian Press correspondent in that city says that consideration will be given to a measure to be introduced by Senator David Reed, which provides that no more Canadians be permitted to enter United States for a period of two years, beginning on the first day of July, 1931.

The same restrictions will be placed against other nations, and the reason is that some of the exclusionists in United States feel that they have as many people there as they can take care of. They argue that there are some millions out of work now, and it is necessary to stop the incoming population until those at home have something to do.

Business men, students and tourists will not be affected, and although it is not so mentioned, we imagine that Canadians rushing over there with money to spend will be made welcome as usual.

There is no particular reason why Canadians should become excited if such a measure is made law. Congress will be quite within its right in making such a move.

Perhaps we may not like the idea of being denied access to the States; it may hurt our pride a trifle, but we will soon get over that.

The effect of such legislation may be to make us more acutely aware of the necessity of doing things in our own land in such a way that we can provide employment for our own people.

* * * *

For a good many years Canadians have been going to United States, and many of them have done very well. Employers in United States have found them to be reliable, good workers, courteous and attentive to duty.

We might as well be quite frank about the situation, too. Many of them went to United States because they found a better chance there than they could hope for in their own land.

Slipping across the border into United States has been a very convenient way of settling the future of many of our sons and daughters.

If they cannot go there for a period of two years, then there will have to be a shaking up north of the international line to find work for those who want it.

It will be necessary for us to put a better halter on our dollars that have been getting away from us to cross the line for goods made in United States.

Not that we desire to retaliate but simply because it will be necessary for us to keep those dollars at home in order to provide some sort of a wage fund for our own people.

United States cannot object to that idea. If Washington desires us to keep our folk at home for a couple of years, then Washington should be first to see the wisdom of our applying the same treatment to our dollars.

Yes, we will have to move around and get the house in order right here in Canada. If our folk must stay north of the 49th parallel, then we will have to chart our future policy so that we can take care of them.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Kansas was fully aware of the perils of his plan and agreed instantly that Dorn's idea was sage and swift and sure. In careful detail they worked out the whole strategy. The burden of it fell on Dorn: Kansas with the machine gun was to be merely a threat, a menace.

High enough now to clear the ranges, the biplane started south over the mesa. The enemy had seen the Silver Hawk hovering overhead: their white faces were upturned, watching it. Dorn knew that already he had them guessing uncertain of his intent, nervous and apprehensive even though they had Aurore and were using her as a safeguard.

They must realize that he had fought the pursuit plane, and whipped "Ace" McGregory and the machine gunner, and knocked their craft out of the air. That realization would sit none too well with them, especially with Harry Quillan. Their knowledge of his victory was a good prelude, a good preparation, for his plan of terrorizing them.

In great spirals and whistling dives Dorn dropped down eight thousand feet till he was level with the biplane and only sixty yards away; and drifting along at even speed with the heavy craft he looked across the void.

With an automatic in his hand—as though that puny weapon could be of any use against a machine gun and a zooming airplane—Carter-Snowdon was sitting in the mechanic's seat beside Quillan. Fingering the pistol nervously, making threatening motions with it, he stared over at Dorn. Quillan kept glancing across too. He was flying steadily enough, handling his slow craft very expertly; but from his quick scared way of jerking his head around, Dorn knew he was fearful that the hovering vengeance which had already meant death to his two mates might be his doom also.

Aurore was sitting in one of the rear seats, committed to the custody of that alley-wolf, Soft-Shoe. She too was looking across at the Silver Hawk. When she recognized Dorn she raised her arms in some gesture he did not fully understand—a gesture like an inarticulate cry of prayer; and the thought flashed across Dorn's mind that she was pleading with him, if he could not save her, to send that biplane crashing down upon a mountain slope.

In those few seconds that Dorn looked at Aurore he saw that her wrists were bound together. And he saw another thing which roused all the flaming anger in his being. The three men each wore a pack-chute so that in case of accident their lives would be safe. But Aurore wore none. Not one of those valiant gentlemen had had the manhood, the gaint chivalry enough to risk his neck and buckle his pack-chute on a girl-prisoner.

Carter-Snowdon suddenly jerked up his automatic and emptied it. He might as well have been shooting at a swift arrow. Dorn and Kansas laughed like the snarl of two intent wolves who were quite sure of their kill and in no hurry.

With cold-blooded deliberateness, Kansas reloaded the machine gun in plain view, reached an extra drum of cartridges from the fuselage cubby and nodded to Dorn that he was ready.

Catching Quillan's attention, Dorn ordered him with an imperative, curt gesture to swing his plane around and get back where he had come from—back to Aurore's lake.

Quillan turned a white face to Carter-Snowdon. Dorn knew what passed between them; understood it as clearly as though he had heard. Quillan begged to wheel about and fly back before annihilation hit them like an avalanche. That staccato-barking Lewis was tilted at a business-like angle; he could see the gaping bullet holes in the Silver Hawk—battle wounds attesting one victory; he had no heart for an argument with the two grim-visaged men who had already shot "Ace" McGregory and Clint Novak out of the air. In his mind they were an unholy twain, with some superlative trick up their sleeve, and to defy them was sheer suicide.

But Carter-Snowdon was not so easily stampeded. He knew, as Quillan did not, that Dorn would never jeopardize Aurore; and he kept jerking a thumb back at her and shouting that she was their protection, she was their guard.

What he said was truth: Dorn would never imperil Aurore; but Harry Quillan was a man in fear of his life, and all the cold logic in the world could not entirely convince him that everything was safe and lovely. To him those two snarling devils looked like Nemesis, and his sole thought was to swing back to that lake and get out of this trouble while he was still alive.

Carter-Snowdon argued and commanded, and after a minute of wavering Quillan reluctantly nodded, and the biplane flew on.

The test of Dorn's plan had come. He knew beforehand he would win he had seen that little tableau in the cockpit, he had taken the measure of his man, he knew he could throw Quillan into an abject funk and shoot his nerve and terrorize him to the point where Carter-Snowdon's orders would go unheard.

With no more ado he opened the throttle wider and shot ahead. For three long weeks he had battled against Carter-Snowdon, and that battle now had sharpened down to the work of the next five minutes, and he wanted it over with.

Half a mile in the lead he made a neat hairpin turn, and swinging back, launched himself head-on, full throttle, straight as a levelled arrow at the heavy craft.

At better than two hundred miles an hour the two planes rushed at one another. Quillan came on, expecting Dorn every instant to veer aside. But down the airy straightaway, aiming his swift plane squarely at the other machine, Dorn came roaring like a bolt of death.

As the interval shrank to four hundred yards Kansas Eby stiffened and clutched the edges of the compartment, watching with bated breath that stark test of courage between the two pilots. Though he himself knew Dorn's purpose, though he knew Dorn was one of the best flyers he had ever seen in air, yet the sickening thought of those two planes crashing head-on together jarred even his callous nerve; and as the interval dwindled—three hundred yards, two hundred, one hundred and fifty—his face went white and he closed his eyes.

Dorn sat rigid, tense, his narrowed eyes fixed on the nose of that biplane he was hurtling toward. His fingers tightened upon the stick like iron bars. He knew what would happen, if Quillan broke. The enemy craft, slow and heavy could not lift up quickly. Quillan would dive—if he broke.

If he did not, if he had the red-blooded courage to come straight on, then Dorn himself would be forced to zoom up, and his whole strategy would become merely a spectacular, empty bluff; and thereafter Quillan, plucking up his nerve again, would disregard him and fly on beyond his reach to one of Carter-Snowdon's camps.

The first test of courage was all-vital. One tiny fraction of a second, that last split-second before a crash became inevitable—on that last instant hung the issue of the whole battle against Carter-Snowdon.

Cooly estimating distance, speed, the zooming power of his plane, Dorn stiffened into readiness. The last instant came. But at the same moment that Dorn's arm started to jerk back the stick and lift his plane over the enemy, Quillan suddenly broke. At seventy yards the nose of that biplane tilted, the machine dived out of annihilation's path; and thundering on down the straightaway, Dorn roared over his enemy, triumphant in courage, the master now!

Giving Quillan no chance to recover his shattered nerve, Dorn wheeled on vertical wing and shot down at him again in a steep diagonal. This time Quillan broke and dived while the planes were yet two hundred yards apart. Again and again, stabbing at him from every direction, missing him by only a rod or two, Dorn swooped and struck like a king bird throwing a lumbering crow into panic-stricken flight.

In those brief glimpses each time he swept past, Dorn saw what was happening in the enemy cockpit. Frantically trying to dodge the Silver Hawk, pleading at the same time with Carter-Snowdon, Quillan seemed to be crying in a frenzy:

"He's going to crash us! He's crazy, he's gone crazy mad! That devil—my God, he'll kill us!"

A last superlative thrust, when the wind of the Silver Hawk's rush wobbled the very wings of the biplane—and Quillan, suddenly wheeling his craft around, with Dorn riding his tail, driving him, herding him, started back toward Aurore's lake—a man broken . . . mastered . . .

The fight had drifted more than ten miles down country. On that return trip to Goat Mesa, Dorn rode Quillan hard, keeping his whiphand of terror. Aurore turned and rose and looked back at Dorn, her dishevelled hair whipping in the slip-stream. Her jacket was torn and muddied; a nosegay of primulas—flowers which Dorn had gathered for her when they went ashore in the Bighorn's Looking Glass—were bedraggled on her breast. Dorn motioned Soft-Shoe to cut the leather straps from her wrists, but the detective did not understand, and before he could repeat the order, Dorn's attention was drawn to the cockpit, to Quillan and Carter-Snowdon.

Quillan was flying mechanically, with telltale jerky motions at the controls, and his face was white and contorted with fear; but he handled the sturdy craft expertly enough and he was going back faster than he had come. A thousand yards from the mesa he began climbing, for in the manœuvring he had lost altitude and dropped below the level of the pass. It was a gentle climb of one in twenty; the biplane rose to it; Quillan was handling the controls perfectly in face of a stiff wind sweeping over the mountain meadow. In three minutes more he would have cleared the tree-line pines and skimmed over the mesa and taken his craft safely to haven down in Aurore's lake. But even as he had broken in the face of Dorn's threat, so he broke now in the face of another, and precipitated the final, crushing tragedy.

All the way back to the mesa Carter-Snowdon had argued, shouted, commanded, furiously trying to make him turn the biplane and disregard Dorn and fly on south. And now, with that Mesa almost under keel, Carter-Snowdon must have realized that if the ship ever skimmed over it and dropped down inside that mountain amphitheatre, his fight was utterly lost. For he drew his automatic again and pressed it against Quillan's heart and shouted an order at the pilot.

Quillan's hands spasmodically jerked above his head, and he cringed in fear of his life. His plane, out of control, hit an air bump and wobbled and threatened to go into a fatal tail-spin. Carter-Snowdon lowered his weapon — for a few seconds — till Quillan had grabbed the stick and speeded the engine and brought the machine out of its stall.

Then, again, Carter-Snowdon thrust the revolver against him; and Dorn fairly read his shout:

"You turn this plane around, you go where I tell you to go, or by God I'll kill, you I'll kill you!"

Watching, unable to stir a hand and stop that tragedy, Dorn saw Quillan half rise, take one glance over the edge, grab the rip-cord of his pack-chute, and fling himself bodily out of the cockpit.

For a moment of stunned horror Dorn could not think or act. He saw the biplane tilt, wobble crazily, right itself magnificently and fly on. Saw Carter-Snowdon lurch into the pilot's seat and start fumbling disastrously at the controls. Saw the plane start to buckle and stagger . . .

After those few dazed moments a lightning plan volted into Dorn's mind. If Kansas could only get down into the cockpit of that biplane, he could knock Carter-Snowdon aside and pilot the craft to safety. But to get Kansas into that plane . . .

Shooting the Silver Hawk ahead, Dorn caught up with the heavy machine and hovered a few feet above it. He jerked his head around at Kansas, to shout, to gesture. But no need of that. . . . Kansas already was overboard, clambering down to a pontoon, waiting his chance, valiant to attempt that suicidal leap to the biplane, willing to risk being swept off or mangled by the propeller; courageous to gamble his life against the faint hope of getting down into that cockpit and piloting the ship to a landing.

But the chance was never given him. In his frantic, ignorant fumbling at the controls, Carter-Snowdon had laid hold of the stick and pushed it forward. The nose of the biplane tilted down in response; and before Kansas could leap, the machine had dived beyond his reach . . . beyond all hope of being saved.

Appalled, watching in the dread despair of helplessness, Dorn saw it lurch toward the fiery-coloured mesa. It careened into the tops of three slender pines and shattered its propeller and ploughed on through and hit the level tableland a hundred yards beyond, smashing its pontoons, snapping a wing, and bounded into the air again from the force of its shivering impact, and then crashed head-on against a boulder, piling up in crushed and splintered wreckage.

AUDIENCE WITH KING

LONDON, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—The King yesterday received Charles Bentinck, British Minister at Lima, Peru, in an audience at Buckingham Palace.

New Vice-President

GILBERT M. MURRAY

whose appointment as Vice-President of J. J. Gibbons, Limited, Advertising Agency, is announced from Toronto. Mr. Murray was for many years Secretary of Canadian Manufacturers' Association, a position that gave him a deep insight into all kinds of business problems. Mr. Murray has charge of the extensive system of branches in the Gibbons organization.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If November 27th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Many small annoyances await you on this date, including some unexpected expenses. Unhappy happenings in the domestic sphere and disagreeable personal relationships. With discretion, you may hold your own—without caution and tact, you may lose much.

The child born on this November 27th will have a very gentle nature, and it may be trodden on by others. It should be praised and encouraged, and at no time intimidated or belittled. It will be a fatighful worker, a plodding student, and a loyal friend.

From choice, not necessity, you are one of the world's 'wall-flowers." Nature has given you all the qualifications necessary to fit you for a more daring and picturesque role, but you are unwilling to expend the necessary effort. The most fatal weakness that can afflict any man, is that which can be described by saying 'They don't care," and you possess this attitude to a marked degree. You are in no respect an inferior being, and you do not believe yourself to be one, but you are too indifferent to make an attempt to appear in any way 'superior." The things for which you care the most, are comfort and a protected life. Others may push or drag you out into the whirl of things, but you soon seek the friendly shelter of your accustomed corner.

You do not readily mix with people, but you enjoy the society of your own cronies or intimate friends, to whom you stick for life. New faces and new places do not appeal to you. You soon suffer from the pangs of homesickness when removed from your native haunts.

You are a conscientious worker, but rather a laborious one, for you do not readily accept progressive ideas or labour saving devices. You have considerable sentiment, which you carefully try to conceal. You are rather abrupt in your speech, although more deliberate in your actions. You are rather shrewd in business, and clever in analysing characters.

BARGE ESCAPES FROM TOWLINE

Driven By Gale Towards Halifax Lightship But Anchors Would Hold in Shallow Water.

EIGHT MEN ON BOARD.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 27.—(CP).—Carrying a million gallons of gasoline from Boston to Halifax, the barge Gothan 85 of Boston, was cast adrift a few miles off Halifax Harbor yesterday when a wire towline snapped in a 50-mile gale. When the tug Goliath, which was towing the barge arrived here early yesterday afternoon, Captain J. T. Hodges said the Gotham 85, with eight men aboard was last seen being driven by the west south west gale toward the Halifax lightship, then 31 miles distant. Captain Hodges believed the barge's anchor would hold in shallow water and prevent her from becoming a total loss if driven ashore. As soon as the weather moderated, it was said, the Goliath would proceed to sea with an emergency line and attempt to regain her tow.

When she lost the barge the Goliath was making a speed of about six knots. A new towline could not be employed because of the heavy weather.

MURDER AND THEFT BY BANDIT LEADER

Evanston Broker Shot When He Smiled at a Glen View Saloon Hold-up.

GLEN VIEW, Ill., Nov. 27.—(CP).—Because he smiled when four masked robbers commanded the patrons of a roadside saloon to "throw up your hands" Russel Thompson, 35, Vantson broker, was shot down and instantly killed today.

"Don't smile," the bandit leader ordered, when Thompson, one of the three men at a side table, looked his way. At the same time he raised his gun and fire point blank, the charge striking the broker in the left breast.

"You can see we're tough," the slayer called to Frank Engel, owner of the place. "Now open up that safe. We're in a hurry."

While one of the robbers guarded him, Engel nervously dialed the combination. The robbers scooped up about $150 and fled with two companions, who had remained outside, in a large sedan.

SHARP CRITICISM OF LABOR MINISTER

Girls Out of Work Are Told to Go Into Domestic Service— Dole is Refused.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, is being sharply criticized from many quarters since her recent suggestion that girl cotton operatives, workless by the closing of some cotton mills, should enter domestic service. But her views received official backing yesterday when the official umpire under the "dole" regulations disallowed the claim of 12 Blackburn mill girls for the dole, because they had refused to enter domestic service.

A meeting of Lancashire Labor members of parliament last night resulted in strong comment on the Labor Minister's stand. J. Toole, Labor member for Salford South, asserted her viewpoint was endangering the security of many of her colleagues in parliament and would affect the labor vote. He instanced the Shipley by-election, lost by Labor to the Conservatives recently.

"Popular" newspapers are running columns of correspondents regarding the advantage of domestic service. It is a tribute to the soundness of the English primary educational system tha tthe domestic servants who write anonymous etters to the editor all write with the precision of trained journalists.

ALGONQUIN ACTIVE.

Interlisted issues on the mining market failed to move in a session marked by light turnover to-day, but lower priced stocks took on an easier tendency.

Mining Corporation, a recent feature, appeared to be the subject of a raid, price dropping 16 from last night to $1.60 at mid-day. Profit-taking and short selling is credited with the softness, as recent reports of the company's new find in Bannockburn have been favorable. Hollinger lost 15 to $5.75 and Howey was down 4 to 40. Teck Hughes strengthened loset 15 to $5.75 and Howey was down 4 to 20. Teck Hughes strengthened, price advancing 20 to $5.80, and Wright-Hargreaves recovered 3 to $1.70.

Algonquin was active and fractionally higher.

Noranda, with a drop of 10 to $17.50, was the only higher priced base metal change. Abana was off a point or so at 20, but balance of the group held steady. Nordon, due to indefinite reports of results in the Button-willow field, fell another 5 to 57. Acme up a cent at 33, and Ajax sold 5 higher at $1.55.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

With the Wall Street market on holiday the Toronto Stock Exchange ave one of its usual performances in the early hours to-day. To start with there was the normal cacumulation of buying and selling orders to execute and then the list was inclined to become almost stationary with one or two of the purely local favorites giving the best performance. Arbitrazing business, carried on between Toronto and New York, was absent and this was particularly noticeable in the active interlisted issues. The Canadian markets enjoyed their Thanksgiving earlier in the month while the American markets celebrate their to-day. The next holiday will be Christmas which bring the realizaiion that the stock exchanges are about to enter the final month of the year of a period that ha been more or less reactionary, driving prices down to the lowest level of the past two years. Unless December witnesses a sustained upward movement, 1930 will go down as an entire year of depreciation in security valves.

Toronto brokers continue to receive numerous enquiries about Canadian securities and report the placing of many cash orders slightly below current levels. The demand continues for the better type of security offering a liberal income return of the investment, and there is a good list to pick and choose from. Some clients rather than speculate on margin are looking over the low prices issues as well and are spreading their funds to purchase small lots of these low priced securities for cash rather than take on margin committments. The idea is to speculate in a diversified list of stocks, taking what risk necessary in the hope the company represented will do better with improvement in business. Not looking for quick trading profit and eliminating the possibility of margin calls. These operators feel they need not necessarily be concerned with day to day fluctuations, but can afford to wait their two for market appreciation.

Gravdual Improvement.

The present recurrent waves of strength and weakness in commodity prices, and of optimism and pessimism concerning the business outlook are characteristic of conditions of the bottom area of a business depression, says the current analysts of the Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., an upturn is not in immediate prospect, it cautions, but gradual improvement can be expected after January and recovery will be well underway by spring.

The market is discounting street rumors of developments that are expected to benefit the stockholders of at least two Canadian oil companies. For weeks stories have been heard of negotiations by American concerns for the acquisition of either McColl-Frontenac or Supertest Petroleum. Word from Montreal has it that McColl-Frontenac have three propositions to consider in the way of offers for the purchase of the business and that an official announcement of some kind is to be expected shortly. In this connection the name of Cities Service is most frequently mentioned and one story says a deal for control has already been negotiated with an offer to exchange stock to be made to McColl shareholders. Directors of Supertest will meet on Monday next and among the matters to be discussed, according to street rumors, will be the possible sale of the business, a cash bonus distribution and the splitting of the present shares. It is not necessary to point out that all such stories are lacking in official confirmation.

Ever since that memorable occasion centuries ago when Dick Whittington returned to London with his cat and became Lord Mayor of the British Capital, the Lord Mayor's Show has been an annual feature of the City's festivities. These pictures were taken when the new Lord Mayor, Sir William Phene Heal, succeeded to that enviable position. OPERATION SUSPENDED AT COBALT CONTACT FOR PRESENT

Last Few Silver Shipments Fail to Meet Operating Costs.

OILS ARE LOWER.

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (Special to Examiner.)—Left more or less to themselves inter-listed issues in the mining market moved back and forth in an indecisive manner, but balance of the list showed a definitely easier tendency. Mining corporation appeared to be the subject of a fairly heavy raid and some of the oils moved lower in small demand Significant news was absent and the market drifted with the whim of light turnover.

It has been decided to suspend operations at the Cobalt Contact mine for the time being. The last few shipments, due to prevailing low price for silver having just failed to meet operating costs. Development is at an interesting stage, however, and officials atate no time will be lost in resuming production and further exploration as soon as conditions improve. In the meantime results of the company's option in the Goudreau field have been encouraging and plans for the future are being laid. It is uncertain whether development will continue through the winter or await better working conditions in the spring.

Construction work of the new plant of the Pure Oil Co. at Toledo, is reported to schedule, and it is anticipated the refinery should be in operation by January next. A section of the plant devoted to the Gyro process of chemical research corp. has a monthly capacity of 100,000 barrels of refined gasoline.

W. J. Shields, writing from Elk Lake, states: "The Ashley Garvey find is opening up big. I have just had a friend come out from the Matachewan and he tells me he never saw such gold. On top of this they have made another discovery three quarters of a mile northwest of the original find which is reported to be even bigger. The new weing is about 6 feet wide and shows plenty of free gold. The boys in there are all excited about it and every one is dihging to beat the band. It surely looks as though Matchewan will be the busiest camp in the north during the next two years or mote.

"Claims are still being recorded in big bunches and stakers are going in all the time," Mr. Shields continues. "I hear of another find in Robertson township, first east of McNeil. Prospectors are hiking for there every day and we will have more news on it soon. A big storm with about five inches of snow has made the going heavy, but it does not seem to dampen enthusiasm.

A sample of Oil from the Wainwright wells of Bethwain oils was received in town to-day and, according to local opinion, it is high grade material. A wire from the company's western manager says: "The well is looking fine. Oil very high agrade and plny of it. Start to-morrow making ready for the government test.

Warning is Issued To Buggy Drivers

Considerable unnecessary danger is being created on the highways — particularly on Highway No. 7—it is learned, by a prevalent practice of rural dwellers to drive without lights on their buggies and other horse drawn vehicles. Numerous instances of this breach of the law have come to the attention of Traffic Officer V. White recently. In urging these offenders to comply with the traffic requirements in this regard ,out of consideration to motorists and particularly in view of the extreme danger to themselves, he issues a warning that a stringent check-up is to be made in the near future as repeated warnings seem to have no effect.

FARMERS IN FAVOR OF $1 BUSHEL PRICE

Prairie Farm Organizations Stand-by-stand With Dominion Government.

IN NEW PLAN.

Western Provinces Likely to Follow Manitoba's Lead in Fixed Prices.

SASKATOON, Sask., Nov. 27. (CP) Prairie farm organizations to-day appeared to stand side-by-side in favor of wheat prices pegged at $1.00 per bushel by the Dominion Government. Saskatchewan and Alberta bodies some time ago expressed opinions in favor of the plan and the price, but first mention of stand taken by United Farmers of Manitoba comes in a statement by W. J. Ward, newly-elected president.

"Seventy-cent wheat is of no use to the farmers" Mr. Ward stated in an interview between sessions of the current interprovincial agrarian parley. "He needs at least $1.00 per bushel, for if he does not get the cost of production, he cannot increase his now diminished purchasing power."

It is probably that Mr. Ward will take the same stand at the conference, for he was given a free hand by the annual Manitoba convention which favored no definite fixed price.

If the Manitoba delegation's position is indicated by Mr. Ward's opinion, all three provinces will have argued on the fixed-price matter. United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, have already asked the government for a stabilized price of $1.00 at shipping point, while United Farmers of Alberta have requested the equivalent amount of $1.15 at Fort William. All figures are mentioned on the basis of number one northern.

"It is understood that the prairie premiers on their recent journey east in interests of the western farmer, asked that the Dominion Government stabilize the price of wheat at 70 cents, Fort William. In connection with the premiers' efforts, the Manitoba Farmers' convention expressed approval and support, but made no mention of the proposed level of "pegged" prices.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Wheat again started off strong yesterday morning with prices making gains of 2 1-8 to 1½ cents, with the cash month showing the greatest strength. The upturn was largely based on the cables which were much stronger than due, but there was a fair class of buying going on, part of which was credited to seaboard or export houses. Early reports did not show much business, but later there were indications that sales had totalled nearly one million bushels, practically all Manitobas. The bulk of the business was over in the first fifteen minutes, after which the market eased slightly, but held very steady, with prices mostly 1½ to 1 cent higher. There appeared to be plenty of December wheat for sale at 62¼, which was coming from the pool but there was not a great deal sold, the market holding slightly under this figure, and generally there was a noticeable lack of offerings, but these did increase somewhat during the last 30 minutes. There was a good demand for practically all grades of cash wheat from shippers and millers, and while offerings were light, spreads were unchanged, to a fraction better on one or two grades that were generally wanted. Liverpool closed ½ to ¾ higher and Buenos Aires was 7-8 to 1½ higher at midday. The weather was reported as becoming unsettled in Argentine. While the wheat yields are reported as good in northern areas of Argentine, they are not so promising as threshing operations extend southward. The Argentine surplus is now estimated at 164,000,000 bushels, while a former estimate placed it at 184,000,000. There was no particular news from Russia, but shipments are expected to decrease from now on. Sentiment appears somewhat friendly to the market but offerings increase materially on extreme bulges, while the buying does not follow. The American markets will all be closed to-day, Thursday, it being Thanksgiving Day

Winnipeg futures closed 2 3-8 to 3-8 higher, the May being the weak month and November the strongest.

Coarse grains—The feature in these markets to-day was the fact that some barley had been worked for export overnight, and local prices advanced about 2 cents with seaboard houses buying. Russia is not expected to ship much more barley and a better foreign demand for Canadian barley is looked for with the probability that the market will do better. There was nothing doing in oats or rye, except an odd car taken by Eastern Canada. Markets all firmer in sympathy with the general news.

Flax—This market was also firmer but little trade going on. Liverpool due 1-8 to 3-8 lower on Winnipeg December, May and July.

Federal District For Ottawa Sought

OTTAWA Ont., Nov. 27.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The plan of making Ottawa a Federal district, administered by a commission, was approved last night by the Professional Institute of the Civil Service of Canada. At a public meetin gthe scheme was outlined by men prominent in civic affairs in Ottawa and surrounding district and resolutions approving it were passed.

CANADIAN LEGION B.E.S.L.

Peterborough Branch

A decided and healthy increase of the membership of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, was reported at the monthly meeting held recently, with President James Abraham in the chair.

Since the nominal roll was sent to headquarters, on March 31st this year 52 new members have been received into the Legion, and a great many old members have been reinstated.

Following the disposal of routine business, the President gave a talk relating to the workings of the pension act.

COURT DECIDE CRIPTON WILL

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., November 27 (C.P.). — One of the most important cases scheduled for hearing at the coming Non-Jury sitting of the Supreme Court which opens on Monday before Hon. Mr. Justice Kelly, is that in connection with the estate of the late Charles M. Gripton, valued at $1.470,000.

The Court will be asked to decide on certain securities left by Mr. Gripton marked " in trust" or "trustee." the instructions in the will being that they should be administered according to the instructions found in regard them. No instructions were found and the Court will be asked to find whether Mr. Gripton did establish a real trust fund, and of he did who is to receive the money and what shares. If he did not, then what is to become of the trust funds —are they to become part of the residue or go to the heirs as if without a will, and if they go to the heirs, what is the standing of Mrs Elizabeth Harrison, of Toronto, who was cut off under the will? The Court will also be asked to find if by "income tax" the deceased meant "succession duties."

NO CHANGES ON TORONTO LIST

TORONTO, Nov. 27. (By the Canadian Press)—Trading on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day was of a nominal character. Price changes along the board were extremely small and carried no significant so far as a market trend was concerned.

Oils were leaders, if any leadership could be discerned. McColl-Frontenac shot ahead again, selling above 23 for a net gain of more than a point. Supertest did not make any headway and activity was on a reduced scale. The other oils were firm when thdy did come out although the fact that no sales were made in Imperial oil until well into the second hour indicates the apathy towards the market.

Nickel, Ford of Canada, Brazilian, Gypsum, Walkers, all sold within a small fraction one way or the other, from last night. In many of the leaders no orders for execution were received the first hour and one or two transactions only the second hour.

Pig-chasing is a new sport in London.

LADIES HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

MANY ADDRESSES.

A very enjoyable event in the Paragon Hall last night was the annual banquet and bridge of the lady members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, Limited, when the directors were represented by the president, J. D. Fitzpatrick, in charge of the evening's entertainment, vice-president Mark Bredin, the treasurer, J. T. Braund, the secretary, E. R. Disney, and, by special request, Martin B. Chenhall, Robert Hendry and Charles Coleman.

A sumptuous supper was served, followed by brief addresses by Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Bredin, Braund and Disney. The program of music and the list of guests is outlined in another column of this issue.

Prizes were presented to the winning rinks. The first prize of individual tea sets for each of the players went to Mrs. Colemans' rink, skipped by herself, with Mrs. G. A. Borland vice, Mrs. Fletcher second, and Miss Coleman lead. To this rink also went the cup donated by Mayor Denne for rink competition in the ladies' section. The presentation was made by Mark Bredin.

J. T. Braund presented the prizes for second place, which went to Mrs R. French's rink, with Mrs. French as skip, Mrs. Archibald vice, Mrs. Petrie second and Mrs. Hendry lead. Individual tea sets were prizes also for this rink. Suitable acknowledgements were made by Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. French.

MINES PRODUCE LESS THIS YEAR

Ontario Mineral Production Drops $4,000,000 Below That of 1929.

U. S. IRON ORE IMPORTED.

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (C.P.). — According to estimates supplied in the three-quarterly report of the Ontario Department of Mines, issued yesterday at Queen's Park, the Province's mineral production for 1930 will fall approximately $4,000,000 below the production of 1929, although topping the 1928 output by $14,000,000.

Production for 1928 — metals, non-metals, structural materials and clay products—was valued at $100,083,122. The 1929 production was $117,960,722. This year's production is estimated at a flat $114,000,000.

Gold mining was up $1,201,206 during the first nine months of this year, and the nickel-copper group registered a gain of $2,739,238. Silver showed an increase of 1,433,877 fine ounces although the value was lower, due to the extremely low price of silver. On the other hand, Cobalt was down in quantity, and almost $500,000 lower in value. Lead also dropped both in quantity and value.

All iron ore smelted in the Province was imported from the United States, and the quantity treated fell from 996,602 to 789,437 long tons. The average price per long ton at lower lake ports was $4.40 for Bessemer grade ore.

DOCTOR KILLS MAN TO SAVE PATIENT

Dr. Kehoe Rushed in Car to Save Sister's Life in Buffalo, Kills Pedestrian.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 27 (C.P.)— A special from Buffalo, N.Y., to The Toronto Daily Star to-day says:—

"Judge Haiseldon may be called upon to decide whether the life of a doctor's patient or the life of a healthy pedestrian is more important, as the result of an accident in which a car driven by Ruth Thomas of Cobourg, Ontario, killed Hans Roehm last night.

Miss Thomas was driving Od. Gene Kehoe to attend her sister, Margaret, who had been suddenly taken ill. Kehoe said he accepted full responsibility. "I told Miss Thomas to drive as fast as she could. I think I was justified in trying to save the life of my patient," he said. Kehoe is held in $3,000 bail.

COUNTY TRIBUTE

made to the county bridges at Young's Point, Bensfort and Wallace's Point. This statement was similar in its general facts to the report by Reeve Tedford on Tuesday.

The Young's Point bridge was finished about a month ago, and is in good condition, Mr. Connor said. A new floor has been laid on steel joists, and one abutment was rebuilt.

The Bensfort bridge was expected to be completed to-day. Half the cost of the repairs to the Bensfort and Wallace Point bridges is borne by the Department of Highways, and the other half is shared equally by Peterborough County and the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. New floors, steel joists and pins have been put in both bridges. Mr. Connor found that the "I" bars and the diagonal and horizontal bars had been placed on the outside instead of the inside positions in the original work, causing double strain on the pins. He did not know of another instance in which the work had been done that way. The bars have been changed.

Instead of building false work to facilitate the repairs on both bridges, Mr. Connor employed a system of steel cables for taking up the strain, and this method had proved both practicable and economical.

Strength Increased

On the Wallace's Point bridge, steel joists were placed in two of the spans, the floor beams have been trussed, increasing the strength from its former 50 per cent, to 80 per cent of the carrying load. This work will be completed within a week and a new floor laid. Both bridges are carried on piers built on cribs filled with stone. One of them collapsed three years ago, and this pier had to be rebuilt. All the piers are being reinforced with angle irons and steel rods. The contractor supplies the material, but the county has to engage a diver to tighten the rods. The diver is expected to begin his part of the job next Monday.

Warden Hawthorne congratulated Mr. Connor on the saving he had achieved for the county, especially in the use of cables instead of false work for the repairs that had to be made, and the Council expressed its confidence in Mr. Connor and its satisfaction with the manner in which these contracts have been performed.

A. M. Fellowes, district representative of the Highways Department, declared that the Department had absolute confidence in Mr. Connor. "We place as much confidence in his ability as your Council does," said Mr. Fellowes. "None of his work has been turned back by our engineers."

Mr. Fellowes stated that the Department was vitally interested in these two contracts, and as the province contributed half the expense, its engineers desired that the job be done as well as possible, even if an additional hundred dollars or two be required. Mr. Fellowes said he was satisfied with the extent of the repairs, and if any explanation of extra expense had to be made to Northumberland and Durham, he would undertake it himself.

Mr. Connor expressed the opinion that there might not be any additional cost above the contract price, and if there was any, it would not amount to much.

SERIOUS STATE STILL IN PERU

SEVERAL EXECUTIONS.

AFRICA, Chile, Nov. 27. —(CP)— The Peruvian Provisional Government, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, was said in private messages here from Lima to-day to be in serious difficulties.

Grave trouble, the messages said exists in the Peruvian Capital, with constant fighting in the streets. There has been gunfire in several parts of the city.

The messages stated that several persons had been executed by the Government, which was holding its own with difficulty. A strict censorship was in effect. This last seemed borne out by a total absence of ordinary dispatches from Lima.

Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro, known in Peru as the "Hero of Arequipa," where he began the revolution which unseated former President Augusto B. Leguia last August, assumed the Provisional Presidency shortly after the success of the movement.

Despite the censorship there have been reports that his stabilization was not faring so well, and in about two weeks at least two Americans and a number of others were killed. A large Communist is said here to be involved in the disorders.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 27. — Dispatches to La Nacion from Santiago De Chile state that private information has confirmed reports that a serious situation exists there and that the Sanchez Cerro Government is adopting extreme measures to maintain order. Details are lacking.

GIRL INSISTS LIFE IN DANGER DESPITE INQUIRIES BY POLICE

Helen Diamond Tells of Being Kidnapped and Mysterious Happenings.

STORY IS SUPPORTED.

(Special to the Examiner—Copyright 1930)

PALMERSTON, Ont., Nov. 27—Climax to a mystifying chain of events to which provincial police have devoted several months' investigation, the claim of Helen Diamond, 19, that she was kidnapped within the shadow of her father's home on the night of Sunday, November 15, has proved a sensation.

Helen is the youngest daughter of Harry and Mrs. Diamond, prosperous farmers on the second line, Minto township. She has repeatedly appealed to the police for protection from alleged threats of kidnapping, slander, assaults and a veritable bombardment of strange letters written in a feigned hand.

Provincial Constable Harry Noble has thoroughly investigated her statements without finding any corroboration of the alleged offences. His investigation will proceed, he stated, in an effort to find solution of the incidents.

Helen reconstructed a graphic description of the alleged kidnapping. Present at the interview were her mother and elder sister, Bessie.

Two weeks ago, Helen stated, she dressed in a pair of her father's overalls and went to the barn to wash the cream separator. Charles Stewart, a friend of the family, and Mr. Diamond followed and assisted in the evening milking. At 6.30 Helen started to the house with the cream pails. Stewart accompanied her for protection as far as the woodshed.

"It was dark enough that we could not see," Helen stated. "Charlie stood in the lane until I turned the corner of the woodshed. I can't remember anything else except that I woke up in a car driven by a strange man."

Stewart walked back to the barn. Twenty minutes later he and Diamond returned, found the two cream pails standing beside the shed and discovered that Helen had disappeared. Provincial Constable Harry Noble was summoned.

Meanwhile, Helen was lying unconscious in the back seat of a mystery car, according to her story. "When I came to, we were on the ninth line, about two miles northwest of Fordwich, headed towards Gorrie," she said. "I was lying across the back seat, a handkerchief was tied over my mouth. I jerked it off and pulled a revolver from my pocket."

"A revolver!" the reporter ejaculated. "Yes, I had permission to carry it for protection after we received threatening letters. It was harmless. The cylinder was broken and there were no cartridges for it. I had been carrying it for sometime."

"I sat up in the car, pointed the revolver at the man and told him to stop. Where are you going and who do you think you have?" I demanded. "I was paid $75 to kidnap a girl but apparently I have a boy," he answered.

Helen, who is tall and rather sturdy, was dressed in mannish garb—her father's overalls — and had her hair closely cut in boyish bob.

Searching the yard that evening, the girl's father discovered a club-like piece of hardwood branch which he declared had not been there before. The family suspect this was used to stun the girl before she was carried off.

Mrs. Diamond and her daughter declared they did not hear any struggle outside the house. Nor did they hear a car, although the house is but 100 yards from the road. "We are certain they carried Helen to a waiting car," they told the reporter.

"People started to say I was doing it myself," Helen asserted. "So we tried to set a trap. My sister and I watched from the window. The first night I saw a boy near the house. I chased him, wrestled with him but he ran away. There were other persons with him. I took after them but they kicked me against the fence as they ran across the fields. I saw him throw a letter away as he ran, the next day we found it in the field."

The following Saturday night last October 18, she saw the same boy and chased him down the road. He tripped her and she fell fifteen feet to the ditch.

A party of twelve or thirteen farmers set a trap near the Diamond home on the night of October 29th, they said. Helen was watching from the house when she saw the ghost-like figure of the boy again. He fled but she followed him to his home where there were two men and a woman, dressed as a man, with him.

The identity of the boy was revealed to Constable Noble. He questioned him but was unable to find any substantiation of the girl's story.

Still the letters were delivered to the Diamond home. One stated that if the matter was taken to the police, the minute the parties were convicted Helen would be shot; another threatened that Helen and the clergyman would be kidnapped and a story circulated that they eloped.

The Diamond family stated they were not satisfied with police decision that no crimes had been committed. "Constable Noble told me the night of the kidnapping that nothing much could be done unless I admitted staging the whole affair," Helen said.

Bessie Diamond laid the affair before the crown attorney at Guelph. "He told me I could clear it up myself by getting a confession from Helen," she said.

Better in Many Ways

"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at Change of Life. I saw it advertised in a booklet. That is how I came to take it. It has helped me a great deal, especially a pain in my side. My appetite is better. My nerves are steadier and I sleep well. I can do my work without lying down like I used to. You may use my name and I will answer letters."—Mrs. George Frotten, South Quinan, Nova Scotia.

SAINT ANDREW SCOTS' PATRON

Caledonian Club Plans Celebration in Honor of Scotland's Patron Saint.

RELICS BURIED THERE.

The thirtieth of November has a peculiar significance for Scotsmen, no matter where fate may have led them. It is Saint Andrew's Day. The characteristics of the nation as a whole are to be found in those of their patron saint. No mere chance led Scotsmen to recognize a peculiar fitness in the selection of Andrew, the apostle. The historian of the early Church gives him little attention, but the few references are illuminating. Andrew was the first to enlist when the Messiah called for helpers. He also brought his own brother Simon Peter to the Master, thus securing for his family the leadership in the apostolic company.

Andrew showed keen discernment and clannishness. Then again it was Andrew who figured so prominently in the incident of the loaves and fishes. He it was who discovered the small boy who had brought lunch. He brings him to the Master, where his meagre supply forms the nucleus of a tremendous multiplication. We may be sure that Andrew was active among those gathering up the fragments providing against waste.

The Scot has always been marked by that restless questing spirit that sent Andrew to Jesus. When he felt that he could say with Andrew, "We have found the Messiah," his history may be said to have had a beginning. Men will interpret that history differently, but they will agree that it has always stressed religion. Scotland is a poor country as things go, yet it has made its own the two great conceptions—religion and knowledge—which has so tremendously influenced the course of human development. It is not a land flowing with milk and honey, but the man born there has drawn a high prize in the lottery of life.

In his lifetime St. Andrew never actually visited Scotland. He was a great missionary, who travelled about Asia Minor. He met a cruel death by crucifixion at the instigation of a Roman Governor when he refused to sacrifice to the gods of Rome. The cross on which he died was shaped like an 'X,' hence the form of cross known as "St. Andrew's" to this day. Tradition has it that about the year 369 A.D. a Christian named Regulus set out on a journey, taking with him certain holy relics of St. Andrew. During a storm the ship in which Regulus travelled was driven ashore upon the coast of Fife. When the presence of the relics became known they were reverently buried, and a church erected over the grave. This may be considered as the founding of the town of St. Andrew's, with its famous university.

It is also related that the early Scots when engaged in a fierce battle with the English saw the cross of Saint Andrew suddenly flash across the sky. The English armies were put to rout and their king slain. In honor of this victory the Scottish king built a splendid church, which was dedicated to the memory of St. Andrew. And the saint from that time onward remained firmly established as patron of the Scots. In the reign of James II., the Scots Parliament had a golden penny struck, showing a figure of St. Andrew on the reverse side. This penny became known as "the Lion," as it bore the figure of the king of beasts on the obverse side. The lion is Scotland's emblem.

To-day we see the cross of St. Andrew wherever the British flag is unfurled. It forms, of course, a part of the Union Jack.

Our local Caledonian Club is celebrating St. Andrew's Day by a concert, having as guest speaker the Rev. J. B. MacCormack of Lakefield, a very able speaker with much first-hand knowledge of his native land. All Scotsmen and lovers of Scotland are invited to meet in the W.O.W. Hall on Friday night, and celebrate with the club.

"The Shadow of the Steppe" Title of Mrs. Billett's Book

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 27.—(CP).—Mrs. Mabel Broughton Billett, of this city, has written a second novel, published in England by Hutchison. It is entitled "The Shadow of the Steppe", and in a story of Afghanistan and the Indian Border. It is a modern historical novel. Mrs. Billett spent some time at Harvard in the Widener Library getting local color with regard to Afghanistan. She will spend the winter in Cornwall where she will write another book which will follow along the lines of the novel "Calamity House."

TRAIN HITS CAR IN SNOW STORM

Death Follows in Wake of Cold in West and Storms in Ontario.

PROSPECTOR FROZEN.

TORONTO, Ont., November 27 (C.P.). — Death followed yesterday in the wake of intensely cold weather in Western Canada and snow storms in Ontario. With the mercury standing at 14 degrees below zero in Manitoba, a young Danish prospector was found frozen to death near the Central Manitoba Mines.

Near the village of Malton, in Peel County, not far from Toronto, snow flurries are said to have hidden an approaching train which struck a truck, killing a Mount Dennis man and injuring two others. At Wingham, Ontario, the snowfall is reported to have been 10 inches.

In Toronto, snow turned to rain, which froze on roads and street cars. The result was one of the worst traffic tie-ups experienced for some time. Street cars on several lines were as much as an hour behind schedule. Motor cars were unable to negotiate some of the hills in the northern section of the city.

A Weekly Habit

Long evenings spent in the city were lonely, indeed, and Dora missed the fun of her home circle. Then she learned about "telephone visiting." Now, thanks to Long Distance, she "listens in" every week on the jolly family talk. How it has helped her!

OFFICIAL VISIT TO TWEED LODGE

HOLD JOLLY BANQUET.

TWEED, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence) — Rt. Wor. Bro. McClung, D.D.G.M., Prince Edward District No. 13 paid his offical visit to Tweed Lodge, A.F. and A.M. on Friday evening and was warmly welcomed by the members of the local lodge and visitors from Belleville, Madoc, Warkworth, Stirling and other nearby lodges.

The Second Degree was exemplified and the officers were warmly felicitated on the excellence of the work.

Following the business a banquet was tendered to the guests by the members of the Eastern Star and Wor. Bro. H. P. Prudy presided for the program. Toasts to the King and Craft, Grand Lodge and visiting brethren were proposed and eloquently responded to. The toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. E. Brown and ably responded to by Rt. Wor. McClung and Bro. C. K. Nicol of Trenton, District Chaplain.

The latter is one of the most gifted speakers that has been heard in Tweed for some time and his message to the Brethren will not soon be forgotten.

The toast to the visiting brethren was proposed by Wor. Bro. W. G. Gordon and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. Herity; Rt. Wor. Webster, of Belleville and Wor. Bro. Clare Hayes, of Arden Lodge.

Solos by Mrs. R. Fawcett and Miss Dorothy Sagar added to the success of the evening.

SOCIETIES ENJOY RABBIT PIE SOCIAL

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Swayne Have Charge of Gathering in Fraserville Hall.

FRASERVILLE, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Members of the Tuxis and C.G.I.T. groups of Fraserville United Church, under the leadership of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Swayne, enjoyed a rabbit pie social in the Orange Hall, Fraserville, on Thursday evening.

Supper began at 6.30 when about thirty guests sat down to the well laden tables. After supper, a short program was given, Rev. Mr. Swayne acting as chairman. The first part was a song service in which familiar songs were sung. Then short speeches were given by Ralph Hanbidge, Ray Bothwell and Findlay Clark, who told of their adventures in getting the rabbits. Their speeches were very humorous and much enjoyed.

Brief speeches were then given by Mary Wood, Edith Holden, Mabel Henry and Ruby Cunningham, who told "How the Pies were Made." A vote of thanks was moved to the C.G.I.T. girls for the splendid supper by Harry Cunningham and seconded by Ralph Hanbidge.

Miss A. Matchett moved a vote of thanks to the boys for their share in supplying the rabbits, seconded by Miss B. Ressor.

Rev. Mr. Swayne brought this part of the program to a fitting close with an address, followed by games and contests. The entertainment was brought to a close in the usual manner.

OBITUARY

ETHEL MAY FREEMAN

TWEED, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence) — The death occurred on Monday in Belleville General Hospital of Ethel May Freeman following an operation for appendicitis.

The funeral was held on Wednesday to St. James' Church, the service being conducted by the rector, the Rev. W. L. Wright.

MISS E. STEVENS

FENELLA, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral service of the late Miss E. Stevens, of Toronto a former resident of this community was held at Bethesda (South) on Tuesday afternoon.

She is survived by one brother, Alexander, of Harwood, and three sisters, Mrs. John Curbison, of Michigan and the Misses Mary and Annie, of Rochester.

JOHN MASON

FENELLA, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence) — The funeral of the late John Mason, of Cobourg was held from his late residence on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Mason was eighty-eight years of age and until he retired from farming a few years ago lived the greater part of his life in this community where he was highly esteemed and respected citizen.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. W. A. Nill, of Cavan, and two sons, John of Peterborough, and Walter of Roseneath.

Burial was made in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

MRS. JAMES MURPHY

MARMORA, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—A highly respected and lifelong resident of this district passed away on Monday afternoon in the person of Mrs. James Murphy.

The deceased who was in her fifty-second year was the daughter of the late Michael and Elizabeth O'Connor and was first married to the late James Auger and four sons survive of this marriage, Michael, New Liskeard; Leo, Vancouver; Hector, Marmora and Matthew, Sudbury. The late James Auger predeceased her twenty-one years ago. There are no children of the second marriage.

Surviving her also are four brothers, Matthew, Richard, and Edward of Marmora township and Michael, of Sudbury, and two sisters, Mrs. James McGrath, Marmora and Mrs. E. Keating, Windsor.

The deceased lady was taken ill about a year ago and for a considerable portion of the last six months she was confined to her bed. She was of a very bright disposition and possessed the family trait of neighborliness. She was a member of the Catholic Women's League and also of the Altar Society.

The funeral left her late residence on Wednesday morning for mass at the Sacred Heart Church at 10 o'clock which was sung by the Rev. Father W. L. Terrion, of Smith's Falls. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery.

MADOC

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil of Lansdowne spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Jesse M. Reid in Madoc. They were accompanied by their niece and nephew, Miss Shipman and Mr. Landon.

The Ladies' Guild of St. John's Anglican Church are preparing for their annual bazaar and afternoon tea this week. It is to be held in the commodious salesroom of Tufts and Kelly, on Saturday afternoon. Fancy work in great variety will be offered for sale, also home made cookery of various kinds. A fish pond is to be the attraction for the children, and the drawing will be made for the beautiful hand-worked bedspread kindly donated by Mrs. F. G. Reynolds. Afternoon tea will be served by the ladies, and a pleasant social afternoon is anticipated.

BAD CONDITIONS IN INSTITUTION

Brandon Mental Hospital Not Adequately Lighted and Ventilated; Too Small.

HOSPITAL AT TORONTO.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 27 (C.P.)—Speaking before the Wolsley Brock Home and Teachers' Association, M. Le Bourdais, director of education, Canadian National Committee on Mental Hygiene declared patients confined in the Brandon Mental hospital are living under conditions unfit for animals. He told of overcrowded conditions at the institution and stated many of the most seriously afflicted were confined to cells without windows, or proper ventilation. The staff was not to blame, he said, for 1,050 patients were confined there, and there was only accommodation for between 750 and 800.

"There is no one to speak for these people," said the speaker, in regard to the mentally afflicted. "There are 30,000 in Canada. They have no board of trade or chamber of commerce, no one to speak for them. Even their relatives hate to mention them, because they are in mental hospitals. Yet you rarely meet anybody who has not some contact with these mentally disabled. But in spite of that almost universal link very little is done because there is very little organization. The only way we can get anything done is through public opinion."

The speaker described the psychopathic hospital of Winnipeg as a fine one. Again deficiencies were not due to the personnel. The deficiences of that hospital were to be found in the building itself.

"It is a fine example of how not to build such a hospital," Mr. Le Bourdais said. After all, it was the first hospital of its kind in Canada and there was therefore a reasonable excuse for it. Even to-day there were but two of them, the other being at Toronto. In the course of his address Mr. Le Bourdais also referred to the problem of the marriage of the feeble-minded and the success of the sterilization laws for such people in Alberta and in California; the question of behaviourism in children; the education of the adolescent to fit them for parenthood; the "scientific adjustment" of the child at school; and the training of parents in the rearing of their children.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne—

You have had some splendid Christmas suggestions. I did like the one about sending home-made dainties. Personal gifts seem to appeal more than bought ones. A friend was much pleased once on receiving a pretty box which on opening showed a nest of fresh eggs. Another who received many costly gifts told that she appreciated none more than a candy box filled with samples of home-made Christmas goodies.

Another I heard of makes a particular kind of cookie for which one year she used eight pounds of butter. These cookies were her own particular gifts to everyone.

But it would seem that often the Christmas gift system is carried too far. People do sometimes strain themselves and deny their homes to give gifts unnecessarily and where they really are not appreciated.

Often a card or perhaps better, a letter from a friend does as much good as the most costly gift. It is the idea that someone thought that pleases.

Gifts to the members of the family and the household should come first. I know some object but if a member of the family needs some article and friends are not plentiful it does seem perfectly all right to give the article for Christmas. The wrappings make it Christmassy.

Gifts, large or small, should be the result of study and thought and suit the taste of the recipient. If one has been a guest in a home during the year some gift suitable to the home almost should be sent at Christmas. If there is one thing that upsets me more than another, it is the idea that is one has given a gift, the recipient must send something besides thanks in return.

A few years ago there was a certain person to whom I always wished to send a small gift of something I thought she would like. She generally sent me one, but that was not my reason for sending or directly giving. Once I took a gift which had required thought. I knew she had been annoyed at me, where she had no need to be, but that did not affect my reason for always remembering her at Christmas. She is much better off than I. She said, "Oh, I have nothing for you." I told her that made no difference. However, she went to town soon and the next time I was there she gave me a parcel. It was very pretty and I liked it. I managed to say, "Thank you," but I was so angry I felt like throwing it at her face. She will never get another from me, even if she does send me one.

Of course, thanks should always be sent and in as pretty a way as possible without it being a gift, which is clearly a return. It would seem that children should be taught to get more joy out of giving than receiving. Some children look on Christmas from no other angle than that of receiving gifts. Making others happy should be a chief joy and if unable to give gifts, there are many other and perhaps better ways.

Hope your own Christmas may be happy, Anne, and that so many people may think happiness for you that will feel it.

Yours sincerely,
QUID EST.

Thank you Quid Est for your words of encouragement and also for your ideas regarding Christmas and the gifts. I do anticipate a lovely Christmas, thank you.

Dear Anne—

Thought I would keep the good work going by sending in a letter also.

I do feel sorry for those out of work. There may be, of course, some who are to blame themselves for their own bad times, but in the majority of cases people do want to work and be self supported. I hear a lot of talk about the lack of money and hard times, but the money is still in the counting. It has not flown away.

If we would only talk "better times" instead of "hard times" it would surprise us how much brighter things would look and how much better they would be. Most of those who talk so much about it have never done without a meal in their lives. Those who are really going through hard times, are too busy trying to make ends meet to have time to talk about it. So let us all talk more hopefully and see the difference it will make.

And to those who are having their troubles now, just remember that the wheel of life is bound to turn. The good times don't last and the bad times cannot last either.

I take comfort from a sentence I read when I was in trouble. "This, too, will pass, so take heart and do the best you can and trust in God."

Cheerio, Anne.

QUO VADIS.

We are delighted to hear from you again, it does seem a long time since you contributed to the page. I hope those in need will obtain encouragement from the line which you quote. Come again soon.

That Body of Yours

SWELLING OF FEET

One of the distressing conditions which naturally frightens the individual is a swelling of the feet and legs. This is called dropsy and is an accumulation of water in the tissues. It is usually due to a failing action of the heart.

Now there is one type of swelling of feet, ankles, and legs that is not due to any failure of the heart to do its work. It is at its worst in the evenings and is worse after work or exercise that keeps one on the feet a great deal. This swelling sometimes lasts for weeks, disappears for weeks or even months, and then comes back again.

During the day the water in the system tends to drain down to the feet, and by evening has there collected in sufficient amount to be noticed by the patient. There seems to be a lessening of the amount of bicarbonate values in these water-logged individuals. While the cause of this type of dropsy is not really known it is thought to be due to acidosis, and so baking soda seems to be of help.

However, in real dropsy, due to failure of heart to do its work properly, the dropsy does not usually disappear of itself, but requires special treatment. Digitalis is the drug your doctor uses as a rule, as it strengthens the heart, and helps the kidneys to rid the tissues of water. In cases where digitalis is not effective, research physicians are now recommending a diet of raw fruit and vegetables, which produces a marked increase in the water thrown out by the kidneys, thus relieving the swelling of feet, legs and hands.

Although this action lasts two or three days in healthy persons, in persons with failing heart muscle it persists until all the water and salt in the swollen parts have been removed.

It has proven of great value also in helping cases where there is considerable distress in the intestines, one of the symptoms occurring frequently with dropsy.

Now the point is that a diet of raw vegetables only influences normal individuals for two or three days, and thus a diet of raw fruits and vegetables all the time is not necessary; in fact, may set up trouble of an opposite kind.

So, if you have the swelling that is not due to failing heart action, you use baking soda, and if due to failing heart action you use the raw vegetables.

These little points are worth knowing regarding this common ailment.

BEING IN LOVE

What is being in love?
Why, it's simple indeed;
It just means that you move
At an airplane's top speed
With your thoughts in a daze
Through a perfect world's days!

On a sudden you find
Folks who used to be bores
Have grown witty and kind,
And you chat at their doors
While the universe glows
While the color of rose.

You are brave, you are strong
And a great diplomat;
You arise with a song,
Pat the dog, stroke the cat.
What is being in love?
It's what makes the world move!

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG.
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

THE MINUTE GUN AT SEA
(Contributed by "Old London")

'Twas in a storm off Albion coast,
The night guard watches his weary post,
All thought of danger free.
He marks a vessel's stately form,
And hears amidst the howling storm,
A minute gun at sea.
A minute gun at sea.
He hears amidst the howling storm,
A minute gun at sea.

Swift to the shore a hardy few
The lifeboats manned by a gallant crew,
Who braves the treacherous waves:
As through the bright surf they cleave their way,
Lost in the fam and all dismay,
They go the grew to save,
They go the crew to save.
Lost in the foam and all dismay.
They go the crew to save.

Then oh, what rapture fills each breast,
Of a hapless crew of a ship distressed,
When landed safe on shore.
O, what rapture what joy to tell,
Of all the dangers that befell,
Then was heard no more by the watch on shore,
The minute gun at sea.
Then was heard no more by the watch on shore,
The minute gun at sea.

"The trouble began with little red pimples appearing all over my forehead. They festered and scaled over and itched and burned during the night, causing me loss of sleep. The pimples spread all over my face and bothered me about a year.

"I tried other remedies without success when a friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a free sample and it helped me. I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed, in about two months." (Signed) Miss Alice Strome, Englefeld, Sask.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address Canadian Depot: J. T. Wall Company Limited, Montreal.

FASHION SERVICE

2858

This attractive dark green patterned wool crepe is especially adaptable to figures a little above normal.

All the best points have been brought out to give a slimming silhouette.

For instance, the surplice closing adds a softly rippling fever that cuts the breadth. Still more helpful perhaps is the shaped yoke brought up to the waistline at the left side front, that narrows the hipline. The surplice vestee also does its bit toward slenderness, and is very becoming.

The circular skirt is beautifully moulded to the figure with gracious swing at the hem.

Style No. 2858 may be had in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust.

Size 36 requires 4 7-8 yards 39-inch with ¼ yard 27-inch contrasting.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children, embroidery, Christmas suggestions, etc.

Ready--- as if by Magic and Wonderfully Good

If Aladdin, by rubbing his magic lamp, conjured up some tempting repast, it couldn't be ready much sooner than you can prepare delicious pancakes with Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour.

"I'se in Town, Honey"

You simply stir this ready-mixed flour with equal quantities of milk or water and cook on a moderate fire. Presto! You have light, flavoury pancakes that just melt in your mouth.

Aunt Jemima's recipe was famous in the heyday of the Old South. Her flour that comes to you today is just what she used then, mixed in the same proportions so you get the same wonderful results.

Many other tasty things can be made with Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour... waffles, muffins or pancakes with jelly. Or, if you prefer the tang of buckwheat, it is just as easy to use Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour. Keep both kinds of Aunt Jemima always in the pantry.

A very jolly gathering of the lady lawn bowlers of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, Limited, took place last night in the Paragon Hall on the occasion of the annual banquet and bridge party which is also the evening for awarding prizes for club competitions. The directors were represented by the president, Mr. J. D. Fitzpatrick, who was in charge of the entertainment of the evening, the vice president, Mr. Mark Bredin, the treasurer, Mr. J. T. Braund, the secretary, Mr. E. R. Disney, and, by special request, Mr. Martin B. Chenhall, Mr. Robert Hendry and Mr. Charles Coleman. A delicious supper was served, followed by short addresses by Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Bredin, Braund and Disney. The entertainment furnished by Mr. Charles Coleman in comic songs, with Mr. M. B. Chenhall as accompanist, provided much fun and laughter, and the vocal solo and encore by Mr. R. Hendry, with Mrs. Hendry at the piano, pleased everyone. Later, the prize winners were announced, and Mr. Bredin presented the first prizes, which were individual tea sets for each of the players, to Mrs. G. Coleman's rink, with other players in Mrs. G. A. Borland, vice, Mrs. Fletcher second, and Miss Coleman lead. To this rink went also the cup presented by Mayor Denne for competition in the ladies' section. The second prizes, to Mrs. R. French's rink, with players in Mrs. Archibald, vice, Mrs. Petrie, second, and Mrs. Hendry, lead, were also individual tea sets, and were presented by Mr. J. T. Braund. Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. French acknowledged the prizes on behalf of their rinks. Following this, the evening was spent in playing bridge. Ladies present included Mrs. Minnie Archibald, Mrs. Elma Ashby, Mrs. Maude Borland, Mrs. Rose Bredin, Mrs. Leonie Coleman, Mrs. Ethel DeLong, Mrs. Clara Fanning, Mrs. Lottie Fletcher, Mrs. Annie French, Mrs. Graham Grant, Mrs. J. On Monday evening, the A.Y.P.A. of All Saints' Church was at home to its friends at a St. Andrew's supper and program. The guests were welcomed by the Rev. J. D. Paterson, who later gave an interesting illustrated lecture on Scotland. Sixty people enjoyed a bountiful and well-served repast, which was enlivened by vocal solos by Mrs. Scholey and Mr. Jack Smith, readings by Miss Gwen Parnell and a bagpipe number of Mr. Alex Milne. Mrs. W. A. Logan presided at the piano and the evening concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

MARK ST. LADIES HOLD FINE BAZAAR

Articles Sold Were Varied and Pretty With Plenty of Dainty Fancy Work.

The ladies of Mark Street United Church Women's Association held a very successful and well-attended bazaar in their Sunday School auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday. Arrangements were in charge of an energetic committee headed by the president, Mrs. A. Cox. Decorations of the various booths were in colored tissue paper and streamers that made a very attractive effect in the bright rooms. Afternoon tea was served in several of the smaller class-rooms, at little tables centered by flowers. The supper served on Tuesday was in charge of Mrs. W. Binks, who also looked after the tea-tables, assisted by Mrs. D. White, Mrs. A. Andrews, Mrs. H. Cooper and Mrs. L. Agnew. The sale of aprons was in charge of Mesdames G. Record, Doxsee and Thorne, while home-made cooking was sold by Mrs. W. Pomeroy and Mrs. W. Clarke. Fancy work was supervised by Mesdames Benson, W. K. Payne, E. Wand, A. Cox. The sale of candy was looked after by Mrs. A. E. Thornley, Mrs. S. Matchett and Miss Peel. Mrs. G. Hurl and Mrs. A. J. Throop had a Christmas tree gift sale.

The articles were varied and pretty, with plenty of dainty fancy work in evidence.

Miss M. Clarke of Glasgow, Scotland, has just bequeathed $100,000 to the Glasgow Royal Infirmary in memory of her father and grandfather.

It is not every family who has a Christmas turkey and those who haven't are puzzled to know just what can be a satisfactory substitute.

• • • • • • •

There are of course, two reasons for substitution—one if that a family may be so small that a turkey, no matter how little it may be, is too big. Turkeys are rather large for two or three

• • • • • • •

The second reason is the cost!

• • • • • • •

Many people find they should buy some meat that is not listed among the delicacies.

• • • • • • •

There is, of course, a third reason but it is so seldom found that it is counted as exceptional, namely an actual dislike for the bird.

• • • • • • •

There are a number of substitutes—chicken, and duck (especially recommended for small families) the less tender but very palatable poultry, called fowl, owing to the age; and veal.

• • • • • • •

All of these are either birds or white meat somewhat approximately the meat of fowl and turkey. The chicken, duck or fowl can be stuffed with the same dressing that would be used for turkey, resembling the latter in this particular.

• • • • • • •

The most inexpensive cut of veal that can be used satisfactorily is the knuckle. To make it as much as possible like a turkey, use the turkey dressing of bread crumbs, seasoned with salt, pepper, chopped celery, finely sliced or chopped onion, slivers of sweet pepper, and either green or red sage. Have the knuckle bone removed and stuff the cavity to capacity sewing in dressing securely.

• • • • • • •

Put the veal on a rack in a kettle with a tightly fitting cover. Pour in enough water to cover the rack. Steam the veal until nearly tender, and put it in the oven in a baking pan.

• • • • • • •

Baste with the water from the kettle, adding a little melted butter to the liquid and brown the meat. Make a rich brown gravy.

• • • • • • •

In some places chicken giblets can be bought without the chicken and if a few of these are boiled in a little water until tender and then chopped not too fine, can be added to the gravy to increase the semblance of the flavor of that of a bird.

• • • • • • •

Serve the gravy separately in a boat.

• • • • • • •

Cut winter squash into two-inch squares, brush with melted butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and just a dash of sugar. Put into a covered baking dish and bake until tender—from half to three quarters of an hour.

• • • • • • •

• • • • • • •

For vegetables, have mashed white potatoes, celery, boiled onions, string beans or peas, and cranberry sauce. Mince pie is usually the favorite. Have it hot with cheese on the side.

• • • • • • •

Follow this with nuts, raisins, fruit and candy and the meal should be successful.

WOMEN PRISON CENSUS SHOWS GAIN OF 100 P.C.

WOULD SCRAP TOMBS.

Number of Women Criminals More Than Doubled in Past Decade.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The number of women criminals in New York City's penal institutions has more than doubled in the last decade.

In 1920 the number was 1,150. During the past year the total reached 2,391.

Commissioner Patterson, seeking a reason for the increase, stated:

"The comparative emancipation of woman, her greater participation in commercial and political affairs and the tendency toward greater sexual freedom may be playing their part in bringing about this situation. On the other hand, the figures may merely represent an increased activity on the part of the police."

Reclamation Difficult.

On the subject of "repeaters" among women arrested he says:

"We appear to be having equally little success in keeping women out of prison in the first place or in reclaiming them after they have once gotten in."

Men "repeaters" come back as often as do women. Commenting on this fact, he sees no hope for any real diminution of crime in New York City until some plan is evolved whereby chronic and habitual offenders can be confined to suitable institutions for life, or a cure for their criminal tendencies discovered.

Commissioner Patterson favors the scrapping of the antiquated Tombs prison. He would combine the Manhattan magistrate's courts and detention prison in one building. He also favors replacing the 75-year-old Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn.

Drug Addicts Problem.

Discussing drug addiction he declares: "Drug addicts do not belong in a penitentiary. What they need first and foremost is hospitalization in an institution specifically designed for their treatment and located outside of the city in some sparsely settled locality where smuggling will be difficult if not impossible."

He recommends confinement for life of drug addicts of the criminal class.

Establishment of a new Bureau of Social Information, to collect information concerning the social background of convicted prisoners is recommended.

Discussing the huge turnover in New York's prisons, the report mentions the fact that during 1929 the doors of the penal institutions were opened to recive or release inmates more than 250,000 times, "more people than there are in the entire city of Louisville, St. Paul, or Toledo."

Considerable space in the report is given to the work accomplished by social workers in the prisons.

Il Duce Comes To Aid Of Little Blind Girl

POLA, Italy, Nov. 27. (CP)—Maria Rinoselli's life dream has come true, because she had the courage to write a letter to Mussolini.

Maria, who is 20 years old, was born blind, but to offset her affliction she had a natural gift for the piano.

An operation would give her her sight, but the family who are poor working people could not afford it any more than they could afford to buy her a piano. She wrote the Duce, asking his aid.

In return Mussolini sent her money for the operation, which was successful, and more to enable her to buy the piano she had always wanted.

BEAUTIFUL NEW CHURCH BUILT IN TOKIO, JAP AN BY CANADIANS

New City Has Sprung Up Which Earthquake Destroyed Seven Years Ago.

HON. MR. MARLER TO VISIT.

TOKIO, Nov. 27.—(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930).—Seven years ago this time Tokio was lying in ashes. In the earthquake of September 1st and the resulting fires this city with Yokohama and a score of smaller towns had suffered as never before in history. So stunned were the people for the moment that the idea was considered of removing the Imperial capital to safer regions. This defeatist counsel, however, did not prevail and the reconstructed capital is more beautiful and much more modern than ever. Auditoriums, picture theatres, schools, a new Diet building, hospitals and churches have sprung from the ruins of seven years ago. Literally scores of the most up-to-the-minute office blocks with every modern convenience, have been erected. Most of these are seven or eight stories high, the limit permitted by law. There are still a few stores and offices operating in temporary barrack structures and there are not a few vacant lots here and there with debris piled high, but for the most part the marks of the disaster have been effaced and this city is again a bustling hive of activity with a population (Greater Tokio) of over five million. There are some two hundred miles of asphalt-paved roads, most of them straightened and widened since the earthquake. These roads are taxed already by an enormous motor traffic and by a very complete street-railway and motor-bus service, added to which there is a fast overhead electric service and the beginning of a great subway system of 42½ miles, three miles of which are now in operation. There is no medieval city.

Our Canadian people, seven years ago, in the very hour of distress, by a fine act of sympathy, sent us about $110,000 for the work of reconstruction. With this gift, supplemented here in Japan, we have rebuilt our East Tokio Social Centre and three churches. Of these churches the largest is the Central Tabernacle shown in the accompanying photograph. Last Sunday we celebrated the first anniversary of the opening of the new building (construction having been delayed owing to the widening of the streets). This building, said to be one of the finest church buildings in the Far East, replaces one opened over 40 years ago by Dr. Eby, one of the earliest Canadian missionaries. It stands almost opposite one of the gates of the Imperial University and is designed to minister to the teeming student population that surrounds it. Tokio is one of the greatest student centre of the world with 80,000 men in some 50 universities and colleges and 20,000 men on the waiting list, and with 30,000 women in 22 colleges including medical schools. The Central Tabernacle has touched and influenced larger numbers of students, during its 40 years of service, many of whom have later become prominent in social work, in political life and in diplomatic circles. The late Dr. Noguchi, who, investigating the sources of yellow fever germs in North Africa, three years ago gave his life for the advancement of science, was a member of this church when a student.

The Sunday services are designed to attract the students and in addition each term a lecture course is put on, including prominent men both Japanese and foreign. Our own Canadian Minister to Japan, Hon. Mr. Marler, is to give a lecture here on December 6th.

The services on Sunday last commemorated at once the re-opening of the building and the death of Mr. Armstrong who, missionary co-pastor for ten years, died only ten hours before the dedication of the building, as will be recalled by many friends throughout the United Church. Many loving references were made to Dr. Armstrong, who in a very real sense had given his life for the work here.

ARSENAL WILL MEET STAMFORD SATURDAY NEXT

League Soccer Will Vie With Cup Competition as Fan Attraction.

ASTON VILLA-PORTSMOUTH.

Tottenham Hotspurs and Port Vale Feature Match in Second Division.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 27.—(C. P. Cable).—While the first round proper of the English football cup competition will claim a great deal of the interest of soccer fans in England on Saturday league football will have to commend it. In the first division several important matches are scheduled notably the meeting between Aston Villa and Portsmouth. The southern club has got into one of the second positions in the championship table, but as the match is at Birmingham they will have to show all their class to win. Aston Villa started the season in fine form, but have not done so well lately. Arsenal, the league leaders just now, will go to Stamford Bridge, where they meet their fellow-townsmen, Chelsea in a match which will attract an enormous crowd. Sheffield Wednesday also in second place in the table, look to have an easy task as their opponents are Blackpool, hardly their match, at Sheffield.

In the second division, Everton, pacesetters, go to Bradford and may lose points. The match of this division to attract most attention will be the meeting between Tottingham Hotspurs and Port Vale at White Hart Lane. Both are capable of fine football though the 'Spurs have disappointed their supporters a number of times this season. Port Vale are back in the second division after a season in the third division and have given fine value on a number of occasions.

As the third division clubs are engaged in cup ties no league matches are scheduled for them on Saturday.

Will You Need an Income of $100 a Month?

Some one has said that the sweetest words in the English language are "Enclosed please find cheque."

How would you like to have $100 a month mailed to you regularly after you reach age 50, 55, 60 or 65, whichever you select? You would like to have it now, perhaps, and if you have the capital sum needed to buy such an income the Canada Life will guarantee it to you at once. But if you haven't the capital, you can arrange now that you will have that income later on.

Suppose you are earning $100 a month—it may be $150, $200 or more. Whatever it is there is a part of that income you want continued.

If you were not here how much would continue? That is, how much of your income would go on, no matter if you earned a salary or drew pay or not? For many people the answer would have to be: "Not very much!"

It takes $20,000 capital well invested to bring in $100 a month. Under the Canada Life plan you do not need to save $20,000 in order to make sure of an income of $100 a month.

The Canada Life with $175,000,000 of well invested assets will guarantee to continue that part of your income you must have later on for living expenses, say $100 a month. And the Canada Life may have to start the income going at any time to you or your family. There are no years of waiting if the need should come suddenly. That is should you become totally disabled or should you die. See what happened in the following cases:—

He was thirty years of age and everything was going well until he got tuberculosis. Then he lost his earnings, but his Canada Life Policy paid him $100 a month. Four years later he returned to work and said: "That income saved my life, gave me new courage, enabled me to pay my way; a blessing, indeed."

An old man came into our office. He was alone in life—home family all gone; unable even to pay his board bill. He had but one asset left, a Canada Life policy, taken years before in order to protect his family, he said. He was astonished to find that the cash value and profits were large enough to buy him $100 a month annuity for life.

Another man bought a policy which guaranteed to pay him $100 a month when he reached age 65, but he died at age 30. His widow has been drawing the $100 a month for years, and she says it seems as though he brings it to her each month.

We have hundreds of similar cases we could mention. There is but one sure way. How you can provide a similar income is told in our booklet, "Getting the Income You Want." Why not send for it now?

THIS COUPON WILL BRING YOU VALUABLE INFORMATION

NEW CANADIAN POET CARRIES ON BLISS CARMAN'S IMMORTAL WORK

Alfred Goldsworthy Bailey, Lyric Poet From Maritimes, Does Splendid Work.

FIRST BOOK IS "TAO."

(Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930)

HALIFAX, Nov. 27.—The Maritimes have given Canada another poet. For with the publication of "Tao," poetry chap-book just issued by the Ryerson Press, Toronto, the youthful author, Alfred Goldsworth Bailey, M.A., has proved himself a singer of true lyric power.

Though Bailey has the University of Toronto M.A. degree in Canadian history, and although he is now in the School of Graduate Studies of the university studying for the doctorate degree—in Canadian Anthopology, and even though he was born the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Bailey of Quebec City, he is never the less a true son of the provinces where men "go down to the sea in ships." He is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, with which university his grandfather, the late Professor Loring Woart Bailey, F.R.S.C., was associated for sixty years.

His great grandfather, moreover, Joseph Marshall, Baron d'Avray, Chevalier de St. Louis, was formerly superintendent of education for the Province of New Brunswick.

Poetry is part of the family tradition of this young sinter. Through Professor Loring Bailey, he is a collateral relative of both Walt Whitman and Ralph Waldo Emerson. A cousin, Miss Margaret Emerson Bailey of New Canaan, Conn., is a frequent contributor of both verse and prose to American periodicals. Her brother, Whitman Bailey is the artist-illustrator of Bliss Carman's posthumous volume, "Sanctuary."

Bailey has in publishing "Tao," disregarded the joking advice of Bliss Carman, by whom he was warned that poetry was an "unprofitable profession." In "Tao", indeed, there is many an echo of the lyric quality that was Carman. As Bailey writes in "Fredericton Revisited."

"Give me the avenue, the elm-haunted and dim:
That quiet time that neither sleeps nor wakes.

Bailey spent some months pounding a "beat" as a reporter with the Toronto Mail and Empire. This newspaper experience has added a certain fibre to the lyric quality that was already evident in his first volume "Songs of the Saguenay", published when an undergraduate. The closing lines of the sonnet "Belle Isle," are pregnant with lyric power

". . . the blue berg' southward drifting file,
As when the Norse gods with their sails unfurl'd
Came crowding down the sea-lanes, mile on mile,

The study of Oriental history and literature has produced both the title-poem "Tao," and "Mogodore." Tao is the Chinese spirit of the universe. In its twelve lines, Bailey gives the history of religion in China from "The River god cries far," to the "junk-sails", which "Sail through the past, nor heed the strife to be, Scrolled on the Teacher's fan."

Bailey feels that Canadian poets owe a duty to the Dominion. They should interpret Canadian life that the magic of its glamour and beauty should be evident to lay eyes. He has voyaged to "fare Cathay" in his Oriental studies, but the sonnet "Quebec" gives flashing picture from Canada's storied past when "The gray fort, cherished prize of warring powers,"

"Heard cannons roar, saw sabres gleaming bright Beneath the standard of the three gold flowers."

Injuries To Players Cut Canucks' Power

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.— The Flying Frenchmen's power has been cut through injuries, two members of the squad who arrived home yesterday for hospital treatment reported.

Armand Mondou and Wildore Larochelle of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League were to be admitted yesterday to the Medical Arts Hospital, the former suffering from a damaged knee and the latter from a bruised arm and shoulder.

They brought word from Detroit that Howie Morenz and Pete Lepine, centre men, have severely strained backs, and Johnny Gagnon is nursing a sprained hand.

None of the three men was expected to see much action in Thursday's game at Detroit against the Falcons, it was stated.

Canadiens received their injuries in three rugged games, against Montreal here, and at Boston and Chicago. They won the local game, but lost the two road efforts.

COLLISION VICTIM DIES.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 27.—(C.P.).—Leslie Whitham, 24, died in the General Hospital to-day from injuries received Saturday night when the car he was driving collided with a street car near Memorial Park. Beyond four broken ribs, he was not considered seriously hurt, but internal injuries developed. He had been residing in Buffalo for nearly two years, and was on a week-end visit to his home when the collision occurred. An inquest will be held.

MUSIC PUPILS GIVE RECITAL

Pleasing Musical Program Presented Under Direction of Roy Rome.

ASSISTING ARTIST.

An interesting recital by the violin pupils of Roy Rome was held in the Community Hall of Ashburnham on Tuesday evening, with an assisting vocalist in Ronald Fortune, lyric tenor, who has sung over the air from CNRO, Ottawa, CKAC, Montreal, and CPRY, Toronto. Over two hundred people were in attendance.

The program was varied and interesting and Mr. Rome's pupils acquitted themselves admirably, showing a high degree of training and much interest in their own work. Their expression and interpretation was very good, their tone shading fine, and they played with free bowing and expert fingering that added much to the finish of their work. Applause was sincere and hearty for each number.

Mr. Fortune sang with much expression, in a wide range that demonstrated the ability of this sweet singer, whose clear, fine tenor was heard to splendid advantage in several numbers that included Easthope Martins "Fairings"; Lohr's "Where My Caravan Has Rested," the latter having a violin obligato played by Mr. Rome; the "Kashmiri" Song, by Amy Woodforde-Finden, which received much applause from the audience, and Walt's "Lassie o' Mine," with violin obligato.

A variation in the string program was the piano playing of Irene Houghton, who manifested fine technical ability and tone in her rendition of Dellafield's "Tarantella."

Many of the musicians were of very tender years, little Ruth Fisher, who made a hit with her playing of Beethoven's "Minuett," being only ten years old.

Another quintette of youthful musicians were heartily applauded for the "Morning Prayer" by Tschaikowsky, with Irene Houghton at the piano. The violinists were Alice Kay, Ruth Fisher, Dorothy Cunningham, and Frank Frost. Two of these juniors, Frank Frost and Dorothy Cunningham, also played in duet Krogmann's "Robin's Lullaby."

Ensemble Encored.

A very interesting and well-played contribution to the program was an ensemble that gave Kuenzel's "Valse la Belle," with second violin arrangement by Roy Rome. This was finely rendered and received an encore that brought a repetition of the number. The strings included Vera Downes, Kenneth Gadd, Burt McFadden, Herb. Lee, Ray Parnell, Bruce Rollins, Arthur Copson, Jack Skitch, and Frank Frost. Cecil Searles played 'cello with the group, Roy Rome the viola, and Miss Marguerite Rome the piano. Later, they appeared again to play "Poet's Dream" by Walter Rolfe.

The solo numbers included "Passe Pied," played by Frank Frost; "Blue Bells of Scotland," by Dorothy Cunningham, a youthful player who has studied only a short time, and who was, with Frank Frost, one of the silver medal winners at the recent Kiwanis competitions in music; "Serenata" by Arthur Copson, "Cradle Song" by Robert Huffman, "Angel's Serenade" by Alice Kay, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" by Jack Skitch, "Spring Song" by Burt McFadden, "The Swan" by Ray Parnell, and "Meditation" by Kenneth Gadd, who won the open violin contest at the same competitions.

Miss Marguerite Rome acted as accompanist.

COCHET HOLDS LIST; TILDEN IS SECOND

British Expert Names "Ten Best"—Helen Moody leads Women.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—"Big Bill" Tilden, although beaten by Johnny Doeg in the United States championship, is rated second only to Henri Cochet of France, this year by A. Wallis Myers, British tennis expert, who annually names the "world's first ten players." Myers's selections for 1930 are published in the current issue of American Lawn Tennis.

The men's list contains the names of five United States players, and the women's three, with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody again in No. 1 position. Doeg is ranked fourth, behind Cochen, Tilden and Jean Borotra.

Newcomers to the men's first ten this year are Frank Shields, finalist against Doeg for the United States' title; Wilmer Allison, finalist against Tilden at Wimbledon and conqueror of Cochet in an earlier round, and Christian Boussus, young French southpaw. Missing from the 1929 list are Lacoste, woh played no competitive tennis; Frank Hunter and John Van Ryn.

Men—1, Henri Cochet, France; 2, W. T. Tilden, United States; 3, Jean Borotra, France; 4, J. H. Doeg, United States; 5, Frank Shields, United States; 6, Wilmer Allison, United States; 7, G. M. Lott, United States; 8, H. L. De Morpurgo, Italy; 9, Christian Boussus, France; 10, H. W. Austin, England.

Women — 1, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, United States; 2, Fri. Cecile Aussem, Germany; 3, Mrs. Holcroft Watson, England; 4, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, United States; 5, Mme. Renee Mathieu, France; 6, Miss Helen Jacobs, United States; 7, Miss Phyllis Mudford, England; 8, Senorita Elia de Alvarez, Spain; 9, Miss Betty Nuthall, England; 10, Frl. H. Krahwinkel, Germany.

DARROW AND BRICKNER DEBATE WHETHER OR NOT MAN A MACHINE

Thousands Hear Bitter Battle of Famous Intellectuals on Immortality.

IMPRESSIVE SCENE.

Special to Examiner (Copyright 1930)

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—It is long since Canada has heard and seen what 3,000 Torontonians have just heard in Toronto.

The scene and setting were unique and uniquely significant. Despite hard times, despite conflicting attractions, despite all our talk of current indifference to religion and incapacity for serious thought—despite all these, 3,000 of our citizens traded their hard-earned money for a chance to see Clarence Darrow and Rabbi Brickner face each other on a public platform and to hear those two debate a question linked with man's mortal or immortal soul, related to his final destiny and all beyond it, if indeed there be anything beyond at all.

All of which goes to prove that the highest concern, the most fascinating topic for human life, is human life and destiny itself. And, further, to prove this: that for a man to stand before his fellow men and to speak to them, casting up a highway of those mystic things called "words" and along that highway marching forth in high crusade upon the emotions, the consciences, the wills, of his fellow-dwellers in this unintelligible world—this, above all else, is one of the sublimest spectacles on which human eyes can rest.

Mr. Justice Riddell, platformist in chief of the whole Canadian bench introduced the two debaters, Mr. Clarence Darrow and Rev. Rabbi Brickner.

Darrow for Materialism.

Mr. Clarence Darrow struck for materialism from the start. Apology, compromise, concession there was none. His argument, in the main, was that man was the product of a relentless evolution—that there was no hiatus for the divine increment, that no "soul" was his other than such as his fellow-animals possessed, that the word "will" has no meaning to intelligent men. The doctors, exploring and a "gizzard", he contended with unnecessary frivolity and anatomoical inaccuracy, but 'why do they not come on a will?" a thrust whose applause that followed, was quickly detected by his audience.

Which audience, let it be here interpolated, was a very remarkable and inspiring one. So largely Jewish in its make, up as it was, it was an audience that almost thrilled one with the superiority, in appearance and in mental alertness and reflectiveness, of the Jewish mind. And it should go far to dispel the so prevalent misconception of the calibre of our Jewish brethren to reflect that the finest triumph of years, by way of making a high success of an adventure in pure intellect publicly exploited, must stand to the credit of a race whose sons and daughters we are at last coming to recognize as quite our equals in the things of the mind and the spirit.

From time to time there flashed, from face and voice and form, tokens of Mr. Darrow's undoubted power. "The fear of the Lord," he cried, "is not the beginning of wisdom—it is the end of it. When fear begins, reverent questioning ends. And questioning, the voicing of reverent curiosity—this is the beginning of wisdom. Of fear of God have been born prayers, and incantations, and pathetic mystic and unmeaning rites. Of this, too, is born the frantic belief in miracles—things now happily relegated to the limbo of the past."

Rabbi Brickner, still of fragrant and vidiv memory to Torontonians, came next. A fine figure of a man, of the finest if but elongated, with the shining eyes of the orator, powerful voice that takes the bit in its teeth far too often; with mind keen and penetrating, but every now and then developing wings which have no part in debates; capable of fine phrases, such as 'fine is flame and mind is thought" and of other phrases, home-spun and far less fine, such as "the dry-cleaning process called hell"; full-armed with "electrons, protons, molecules, cells," and as familiar with the names of great scientists as with the ten commandments.

Not an Orthodox Debate.

And yet, whatever Rabbi Brickner be—and he is much—he is not a debator. Delicacy should have forbidden his initial greeting, as he began his speech, to his great adversary as "Machine Darrow." And about half of his oration, contrary to all etiquette of debate, was addressed to his antagonist. It was "You ,Mr. Darrow, this" and "You, Mr. Darrow, said that." And the declaration that "The thing is preposterous" is not convincing. Nor can "if God is only a cosmic bell-hop and all I have to do is to push a bell and wait for Him to respond" much of an aid to reverent conviction in a debate concerning the first and last of Mysteries. And to ring the changes for at least three minutes upon what he might do "if I wanted to get drunk?" (who forged the wretched union of these two last words, anyhow?) with the "get drunk" reverberating over and over with the solemn boom of a minute-gun—all of this grated a little upon ears that were set to hear the periods of a real orator, such as Rabbi Brickner, is, even if he has yet to learn that clenched fists so freely brandished over the heads of an inoffensive audience don't help a debater much in getting his ideas into them.

Yet it is probably quite within the mark to say that, beyond any other speaker, Rabbi Brickner had the audience in his custody. It was highly interesting to study the faces of his audience—my seat gave me full view of all the throng—as the Rabbi flung out his challenges to the arch-materialist from Chicago. His demand—if he was to be convinced that Man is a Machine—that Mr. Darrow should produce for his inspection a machine that should be conscious of itself, should be able to start and move of its own volition, should be able to think and feel and reflect and resolve and act of its own initiative, should maintain and adjust conscious relations to other machines, should have the power to determine on certain courses, but also to revise and improve and modify them—should, above all and a fitting climax, be capable of correcting and mending itself—this, I say, was a passage of real power and of debating stuff.

While, throughout the entire contest, there was but little grappling at close quarters, yet we did see both of these giants, once or twice at least, locked in conflict in the very centre of the ring. That is to say, above and about the eternally vital question. ,Mr. Darrow's dominant contention was that man had steadily evolved. That this had brought increment of power, a franchise plus, he was free to admit. He even made the statement (fatal to his general contention of non-endowment of "will")that man at length came to be a "super-animal."

Which concession Rabbi Brickner was not slow to detect. And he pressed it to his full advantage. It was clear, of course, that the vital point is this: "How far would this 'super' business go?" If it had already ,as admitted, gone far enough to endow the one-time animal (man) with certain obvious powers and faculties beyond those of his old-time equals, who can deny that the progressive and enriching process may go on till the one Great Power—the essentially God-like franchise, that of will—shall be also his? Once concede the "super-uess" and all else is possible.

These were in the form of two interrogatives. One was: "Where did the original cell come from?" And the other was the unanswerable cry: "If as you admit, the progress of man has been upward, who or what can, or will, arrest that progress till it arm and endow him with the panoply of the One in Whose image he is fashioned?"

And, although no vote was taken and no majority opinion sought or found a voice; although differing currents of thought and feeling drifted across the sea of faces; yet, and with a confidence based in much not easy to ddefine, I still felt, as I looked out upon the wistful faces of my mysterious fellow-pilgrims through this mysterious vale, that a spiritual assessment of heart and mind of the multitude might best be voiced in that sublime outcry from the passionate heart of the Great Apostle: "The earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God!"

AIR MAIL STAMP OF BOYD'S FLIGHT

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., Nov. 27.—Souvenirs of the tran-Atlantic flight accomplished by Captain Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry Connor have arrived here in the form of covers and stamps used with mail carried from Harbor Grace to Croydon, England, by the monoplane Columbia. Most of the letters carried a specially surcharged stamp bearing the following inscription: Trans-Atlantic Air Mail by B. M. "Columbia" September 1930 Fifty Cents. In some cases no dating stamp was used at the office of delivery, but covers properly stamped are valuable to collectors. As much as $1252 is being offered for each unused stamp. Few were issued and they will probably command a higher price.

BOYS' PARLIAMENT TO SEND DELEGATES

Polling Stations at Trinity and Mark Street Churches and Y.M.C.A.

More than 500 teen age boys in the city will go to the polling booths this Saturday to elect their representatives to the Tenth Boys' Parliament, which will assemble in Toronto during the last week of the year. There will be three booths open, located at Trinity and Mark Street Churches and the Y.M.C.A. The church pollings stations will be open from 1 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon and the "Y" station from 9 in the morning until 6 p.m.

Creswell Sproat is proving an efficient Returning Officer and his poll clerks all lined up and ready for business on Saturday.

The two candidates, John Hunter, present member, and A. Rutter, addressed a meeting of the Employed Boys' Brotherhood at the "Y" last evening.

PRESENTATION MADE WARKWORTH GIRL

Friends Honor Miss Clara Gow at Pleasant Social Evening.

Warkworth, Nov. 27. (Examiner Correspondence.)—About forty-five friends visited the home of Miss Clara Gow, on Friday evening, to express their appreciation before her departure from the old home, to live with her sister, Mrs. George McCubbin, and during thecourse of the evening, a bible and a club bag were presented to Miss Gow.

Henry Waters, a neighbor, acted as master of ceremonies, and Rev. G. R. Duncan, read the address.

The evening was brought to a happy end by singing Ault Lang Syne.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation. Prevents Indigestion, Sour Gassy Stomach.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, soda, and various digestive aids, and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometime not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without fear of indigestion.

CLOTHING NEEDED IN NORTH COUNTRY

Appeal Read at Regular Meeting of Belmont's Women's Institute.

BELMONT, Nov. 27. (Examiner Correspondent.)—The regular monthly meeting of Belmont Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Seabrooke, on the afternoon of November 20th, when there was almost a full attendance of the membership.

The Institute received a letter notifying them that bales of clothing would be acceptable for the sufferers in the north, the donations to be made to local committees on relief, and through them forwarded to distributing points named.

On motion the secretary was instructed to pay twieve dollars to Jason Rae for work and materials in putting protectors around the Memorial Trees at the Township Hall.

On motion it was decided to apply for a short course in Home Nursing and First Aid, early in the New Year, or as soon thereafter as possible.

The case of a little girl who had suffered injuries in an accident recently, came up for discussion, and it was decided to send something from the Institute to the little sufferer.

A paper on Sociability of Yesterday and To-day, was given by Mrs. George Smith. This was followed by a humorous reading by Mrs. Geo. Hartin, the title of which was "The Thanksgiving Turkey". The last item on the program, a demonstration of weaving crepe paper rope, was given by Mrs. Smith. This was followed by a social hour, when a splendid lunch was served by the hostesses of the day, Mesdames Seabrooke, W. Anderson, and Miss Hattie Sexsmith.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ira Outwater onthe third Wednesday of December.

FORMER ONTARIO MINISTER AGED 70 DIES AT HIS HOME

HAZELDEAL, Ont., Nov. 27.—(By The Canadian Press).—R. H. Grant, former Minister of Education for Ontario, died at his home here yesterday, aged 70. Mr. Grant was for many years a prominent Conservative in Carleton County but later affiliated himself with the farmer movement. His election in the strong Conservative riding as a "people's party" candidate was one of the greatest upsets in the 1919 provincial elections. When E. C. Drury formed his government, Mr. Grant was named Minister of Education which position he continued to occupy until the administration was defeated.

Peterborough Juniors Eliminated in S. P. A. Series

Stratford Winners 4 To 2

Lack of Skating and Condition Handicaps Play of Local Entry.

DOXSEE STARS IN GOAL.

Scollard is Successful Marksman, With Wood and Begley Assisting.

Stratford night [illegible] second entry into the Ontario S.P.A. series when the Peterborough Hockey Club squad of juniors succumbed to the short end of a 4-2 score at the Stratford Model.

Coach Joe Davis pumped three-quarters of the way through the game and for many of the fans it was their first scramble on the ice since a warm sun melted the snow last March. They showed the lack of skating and conditioning almost from the start of the game and their play, as can be expected was absent of all style. But at that they had a punch to their attack and a tenacity about their defence which somewhat overcame their lack of polish and smoothness.

Opposed to them were the Stratford boys with more than a half dozen workouts under their belts. Stratford had the legs, condition and size on the Petes, outspeeding them at all stages and at times their attacks were carried in with smooth combination play that smacked of mid-season form.

Stars in Goal.

Doxsee, the Petes goalie was by long odds the stand-out of the tussle. To him goes the credit for the small margin secured by Stratford. His work was sensational and brought cheers from the fans who clustered in small groups in the arena. Again and again Stratford swept in on top of his nets only to have him coolly skate out and save. Doxsee received a nasty cut under his left eye in one of the early melees in front of his citadel, but it failed to interfere with his work.

The Petes were the first to score. The setto had been hammering along for ten minutes, with Stratford forcing the pace, when the blue and white sub front line combined for the prettiest goal of the whole entertainment. Hadlock grabbed the rubber on its bounce off Doxsee's pads following a Stratford sortie and sallied up the ice. At the defense he passed to Art Wood who in turn flopped the puck over to Scollard, who plunged the twine behind Pinke.

Spurred on Stratford began hitting an even faster stride and the Petes were finding it difficult to hold them. Doxsee being forced often into swift action to prevent the attackers from shaking the hemp. Bremaman, who was responsible for three of Stratford's goals, took a pass from Vrooman to score near the end of the period.

Referee Ernie Parkes had just tossed the teams the disc to start the second stanza when Brenaman grabbed it and wafted a shot from centre ice at the Petes' nets. It sailed straight as a bullet and lodged behind Doxsee, who was not really set for the re-opening of hostilities.

The Petes were back-checking hard and endeavoring to speed up their attacks but Stratford continued to command the play. Bremaman took another pass from Vrooman and beat Doxsee, after seven minutes of play. The goalie had been doing tremendous work in the nets and didn't have a chance on the combination effort.

Petes Score Again.

Two minutes later the Petes fought their way back into the game when Begley shot from outside and Scollard slipped through to successfully knock the rebound into the nets.

Epps went down centre ice in high gear and drilled a hard shot at Pinke, but the goalie saved. At the other end Doxsee was having his hands full in defending against determined two and three-men combination efforts.

The Petes were a tired bunch of players when the third period swung around and Stratford had everything much their own way except when it came to scoring on Doxsee. McCulley did get one past him after the period was four minutes' old on a shot from centre ice.

Don Wood and Epps were the speediest players on the Petes' team and both should go great guns after more work. Others to shine for the losers were Scollard, with both goals to his credit; Tuck Jones, Art Wood and Hadlock.

Bremaman was the best man on the ice, but flanking him were two speedy playmakers in Shaw and Vrooman. McCulley, a husky redhead on Stratford's defence, showed great marksmanship with his long-range gunning. Stratford may not go far in the S.P.A., but will have learned more stick-handling by the time the O.H.A. rolls along and will be heard from then.

The Teams

Stratford Goal, Pinke; defence, McCulley and Faint; centre, Vrooman; wings, Bremaman and Shaw; subs, Dent, Heath, Davidson, Porterfield and Neilson.

Peterborough Hockey Club—Goal, Doxsee; defence, D. Wood and McCollough; centre, Epps; wings, Tuck and Jones; subs, Archambault, A. Wood, Begley, Scollard, White, Clark and Hadlock.

Referee, Ernie Parkes.

ARGOS OUTPLAY PENETANG 36-0

SUPERIOR TEAM.

TORONTO, Nov. 27. — Argonaut Juniors and Hamilton Collegiate Grads will meet in the O.R.F.U. final on Saturday, as a result of games played yesterday. Argonauts qualified by beating Penetang at Varsity Stadium in easy fashion by 36 to 0, the Northern district champions being outplayed from start to finish.

The Double Blue team had more weight, more speed and more experience than the lads from the Georgian Bay country. Argos rolled up 17 points in the first period, increasing their total to 24 at half time, and with most of their subs in action during the final half, added a further 12 points. Penetang fumbles paved the way for four of the Argonauts' touchdowns. The visitors were also guilty of bad fumbles in plays from scrimmage and lacked the systematic attack that Argonauts displayed. The Scullers completed several forward passes for large gains, while the extension runs of Bell, Taylor, Chalkey and other Double Blue players, were always good ground gainers. Penetang tried several forward passes, but failed to complete any of them, Argonauts usually recovering.

Despite the one-sidedness of the score, the visiting players fought hard against a superior team and never seemed to lose heart, even though they were outclassed. Their greatest scoring chance came in the third period, when they forced Argonauts on the defensive by successive gains on line plunging and Argonaut penalties. They carried the ball to the Oarsmen's five yard line, but lost possession when they failed to buck it across on three successive attempts. They were in position to kick singles on two or three occasions, and could have averted a shut-out had they not been intent on major scores, their only hope, considering Argonauts' big lead.

MAPLE LEAFS AND AMERICANS IN ACTION

TIGERS SHOULD FIND PICKING EASY AGAINST BALMY BEACH

Will Be Great Battle Between "Dave" Sprague and "Teddy" Reeves.

WHAT OF THE WEST.

By JOHN W. STEWART
(Special to The Examiner, Copyright 1930)

TORONTO, Nov. 27. — Taking a rough guess, there are more than a hundred thousand rugby fans across this fair Dominion pulling for Balmy Beach to twist the tail off the mighty Tiger football machine of Hamilton Saturday in the Eastern Canada C.R.U. final.

Not that anyone begrudges Hamilton's exalted position on the Canadian Rugby firmanent, but merely because they believe that the Roughriders from Regina, the Western champions, will stand a better chance against Balmy Beach than against Tigers.

In spite of all this optimism, however, there are few who expect the Jungle Kings to be upset. For a number of reasons.

First, because they are a team of long experience. Second, they have at the helm one, Mike Rodden, peer of coaches. Third, because Balmy Beach haven't played a tough game all year.

That last reason is unfortunate. The Canoeists haven't played a game for three weeks, while Tigers have played every week since the season opened, and had seven games in the West before that. Now, while the Hamilton team is about stale and ready to crack through injuries, the Balmy Beach boys are not in perfect condition by any means.

Where the Tigers-Queen's game was a battle of coaches, this game will be a battle of line plungers in which "Teddy" Reeves and Dave Sprague will match their wares.

This looks like the standout of the game. Both these men are built along the same lines, tall and powerful. Both have been known to carry two or three men on their backs for yards. And no one can say that one is more aggressive than the other. Incidentally, the coaches of both teams will probably assign two men to look after both these mighty line plungers.

As far as backfeld play is concerned, Tigers are much superior. Leadley, Wright and Langnay are all kickers, sure catches, and great runners, while Ab. Box, kicking half for the Beaches, is only just out of junior rugby.

So much for that game.

But What Of Dominion Final?

We have this to say. The Roughriders from Regina will give the Hamilton Tigers a far greater battle than they did in Regina early in the year. When they played that game and went down by 18-2, they were an inexperienced team. But they have played many hard games since then, and have improved tremendously, where Tigers, crippled by the loss of three of their best, and certainly not up to the form they showed in the West.

These Roughriders have a kicker—a southpaw at that—who will give "Beano" Wright something to worry about. And they have a line made up of veterans who know the game, and compare well with the Tigers' line in weight.

Of course, every year the West comes East, sport writers and fans always say "Watch the West—they've got a surprise." But it really looks as though the Westerners have the best chance ever, to administer the East their first defeat this season, and take the title back West.

What a great thing that would be for Canadian rugby in general, Regina in particular, and "Al" Ritchie, Roughriders' Coach most of all.

O.H.A. Bulletin

Entries in all O. H. A. series will close to-day with the Secretary, W. A. Hewitt, Daily Star Building. Positively no entries will be accepted after to-day and groupings will be arranged at a meeting of the executive on Friday night.

The Sportsmen's Patriotic Association will tender the members of the O.H.A. executive a supper at the King Edward Hotel after Friday night's meeting.

Referees, managers and coaches are asked to watch for the announcement of the date for the annual referee's meeting, which will be held some day next week.

HERD WINNERS IN OVERTIME

Losers Dispute Only Goal But Referee's Ruling Decides.

BY 1 TO 0 SCORE.

FORT ERIE, Ont., Nov. 27—In one of the hardest fought games which went into overtime, Buffalo defeated London here last night by a 1 to 0 score. The counter which decided the game was disputed by London and a new goal umpire was placed behind the nets. Battling furiously in the overtime, with the Tecumsehs playing four men against six, Holway and Reise being in the penalty box, Buffalo pressed hard. Holway came back, but the Bisons kept up the attack. Cain brought the puck up from centre and his shot went wide. Voss passed over and Cain drove the rubber past Stuart. The red light flashed and a long argument followed Referee Lehman allowed the goal. In the six minutes left to play London fought desperately to even the count, but could make no headway against the sterling Buffalo defense and the hard back-checking of the Yellow and Black forwards.

For Buffalo, Taugher was in superb form, and notched his fifth shut-out game of the season. On the forward line, Bogardis, Voss, Huard and Martin were stars.

For London, Stuart, in goal, was in excellent form, and turned aside many more shots than Taugher, while Grosvenor, Goldsworthy, Palangio and Reinikka played effective games.

REMAINS FOUND IN SHACK.

EARL GREY, Sask., Nov. 27 (C.P.)—Mystery surrounds the discovery of a sack containing the bones of a child and an adult male in a bluff about four miles north of here, and police are carrying on an extensive investigation.

Curiosity on the part of a farmer led to the discovery. He noticed the sack and stopped to examine it. He immediately informed the police at Strasbourg.

OTTAWA VICTORY WILL GIVE THEM CANADIAN LEAD

PLAY AT BOSTON.

Only Undefeated Team in N.H. L., the Hawks Will Invade Rangers' Territory.

TORONTO, Ont. Nov. 27. (CP)—Possibilities of changes in both groups of the National Hockey League hinge on the result of tonight's three games. In two of the matches Canadian teams invade American territory, while in the other the American section leaders, Chicago, clash with the Rangers in New York.

Ottawa's fast climbing Senators meet the National League champions in Boston in one of the International fixtures, while Montreal Canadiens match their noted speed against Detroit's fast skating flock of Falcons in the Motor City.

A victory for Ottawa over the Bruins to-night will catapult them into the Canadian group lead, one point ahead of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who are idle. Fresh from a triumph over New York Americans, the youthful Senator outfit may surprise the champions, who are still smarting from the ignominy of a double defeat within a week by Chicago.

Play at Boston

The game, originally scheduled to be played at Ottawa, was transferred as the turnstiles click more merrily at the Boston garden. The Bruins have won but two games in five starts this season, but are certain to give the Senators a stout argument in order to keep on the heels of the leading Hawks and second place Rangers.

Montreal's Flying Frenchmen, tied with their fellow citizens, the Maroons, for last place in their group, can jump into third place ahead of the Americans by winning against the Falcons, who are tied for third place in the United States section with Boston.

To date the habitants have not shown their top form, winning but two games out of four, and even at their best, the Stanley Cup holders would find the present Falcon aggregation difficult to vanquish. The Detroiters have beaten Rangers and Philadelphia, tied with Boston and lost to Ottawa, so that there appears little to choose between the teams.

Hawks at New York

Lester Patrick's blue sweatered Rangers will attempt to halt the winning streak of Chicago in New York. The teams met in the Windy City to open the season there and fought to a one-all draw. The Hawks are leading the American group by one point over the Rangers by reason of their two smashing victories over Boston, a team they appear to have had the Indian sign on ever since entering the league. Furthermore the Chicago team is the only one in either group boasting an undefeated record.

Last Minute Tally Gives Windsor Draw With League Champions.

HINSPERGER HURT.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 27.—Earl Robinson, Windsor centre, sent the puck into the net just 33 seconds before the end of the regular playing period to give his team a 4-4 overtime tie with the Cleveland champions of the International Hockey League here last night.

Robinson made three goals in the third period to give his team a tie, one of them presented on a foul.

The teams played ten minutes overtime, during which Cleveland was on the offensive most, but proved unable to put the disc through or around Goalkeeper Abbie Cox.

The Bulldogs, arriving minus their star goalkeeper, Clint Benedict, and losing Roy Hinsperger, star defenseman, from a knee injury in the first period, came from behind to gain their tie.

After the game it was announced at a hospital that Hinsperger had suffered a torn cartilage and possible fracture in his right knee and may be out for the season, as a result of tangling with Arti Clark of Cleveland as the latter came down the ice in the first period.

Springfield Wins Easily From Providence Reds

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Nov. 27.—The Rhode Island Reds, champions of the Canadian-American League, lost their first game of the season, 4 to 1 here last night, to the Springfield Indians. It was the first time this season these two teams have met and the Indians clearly earned their victory.

SARNIA LOSES TITLE ROUND BY SINGLE POINT

Thrilling Game in Motor City Decided in the Final Quarter.

GRUELLING CONTEST.

Hubbell and Rawden Give Great Exhibition of Punting in Second.

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 27. — What was undoubtedly the most thrilling and best played football game ever seen in this city, was that at the Motor City Stadium here yesterday afternoon, when the Oshawa General Motors Blue Devils battled and defeated the Sarnia Wanderers by a score of 9 to 7, and by so doing triumphed over a six point lead, which the Wanderers brought from the first game in Sarnia, and captured the O.R.F.U. Intermediate championship. This was the third year in succession that Oshawa have met the Sarnia Wanderers in the finals for the Ontario title, and it was the "rubber series," each team having won the title once before. Just as they did in their first year in football in 1928, the fighting Blue Devils overcame a large lead and did it in a manner which left the record crowd which was on hand, breathless with excitement and pleasure.

Because the entire proceeds were given to charity, a half holiday was declared, and more than 3,000 fans attended. Aided by a fair wind and cold weather, the locals launched an aerial attack, played for "breaks" and were rewarded. Scott Hubbell, captain, gave a brilliant booting display. One punt, which annexed Oshawa's third point, travelled almost seventy yards in the air. Hubbell kicked from his own forty-yard line and the ball hit just in front of Sarnia's goal line and then bounded to the deadline. It was a great kick, but was only the best of an afternoon of excellent booting.

Hubbell and Rowden Star

Besides scoring five of the nine points, all of which were scored on singles, Hubbell contributed a fifty-yard run, among others, to the day's play. "Doc" Rowden, his running mate, shared the limelight with him. Rowden scored the other four points, some on clever returns, and he was the best ground gainer the locals had. He had the Sarnia tacklers dizzy. They could not stop him, and he repeatedly ran back kicks half as far as they had been driven by McPhedran's boot. Sarnia's kicker also turned in a good game, but he was not in Hubbell's class.

BIG LEAGUERS HUSTLE TO TRIM THEIR SQUADS

Fear Double "A" Circuits Won't Concede to Demands Threw Scare.

PEDDLE SURPLUS.

Major Baseball Ultimatum Will Take Effect After December 1.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Major league club officials are hustling around these days, trying to peddle the surplus talent which does not flure in their 1931 plans. This reason for their hurry is that next week may be too late to do any peddling. Next Monday will be December 1, the date selected by the big leaguers in their famous ultimatum to the non-draft minors a few months ago.

"Unless you accept our plan of draft," read that ultimatum, "we will do no business with you after December 1."

They Got an Answer

The majors sat back to await the answer and it came more quickly than had been expected. It went something like this:

"That's O.K. with me. After Dec. 1 we will be prepared to go it alone."

The leagues involved are the International, the American Association and the Pacific Coast, of the Class AA group, the Western and the Three-Eye Leagues of the Class A division. These five organizations refused to become parties of the draft agreement signed in 1921 by the majors and minors.

There has been some weakening of late in the supposedly solid front which the Double A leagues had marshalled to fight the draft, but any one of the three can force a continuation of the non-draft working arrangement. They have agreed to keep up the fight until the time when all three might vote to accept the draft.

Meetings at Montreal early next week, before the conclave of the National Association, are expected to determine whether or not these five leagues will continue to reject the draft. The big league clubs are using their minor league farm teams to fight the independent owners and may be able to swing the vote in favor of the universal draft, as it is called.

To Scare Minors

The ultimatum was mainly a gesture to scare the minors, who are quite necessary to the business plans of the majors. Unless they can buy players from the top class minors, or send players back to the same leagues for development, the quality of big league baseball must suffer. The talent must pass through certain stages of development before being fit for the majors.

The big minor leagues would have difficulty in operating without the majors, and the majors would have as much trouble getting along if they should ignore these Class AA leagues. Each group is now attempting to kid the other that it can operate independently.

The Yankees yesterday reached out and pulled back three of the players who have been wearing Jersey City uniforms while remaining under the control of the New York club.

Pitcher Jack Hopkins, who has popped around from Albany to St. Paul and then to Jersey City, all three clubs in the Yankee development chain, is now listed as a New York player.

So is George Miner, former Syracuse University pitcher, who finished the 1929 season with Hazelton after being snared by the Yanks. He was advanced to Jersey City for 1930 and now he comes up, possibly for trial at St. Petersburg, and possibly for a deal.

Jules Wera, who has been with the Yanks, St. Paul, Jersey City and out on the Coast, was brought back for shipment to the San Francisco club in part payment for Frank Crossetti.

The deal was announced as a purchase by the Yankees. At the same time the Cardinals were announcing the sale of Andy High to Rochester. Checks will be passed as in all such deals.

NOTRE DAME IS FAVORED TO DEFEAT ARMY ELEVEN

Expected 125,000 Persons Will See 1930 Gridiron Classic at Soldier Field.

BETTING ODDS 5 TO 1.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.— The 125,000 spectators who will view the middle-west's 1930 gridiron classic between Notre Dame and Army at Soldier Field Saturday appear destined for a surprise.

Apparently Western fans regard Army as a "set-up" for Rockne's team and are interested in the game chiefly because it will be the final opportunity to see one of Notre Dame's greatest teams and because it is the first meeting of the Cadets and Irish on a Western gridiron.

Notre Dame is quoted as a five to one betting favorite, with its supporters offering as high as 20 points at even money. But Army's record shows nothing to justify these odds and the supposition that Notre Dame will have a romp against the Cadets is overly optimistic. The Army is undefeated over a nine-game schedule, with an early-season tie against Yale as the only mar to a perfect record.

Eastern experts rate the Cadets as the strongest organization in the seaboard region and believe Coach Ralph Sasse's team will give the Irish their hardest test of the season, not even excepting last week's 14 to 0 Donnybrook against Northwestern.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

The Ladies City League will crash the pins for the first time this season on Thursday night at seven oclock, when the six teams go into action. This league is reputed to be the premier ladies' league in the city, for both ability and sportsmanship and their success for another year is assured.

The teams and their captains are as follows: Metropolitan Stores, Mrs. Baldwin; Quaker Oats Co., Miss B. Pickering; Columbians, Mrs. B Coursey; De Laval Co., Miss T. Pearson; West Ends, Miss O. Rightmeyer; Nashua Paper Co., Miss L. Lockhart. Any other team of ladies who feel that they can keep pace with these heavy hitters will be accommodated if entry is made to V. Fitzgerald at the Duffus Alleys.

Four-Way Tangle.

The Manufacturers League has developed into a four-way tangle with the Merchants Press two points up on the Martin-Hewitt crew and the Sealrights and 4 points ahead of the Ontario Marble, who have a postponed game with the Boxmakers.

L. Jay of the Quakers came close to the league high single last night when he picked off 315 pins in the battle with the Brintons in which the Quakers won two games. The record for high single in this league is held by L. James with a score of 331.

Sealrights were hard put to take two games from the consistent Merchants Press team, who took the first game and lost the second by two pins. Hardill plunked the maple to make 222, 217 and 244 which was high three for the night.

Easy Victory.

The Martin-Hewett trundlers had a social time among themselves garnering four points when the Ontario Marble failed to appear. Hamblin knocked over 213, 204 and 259 for a nice triple of 676 while Gordon was close behind with singles of 246 and 248.

In Three-Corner Tie.

The four-point win by Vince Anthony's Bowlrites over the Brintons in the City League last week put the former in a three-corner tie with the Big Five and Rangers for first place. The Anthony crew has been hitting the high spots since the league started and if they can maintain their pace they should soon be secure in first place.

Gather Six Points

McCabe's team stampeded the invincible trundlers captained by Doc. Crough in this week's league tangle to gather in six out of eight points, a supposedly impossible feat. Prindible and J. McCabe were the heaviest hitters, securing triples of 726 and 684 respectively. F. Martin clipped off 364 pins in one game for the losers, to take high single for the night.

Dr.Crough 998 1099 1071—3168

The sharpshooting of Ranger, W. McGee and O'Connell, who each had three games over 200 resulted in a six point gain for Ranger's team over Meagher's crew who took the first game. Ray Bennett's clever work kept the latter team in the swim when he cracked a 744 triple.

Meagher . 1096 972 935—3002

Pin Boy wishes to extend to Fire Chief George Gimblett and his family the heartfelt sympathy of the entire bowling fraternity.

The league game between the Bachelors and Mail Carriers scheduled for Thursday night in the Mercantile Loop has been postponed.

Westclox League

Jake Beckerman and his high pressure pin scuttlers literally talked Tommy Cupoli and his team out of four points in this week's riot, and the effectiveness of the winners' hazing can be realized by the fact that Cupoli failed to reach the 200 mark in any one game. Kitchen, with a single of 318, was the standout.

Orval Martin's team drew a blank this week when they stacked up against the Wise gang who capitalized on their winning streak to the extent of four points.

Large Deputation To Visit Government

GUELPH, Nov. 27 (C.P.).—Arrangements are being completed in connection with the visit of what is expected to be one of the largest deputations ever to visit Toronto, which is to appear soon to urge relief from the burden of road taxes imposed by the Government on municipalities. Mayor Robson of Guelph, who is organizing the movement, has been advised by many of the municipalities interested that members of the Legislature will accompany their local representatives and act as spokesmen at the interview with the Government.

CANADIAN BEATS AMERICAN BOXER

Santora With Unbeaten Record This Season, Out-boxed By Stewart of Montreal.

WINS FINAL BY DEFAULT.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(CP)—Winning four of the five finals in which it had men entered and capturing nine of fifteen bouts in all, New York gained premier honor in the Inter-city Amateur Boxing Tournament at Madison Square Garden last night. Montreal and Cleveland each won one final.

It was not in a final bout but in one of the preliminary encounters that one of the biggest upsets of the tournament took place. Andy Santora, unattached, New York lightweight and hailed as a second Tony Canzoneri as a result of his impressive unbeaten record this season, met his master in Harold Stewart of Montreal. Stewart had one of the finest assortments of punches that has been seen in this city in years.

Beating the fast Santora to nearly every punch and hitting hard and accurately with both gloves, Stewart received a tremendous ovation from the crowd as he not only outpointed Santora but handed him a boxing lesson as well. His brilliant work completely over-shadowed the flashy local star and his triumph was a clean-cut one.

Although the spectators were anticipating a duel between Stewart and Frank Ferrante of New York in the 135-pound final, Ferrante withdrew to give the Canadian a triumph by default.

SETTLE PLAY-OFFS IN EASTERN LOOP

Reach Decision to Name Opponent For Western Canada Winners.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—Since the Canadian Rugby Union is sending a Montreal team to meet the Ontario Union winners on Saturday in a sudden-death game to determine which will enter the C. R. U. final against the Western Canada winner, some action had to be taken to boil down the O.R.F.U. series where both Argonauts of Toronto and Hamilton Grads are still in the running. At a special meeting it was deemed impossible to have Hamilton and Argos play off before Saturday since Argos eliminated Penetang only yesterday and to have a fit and ready team to face the Easteners.

It was decided by mutual agreement that the Montreal team, that defeated Varsity juniors last Saturday would play Hamilton in a sudden-death battle on the latters grounds on Saturday. Should Montreal win, the Ontario Union will automatically be out of the C. R. U. eliminations and Hamilton and Argos will play off for the O.R.F.U. honors at a later date. Should Hamilton beat Montreal, the Tigertown men will play Argos on a Toronto field next Wednesday for the right to continue in quest of the Dominion honors.

With 29 teams starting in the O.R.F.U. series this Fall and with every available date being used to play down the series, the Ontario Union had a considerable task on its hands. In the eastern division there are but five teams in the Quebec Union and three in the Intercollegiate. Hence their winner was declared in much less time.

COUNTY FINANCE COMMITTEE APPROVES GRANTS FOR BRIDGES

Two of Them Sanctioned at June Sessions of County Council.

Not In "Lame Duck" Class.

"Lame duck" bridge grants by the Roads and Bridges committee of the county council Wednesday morning were led out to the woodshed for a corrective session by the Finance Committee in the afternoon. As a group they were mildly and more or less formally deprecated, but finally they were indorsed by the Finance Committee of which Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield is chairman.

The phrase "lame duck" may be more or less aptly applied to grants made during the concluding session of the year, and for which funds have not been definitely provided and tagged.

Henry Coons, Reeve of Smith, denied that there was anything halt or limping about his request for $100 which the Roads and Bridges Committee had passed. Tom Cavanagh, reeve of Ennismore, disclaimed anything "lame" about his grant for $50. It was said that these had been approved last June, but deferred until November.

Adam Humphries, reeve of Asphodel, admitted that his grant for $50 belonged to the "lame duck" category, and was willing to forego it.

"I didn't think it would break the county", Mr. Humphries remarked.

"It would ruin us", Mr. Tanner jocularly replied.

Counsel By Clerk

A comment by County Clerk Elliott set the keynote for this phase of the committee's discussion.

Reeve Tanner had just presented his report as chairman of the committee, and Mr. Elliott explained that some of the items were only estimated because definite information was not yet available.

"School claims will be more than $10,000 from the city alone this year" the Clerk continued. "This morning grants were made by the Roads and Bridges committee, which mean that we will be adding that much to a deficit. To be strictly correct I think this committee should concur in the grants made by the Roads and Bridges Committee. Our estimates were made up last June, and money that we spend now will have to be met by the new Council. And they might demur against this action this morning."

Reeve McIntosh—I think grants at this session would be too late. I had a notion to object this morning, but everyone seemed to be grabbing for grants, and most of the members seemed in favor of them. It leaves the Treasurer in a rather awkward position.

Reeve Tedford, of Norwood, said that the grants had not been large and they should be paid as they had gone through committee.

Reeve McIntyre, Otonabee—I feel as Mr. Elliott has expressed it that no estimates have been passed to cover these grants, and it would be bad business for this council to leave a legacy of that kind for the next council.

Reeve Coons—What grants are being objected to? Smith's?

Mr. Tanner—It looks like it.

Approved In June

Mr. Coons—At the June sessions $300 was granted to Otonabee, Douro and Smith. Otonabee and Douro got their share, and when the committee viewed the bridge in Smith it was agreed that our $100 would be passed in December. So I don't class my claim with those new grants you are objecting to.

Mr. Cavanagh recalled to the committee that his grant was also brought up in June, but left in abeyance until this session. He believed that Mr. Humphries had also asked for his grant at that time.

"No", said the reeve of Asphodel, "mine was never mentioned. But as we had done a good job on our bridge I didn't think a grant of $50 would break the county. I am willing to have this grant withdrawn if it is going to be something we shouldn't start."

Mr. Coons declared himself as opposed to December session grants that were not previously sanctioned.

The Smith bridge has been built and in use several months. It cost $400.

County Clerk Elliott pointed out that if the council gave Smith $100, the government would contribute $120, and the township would pay $180.

On the other hand, without the county's grant, the government's 40% assistance would amount to $160, and the township would have to pay $240. The county council's grant would save Smith $60.

Reeve Clarke moved, seconded by Reeve V. Windsor of Chandos, that the three Roads and Bridges committee grants be approved. Carried.

Dartmouth Factory Destroyed By Fire

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 26. (CP)—Fire believed to be of incendiary origin last night destroyed the old factory of John P. Mott and Company, in Dartmouth. Until a few years ago well known brands of chocolate, cocoa and spices had been produced there, and practically all the machinery, idle since suspension of activities, was destroyed in the blaze. The loss was estimated to be in excess of $25,000.

Bedtime Story

HOW MR. WOLF MET HIS DEATH

Peter Rabbit was just putting on his best suit. It was the first time he had put it on; in fact his wife Maria Jane had just finished making it in time for Peter to wear it to the "Moonlight Rabbit Party", which was to be held at the base of Blue Mountain that night.

Peter was very excited, partly because of the suit and partly because of the party. He was hurrying very fast, for he was anxious to show his suit to the other rabbits. He was wondering if Maria would have his lunch prepared in time to take to the party. He turned to call her but lo and behold she was not to be seen. He walked to the gate, opened it and disappeared from the brier patch. He looked around. O! his heart nearly jumped out of his mouth, for there before his very eyes was Maria, struggling for all she was worth to free herself from Mr. Wolf.

She had gone to the cabbage patch and was on her way back, in fact she was about to open thue gate, when Mr. Wolf had captured her. She had dropped the cabbages and Mr. Wolf had carried her away from the gate.

Peter stood gazing, panic-stricken at the scene, when Maria called for help. Mr. Wolf caught a glimpse of Peter and therefore let go of Maria. Mr. Wolf then proceeded his attack on Peter. The Wolf rushed at him but Peter just stepped aside. Mr. Wolf ran into a sharp saw and knocked down a woodpile which fell upon him. He cried for help but no one offered him any.

He said: "If you help me I shall never, never touch you again." But Peter knew his cute, cunning tricks and only left him there to die.

Maria had gone inside the gate by this time and Peter followed her. They laughed and made merry so much that they forgot all about the "Rabbit Party."

—ROSELLA TAYLOR.

Roseneath

Rev. Arthur Barner, Supt. of the Indian Missions was a visitor and special speaker to the Indians of the Alderville Reserve on Sunday afternoon and evening.

In the morning the Rev. Mr. Barner took charge of the service in the United Church here. In the form of a memorial service, paying high tribute to the late Mrs. Paton, wife of the pastor, Rev. R. W. Paton. Taking excerpts from the scripture and basing his text from John 14, "Let not your heart be troubled" the speaker gave an earnest and thoughtful address which was decidedly impressive. This particular passage brings a comforting message to those who are loyal to God. Sorrow is the price of love, we sorrow because we love, we must look forward to meeting in eternity.

The Rev. Mr. Barner, in eloquent words of sympathy, referred to the blessed hope for all immortal existance which is heard in the words of the Redeemer, promising to His people a future abode in the many mansions prepared for them after this life of tribulations and suffering.

Three appropriate hymns were sung and that beautiful anthem, "Songs in the night" was sung by the choir.

During the service Lewis Roberts sang a solo very fitting for the occasion entitled "In the beautiful garden of prayer."

Lack of Quorum Results in Postponement of Meeting For Third Time.

AT HAVELOCK.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of the Havelock School Board which should have been held on Wednesday, November 20 resulted in the presence of only the chairman Evans, and trustees Crawford and Anderson. This was not a quorum so no business could be transacted. This is the third time in succession that no meeting has been held. The school grants for the current year have been received by the secretary, and are the same as in former years. It is understood that this will only continue if a change is made in the school accommodation in the next few months.

It being the last year of Mr. Lees' term of office as Inspector of Public Schools, he recommended the usual grants on the understanding that the pit closets now in the school grounds be kept in a sanitary condition, and that a new system be installed in the near future.

DENIAL OF DEPOSITIONS AGAINST FRENCH LEADERS

PARIS, Nov. 26—(C. P. Cable via Havas)—Depositions in an alleged "confession" by Professor Leonid Ramzin before a revolutionary tribunal in Moscow that Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, and Former President Poincare were co-plotters with him in an Anti-revolutionary move today were formally denied by both M. Briand and M. Poincare.

The French Ambassador at Moscow was reported to have registered an energetic protest against the allegations.

Congratulations to this month's BRIDES & GROOMS

We hope you will be very happy.

ONE DIVORCE SUIT DROPPED.

WELLAND, Ont., November 26 (C. P.). — Of three divorce actions under the new Act slated to be heard before Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey at the November non-jury sessions of the Supreme Court here this week, one has been settled out of court.

CYRIL COLSTON, Age 5—Before taking Virol.

Now passed FIT for the Army!

Age 5. After Virol

Age 19. Showing permanent effect of Virol.

TO-DAY!

IT is not so easy to be passed for the Army in peace time. Out of every five recruits in 1924, four were rejected as unfit—yet Cyril Colston, who at the age of 5 was in the extreme state of emaciation shown above, passed this severe medical examination, thanks to Virol. "Once a hopeless case," his life was saved by Virol, and his health and strength built up by taking Virol regularly during childhood and adolescence. Read medical evidence below.

VIROL builds up for LIFE

Extract from Doctor's Report, 3rd January, 1925.

". . . I am fully satisfied that Virol was the factor which enabled him as a child, not only to turn the-corner successfully in a very serious illness, but, in subsequent years of development (during which he never ceased to take Virol), enabled him to build up a healthy body and gave him reserves of power and energy. His parents describe the result as nothing less than a miracle."

Four Men Are Missing Left On Hunting Trip

DETROIT, Nov. 27.—(By the Canadia Press.)—Coast guardsmen and customs' border patrolmen from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie were searching to-day for four men who left here Nov. 11 on a 42 foot steel tug for a hunting trip to Drummond Island in Lake Huron.

They had expected to return last Friday. When no word had been received from them yesterday, relatives asked Col. Heinrich A. Pickert, Collector of Customs, to institute a search.

He notified border patrolmen and coast guardsmen on Lake St. Clair and Lake Huron to watch for them.

A coast guard patrol crew from the station at Sault Ste. Marie conducted a search as far as Detroit last night without sighting the tug and the search was continued to-day.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves or cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.

Demonstration Given To School Association

An interesting demonstration of artificial respiration, the bandaging of fractures, and the carrying of one or two people on a stretcher by St. Johns Ambulance Brigade, was a feature of the open meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association, held on Tuesday evening with the president, Mrs. S. H. Huffman, in the chair.

The secretary's report was received, also the treasurer's, the latter showing a satisfactory balance in the bank.

Vocal solos were given by the Misses Constance Lewis and Eleanor Brown, accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Ellis and Miss E. Webber, and Miss Brown also played a piano selection.

The banner was won this month by E. Wagar's room.

At the close of the business session, home-made candy was served by the refreshment committee.

Petitions To Release Imprisoned Sullivan

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 27 (C.P.).—Miss Gertrude Small, sister of Ambrose Small, missing theatrical magnate, has sent a petition to the Minister of Justice, asking for the release of Patrick Sullivan, editor of The Thunderer. Sullivan was sentenced to 16 months' imprisonment in connection with matter published in his paper, and has already served 10 months.

The petition was reported to bear thousands of signatures.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

For ten minutes after Tarzan's depature, Jane, Lady Greystoke, restlessly wandered about the luxurious living-room. Her mind was in anguish of hopes and fears. Her intuition told her that grave dangers were waiting now for both her husband and son. Perhaps the telephone message was but a trick to lure Tarzan into the hands of the implacable Rokoff.

The more she thought about it, the more convinced she was that Tarzan had been trapped. Summoning her maid and chauffeur, Lady Greystoke issued instructions rapidly. So it came that as Tarzan and his guide disappeared into the shadows upon the dark wharf, a heavily-veiled woman pushed bravely into the same vile den whose address she knew had been given to her husband.

Timidly she asked a girl some questions. A sailor, hearing the queries, said he had seen two men rowing toward a steamer. "Ten pounds if you will take me to it," cried Lady Greystoke. And thus Jane found herself upon the apparently deserted ship, vainly searching for her husband and child. One by one she opened cabin doors, only to find empty interiors. Nor did she note the sudden purring of the engines.

As she reached the last door upon the right, she was seized from within by a powerful, dark-visaged man drawn hastily into the stuffy, ill-smelling interior. "Well, this is luck!" grinned the man. The sudden shock of fright that this unexpected attack upon her, drew a single, piercing scream from her throat. Then the fellow clapped a dirty hand roughly over her mouth

SULLIVAN—FITZGERALD
At nine o'clock on Tuesday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, the wedding was solemnized of Ann Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzgerald, to Francis Michael, elder son of Mr and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Garvey.
The wedding music was played by J. J. Armstrong and Miss Minnie Allen sang during the progress of the Nuptial Mass.
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of torpedo blue silk chiffon velvet, with a black satin hat, and matching shoes and hose. She wore a necklack of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses.
The bridesmaid, Miss Mae Fitzgerald, sister of the bride, was in brown Lovat crepe with matching hat, shoes and hose, and bouquet of Premier roses.
Fergus Clancy acted as best man.
After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Later, Mr. Sullivan and his bride left on a trip to Toronto and points west, the bride travelling in a frock of green wool crepe and coat of Persian lamb.
On their return, they will reside in Otonabee.
The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a ring and to the best man a fountain pen.

OBITUARY

POT OF TAR IGNITES - THREE ARE DEAD

Family of Four Stabbed to Death

POLICE UNABLE TO ESTABLISH DEATH MOTIVE

Farmer and His Family Residing Near Stanfordville, N.J., Fiendishly Massacred.

ASSAILANT UNKNOWN.

Mother and Daughter Slain Inside House, Father and Son Near Wagon Shed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Nov. 28 (C.P.)—A family of four residing on a farm near Stanfordville, was found stabbed to death to-day. Police were without a clue to the assailant and unable to establish a motive for the murders.

The bodies of the farmer, his wife, daughter and son were found by an employee of a creamery who went to the farm to find why cream had not been delivered at the plant.

The Dead:

James Husted Germond, 47.
Mrs. Mabel Gregory Germond, 47.
Bernice, 18.
Raymond, 10.

The time of the slaying was fixed by authorities as being in the late afternoon or evening of Wednesday.

Each of the dead had been stabbed over the heart with a blade apparently an inch broad. The knife was not found. Authorities, reconstructing the scene, believed the assailant had rapped at the kitchen door of the farm house and stabbed Mrs. Germond as she opened the door. Mrs. Germond fell and the slayer apparently had stepped into the room, and, pursuing the daughter into a corner, stabbed her.

Leaving the house, police thought, the slayer encountered Germond and his son in front of the wagon house, killing them and dragging their bodies into that building.

Germond left the farm of his brother, nearby, with a truckload of feed about four p.m. Wednesday. The truck was found to-day near the wagon house, with the ignition turned off. It was believed Germond and his son had just driven into the yard when the slayer appeared from the house.

Milk Machine Running

The creamery worker who made the discovery found a milking machine still running when he entered the cow barn. He began a search for Germond and found the bodies of the farmer and his son. Calling aid from a neighbor, he entered the farm house and discovered Mrs. Germond and Bernice.

Police held a theory that the boy might have attempted to flee as the slayer approached him. The boy's legs were covered with burrs from a nearby field, indicating the possibility that he had attempted to escape through the field.

Friends of Germond said he had no known enemy. He was a member of a village church and of the Grange.

Goderich Man Dies In Ontario Blizzard

LONDON, Ont., November 28 (C.P.). — Presumably overcome while struggling through one of the worst November blizzards to hit the Lake Huron district in recent years, the frozen and unconscious form of Nick Allen, 50, a Goderich grocery clerk, was found half buried in a snowdrift on the outskirts of that town at eight o'clock this morning.

Allen's condition is described as serious this afternoon.

It may be necessary to amputate one or both of his limbs. They were severely frozen, doctors say.

RUSSIAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

GALT, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.).—The man killed by train here this morning has been identified as George Kilapats, a Russian, aged about 50, and a resident here for 20 years.

GO TO OSLO TO GET AWARD.

THE HAGUE, Holland, Nov. 28. — (C.P.). — Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Secretary of State, who yesterday was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1929, said to-day that he would go to Oslo to receive the award, but the date of his departure would depend entirely upon the volume of his work as a Judge of the World Court.

Hamilton Airman Reported Missing

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 28. — (C.P.). — Fears are felt for the safety of William Griffen, Hamilton airman. He left this city on Tuesday in an aeroplane made by himself for Cleveland, but so far there has been no report that he reached that city.

LINDSAY BANK FRAME FOILED

Two Strangers Fail in Attempt to Victimize Bank By Fraud.

POLICE CALLED.

(Special to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 28. — Two strangers who are said to have victimized a couple of banks in Ontario during the past few weeks visited Lindsay on Thursday, they entered a local bank and having a number of sales sheets in their possession attempted to secure a sum of money on the strength of the statement that they had a tidy bank deposit in the Logan avenue branch of the Bank of Montreal in Winnipeg. Their scheme did not work however. It appears that the different bank branches in Ontario had received descriptions of the two sharpers from head office together with instructions to be on the lookout for the pair. They were immediately recognized when they entered the bank. Chief of Police Lawlor was notified of the affair, but the men had left the bank hurriedly. They were next heard of at Oakwood where it is understood they made a call at the bank. They afterwards boarded the bus for Toronto. It was not until yesterday that a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of the two men.

QUEEN MARIE TO VISIT FRANCE.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 28 (C.P.). — Former Queen Marie plans to leave soon for a prolonged stay in the south of France. En route she will visit the King and Queen of Jugo-Slavia at Belgrade.

AGED WOMAN IS FACING JAIL TERM ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Ten Days Ago Grey-haired Grandmother Lost Her Home By Fire.

KEPT MOONSHINE LIQUOR.

Husband is at Point of Death—Fine of $500 or Reformatory Term is Set.

LONDON, Ont., November 28 (C.P.). — A grey-haired grandmother who ten days ago lost her home by fire, saw prison bars loom for her in County Police Court this morning when she pleaded guilty to having moonshine liquor in her Ekfrid Township home. Two married daughdaughters looked on while their mother, Mrs. Andrew McDermid was faced with the alternative of spending six months in the Reformatory or paying a $500 fine.

Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw, who imposed the rigid penalty set by law, listened to pleas that the woman's husband is near the point of death and gave Mrs. McDermid until December 12, two weeks away, to raise the amount that will keep her from the Mercer Reformatory.

The disastrous and sensational fire that destroyed Mrs. McDermid's house, five miles from Melbourne a few weeks ago, may after all prove her salvation, it was intimated. The house was insured and if the woman is paid off, this money will undoubtedly be used to meet the stiff fine imposed to-day, it was learned.

The McDermid farmhouse became front page material when two railroad men declared they had seen some person being cremated in the fire which razed the frame building to its foundations. They told of witnessing the fire and seeing a man lying across a bed in an upper bedroom as flames devoured the structure.

An exhaustive police search failed to substantiate the railroaders' story.

Silverstone Given Seven Years In 'Pen'

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.) — Morris Silverstone, recently convicted on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Walter Elson, who was killed in a gang fight last April, was sentenced to 7 years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Mr. Justice Logie in the Assize Court here today.

McFARLAND HEADS AGENCY.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 28.—(C.P.)—John I. McFarland, prominent grain man of Calgary, has been appointed general manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, it was announced here today by A. J. MacPhail, president of the Canadian wheat pool.

Canada Gained Prestige at Conference Declares Secretary of Delegation

ST. JOHN, N.B., November 28 (C.P.). — There was no justification for speaking of the Imperial Conference as a failure, Lieut.-Col. W. Arthur Steel, general secretary of the Canadian delegation, said on his arrival here on the Canadian Pacific steamship Duchess of York to-day. The Dominions, and Canada in particular, gained a great deal in persuading the home Government to come to Ottawa next year with an open mind, he said. Canada gained great prestige at the conference, he added, and he paid tribute to Premier Bennett. He also declared the people of England were solidly behind the proposals of the Dominions as embodied on Mr. Bennett's resolutions. Col. Steel left later for Ottawa.

CHILDREN'S AID ELECTS AS HEAD REV. SUTCLIFFE

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and Mayor R. Denne Address Annual Meeting.

COST FOR YEAR $4,746.

Sixty Children Were Looked After in Shelter Sometime During Year.

The Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe was elected as president of the Children's Aid Society, at the annual meeting held last evening in the City Council Chamber. The motion to elect Mr. Sutcliffe was made by the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., and met with the unanimous approval of the meeting after Dr. Blagrave had assured the members that he did not wish, through press of other duties, to accept again the position of president which he has held so capably for the past four years and which was again offered him last evening, when the nominating committee placed him again in the position of chief executivef the Children's Aid Society.

The meeting was businesslike, dealing mainly with the reading and adoption of annual reports by the superintendent, John Edgar and brief speeches made by Mayor Denne and the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.

Mayor Denne, speaking first, regretted the loss to the society of the services of the Rev. Dr. Blagrave as president and spoke aso of the great assistance rendered by the ladies of the Board. He remarked that the organization, if it wished, might insist upon the city paying more towards its upkeep, but he thought this course would tend to nullify the fine spirit of voluntary giving which now exists, through present methods of raising funds. The Mayor finished by wishing the society every success in the incoming year.

The Hon. Mr. Gordon referred, in his opening remarks, to the increasing amount of legislation of a corrective type that has recently been enacted, in which this society is vitally interested; the Unmarried Parents Act, the act which provides that parents must support their offspring and children their indigent and aged parents; the recentamendment to the Criminal Code which regulates conduct on the part of parents which might contribute to the moral delinquency of the children, and also the Juvenile Court legislation which

Ware Street Residents Want Storm Drains

If grades permit, storm drains under the city's unemployment relief program, will be laid on Ware, Gladstone and Lock streets. Petitions from residents of these streets were read at last night's meeting of the Board of Works and approved.

Four hundred and seventy-five men in all have registered as unemployed with the Board of Works, stated City Engineer Parsons. Three hundred and seventeen of these said they were married, 158 registered as single and 31 of the single men said they were supporting dependents. Up to the present, 335 men have been given employment under the city's relief scheme, 310 being married men and the remainder single men, who are supporting dependents. The men are now working one week out of every three.

The Weather

One below the zero mark this morning—the first occasion this season. Clear, calm and crisp, it was an indication that Winter was here at last. On November 29th last year, we had the first zero weather, the thermometer that morning going to 4 below zero.—W.P.

JURY PROBING SMITH DEATH

Brighton Man Killed Last Night in Truck Accident on Lakeshore Highway.

SKIDDED INTO DITCH.

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 28. (Special to The Examiner).—Inquest is being held into the death of James Smith, 34, of Brighton, who was killed last night at about eleven thirty midway between Cobourg and Grafton. Mr. Smith was driving a light truck and in passing a car on a downgrade at Brookside Inn went into the ditch as he lost control of the truck in returning to the right side of the road.

Death was practically instantaneous. The truck was owned by Duncan Johnson and Son, 23 Quebec Ave., Toronto, and was being returned to Brighton by Mr. Smith after repairs had been made to it in a Cobourg garage. J. Calnan of Vernonville, driver of the car which Smith passed on the hill declares that the truck was going so fast it tilted to one side and an extremely black mark on the pavement not a skid, bears out this statement.

Deceased is survived by a wife and two children, of Brighton and his mother and three brothers of Wicklow and immediate district. Jurors impaled by Coroner Dr. J. M. Ferris are Melville Pilkie, Harry Mitchell, Albert Lewis, Lester Caughey, G. H. Jerome, Peter Duncan, John Butler and John Lewis.

A curious feature of the mans' death is his remark made in Cobourg several hours before his death to a fellow employee. R. Knight of Wicklow, that "I don't know what is the matter with me, it seems that I can't keep a car on the road any longer."

Shaw Says Defeat Faces Labor Party

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 28. (CP) — If Ishbel MacDonald is the sort of girl who talks politics late at night she had much to say when she got back to No. 10 Downing street last night.

For Ishbel presided at a meeting of the Fabian society while Bernard Shaw gave his annual lecture. The famous Irish socialist dramatist and wit, with no idea what ever of being funniny, declared defeat stares the MacDonald government in the face at the next national elections.

"If the present government goes before the country on its record" he said, "it will confront a thoroughly disappointed electorate. The Labor party had to make large promises but at present finds the country in a very serious situation."

JOHN I. ALLEN IS NEW PRESIDENT OF KIWANIS CLUB

Kiwanians Hold Annual Election of Officers—Harry Boyle Vice-president.

DR. WAITE WINS TENT.

John I. Allen was unanimously elected to the presidency of the local Kiwanis Club for the year 1931 at the club's elections held in the Empress Hotel at noon to-day. In making the nomination, Harry Boyle, retiring vice-president, said that Mr. Allen had long been one of the most active members of the club and had previously held the important office of district trustee.

Mr. Boyle was also nominated to the presidency, but was permitted to withdraw his name when he explained that for business reasons he did not feel able to devote the proper time to the office. However, Mr. Boyle was unanimously re-elected to the vice-presidency. John R. Marshall declared that Mr. Boyle's services would be called on at some later year to take the office of president, when he felt that he could give the necessary time and energy to that office.

Vernon Morphet who has acted as treasurer since the death of the late Joe John, was unanimously elected to that post. Charles D. Cook will represent the club as district trustee. He was elected unanimously to the office, when C. S. Browne, retiring president, who had also been nominated, withdrew his name.

Seventeen were nominated to the Board of Directors, and the following were elected:

Percy Blackmore, Harry Campbell, Al Sharpe, J. B. Nelson, Richard Hicks-Lyne, Wilbert Freel and Dr. Edward Wood.

With such a strong slate of executives it was freely stated by the members that the club was prepared for a banner year in 1931.

The club was given a musical treat to-day when they heard three selections by His Majesty Savoy Chapel choir. This world famed choir of boys is in Peterborough to present two notable performances in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute. The Kiwanis Club brought the boys, who are on a tour of Canada, here and the receipts will be in aid of under-privileged children.

Dr. C. B. Waite won the draw for the tent which was used to house the car raffled by the club several weeks ago. Dr. Waite immediately presented the tent back to the club to be used as a dressing room at the Kiwanis Children's Camp in Jackson Park. Thirty-one dollars was gained by the sale of tickets on the tent draw.

Husband Burned In Trying to Save Wife and Children

Mrs. Joseph Patenaude, 26, Algonquin Park, and Her Two Young Daughters Meet Death When Fire Destroys Home.

WOMAN WAS HEATING TAR WHICH HER HUSBAND WAS USING TO REPAIR ROOF OF THEIR SMALL HOME

Patenaude Carried His Wife From Burning Building and Then Tried to Rescue the Two Small Girls—Woman Succumbs to Burns.

PEMBROKE, Ont., Nov. 28.—(CP)—Mrs. Joseph Patenaude, 26, and her two young daughters met death in the flames which destroyed their little home on the shore of Canoe Lake, situated in Algonquin Park, 100 miles west of here. News of the tragedy which occurred yesterday afternoon reached Pembroke today.

The flames broke out when a pot of tar Mrs. Patenaude was heating on the kitchen stove for her husband to make repairs to the roof of their home ignited. The husband suffered terrible burns ir. carrying his wife from the burning structure. He is expected to recover.

Patenaude was perched on the roof of his frame dwelling when the tar pot over-ran and quickly spread death and destruction. In a valiant attempt to save from injury her two and three year old daughters who were playing on the floor nearby, Mrs. Patenaude picked the boiling mass up in her naked hands and threw the pot into the yard. Her dress was set afire in her futile effort to keep the flames from her children and home, and when her husband reached her side Mrs. Patenaude was a human torch.

In carrying his wife from the dwelling Patenaude sustained painful burns about the face and hands. His wife out of the building, Patenaude attempted to re-enter to bring out the children but the flimsy structure was an inferno and the little tots were trapped in a horrible death.

Mrs. Patenaude was cared for by neighbors but she succumbed to her burns before nightfall.

Three young sons were absent from home attending school. Patenaude is an employe of the Canoe Lake Lumber Company.

Long Prison Terms Are Given 4 Men

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.) —Long prison terms, accompanied by lashes, were dealt out to-day by Mr. Justice Logie to four men convicted on a criminal assault charge. Harold Acroyd was given 15 years and no lashes on account of his physical condition, while Lloyd Leadbetter was sentenced to 14 years and 20 lashes. Joseph Gardner and George Jane were both given 10 years and 12 lashes each. All the men are from Toronto or vicinity.

GENTILE'S BLOOD REFUSED BY JEW

In London Hospital Lies a Jew Who Refused to Allow Blood Infusion.

ON POINT OF DEATH.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (C.P.) — The question of whether a Jew, on the point of death, should refuse an infusion of Gentile blood if he knows that such an operation can save him, is arousing much discussion here. In the London Hospital lies a Jew, whose name the press does not mention, who refuses to allow steps to be taken that may save his life.

The donor, a member of the London Blood Transfusion Service, was asked to-day to come to this hospital so that the transfusion might be made. The patient, on learning that the donor was not a Jew, flatly refused to submit to the transfusion, saying he would not allow Gentile blood to flow in his veins.

BROOKLIN BANK TELLER HELD UP

$1,000 TO $2,000 TAKEN.

BROOKLIN, Ont., Nov. 28.—(C.P.) —An unmasked bandit yesterday held up a branch of the Dominion Bank here and escaped with between $1,000 and $2,000 after threatening P. Quinn, teller and W. J. Horton, ledgerkeeper, with a revolver. No trace has been found of the robber.

Quinn and Horton were alone in the building when the gunman entered shortly before closing time, pulled out his revolver and curtly ordered the employees to "shell out." Scooping up the loose cash in the teller's cage, he ran out to a car where a woman companion awaited him.

SANTA CLAUS WILL BE ESCORTED TO HIS HEADQUARTERS SATURDAY

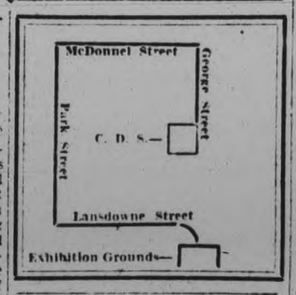
Parade Will Start From Exhibition Grounds at 8.30 Sharp.

ROUTE OUTLINED.

Santa Claus is scheduled to arrive in Peterborough, tomorrow (Saturday) morning, and arrangements made for his reception here, excell any previous effort. He will be met at the Exhibition Grounds, at which place he is landing after his long journey from the frozen north, and will be escorted to the Canadian Department Store where he is to make his winter headquarters, by one of the largest parades of the kind ever seen in this city.

There will be all the little folk from fairyland, the comic strip characters and clowns, in the parade which is to be headed by the C.D.S. officials and the Peterborough Rangers Band. Numerous floats will be in the parade also, including the "Mary, Mary, quite contrary," float, with her little flower girl attendants; also a huge grasshopper, numerous wild animals and other funny characters too numerous to mention.

But in passing, one must not overlook the famous Toonerville Trolley with none other than the old skipper in command—and then greatest of all—the jovial and jolly old fellow Father Christmas himself, with his bright twinkling eyes, cheery smile and warm greetings for everyone. Occupying a seat of honour on his regal iceberg float he will be escorted by his favorite clown, "Blikem."



To all little folk and to their parents and other relations, too, is extended an open invitation to be present to witness this grand spectacle. The parade will leave the Exhibition Grounds promptly at 8.30 and will proceed via Lansdowne street to Park street, north on Park to McDonnel, east on McDonnel to George, then south to the C.D.S. at Simcoe and George streets. Here Father Christmas will be home to his little friends each day until Christmas time.

Parking will be prohibited, on the west side of George street between Charlotte and Brock streets, or on the north side of Simcoe street between the Lockworks and George street. Motorists are urged to cooperate with the police.

TEMPERANCE PARTY FOR ONTARIO IF LIBERALS ENDORSE WET PLANK

Ontario Prohibition Union Will Place Party in Political Field.

STATEMENT ISSUED.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28. (CP)—Possibility of a third political party in Ontario being formed was contained in a statement issued here by Rev. A. J. Irwin, secretary of the Ontario Prohibition Union, after referring to the "imminence" of the Liberal convention and "certain statements which have appeared in the public press" the statement says:

"It is the definite policy of this union to seek to afford temperance people the opportunity to exercise their franchise in harmony with their views by securing whenever possible candidates who will represent those views in the legislature. This policy it will still pursue. What further steps may be deemed wise must be determined by the development of circumstances and the attitude of the leaders in our public life."

The statement, issued over the signatures of S. Carter, chairman, and A. J. Irwin, secretary of the union, declares in view of the Provincial Liberal convention, it is desirable the union as representing organized temperance workers of Ontario, should at this time make clear its attitude.

Continuing, the statement says the sale of liquor by the Government has been made a plank in the platform of a great political party and has been adopted for the time being as the policy of the province.

"It is our deliberate judgment, that the introduction of Government sale has greatly increased the consumption of alcoholic liquors within the Province," proceeds the statement, "especially among the younger people and the women of Ontario."

After further lengthy criticism of the Government's Liquor policy, the statement declares, "The temperance people of this Province, represented in the Ontario Prohibition Union and its associated bodies, cannot but regard the adoption of this policy of Government sale by any political party as contrary to sound public policy."

100 Employees Asked To Resign By Council

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.)—Acceptance of the resignation of F. B. Goedike, Commissioner of Works, and a request that 100 other employees on the engineering staff hand in their resignations by Dec. 10, as a result of criticism levelled by Judge Denton, who recently conducted a probe into sewer contracts, marked yesterday's meeting of the York Township Council.

Commissioner Goedike tendered his resignation as township engineer as well, but it was not accepted. In submitting them Goedike said he did not want to hamper the Council in their program of reorganizing.

Ferguson Accepts Ottawa Announces

OTTAWA, Nov. 28 (C.P.).— It is understood here that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson has definitely accepted the position of High Commissioner in London. Since the caucus of the Ontario Conservative party yesterday Premier Ferguson has been in touch with Premier Bennett in London by cable. Mr. Bennett, it is understood, has in turn communicated with the Cabinet at Ottawa, and an early announcement is expected.

Before the appointment is formally completed an Order-in-Council must be passed by the Government at Ottawa, and it is understood this is all that remains to be done to confirm the Ontario Premier in the office.

Keene Creamery Wins Second Place

CREAMERIES WIN SEVERAL AWARDS FOR GOOD BUTTER

Norwood is Placed Eleventh in the Walker Wallace Trophy.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED.

Seven district creameries are named as prize winners in the Creamery Association contests, conducted during the summer. The awards, won in close competition against a large entry list, reflect considerable credit on this district, and give just cause for pride in the high standard of cleanliness and perfection maintained by these creameries, in the fanufacture of their butter.

Walker Wallace Trophy

In Section A (75-199-lb churnings) for the Walker Wallace trophy, Exetar Creamery was placed first, with Trent Valley Creamery, Keene, a close second. Norwood Creamery and Fenelon Falls Creamery were placed eleventh and thirteenth respectively in this section.

De Laval Trophy

For the DeLaval Trophy, Section B (200-399-lb. churnings) Fullarton Creamery headed the list, with Trent Valley Creamery, Campbellford, in fifth place, and Canadian Packing Company, Peterborough, sixth.

De Laval Trophy

Drummond Trophy

WISHES CANADA GREAT FUTURE

U. S. Ambassador Addresses Americans in Toronto as Canadian People.

BOND BETWEEN COUNTRIES.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.)—"There is not a thinking citizen in the United States who does not wish for Canada a great and prosperous future," declared Colonel the Hon. Hanford MacNider, the Ambassador who represents that great people to the south of the Dominion of Canada, when he addressed a gathering of over 400 Americans here last evening at the Thanksgiving dinner given by the American Women's Club. Though his audience was composed almost entirely of his own countrymen, and he greeted them as such, Colonel MacNider's thoughtful remarks were addressed to them as citizens of Canada.

"Better conditions in Canada will mean happier days to the south," he reminded them, "just as better conditions in the United States will be reflected above the Great Lakes." He felt that, while both Canada and the United States were now facing serious economic problems, there was every hope for the future, and much for which to be deeply thankful at the present time.

FAIR EXCHANGE OF COMMODITIES

Seeks Dominion Government Bureau of Standards For Manufactured Produce.

PRODUCTION COST BASIS.

SASKATOON, Nov. 28 (C.P.).—Organized agriculture of Ontario and the Prairies last night asked unanimously for Government stabilization of prices on a production-cost basis.

As the two-day Interprovincial agrarian parley came to a close, a resolution was approved favoring "pegging" of prices at a level insuring fair exchange of agricultural products and of other goods and services.

The resolution, most far-reaching placed before the parley, does not restrict its price-fixing proposal to agricultural goods. It favors a general probe to determine the relation between farmers' production cost and the cost of other goods and services, and establishment of a Dominion Government "Bureau of Standards" for manufactured productions.

The resolution is more embracing than either of the price-fixing attitudes expressed by United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, or United Farmers of Alberta, in recent depositions to Ottawa officials.

Laborite Member Hits Lord Winterton

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 28. (CP) The tempers of several members of the House rose high at times during the debate yesterday on the Conservative motion of censure, and when the members trooped toward the division lobby for the final vote Laborite C. J. Simmons walked up to Lord Winterton, Conservative, and struck him on the face with the order paper. Lord Winterton took no notice of the blow, and the speaker, whose attention later was called to the incident, said he did not see it, and could therefore take no action.

PERCY FACTORY HEARS REPORTS

New Model Cheese and Butter Factory Holds Annual Meeting.

JAMES YULE PRESIDENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28.— (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The annual meeting of the patrons of the New Model Cheese and Butter Factory, Percy township, was held yesterday afternoon at the factory, when officers were elected, reports presented and the year's busines was gone into. The chair was taken by J. A. Murray, cheese instructor for the district.

The slate of officers elected for the coming season are as follows: President, James Yule (re-elected); secretary, A. J. Armour (re-elected); directors, Roy Oliver, Thos. Bright, William Partridge, Peter Fairman, and Pat. Butler, with the president and secretary; auditor, William Herriott.

Mr. Murray, in addressing the gathering stated that he thought that they had done well for the year, considering the trade conditions and the prices. He thought that the whole milk industry was behind the cheese makers and that one bright feature was the fact that more cheese had been shipped overseas this year than before, and gave as his advice to make good cheese and keep up the grade and do not worry because they were a small factory.

Mr. Murray was of the opinion that things would pick up and advised the patrons to get ready for another season and hold their own. He also touched on the Herd Competition, stating that the central group was making a very good showing and would probably figure in the prize money.

The following is the report for the year submitted by the secretary:

Pounds of Milk	576,881
Pounds of butter fat	17,209.361
Pounds of cheese	45.827
Amount of money	$7.371.19
Expenditure	1,882.81
Amount to divide	5,488.38
Divided	5,478.06
Balance in bank	$10.22

Mr. Armour also stated in the report that this year there had been 1,200 puonds more milk produced although their finances were $143.00 less, owing to the low price of cheese.

J. R. Smith, manager of the Campbellford branch of the Bank of Montreal, addressed the gathering. He thought that it would be a bad thing for them to discontinue the factory, even though the past year had not been up to their expectations. Speaking of the cheese consumption in Canada, the speaker thought that the Swiss cheese was a great competitor on the home market of the home product. This he put down to the fact that the foreign cheese was more saleable because of its wrapping and through this factor the freshness it retains.

The New Method Factory will retain its cheese-maker, Creighton Johnston, for the coming season, expressing their confidence in his work during the past season. This year Mr. Johnston only had six undergrade cheese registered against him.

In the matter of wood for the factory for the coming season, Ray Archer and Thomas Bright both had their tenders accepted, the combined total being twenty cords.

AGRICULTURE PORTFOLIO IS FILLED IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Que., Nov. 28.—(CP).—Adelard Godbout, M.L.A., for L'Islet, was to-day sworn in as Minister of Agriculture to succeed Hon J. L. Perron, who died last week.

Premier Taschereau was at the same time sworn in as Provincial Treasurer to replace Hon. A. R. McMaster, whose illness compelled him to retire from public life three months ago. Ernest Quellet and A. V. Roy were appointed to the Quebec Legislative Council.

DR. GUNTON IS ACQUITTED

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., Nov. 28.—(CP)—Dr. G. A. C. Gunton, Toronto, was acquitted in the court of general sessions here last night on a charge of arson.

Taking the stand in his own defence, Dr. Gunton branded testimony of a crown witness, Stewart McAleer, as a tissue of lies. The witness was alleged to have been hired by the Toronto dentist to fire the latters cottage at Bala.

GERARD BLACK IS WINNER OF FRASER TROPHY

Packed School Auditorium Hears Youthful Speakers in Oratorical Contest.

AT CAMBELLFORD.

Students Speak on Subjects in Very Fluent and Capable Manner.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28.— With the Campbellford High School Auditorium full to capacity and the overflow in the hall of the school, Seymour township and Campbellford town last night witnessed twenty-six youthful contestants compete for the supremacy of Seymour in the oratory contest staged under the Northumberland County Trustees Association for the public and separate schools of the county.

The event was one that threw credit on the movement to promote the art of public speaking among the younger generation. Having only six subjects to choose from, there was a great deal of repetition, yet the speakers held the attention of the audience and presented the same subjects from many different viewpoints and angles.

The W. A. Fraser trophy for the town of Campbellford was won by Gerard Black of the Separate School, who in a very able and fluent manner discussed on the "Auto Tyre", have a good grasp of his subject and a good choice of words.

In the Seymour group Donald Lloyd of S.S.I. came first also winning the Fraser award for that section. His subject was "Going to Market" and this he handled in a humorous way, dealing with the difficulties of Dobbin and trip that had many mishaps. His manner was easy and gesture in perfect co-ordination with his words and his diction and intonation good. Second in this group was Cora Petherick from S. S. 2, with the subject, "My Homework."; third, Bule Bateson of S.S. 3 speaking on "The Creek" and fourth, Betty Ormiston, S. S. 10, who chose "Going to Market" as her theme.

The chairman of the evening was H. B. Wood of Trent Bridge, the member of Seymour on the executive committee, who handled the large program in a very able manner. The judges were the Rev. Mr. Duncan of Warkworth, M. F. Ames of Plainville, and Miss Luella Munroe of York Road School, Murray township.

Subject of Essays

The subjects spoken on gave room for a wide range of thought and were suited to the different tasks of the children. All six subjects were covered, there being only one contention speaking on one, that one being "My Homework.'

The other topics were: "Rubber Tires," "The Creek," "What I Can Do to Help Mother," and "Going to Market." The children in their presentation took a keen delight in bringing out their points and., with but very few exceptions, received no

HENRY IS LIKELY TO BE PREMIER

Conservative Members Leave London Appointment With Premier Ferguson.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT MADE.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28. (CP)—Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, will be the next Prime Minister of Ontario, taking office soon after Premier G. Howard Ferguson announces his acceptance of the Canadian High Commissionership at London, as he is virtually certain to do before the middle of next week.

Though buttressed by no official announcement, this hypothesis of the province immediate political future was the firm and freely expressed conviction of Conservative members of the legislature yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of their three-hour caucus at Queen's Park.

Premier Ferguson, addressing his followers at the caucus, saved any definite announcement of his course for a later date. Probably the Ontario Conservative Association meeting in the Royal York hotel next Tuesday. This is the understanding of the Premier's speech given the Mail and Empire on unpeachable authority.

While announcing no decision, the Premier, it is understood, made plain his desire to accept the London appointment. He expressed his lofty estimation of the importance of the work he might endeavor to do overseas and put the matter before his supporters as a great opportunity for him to serve not only Ontario but Canada and the Empire. By his voice and bearing, the Premier evidenced the nearness of his departure, it is said.

After the caucus, the Premier announced to the press that he had the full sanction of his followers to take the appointment offered him by Premier Bennett.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28.—(CP)—In the criminal assizes today Mr. Justice Logie, with concurrence of the Crown released a young woman, Katherine Wishart, charged with manslaughter in connection wite a motor accident, on suspended sentence. Miss Wishart struck down David Burns, an aged man at Richmond Hill, Ont., on August 11.

COLD WAVE HITS UNITED STATES

Snow Storm Paralyzes Traffic Northwestern New York State.

MOTORISTS MAROONED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (C.P.).—Most of the United States felt the sting of cold today and in many places there was heavy snow.

The cold wave which brought subzero temperatures to points in the middle west extended throughout the south with freezing weather as far down as the Gulf and low temperatures in Florida. At Atlanta the mercury went to 22.

Readings ranging from one to six degrees below zero were recorded in Ohio, North Dakota, Minnesota and Illinois.

Hundreds of motorists were marooned in northwestern New York by a blizzard which piled drifts 10 feet high in places in the vicinity of Dunkirk.

Along the Atlantic coast sub-freezing weather prevailed. New York city experienced the coldest day of the season with temperatures well below freezing. Similar temperatures were felt along the New Jersey coast.

California was apparently the only section where the temperature was near normal. At Los Angeles the minimum was 58.

HUNTING PARTY FOUND

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 28.—(CP)—U. S. Coastguards from the Michigan Sault in the Cutter No. 118, succeeded at eight o'clock this morning in locating off Cockburn Island, the party of four Detroit men missing since they reached Drummond Island several days ago. The party are reported safe, and are proceeding toward Alpena in their 45 foot steel tug, which is capable of weathering any sea that may rise the coast guards said.

RUM RUNNERS FLEE TO CANADA

To Avoid Questioning in Connection With New Customs Border Patrol Scandal.

SEVERAL WARNED.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 28. (CP)—A score of down-river rum-runners have fled to Canada to avoid questioning in connection with the new customs border patrol scandal, special customs agents reported, following search for liquor smugglers involved in the graft conspiracy. Eleven men are named as rum-runners in the warrant on which three alleged bootleggers and five former customs patrol inspectors were arraigned before J. Stanley Hurd, United States commissioner, Wednesday.

Seven former patrol inspectors and eleven rum-runners were named in the original warrant, but statements taken from inspectors who were jailed involved additional inspectors and bootleggers, special agents say.

The flight of the rum-runners to Canada parallels the action of a number of down-river rum-runners who established a colony on the Canadian side of the river following indictment of 32 customs patrolmen and 10 liquor smugglers in November, 1928.

Customs agents hope that the fugitives will surrender, as did six of the smugglers who fled to Canada in 1928.

Cattle Theft Charge Dismissed At Cobourg

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 28 (Special)—Patrick T. Murphy, Oshawa, was acquitted of a charge of theft when arraigned before Judge Huycke at Cobourg yesterday afternoon. In giving his decision Judge Huycke commented on the fact that faulty legal transactions between parties involved in the case impeded the case for the Crown. F. D. Boggs, K.C., acted for the Crown and Frank Ebbs, Oshawa, for the defence. H. Davidson of Toronto was the complainant. Murphy was charged with the theft of cattle and a quantity of grain. The Crown was unable to refute defendant's claim of color of title to the items which he was charged with stealing.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, November 28. — Cattle trade at the Union Stock Yards closed for the week; steady with yesterday's prices at $7.50 to $7.75 for choice light butchers' steers and heifers. Fed calves sold at $10.50 for tops, while vealers went on the basis of $12.00 to $12.50 for choice. Only few stale cattle remained from yesterday's session and a fair clean-up was expected by the market close. Hogs, unsettled during the week, closed at $9.00 f.o.b. for bacons or at $10.00 to $10.25 off cars. Packers were bidding on the basis of $8.50 for week-end loading. Lambs went at $8.75 for good ewes and wethers.

Two carloads received yesterday morning included 22 cattle, 30 hogs, and 58 sheep and lambs.

Fairly active trading in cattle at Monday's advance of 25c saw a clean-up at the yards yesterday. Few odd lots of good and choice handy weight butchers sold at $7.25 to $7.75 with two loads of choice heavy steers at $7.75. Common to medium butchers ranged $4.75 to $6.75, while butcher cows, firm, went over the scales at $3.50 to $5.50, according to quality. Bulls continued steady at $5.00 for good butchers, with bolognas at $3.00 to $3.75. A limited supply of store cattle sold at $4.25 to $5.25 for plain quality.

Calves were unchanged at $12.00 $12.50 for choice vealers, with the odd fancy 50c higher. Grassers were downward to $4.50. Hogs still unsettled were receiving bids 25c lower at $8.75 f.o.b. for bacons, or at $9.75 to $10.00 off cars. Lambs sold strong with the bulk 50c higher for the week at $8.75 for good ewes and wethers.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, November 28.—Weakness in foreign markets forced another decline in Winnipeg grain values yesterday.

Wheat was the hardest hit, closing 2¼ to 2¾ cents below Wednesday's final quotations. There was an absence of export trade, and selling affected the December future chiefly, though the other fuutres felt the depression.

Trade in cash wheat and coarse grains was moderate, with values following the decline of the wheat futures market.

The trade was surprised by Broomhall's estimate of the Argentine crop. Broomhall forecast an exportable surplus of 205,000,000 ousnels, indicating a total crop of 280,000,000 bushels, as compared with about 140,000,000 bushels last year. This estimate was much larger than any of the private figures released resently.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR IS HELD AT BETHANY

Event Carried Out Under Auspices of United Church Adult Bible Class.

BETHANY, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence) — The members of the Adult Bible Class of the United Church held a very successful bazaar in the basement of the church on Tuesday afternoon, when about one hundred and fifty dollars was realized.

The bazaar was formally opened by the pastor the Rev. Mr. Scott and the booths were in charge of the following ladies: woollens, Mrs. Elmert Rowan; children's wear and flannelettes, Mrs. A. Driver; dining room and fancy work, Mrs. Jackson and Miss Lily Thompson; bedroom booth, Mrs. H. Payne, Mrs. E. Steer; apron and kitchen articles, Mrs. Otto Spencer and Mrs. Cecil Argue; domestic table, Mrs. R. Crearer and Mrs. W. L. Rowan; ice cream, Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy and Mrs. Arnott.

The ladies in charge of the dining room were Miss Elsie Richardson, Mrs. Fred Thompson and Mrs. H. Fallis. The tables were beautifully decorated with yellow mums and foliages.

The Christmas Parcel dept. was in charge of Mrs. B. Monk and Miss Edna Beer. The candy booth which was in aid of the choir fund was in charge of Miss Evelyn McKinnon, Miss Doris Driver and Miss McKinley. The fish pond was capably managed by H. Fallis.

The guests were received by Rev. and Mrs. Scott and Mrs. S. Jamison and Miss E. Fair and Miss Helen Paton were accompanists for the occasion. Mrs. A. Thorndyke is president of the class and Mrs. W. Rowland treasurer.

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 27 (C.P.)—K. L. Arpin was to-day committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge follows an auto accident which occurred last summer and resulted in the death of Newton Thomas.

CHARGED WITH KEEPING LIQUOR

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 27 (C.P.) — When Provincial Police raided the cellar at the home of Henry Freeman in Sandwich they found a variety of liquors and liqueurs, many of a costly variety. Proximity of this supply to a roadhouse led to a charge of keeping liquor for sale being laid against Freeman. He was granted a remand for trial.

A DECIDED IMPROVEMENT.

[illegible] more than once condemned the County Council for having failed to provide modern bathing facilities at the county jail, is glad to-day to be able to congratulate the county executive upon their [illegible] by installing shower baths that will be found to be a decided improvement over the [illegible] that up to now has been the only method of cleansing furnished the prisoners.

While it is assumed that this bath will be used by the sick and the regulations require that every one, regardless of his or her condition, to take a bath upon being admitted, the need of something better than this primitive outfit is obvious.

Various grand juries have commented in strong terms upon the condition and have recommended improved facilities, but up to the present session of the County Council there has been no move to follow the [illegible] through forward.

The present decision is a step in the right direction, as the shower baths to be installed will do away with the danger of infection that has always been present under the old condition.

The county Council deserves credit for tackling a needed improvement that other administrations have been quite willing to let go by default.

ONTARIO'S MINERAL PRODUCTION.

It is a matter for satisfaction that in spite of the depression in many other fields of activity Ontario's mineral production this year has held up remarkably well, and that while the total will fall some four millions short of last year when the production reached record proportions, it will exceed the 1928 figure by fourteen millions.

The Department of Mines estimates that this year's total production, including metals, non-metals, structural materials and clay products, will be $114,000,000.

Important gains have been registered both in gold production and in the nickel-copper group, and while the value of silver, because of the low prices, showed a decrease the actual production was greater.

This showing in the face of general conditions is most encouraging.

The addition of well over a hundred million dollars to the national wealth in an abnormal year tells its own story of the part in Canada's development that is being played by Ontario's Northland, which only a few short years ago was regarded as a vast tract of worthless country that offered little or no possibility of successful development.

TEACHING THE GUNMEN.

The life sentence imposed by Mr. Justice Logie upon a Russian who fired at a policeman and as a result was charged and convicted on a count of attempted murder will help to strengthen the impression created by other recent drastic sentences that the man who thinks he can collect from the world at the point of a gun is making a bad mistake if he tries the experiment in Ontario.

Other sections of the continent may be content to let gun rule prevail, but in this Province society is determined that robbery and hold-ups under arms are to be stamped out and every gun-toting crook either within or without Ontario had better make a mental note to abandon such dubious enterprises or else to give this part of the globe a wide berth.

There is a strong feeling here that policemen should not use their revolvers only in self-defence, and officers who have ignored that rule and have fired upon fleeing suspects have come in for strong censure.

In view of that opinion the police in turn have a right to demand that they shall be protected by adequate punishment for every criminal who uses a gun, and that the courts shall do their part by putting crooks who have carried on an armed warfare against society in a place where they will no longer threaten the public safety.

Ontario's judges and magistrates are taking the proper attitude in imposing sentences that convey a pointed warning to the criminally inclined.

HUMANITY—NOT RULES.

The public is shocked when it hears of such cases as that reported from Toronto where a Peterborough ex-service man, dying from tubercular hemmorrhage, was refused admission to Christie Street Military Hospital because to have taken him in and cared for him would have been "against the regulations."

Rules are rules, but there are times when an emergency calls for them to be broken and surely this dying veteran should not have been turned away from the door of an institution that was established for the treatment of men who are paying the price for their wartime loyalty to this country.

The official who declared that the hospital could not admit this patient and sent him away to die elsewhere was adhering to the strict letter of the regulation but he showed himself to be utterly out of touch of what should be the spirit behind the machinery for the care of disabled war veterans.

It should have been enough for him that the applicant was an ex-service man and that his condition was grave—in other words it should not have been a question of rules but of humanity.

When a man is at death's door red tape should be forgotten—and it is to be hoped that the officials who erred in this case will be given to clearly understand that fact in order that there may not be repetition of this kind of thing.

SANTA CLAUS.

A writer on the Los Angeles Record, who annually holds a Christmas party for poor children, received this letter from a convict in the Nevada State Penitentiary:

"I am sending a little parcel on this mail, hoping that the articles contained may find a place in your approaching Christmas distribution. Perhaps the work on the beads isn't of the best. It really is not my trade, but they may make some poor little girl's return [illegible] childhood faith in St. Nicholas and that's a pretty good deed.

Please don't get a wrong impression from this letter. I'm merely one of the many who live behind prison walls but I am not on the hunt for a favor, neither do I desire publicity. I've had the genuine pleasure of belong at your Christmas celebrations some time ago, and as I have considerable time on my hands, just thought I'd help if I could, in breaking out a few smiles in the old home town.

"Do you know that bad as convicts undoubtedly are, I've never met one who had sunk low enough to want to kill off old Santa Claus. In case you think the little bead chains will help fill any stockings satisfactorily, and would care for them, I'll gladly fix a few more and see that they reach you by December 15.

"I hope you can use them, and I'm mighty glad to be able to do this, small as it is. I'll not sign my name. If you care for more just address, Yours Sincerely, 22319, Nevada State Prison, Box 607, Carson City, Nev."—Vancouver Province.

CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS.

There has just been published by the Department of Labor the third annual report on Co-operative Associations in Canada, a volume in which, it is understood, the department has included every known co-operative society in the Dominion, the total number being 1,095, with a combined membership of 690,685.

Appearing first in the report is the name of the Co-operative Union of Canada, whose aim is to federate co-operative societies for mutual advantage and to propagate a knowledge of co-operative principles.

The remaining associations are grouped provincially according to the phase of co-operative endeavor with which they are identified, as follows: (1) productive, with 73 associations and a combined membership of 57,502; (2) marketing, 345 associations and 506,922 members; (3) productive and marketing, 35 associations and 7,350 members; (4) distributive, 325 associations and 26,155 members; (5) marketing and distributive, 45 associations and 26,716 members; (6) credit and savings, 11 associations and 42,463 members; (7) miscellaneous, 260 associations and 23,577 members.

In the productive group the largest association is the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, which has a membership of 37,000.

First in the marketing group is the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, with a membership of 140,000, comprised in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Ontario Wheat Pools, and is the largest wheat marketing organization in the world.

The Central Alberta Dairy Producers' Association is the largest in the productive and marketing group, having 1,800 members, and in the distributive group the British Canadian Co-operative Society, a Nova Scotia body, with 3,494 members, stands first.

Of the associations in the marketing and distributive section the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, an Ontario organization, has the largest following, reporting 20,000 members. In the credit and savings group the Co-operative People's Banks of the Province of Quebec show a membership of 41,000, comprized in 215 local co-operative banks.

The bulk of the associations included in the miscellaneous group are operating in the Province of Saskatchewan, where there are 183 societies which cannot be definitely classified, the remaining 77 associations being divided between seven other Provinces.

In a summary of business transacted figures are given for 518 associations which reported, showing paid-up capital, assets, sales for the year 1929, general liabilities, profit or surplus, loss, reserve, and unapportioned profits.

EARLY RAILWAYS.

The centenary this year of the opening of the famous Liverpool and Manchester Railway, the first successful steam line for freight and passenger service, has awakened public interest in the early days of railroading. The economic and industrial development of Canada has gone hand in hand with railroad construction, and it is difficult for us to realize to-day that a hundred years ago there were no railroads in all the vast expanse of this country. The waterways were the only main highways of commerce. But Canadians were not long in following the lead of the Liverpool and Manchester enterprise, and that of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, the pioneer American line.

In 1832 the Legislature of Lower Canada granted a charter to The Company of the Proprietors of the Champlain and St. Lawrence Railroad, and by 1836 a line was completed from Laprairie to St. Johns, sixteen miles distant on the Richelieu. From St. Johns transportation to New York was effected by boat via the Richelieu, Lake Champlain and the Hudson. The rails were of wood, with thin flat iron bars spiked on, and, according to Oscar D. Skelton in "The Railway Builders," were apt to curl upon very little provocation. Horse power was the original means of locomotion on the Champlain and St. Lawrence, but in 1837, records the Montreal Gazette, the proprietors brought an engine and driver from England. "The Kitten," as the new addition to the rolling stock was named, at first refused to move, but an engineer borrowed from the Baltimore and Ohio prescribed "more wood and water" and the "Kitten" finally achieved the amazing speed of twenty miles per hour.

For ten years the Champlain and St. Lawrence was the only steam line in British North America, while United States mileage had reached 3,000. But, when political unrest passed over, Canada began railroad building in earnest, and the great development which has given this country 50,000 miles of the finest railway lines, was under way. That peculiar glamor and romance of the rails, which gives rise to the saying, "once a railroad man, always a railroad man," gives also to the history of railway development a strangely absorbing interest.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Armand Lavergne proposes the restoration of titles and the adoption of the name, "Kingdom of Canada." There does not seem to be any pressing demand for either of these things.

Those "confessions" of plots against Russia would carry more weight if it was clear that they had not been obtained under pressure.

Old-timers in the North predict a green Christmas, but it might be just as well to keep the snow shovel within easy reaching distance.

Being a chief magistrate is evidently not all milk and honey. Haileybury can't get anybody to fill the mayor's chair.

And now it is reported that Russia proposes to flood the British market with cheap lumber. Well, they seem to like that kind of thing over in the Mother Land.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Chapter XXXIII

THE FLAMING MESA

Even while the biplane was tearing through those pine-tops, Dorn had foreseen the inevitable crash. At the same instant that the heavy machine hit the mesa and piled up against the boulder, he gave the Silver Hawk the gun; and with one swift, anguished glance at the wreck beneath him, he sent his plane climbing in thundering spirals above the mountain meadow — climbing to parachute height.

In a handful of seconds while the Silver Hawk was roaring aloft, Dorn clung with blind, stubborn faith to the conviction that Aurore might still be alive and that he might save her by a parachute jump; and he shut his mind against even the possibility of her being killed. That Aurore McNain could be lying dead there below him in that wreckage was a thing too ghastly and cataclysmic to be true — like the noonday sun turning black and cold and all light going out of the world.

And as the human heart will, Dorn snatched at flimsy reasons to bolster up his faith. Those pine-tops had checked the headlong rush of the biplane; its first crash had been a slant blow; its pontoons and its rebound into the air had softened its final crack-up. His glance told him that the body of the machine was not terribly crushed. There was no hope on earth for Carter-Snowdon, caught in the front seat where the heavy engine lunged back and splintered the cockpit into tangled metal and matchstick wood; but Aurore and the detective were in the rear seats, back at the third bay. Though the plane had turned upside down and the debris of a wing hid his view of it, the fuselage did not seem to be telescoped.

Dorn was thinking now of fire — almost the inevitable aftermath of a crash like this; of a gasoline fire blazing up in that wreckage; of Aurore helplessly pinioned there — doubly helpless with her arms bound; of a gas tank exploding, wrapping that shattered plane in smoke and flame; and the grim picture of it checked him in his swift spiralling when he was only three hundred feet aloft, and made him decide to jump from that perilously scant height.

He jerked around to Kansas. Fully alive to the harrowing danger of fire and to the need of quick action — of a parachute jump — Kansas himself was preparing to leap, but Dorn stopped him, gestured at him to change places; and Kansas nodded, for he knew that Dorn's own hands must tear that wreckage apart and bring Aurore McNain out of it if she was alive.

While the Silver Hawk flew on level wing, Kansas crawled forward, wedged himself into the cockpit and grabbed the controls, as Dorn let go and clambered out upon the fuselage.

Knowing that a three-hundred-foot jump in that wind might be fatal to his partner, Kansas whirled the plane out over the lake, with no attention to Dorn's pleading shouts, and thundered back over again four hundred feet higher, to be safe.

His hand on the rip-cord, Dorn leaped. For a second or two he whizzed downward and the mesa seemed rushing up to meet him. Then at his jerk the 'chute lined back and bellied out and his body-belts tugged at him, and he swayed in midair, no longer dropping giddily, but gently rocking, floating.

The wreck lay beneath him, conspicuous silver in the fiery tint of heather and sage grass sere and brown mat of last year's grass. Drifting in a strange quiet after these three roaring hours of flight and battle, Dorn looked down at it and studied it and prayed for a sign of life.

Before jumping he had calculated driftage of his pack-chute; and had leaped one hundred yards north of the wreck, expecting to glide to earth very near it. But the wind pouring through that pass proved stronger at a low level than it had been higher up. It caught his 'chute and swept it along, and Dorn realized he would be carried south to tree-line or even into the pines down the slope below.

He cursed his tragic helplessness. He was suddenly sick of impotent watching, sick of the vagaries of wind and evil luck that tossed him willy-nilly, and a feeling which normally would have been sacrilege swept over him — a revulsion and a hatred of air work and of man's newest toy, the airplane. He wanted his feet on solid ground again, on sturdy mother earth, instead of watching tragedies from afar, helpless to prevent them.

Though he had the strength and the will for this last frantic effort to save Aurore, Dorn was very near the breaking point. Body and mind could stand little more. Climaxing three weeks crammed and jammed with the triple duty of cartographing and fighting off Carter-Snowdon and protecting Aurore, had come the heavy strain of forty hours' incessant flying, three sleepless nights hand-run, this Sabbath morning of two air battles, and now this stunning final catastrophe. At the limit of his endurance, he was nearly dazed with exhaustion. He was a man stumbling with his last strength toward a vision that flickered and seemed to go out and then flared up again in cruel alternation of hope and despair — such a vision as a starved and frozen storm-wanderer might see in the candle-light of a cabin window.

As he worked the guide ropes, checking the driftage somewhat, Dorn was staring down at the plane — directly beneath him now; and he suddenly was struck dumb by the glimpse of some stir in that wreck, half-way back along the fuselage. And then, when he saw a man's head and shoulders appear, heaving aside a piece of the shattered wing; when he saw the detective, Soft-Shoe, drag himself out and try to rise and at a third attempt stagger to his feet and stand there rocking wide-legged, as though his senses reeled and all the world swam drunkenly before him — then a cry burst from Dorn's lips, inarticulate, a cry of fervent, substantial hope. The detective had lived through that crash! Aurore, in the seat beside him — Aurore must have been spared! She was alive, there beneath him — alive!

But then, sweeping on over the biplane, Dorn saw a wisp of darkish smoke begin to curl up — the fire fiend kindling his holocaust. It was several feet away from the gas tank, a dozen feet away from those rear seats — up near the nose of the plane where fabric and matchstick wood smouldered against hot engine metal; but even as Dorn watched, the smoke paled to blue and a tiny spurt of flame came to life—and leaped up, licking at the canvas and dry spruce debris.

Reeling and falling an' struggling t' his feet again, the detective started away from the wreck, running aimlessly like a man with blind staggers. Dorn cupped his hands an' shouted down at his enemy, yelling shrilly at him to go back — go back and pull Aurore from beneath the fuselage.

Soft-Shoe heard, he lifted his head and cried something in reply, and turned back, evidently realizing that this would be his guarantee of life. But he seemed still dazed from the crash, he groped and stumbled, with his hands in front of him, and missed the plane; and though Dorn shouted orders at him — shouted till his voice broke — the man merely staggered this way and that, always with his hands in front of him. There was no hope from him.

Because it would have driven Dorn crazy to watch that spurt of flame growing, he turned his face away from the mesa and forced himself not to glance back. Still fifty feet in air, he brushed just over the tops of the tree-line pines, clutching futilely at them as he drifted over. The slope fell away steeply and the breeze swept him on down, on past a ledge, on two hundred yards, till it seemed he would never light. Holding on with one hand, he unbuckled himself, thinking to drop into a pine-top; but below the ledge the breeze was shut off and he fell rapidly and dragged against a minaret spruce four hundred yards down the mountainside from the mesa.

Clambering and sliding down the tree, Dorn leaped the last twenty feet to solid ground and started back up the slope. The ledge rose in front of him — thirty feet of perpendicular rock. Turning, he stumbled out along the game trail at its foot till he came to a gentler slant where a man could scramble up.

Above the ledge, between him and the mesa, lay two hundred yards of down timber, the jumbled windfall of centuries — snarled and tangled with briar and buckbrush and mountain laurel. Leaping from log to log, crashing his way through the undergrowth that clutched and tore at him, Dorn fought on up the slope, still believing with a dogged, unreasoning faith that he could reach the plane and drag Aurore out of it before the flame crept to the gas tank.

But he was only halfway across the windfall when through a rift in the trees ahead he saw a fan-shaped burst of red flare thirty feet up into the air, and heard a sudden, dull-muffled explosion that froze him for a moment in his tracks.

When Dorn finally stumbled out upon the open mesa, the centre of it, where the wreckage lay, was a crawling lake of fire. The explosion had flung gas and flaming debris a score of yards around, and put torch to the sage grass. With the brisk wind behind it, a wall of fire and smoke was rolling across the mountain meadow toward him; and when a heavy gust tore aside the curtain for an instant, he glimpsed the biplane itself, wrapped from end to end in flames and burning fiercely.

Dimly he was aware of the Silver Hawk roaring low overhead and of Kansas leaning out, frantically yelling, waving him to get back, stay back, and escape the path of the fire. But Dorn scarcely saw or heard. After the benumbing shock of the explosion he was no longer entirely clear of mind. He could not seem to realize that the tragedy was complete and utter, and that it was of no mortal use now to fight his way out upon that mesa. He held to a blind and naive faith that if he only would battle on he could reach Aurore and lift her from that flaming wreckage and carry her in his arms to safety.

He hurried out into the open meadow and ran to meet the flame. A moment later he was engulfed in a fiery wave. It blanketed him in a terrible heat and sent him staggering to his knees; but in a second or two the worst of it was past and he stumbled on through lesser torture, choked and suffocating, groping toward that wreck. The turf underfoot was afire, smouldering deeply and sending up a stinging smoke. Denser clumps of bear grass and sage still crackled and burned. The fire-heated air scorched his nostrils, and he pressed his gloves against his face and breathed through them. He lurched into boulders laid bare by the gutting flames, and stumbled and fell; but rose again each time, and fought on.

In the whirling, flame-shot smoke he missed the wreck at first. Turning left, he came upon it at last by sheer chance. But the fierce, withering heat of it sent Dorn reeling back half-blinded, and he sobbed because he could not force his body into it; and his conscious mind gave way as he realized, in a black, crushing moment, that the tangle of charred debris and white-hot metal could hold only death.

Chapter XXXIV

THOSE THIRTY PIECES OF SILVER.

It was then, when his tyrant will no longer drove him, that Dorn's instinct of self-preservation rose up all-powerful and led him away from the wreck and guided him north to the unburned mesa and across it to a little streamlet cascading from the snowfield above; and caused him to lie down in the icy waters of a tiny cauldron, where he drank and laved his face and felt the cold caress against his parched body.

After a space he got up and began wandering in search of the old Carrier trail. He did not know what he was doing. He could see his hand or a tree or the blue sky above him and the blue of Aurore's lake three thousand feet below — mere physical facts and sensations, but beyond that his mind was blank. It was memory, working subconsciously, that made him look for the path.

He seemed to think that if he found it and followed it down the precipitous mountain slope to Aurore's lake, he would see her standing again in slender and lovely beauty on the jutting boulder, casting lures for trout; and she would come across to him in the white canoe and take him to her little island, and they would live there through summer sunshine and winter snows and the glad burst of spring.

A little way ahead he glimpsed a man, with hands outstretched in front of him, groping and fumbling from tree to tree; and as he drew near he saw it was Soft-Shoe, the murderer of old Dad Bergelot. Dorn spoke, and at the sound of his voice the detective cried out and turned to run and crashed against a pine. Dorn helped him to his feet and steadied him with his hand. As the detective slowly upturned his face, Dorn looked at the quivering features and saw that the man was blinded.

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir:

I noticed in your issue of last night's Examiner that Col. LaFleche, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion said if it were discovered that any local or provincial Command had conducted a lottery it would be reprimanded by the Dominion organization. Has not the local branch of the Legion been conducting a lottery for some time now on a car? I am also led to believe that some people were getting a percentage for conducting the lottery under the Legion name and the party I am told was not a returned soldier. I do not think the Legion should be permitted to make an exhibition of the Union Jack in a game of chance. I am told that the car was purchased outside the city and that the tickets were printed out of the city. Now if you buy out of your own home town and I buy out of my own home town, what will become of our home town.

Yours truly,

A Friend of the Returned Soldiers.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS"

If November 28th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Nebulous influences denote an unsettled atmosphere on this date. A false sense of security may be your undoing. —deceptions abound. You cannot be too cautious in your business affairs, otherwise some serious setbacks may occur.

The child born on this November 29th will have a romantic nature and will be very warm hearted and sympathetic, and very sociable. It will meet with more than the average success in its adult undertakings. It will be good at details, slow and accurate in its work.

Persistency is the greatest gift which nature has given you, and although you do not travel through life in a fast or spectacular way you travel steadily and always in the same direction. You have decided ideas about what you wish to do, and set about doing it, with the best facilities at hand. You seldom let other people discourage you, and you are not afraid of obstacles. You are cautious and thrifty, and do not tear down with one hand that which you have built with the other.

You always have a good word about other people, and are loath to listen to gossip and slander. You are a wise person, in seldom allowing your tongue to get you into trouble. You are very careful about your own reputation for honesty and sincerity and in so doing, you win the respect of every one in your community. You are too genuine to be a bluffer in any respect, and are always ready to deliver the promised goods.

You are neither too narrow-minded, nor too arrogant, to gather ideas from others, and although you may not be very original yourself, you are shrewd enough to recognize cleverness in other people, and to adopt their suggestions. You are observant, and your eyes and ears are your most faithful detectives for things of interest or of use to you. You are always ready to pass on a good thing to some one in need of it. A busy, happy, and moderately successful life is your destiny.

REV. A. MACKENZIE GIVES ADDRESS

Speaker at A.Y.P.A. Meeting in Lakefield Church Parish Hall.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, D.D., gave a delightful talk on his summer trip to England and Scotland with his wife, and daughter, at the Parish Hall of St. John's Church on Monday evening under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A.

The speaker was introduced by the rector the Rev. W. J. Creighton who referred to the delightful book, "In Seagel of England," which he had borrowed from Dr. Mackenzie.

Dr. and Mrs. Mackenzie and their daughter sailed for England on the C.P.R. liner Montrose and landed at Southampton going past the Isle of Wight. They passed Cowes, the place famous for its yacht races and saw the Britannia and the Shamrock, the latter painted bright green. Portsmouth, the headquarters of the British Navy is just across the bay. They docked beside the Mauritania in that wonderful harbour and were met by friends who motored them to their home in the New Forest.

The roads are winding and are bordered with hedges in the south and stone walls in the north. The pressure of taxation since the war weighs heaviest on the land owners far more than on the war profiteers.

At Winchester they visited the Cathedral and had tea with Canon and Miss Braithwaite, who visited Rev. and Mrs. Cox here a few years ago. They visited Westminster Abbey filled with monuments to England's great and admired its wonderful architecture but liked St. Paul's the 'people's church,' much better. It is a great temple of worship.

The Houses of Parliament are not as big as the Capitol at Washington but like everything else in England are well done.

They had afternoon tea with Lady Napier at Hampton Court which is used by the government to give homes to the widows and near relatives of great soldiers and statesmen who have not accumulated much money. There is a grape vine at Hampton Court 350 years old and last year it had nearly 1000 bunches of grapes which were all bought by Americans who were made to pay well for them.

They visited St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, near Blackpool, which is a very famous summer resort. Lancashire is in a bad way with so many mills closed.

Going to Scotland by motor they stopped at Gretna Green to visit the famous blacksmith's shop. England has not many lakes but those she has make up for it. The mountains are high and the lakes nestle between and the steamers are small which run on them. The mountains are fenced off with stone fences and there are lots of sheep. There is no place in England that does not belong to someone and had a fence around it.

They stopped at Ecclefechan to see the birthplace of Thomas Carlyle. They went through the Trossachs and entered the Highlands visiting Glencoe. The speaker told an anecdote which illustrated that the infamous massacre is not forgotten although it occurred in 1692. They also visited Kintail where the Mackenzies came from and over to Skye on a small steamer whose captain was a red bearded man. The crew talked excitedly in Gaelic, and there were a number of shepherds on board clad in homespun knee breeches and bonnets and bearing crooks. They spent several days on Skye and then went to Inverness, the capital of the Highlands, and on to Culloden Moor, Killiecrankie, and Prestonpans. At Holyrood they saw the place where Riggio was killed.

The Scottish War Memorial is a wonderful skill in architecture and the work is all done by Scottish men and women. There is the Holy of Holies with a great stained glass window depicting St. Michael the Archangel triumphing over the spirit of evil and there is the pictures of the Saviour of mankind and at his feet a black marble altar built on the granite rock which bulges through the floor and on the altar is a casket given by the King and in it are one hundred thousand names of Scotland's honored dead.

At Gallashields they saw a monument to a bolder raider one of those mess troopers who used to raid England. This figure represents really the Scottish nation.

Going south they stopped at Abbotsfield and Melrose Abbey, and then back to London for a few days before sailing again for Canada. On board they had a visit from the Rev. Mr. Cox. Coming up the river they saw the R-100 which was a most impressive sight.

MILLBROOK

Messrs. A. J. Henderson, L. Henderson, Harry Ball, and H. A. Fallis motored to Toronto on Monday and attended the Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. H. W. Jordan motored to Hamilton for the week-end, Mrs. Jordan, who has been at her home for the past two weeks owing to her mother's illness, returning with her husband on Sunday evening.

Miss Alice Needler, of Toronto, was a week-end visitor with her uncle and aunt, Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston returned on Tuesday evening, after spending the week-end in Toronto, and attending the Royal Winter Fair.

Mrs. Bragg, of Bowmanville, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. J. J. Russell.

Mrs. E. H. Barnes is visiting relatives in Keene, going before Thanksgiving and remaining for two or three weeks in her home town.

EASIER TREND CONTINUES ON MINING MART

Golds Fairly Strong But Base Metals and Oils Display Weakness.

HOLLINGER GAINS.

Mining Corporation Touches New Low of $1.50 Under Selling Pressure.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28. By the Canadian Press — Easier trend continued in evidence on the mining markets in the forenoon to-day. Golds were a fairly strong faction but both base metals and oils displayed a majority of recessions at noon.

Mining Corp. was again under pressure, price touching a low of $1.50 and standing off 15 from last night at $1.45 at mid-day. Hollinger sold up a quarter at $6. However, and Howey, Siscoe and Granada showed small advances.

International Nickel and Noranda dropped a quarter each for the session, latter selling below $17 for a time. Hudson Bay lost 5 to $5 and Sherritt Gordon a point to 79. Other Base Metal issues were firm.

Cities Service was called for trading on the unlisted section but saw only light turnover. Chemical Research moved up to 15 to $3.40. Nordon fell another point to 57. East Crest 3 to 62, Home Oil a couple to $2.10 and Acme Gas a fraction to 31½.

West Indies Team Scores 212 Runs

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 28 (C.P.)—Despite a great innings by Headley, who scored 131 runs, the visiting West Indian cricket team were all out for 212 runs in their first innings to-day against Victoria. The home team then went to bat and had scored 157 for the loss of two wickets when stumps were pulled for the night. Included in Headley's magnificent effort were fourteen boundaries of four runs each. The score:

FAMOUS PORTRAIT SOLD TO AMERICAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (C.P.) — A Gainsborough portrait of Mrs. Edwin Lascelles, an ancestor of the Earl of Harewood, husband of Princess Mary of England, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Jamison, of St. Louis.

The canvas, thirty by twenty-five inches, is a half length, full-face portrait of an alert young woman, painted while Gainsborough was in his early thirties and belonging to his late Ipswich period.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

TORONTO Nov. 28— (Special to Examiner Correspondence — Some disappointment is felt in the north by the prospecting fraternity that McIntyre-Porcupine has decided to postpone development work on the Tyrell-Knight claims until spring. So far little information has been available regarding this discovery, but unofficially it is stated the showing indicates even larger tonnage possibilities than the Ashley-Garvey find in Bannockburn to the north, through values obtained from sampling of the mineralized dyke have not been so high. The McIntyre group consists of 18 claims which were staked by a prospecting party under Harry Holland about the same time as the Ashley discovery was made.

Mining Corporation is reported to be continuing its program of surface trenching in Bannockburn with encouraging prospects that an ore deposit of commercial value and extent will be represented in results. According to last reports from the property sampling reveals a continuation of the same high values exposed in the original strike, with the values extending into the foot wall of the vein, giving an additional milling width of medium grade ore outside the high grade. Owing to water difficulties the hanging wall has not yet been made available for sampling.

Both imports and exports of copper and copper products increased in the United States last month. Imports of copper in manufactured form by the United States amounted to 30,458 tons in October against 23,713 tons in September and 26,438 in August, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Great Britain imported 16,399 tons of copper in October against 13,757 in the preceding month and 12,308 in August. Exports of refined copper from United States totalled 26,251 tons in October compared with 242,218 in September and 26,175 in August.

Little copper is changing hands in New York these days. Custom Smelters are offering a small tonnage at 10½ cents delivered but as in other times this is largely in order to protect themselves on their intake price during the period of market wuietness. Total tonnage available at anyprice appreciably under 12 cents delivered is small, on the other hand no one wants much copper up to the end of March owing to the fact that fabricators and consumers are covered for long periods ahead. Future trend of the price does not depend on the desires of the producers but upon the trend of world industry.

RAIL SHARES LEAD DECLINE

Industrial Shares Resist Trend After Point or Drop

IN LIGHT TRADING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (C.P.).—The rail shares coasted downgrade with the brakes off in to-day's stock market, dragging the rest of the list after them.

Trading was unusually light, however, and most of the prominent industrial shares resisted the decline after getting down a point or two. With only a day and a half between the holiday and the week-end, speculative interest was at a low ebb.

Missouri Pacific dropped 6 points to 25, the lowest price in 6 years, then recovered moderately. Illinois Central slid down 4 points to a new low for the past 30 years.

New York Central slipped back 3 to the lowest since 1926. Such issues as New Haven, Norfolk and Western, Union Pacific, Southern Railway and Atchison lost 3 to 5. Industrials and utilities losing 2 to 3 included U.S. Steel, American Can., American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Royal Dutch, Eastman Dupont, Loews, Goodyear, North American, Consolidated Gas, Case and Allied Chemical. These shares, in the main, held well above the lows of November 10.

October railway operating income reports continued to show improvement over September, with an aggregate decline of less than 25 per cent. from the like month a year ago, as compared to September's crop of about 30 per cent. from that month in 1929.

Baby Only Laughs To Draw Attention

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(C.P.) When baby laughs, he's merely trying to attract attention and it's no proof he's smart like his parents.

So, research workers at Teacher College, Columbia University, announce after stalking the merriment of 70 tots from the cradle to the kindergarten and taking 2,252 tests.

They found that infants left alone were predominantly serious minded and that only 7 per cent gave way to gurgles. Moreover, the quality of their amusement is so rarified it would have no humorous significance for the average adult.

From 22 cases studied with reference to the correlation between laughter and intelligence, the theory was deduced that 'Smiling Mary' is not a whit brighter than 'Glum John. Laughter seems to be more a matter of temperament it was decided.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Canadian companies will enter the final month of 1930 on Monday next and preparations will then be made for compiling of financial statements covering the year 1930, to be mailed to stockholders in the early months of 1931. Shareholders of most corporations in the Dominion have been at a disadvantage in that officials of numerous concerns have failed to keep their stockholders advised of earnings throughout the year and due to the business depression the actual arrears figures when released may contain something in the way of a surprise. Generally speaking, lower profit will be the rule and judging from the number of quarterly dividend disbursements passed in 1930 and the high income return available from investment in the ordinary shares of some corporations to-day, indications are that some corporations will fall short of meeting their dividend requirements. On the other hand, there will be companies in a position to show earnings maintained at approximately the same level as in 1929 with a few able to report increased profit. Taking the financial statements released so far this year an average drop in profit approximating 25 per cent is indicated. One notable feature of the exhibits to date has been the policy of the management to place their houses in order by writing the value of inventories down to current market prices, setting up reserves for contingencies and revising the value of investments more in line with current market valuations.

Provisions have been made for inventory losses and shrinkage in assets and such corporations will start the new year in good shape and in a position to benefit from improvement in commodity prices. While earnings have been reduced, the liquid position in most cases has been maintained, with adequate working capital and cash resources to take advantage of any quickening in business. Starting the new year on the right foot, Canadian corporations can therefore be expected to reflect increased profit due to any improvement in purchasing power that is bound to come once conditions the world over take a turn for the better.

The market, left to its own resources to-day, made no progress one way or the other. The story the first couple of hours this morning was the same as during previous sessions this week. Leaders within a small fraction of their previous close, trading slow Even the individual stocks which had given some life to the board for a few days were lethargic. News held nothing to encourage fresh buying, wheat prices opened easier and Wall Street also slipped the first hour. One local broker, after lazily surveying the board from the floor of the Toronto Stock Exchange, reflected one might derive consolidation from the fact the same number of shares was outstanding somewhere. One broker on the floor of the Toronto Stock Exchange says there is evidence of a large cash buying order in the process of completion. He points to a consistent demand for securities of a certain type, representing companies having satisfactory dividend record and whi h offer liberal income return at current prices. The accumulation is taking place quietly and cautiously so as not to disturb prices. Buying orders are placed for small quantities and when executed invariably followed by repeals. Who the cash purchaser is supposed to be has not been disclosed but there is talk of a large corporation or institution using this method to employ surplus funds in securities that promise a continuance of dividend disbursements and that are attractive from the standpoint of the yield to be obtained and market depreciation some time in the future.

Rumor Denied.

Official denial has been given by Dominion Stores of reported intension to take over Stanfords, Limited, which has been operating fruit, vegetable and meat stocks in Montreal. While Dominion Stores has reduced the number of units operating in Ontario and Qu bec, this does not signify an end to the company's expansion program. Additional stores are being opened in large centres like Montreal and Toronto as conditions appear to warrant. A large proportion of the Montreal grocery stores have been equipped with facilities for handling meat and this department is said to be proving quite satisfactory. Where Dominion stores itself does not operate, the new department the company has arranged, in a number of cases, for an independent meat store to open adjoining the grocery store, with a direct connection so that its customers may be supplied through the adjoining store

HONOR DUNCAN WALKER.

A fine list of candidates, a record attendance and the presence of a number of officials from Supreme Council contributed to the complete success of the eighth annual reunion assembly of Peterborough Lodge of Perfection, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, held in the Masonic hall yesterday.

The candidates were from the whole district over which Peterborough Lodge of Perfection has jurisdiction. Yesterday's special assembly opened with the reception of candidates at 7 a.m., and from the time of the address of Ill. Bro. E. Bruce Fowler addressing the candidates until the conclusion of the banquet at the Empress hotel the hours were full of interest and pleasant features. Until adjournment at 5 o'clock the members were busy conferring degrees and transacting the business that came up before them. At 8 o'clock there was a reception to Ill. Bro. Lewis F. Riggs, S. G. I. G., and to Ill. Bro. Duncan Walker. After thanking the members for the reception tendered him and referring to the great pleasure it gave him to visit Peterborough Lodge of Perfection, of which he was Hon. Thrice Puissant Grand Master, he referred to the honor conferred on the local lodge through the raising of Ill. Bro. Duncan Walker to a 33-degree Mason by Supreme Council, a much deserved recognition of Bro. Walker's services to Masonry in this district. Bro. Walker was then presented with a jewel significant of his new position. In reply, Bro. Walker thanked the speaker for the kindly attitude of Supreme Council to himself and stated he had done nothing special that he should be the instrument through which Peterborough Lodge should be honored in such a manner and appreciated greatly what Masonry had done for him all through his life.

After this ceremony, the fourteenth degree was conferred by the T.P.G.M. and officers and in which the visiting members took park, assisted by Ill. Bros. W. R. Breyfogle, H. W. Morphet, E. B. Fowler, N. D. Buchanan and M. A. Morrison.

The thrice Puissant Grant Master, John H. Miller, the officers and the members of the several degree trains, received many compliments on their work throughout the day.

After closing the lodge, the members sat down to a sumptuous banquet at the Empress Hotel, presided over by Ill. Bro. J. H. Miller, T.P.G.M., but owing to the very late hour, the program was curtailed.

Music was supplied by the orchestra and by the Octette, composed of members of the lodge, and a short toast list run off.

Yesterdays proceedings were looked upon by all those in attendance as the finest in the history of Peterborough Lodge of Perfection.

The officers for the year are: Thrice Puissant Grand Masters — Ill. Bro. L. F. Riggs, 33°, Toronto; Ill. Bro. W. R. Breyfogle, 33°; Ill. Bro. E. Bruce Fowler, 33°; Ill. Bro. H. W. Morphet, 32°; Ill. Bro. Duncan Walker, 33°; Ill. N. D. Buchanan, 32°; Bro. M. A. Morrison, 18°. Officers — T.P.G.M., J. H. Miller, 32°, Grd. Sr. Warden, W. L. Ferguson, 18°; Grd. Jr. Warden, W. D. Campbell, 18°; Grd. Treasurer, Vincent Eastwood, 32°; Grd. Secretary, G. W. Haley, 32°; Grd. Orator, I. P. McNabb, 32°; Grd. Almoner, John I. Allen, 32°; Grd. M. of C., A. S. Zavitz, 18°; Grd. Expert, J. A. Trustees — Vincent Eastwood, 32°; H. W. Morphet, 32°; M. A. Morrison, 18°.

BOY CANDIDATES SPEAK AT BANQUET

Address Y's Men's Club at Regular Weekly Meeting.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Y's Men's Club held last night at the Y.M.C.A. the Sunday School superintendents and members of the local Boys' Work Board were in attendance.

The guests included A. B. Gates Harold Rehill, A. W. Gamble, C. Sproat, Arthur Bacon, Don. McHoull along with the two candidates for the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament, John Hunter and Andy Rutter. President Harry Tudhope was in the chair. The speakers were introduced by James McClenaghan, Boys' Work secretary of the Y.M.C.A. and secretary of the local Boys Work Board.

The Boys' Work Program as carried on in Peterboough by the local board was ably presented under three different headings as follows:

Donald McHoull, who represented Peterborough at the annual meeting of the Ontario Boys' Work Board held in Toronto recently, outlined in a very interesting manner the ideals of the C.S.E.T. program.

He pointed out that through the four-fold program—devotional, Intellectual, social and physical—it was hoped to build better Canadian citizens.

Andy Rutter, who is a candidate in the coming election, explained the practical application of the program as practicied by the T.O.B Square, of which he is a member. He stated that after the group was first organized they became interested in organizing and initiating other groups throughout the city. Becoming interested in World Brotherhood they joined the Junior League of Nations and corresponded with boys in other lands. He stated that the church took care of their devotional training and the school the intellectual. They found also that their physical training was well taken care of by church, hockey, basball and basketball leagues, in addition to that conducted by the Y.M.C.A. In closing he appealed to the club for leaders. Fellows who would sacrifice a little of their time in building better Canadian Christian citizens.

Present Member

John Hunter, present Boys' Member of Parliament for Peterborough, outlined in a splendid manner the functions of the Boys' Parliament which is conducted annually during the Christmas week.

He said that the first Boys' Parliament took place in the Parliament Buildings in 1917. The purpose for which it was organized was to stimulate the growth of Christian character on the part of the boys by the promotion of the four-fold program. The duty of the Parliament is to promote and conduct camps, conferences, athletic contests, leadership training and the sale of bonds for the carrying on of the work.

It was hoped that through the promotion of the four-fold program to keep boys from drifting into bad company and to secure them for the Kingdom; also to develop the spirit of world brotherhood among all denominations and color.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was decidedly weak yesterday, and after opening about one cent lower, declined another cent, from which point there was a recovery of about a half cent, but this small upturn was not held, the market again selling off to make new lows for the day. The recovery was due to short covering or buying against the daily bids, but offerings were fairly liberal throughout the session, especially in December, and this was attributed to liquidation of one or two of the chief holders of this future. The market acted nervous at times on the breaks, but there was no real support in the market beyond the local short covering, and export sales overnight, and again yesterday morning were very disappointing. Early estimates of export sales were placed around 400,000 bushels but most of this business proved later to be only a changing of hands of stocks held in Montreal. The American markets were all closed yesterday and there was very little going on between the two markets in the way of spreading. Liverpool closed 2¼ to 2½ lower, about two cents lower than due and Buenos Aires was 2 to 2¼ lower at mid-day. Broomhall was out with an estimate of the Argentine crop and he placed the surplus of wheat in that country at around 205,000,000 bushels. There was a fairly good demand for cash wheat but it was mostly for low grades from American mills. There was a little demand for other grades from shippers in the way of filling tonnage but this was quite small, and while offerings were not pressing spreads were all about unchanged. Winnipeg futures closed 2¼ to 2¼ lower. Practically on the bottom.

Coarse Grains. — These markets were very quiet, and while there was not any particular selling pressure in evidence due to the low prices already existing the demand was very ordinary, with the markets being lower throughout due to weakness in wheat. The cash markets were also dull and featureless.

Liverpool due ⅝ to ¾ lower based on Winnipeg.

COUNTY COUNCIL VISITS BRIDGES

Extensive Repairs to Bensfort and Wallace Point Bridges Inspected.

TO-DAY'S SESSIONS.

A light business session of the County Council this morning was followed by a chilly outing this afternoon to inspect the extensive repairs that are being made to the Bensfort and Wallace Point bridges. Reeve Tedford of Norwood, chairman of the Roads and Bridges committee, arranged this trip. He wished the members of the council to see for themselves the work that had been done at both bridges.

The Council decided this morning to apply to the Department of Education for rent of $12 a month for the school inspector's office at the Court House. Not only is the office supplied, but it is cleaned, heated and lighted by the County.

Highway Costs

This morning's discussion naturally got around to the old question of whether the Provincial Government could be persuaded to relieve the counties of the twenty per cent. charge of the cost of provincial highways. Deputy-Reeve Waterman, North Monaghan, referred to a petition which the Mayor of Guelph was sponsoring, but it was felt that the Guelph request was mainly concerned about an advantage for the cities, who objected to paying their share of the cost of highways that are built outside of their boundaries.

County Clerk Elliott reminded the Council of the influence of the truck manufacturers and the Chambers of Commerce. He recalled the experience of two years ago when the County Council tried to suspend truck traffic on the county roads while winter was breaking up, and the roads were threatened with serious damage by the heavy trucks. The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce succeeded in having this order countermanded; the roads were churned up, and the roads department spent most of the summer and considerable money in repairing them. That incident has not been forgotten in County Council circles.

Reeve Sanderson of Havelock said the road tax was not distributed as equitably as it might be. The trucks paid only their license and gasoline tax, but they were using the highway and taking a large amount of business from the railways and causing unemployment among trainmen.

Reeve McIntyre said that if the counties would keep up the pressure on the government they might get the highway bill down to at least ten per cent. instead of twenty.

In this vein of comment and criticism, members once more voiced an old grievance, but it was admitted that Peterborough County had not been hard hit as compared with other counties in Ontario which have larger highway bills to pay. But looming up in the near future is the new Peterborough-Havelock road which will have to be paid for.

"WITH BYRD AT THE SOUTH POLE."

What a pictured story is contained in these films that are actual records of the real thing. Not made in Hollywood on faked locations, but snapped by the camera's eye at the bottom of the world, by the two Paramount men who went with Rear Admiral R. E. Byrd, of the United States Navy when he sailed in the City of New York to fly over the South Pole.

A terrific Polar blizzard smashing to smithereens the plane that had brought Gould and his men to Rockefeller Mountain and sending them cowering to refuge in snow caverns built over the top of ice centuries old and stretching down into water two thousand feet deep.

Byrd and that super-pilot, Bernt Balchen, making the flight over the Pole, throwing out two hundred pounds of food to keep the plane from sinking over the perilous crevasses of the Axel Heiberg Glacier, and then sending a stone from Floyd Bennett's grave, wrapped in a tiny American flag, down, down through space to find a resting-place over the magnetic Pole.

Spy, the lamed and dying lead dog of the team, trudging through miles of snow to take his place once again and then to limp his last long mile before he found his end in that bleak continent.

These are only bits of that enthralling, absorbing tale that makes its way over the screen for almost two hours and gives in pictured detail, the story of the famous exploit by the keen-eyed commander who went fifteen thousand miles to that bleak world where eternal day-light reigns for six months in the year, the clock round, and then comes "long night" of another six months. With blazing torches, the men went out to examine the condition of the crevasses in that long night and made their way back through the darkness, guided by the winking beacon light over "Little America", as they called their snow home

No adequate idea of the perils and struggles of those long months can be gained without seeing this remarkable picture. Black whales come up to 'blow' in the ice holes in the front door yard of Little America; seals play on the ice, and the terrific blizzards swoop down without warning in Antarctica and the jagged mountains of eternal ice rise against the skyline. Byrd is the loved and courageous commander and his men manifestly adore him. As they sail for home, they leave behind their staunch planes, ghostlike against that forbidding skyline. They leave Spy, theat faithful leader of the dog-train; they leave Amundsen's cairn, erected so many years ago, and they leave a penguin with a little black bow tie across his white shirt front, a last bit of fun for the men.

COUNTY COUNCIL HEARS WOMAN'S APPEAL FOR HER RE-ADMISSION TO LAKEFIELD HOUSE OF REFUGE

Was Admitted Twice But Expelled—Not Amenable to Rules.

PETITION FOR ROAD.

Delegation From Asphodel—Praise For Duncan Macfarlane.

The road in Otonabee township from the Locks to Bensfort bridge was assumed as a county road by the county council Thursday afternoon.

This formality effected the change in classification to which the Department of Highways assented a few weeks ago.

Another bylaw appointed James M. Brownlee caretaker of the Court House, succeeding Fred Mahood.

A Woman's Appeal

A woman of 58 years protested to the council that she had been refused admission to the House of Refuge. She is a resident of Douro and unmarried. It transpired that she had also not been received into the House of Providence.

Reeve Coons, chairman of the House of Refuge Board intimated that the woman was the cause of friction with the management of the House of Refuge.

John Clarke, reeve of Galway said: "To put it plainly this woman tried to be as ugly as she could when she was in the House of Refuge."

Mr. Coons said the Board had fully investigated her complaints and apparently there was not sufficient room in the House for her and its matron.

Reeve Griffith, Belmont, suggested that the woman be given another chance. There were some inmates who were helpless and win a heavier care and charge on the management.

Mr. Clark said that these were natural cases due to physical disabilities, but this woman was not amenable to the ordinary rules of community life that were essential in the House of Refuge.

The woman's petition was left with the committee of management. Members declined to supersede the authority of the committee. She had been twice committed to the House of Refuge.

A Road Request

Christie and Cornelius ... of Asphodel made a request to the council to assume as a county road that section of township road reaching from Finn's corners on the Norwood highway, northward four miles, to McPhee's corners on the Dummer-Norwood road. No action was taken at Thursday's session.

Half this road is in Dummer and half in Asphodel. Every local motorist probably knows the locality of Finn's corner. On the way to Norwood, the turn south to Westwood is one of the landmarks. To proceed to Norwood, the route turns north a few hundred yards and then turns east again. That turn is at Finn's corners.

One of the advantages of the improved road sought by the Asphodel delegation was a county road all the way from Westwood to Warsaw.

A. ... Fellowes' Objects

A. M. Fellowes, district road superintendent, disapproved the assumption of these four miles unless the council provided Duncan Macfarlane, county road superintendent, with more money to meet the increased expenditure.

"The Department of Highways wants to see the system of county roads extended" Mr. Fellowes stated, "but from the Department's standpoint it all comes down to a matter of dollars and cents. You have taken over the "flat road" in Otonabee this afternoon. That road is an extra connecting link between Northumberland and Durham and Peterborough. You already have 130 miles of county roads in your system. With the new highway you lose 27 miles, but six of these miles will not be taken off for a year or so. You are spending around $80,000 a year. If you could increase that to $100,000. I'd say go ahead and take over this other piece of road. And I think the Bensfort Road should be included in the suburban area. The city should pay 25% of the cost because that road brings business into the city.

I cannot advise you to take on a lot more road and load up Mr. Macfarlane with more miles than his appropriation can take care of. Remember, that when the new highway is built you will have 20% of that to pay."

Praise for Mr. Macfarlane

In other words, Mr. Fellowes turned his thumbs down on the Asphodel request, unless the county council increased its annual county road budget. He spoke of Mr. Macfarlane as one of the best road graders in the whole province.

"That is how your superintendent stands with the engineers in Toronto" said Mr. Fellowes. "I am not telling you that because Mr. Macfarlane is here. He is doing fine work and we like it, and we only wish you could see your way to providing him with more money to spend on your roads."

IT was embarrassing to his friends—doubly so to him. No matter what he ate, it caused gas and distress. He was nervous, irritable and rapidly losing weight. He couldn't sleep. So-called "quick relief" had no effect. A friend suggested Tanlac. In a few days the gaseous condition left him. His nerves relaxed. And now he is completely well—sleeps like a top.

If you suffer with gas, indigestion, acidity in stomach, and are restless from stomach vibrations, why don't you try Tanlac? It is good, pure medicine—and when you have finished the bottle—unless you are more than delighted, the unused portion of the bottle will be refunded at once. Tanlac costs less than 3c a dose and your money will be refunded if it does not help you. Get a bottle at your druggist's today.

Wins First Prize AS SKINNIEST MAN

It's just as dangerous to be too thin as too fat—and there's just one logical way to put on flesh where flesh is needed.

No man wants a prize for being the skinniest man in town—not even a purse of gold.

For years McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets have been helping people who are willing to be helped to gain needed flesh and while doing so gain in vigor, strength and physical attractiveness.

It's a great tonic tablet is McCoy's—small—sugar coated—easy to take. You can get a box of 60 tablets for 60 cents—a fair enough price. Take them for 28 days and if you do not gain at least 5 pounds get your money back from McDermid & Jury, McDermid's Bond's Lynch, and Payne's, or any drug store anywhere. Just ask for McCoy's.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR CITY FREE RINKS

Workmen Cutting Weeds, Fixing Banks and Installing Lights For Winter's Fun.

The approach of wintry weather, long and eagerly looked-for by winter sports enthusiasts, has already ushered in extensive preparations for the opening of the ice hockey season. Members of St. John's Hockey Club were last evening busily engaged in flooding their rink on Monaghan Road near Bolivar Street, which now boasts its first coating of ice. If the present low temperature is maintained, as the hockey players hope it will be, subsequent evenings will see them applying further floodings of water.

City workmen are also engaged in clearing the city's free rinks of weeds and grass, fixing the banks and installing lights, anticipating the day when the City Fire Department shall turn out to flood them.

Miscellaneous Shower Given Young Couple

BURNBRAE, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Tuesday evening a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Monroe, formerly Ada Millar, gathered at the home of the latter's parents to present them with a miscellaneous shower.

Rev. D. A. McKeizie acted as chairman for a short program when a humorous address of congratulation was given by him; solo, Albert Gifford; piano solo, Dorothy Watson, and reading and encore, Miss Clara Parry.

An appropriate address was read by Miss Hazel McKenzie and signed on behalf of the gathering by Jessie Linn, Robert Matthews and Hazel McKenzie.

Mr. Monroe replied in a few words, thanking his friends for their kindness. Following this a social hour was enjoyed while lunch was being served. Cards and dancing were enjoyed after the lunch hour.

Club Holds Dance

The members of the Menie Softball Club held an enjoyable dance in Lamb's Hall on Friday evening. An oyster supper was served, followed by a short program and dance. The event was a successful one, with a splendid crowd present.

BEN LOMOND, SCOTLAND, SOLD

LONDON, Nov. 27 (C. P. Cable). — The sale is announced of Ben Lomond and ten thousand acres of the Howard-Ennan estate in Stirlingshire, Scotland, belonging to the Duke of Montrose. The name of the purchaser was not revealed.

FORMER RESIDENT IS HONORED BY FRIENDS

John Adams Retires From Active Connections With Cockshutt Plow Company.

OMEMEE, Nov. 28.—John Adams, of Regina, who was born in Omemee and uncle of Robert Adams, of town was guest of honor at the Regina Wholesale Implement Association on the occasion of his retirement as manager of Cockshutt Plow Company for Southern Saskatchewan.

H. H. Kolhman, John Deer Plow Co., on behalf of the Association, presented Mr. Adams with a Patrician writing set and expressed the feelings of all wholesale implement men when he congratulated Mr. Adams on his long and splendid record in the implement business.

Beginning in Ontario 46 years ago and with the Sylvester Co., later with Massey Harris Co. and finally the Cockshutt Plow Co. Of this period some forty years were spent in Western Canada.

Mr. Adams responded appropriately and gave a very interesting account of the great changes he has seen in agriculture and in the implement business as well as in the wonderful development of Western Canada.

Mr. Adams retires from active service with all his faculties, mental and physical, unimpaired and is probably personally known to as many implement dealers and travellers as any implement man in Western Canada.

He was unanimously elected an Honorary Life Member of the Saskatchewan Wholesale Implement Association of which he had been a member for years.

BURNBRAE, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence)—The wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 22 at Burnbrae manse, of Ada, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Millar, and Franklin F. Monroe, of Peterborough, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, in the presence of immediate relatives.

WOMAN FLYER DETAINED

HAVANA, Nov. 27.—(C.P.)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller was held here this morning awaiting weather reports before attempting a flight to Miami, Washington and Pittsburgh. Her plane is not equipped with instruments for blind flying and she hesitated to leave in the face of reported fogs between here and Florida.

OBITUARY

MICHAEL HOOLIHAN

DOWNEYVILLE, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Michael Hoolihan was held from his late residence north of Downeyville on Wednesday morning to St. Luke's Church where mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Galvin who afterwards said the prayers at the cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Vincent O'Connell, Dennis Shine, Timothy Callahan, Michael Harrington, John O'Leary and Edward Hoolihan.

The late Mr. Hoolihan has been in poor health for several years.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, one son, Fergus at home, three daughters, Eileen, of Detroit, Catherine, R.N., of Peterborough, and Dorothy at home. Four sisters, Mrs. Dennis C. Scully, of Downeyville, Mrs. Monahan, Detroit, Mrs. Hendley of Lindsay; two brothers, Joseph in the West and Edward C. in Emily. His mother also survives, living in Lindsay.

The funeral was largely attended showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held, having been born and lived all his life near Downeyville.

MRS. MARY JANE BARKER.

LAKEFIELD, November 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — St. John's Church was filled to capacity on Wednesday afternoon when a large part of the community gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to Mrs. Mary Jane Barker, who died very suddenly on Monday. Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., rector of the parish, officiated, and paid a beautiful tribute to her noble life and character and her usefulness in the community. Her life was a practical illustration of our Lord's command to visit the sick and sorrowful and help them, and she obeyed His injunction, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me."

"Loving Shepherd of the Sheep" was sung by the vested choirs with Mrs. Todd at the organ. The pall bearers were Messrs. F. G. Kendall, H. McCracken, E. J. Robertshaw, G. H. Spence, W. H. Stabler and C. Thomson. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Mary Jane Wood was born in England, 65 years and 10 months ago and there she married the late Thomas Barker who pre-deceased her a number of years ago. She came to Canada about seventeen years ago and since that time has resided in Lakefield where she made many friends. During the war in which her two sons and son-in-law served, she was a "Mother in Israel" to the lonely wives of the men overseas and the tribute paid her by these women is a lasting monument to her memory. Her helping hand for the soldiers and their dependents was always outstretched and the dawn of peace did not end her work for she was a faithful and devoted member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion. She was also a loyal members of the Church of England and one of the outstanding workers in the W.A. Last year she represented the Lakefield branch at the Diocesan annual and brought back an interesting and inspiring report, making a strong appeal for help for the white settlers in the far north-west.

The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community goes out to her bereaved family, her daughter, Mrs. Walter Chapell and her son, Arthur, who are well known and highly respected in the community. Her older son George, resides in England.

JOHN MASON.

HASTINGS, Nov. 28.—One of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Northumberland County passed away in the person of John Mason, who died at his home in Cobourg on Saturday in his 90th year.

The late Mr. Mason was the second oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Mason of Baltimore, his parents being born in Scotland as well as some of the family. His mother, the late Jessie Glass, was born in the same house Premier Ramsay MacDonald of England was born in. During his early manhood Mr. Mason taught school at Fife's school, Hastings, Lang and Keene.

In 1874 he married Eliza Brown, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown of Roseneath, after which they settled on a farm in Haldimand township, to them were born three children, W. J. E. Mason of Roseneath, John A. of Peterborough, and Mrs. William Nill of Cavan. His wife predeceased him thirteen years ago. One brother in Toronto also survives. In 1923 he married again to Mrs. Martha Stocker of Vancouver, B.C., who also survives him.

The late Mr. Mason took an active part in military circles and had attained the rank of Captain which he held until the time of the Fenian Raid. He was also a member of the Masonic Order being one of the oldest members in the County of Northumberland. He was a staunch supporter of the Liberal party in politics. In religion he was a devout member of the Presbyterian church, being superintendent of the Sunday School Bible Class, choir leader and elder of Roseneath Presbyterian church. He was an arden agriculturist being president of the Farmers' Institute and one of the speakers sent around to other Institute meetings. He made several trips to the old country bringing back thoroughbred stock.

The funeral was held from his late residence, Cobourg, on Monday and was very largely attended, friends and relatives from St. Mary's, Toronto, Fenella, Peterborough, Campbellford, Hastings, Roseneath, Baltimore and Cobourg were present to pay their last respects and tribute to one who was loved by all in the community. The service was conducted by the Rev. D. A. Thomson, D.D., of Hastings, assisted by the clergy of Baltimore. Interment took place in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

The bearers were Messrs. R. T. Walls and Archie Russell of Cobourg, Mr. Mason of Baltimore, Arthur McFiggin and John Cowling of Fenella and Charles Brown of Roseneath. He also requested Miss Graham of Cavan to sing a solo as she had also done at his deceased wife's funeral thirten years ago, Rev. D. A. Thomson had also conducted the service.

242 OLD AGE PENSIONS GRANTED BY BOARD FOR PETERBORO COUNTY

Annual Report to Council By H. B. Rye, Chairman of the Board.

36 WERE REJECTED.

Peterborough county's Old Age pensioners now number 242, Harold B. Rye, chairman of the pensions board, informs the County Council in his annual report Thursday afternoon.

Thirty-six applications have been rejected and twelve pensioners have already died, with but brief aid and comfort from this noble prize.

The county pensioners were listed according to their local municipalities for February on Mr. Rye's report: Asphodel 8, Belmont and Methuen 27, Burleigh and Anstruther 11, Chandos 19, Douro 10, Dummer 19, Ennismore 11, Galway and Cavendish 7, Harvey 10, North Monaghan 13, Otonabee 19, Smith 23, Norwood 9, Havelock 25, Lakefield 6, also Home of Refuge inmates 12, other such institutions as hospitals for the insane 2. Total 242.

The provincial officials have made only one demand against the estate of a deceased pensioner in this county, and that was in Ennismore, the repayment on the pension account being $157.50. Half that sum was refunded to the Dominion Government, authors of the Pensions Act.

Mr. Rye stated that under an amendment of the legislation an applicant is permitted to have a certain sum of money in the bank. This asset does not debar a request for pension. The local board estimates the annuity which that sum would yield, and subtracts the amount of the annuity from the usual pension allowance. For example, one thousand dollars at the age of 71 years will provide the owner of the money with an annuity of $150. Mr. Rye answered other questions asked by members of the council, and his report was adopted.

Extolled Mr. Rye

Referring to Mr. Rye's service as chairman of the county pensions board, Reeve Clark said: "It is quite in order to give the chairman full credit for the manner in which the work is carried out, for the pains he takes to know the law and to get all information about the applicants, and for the advice he gives the board. I don't know where you would get a man to do the work better."

The council's appreciation of Mr. Rye's contribution to the social welfare of the county was embodied in a resolution by Mr. Clark, seconded by Mr. Coons. It was conveyed to Mr. Rye by Warden Hawthorne.

Mr. Rye thanked the members of the council for their confidence.

"I can't take all the credit" he said. "Every member of the county's pensions board takes as much pains as I do in obtaining information and carrying out the duties of the office. And I wish to say that I have not yet seen one case in which a member of the board was putting forth any extra pressure for an applicant from his municipality. I can go further and say that act the other way. They sit back, state the case, and leave it to the other members."

Reeve Leahy said the Board as a whole deserved credit for the satisfactory and thorough way in which they did their work, earning a special compliment from the head of the Provincial board in Toronto.

"Our board has shown itself to be fair to all the municipalities" Mr. Leahy stated. "They have to learn a lot about every case, and I move a vote of appreciation to the entire board."

Reeve Tedford, Norwood, seconded the motion.

Mr. Edgar's Invitation

John Edgar invited the members to attend the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society at the City Hall Thursday night. He reminded the members that the warden was an Honorary President of the society.

Petition Tabled

A resolution by the council of Bruce county, memorializing the Ontario government to extend the Mothers' Allowance Act to mothers of one child. No action was taken.

Reeve McIntosh recalled that Dr. Jamieson of the provincial board had stated in Peterborough that the inclusion of this category was costing the Province an additional $1,000,000 a year.

"I don't want to influence the members in any way" said Mr. McIntosh. "I don't know whether you wish to do anything with this resolution or not, but I remember that we were told it would require another million dollars a year from the province."

TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher (address on request) has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

STAGE CARD PARTY AT CAMPBELLFORD

Bridge and Euchre Enjoyed at Successful Function—Dance Afterward.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The euchre and bridge drive, staged by the Catholic Women's League of Campbellford in their club room at the Herald Block on Tuesday evening proved a very successful event.

Twenty-three tables were in play, these being divided between the two games. The prize winners for euchre were: Ladies, first, Miss Mary Collins, second, Mrs. C. Cronk. Gent's, first, J. Doherty; second Ed. O'Connor. For bridge, Mrs. Ernest Birk won the ladies' prize for highest score and G. O'Sullivan the gent's highest score award. Miss Francis Lynch won the lucky number prize.

A dainty lunch was served during which Mrs. James Black delighted the gathering with a recitation. After lunch the younger folks enjoyed a dance, music being supplied by a radio loaned for the evening by John Nancarrow.

prompting. It was a hard field of contestants to judge, and it was generally conceded that the officials showed a wise choice in their decision.

The other competitors were: Seymour, Pauline Ingram, S.S. 1; G. Dunham, S.S. 3; C. Stanbury, S.S. 3; Edward Rutherford, S.S. 4; Irene Curle, S.S. 4; James Ostiff, S.S. 5; George Bounds, S.S. 6; Irene Laird, S.S. 6; Billie Hoey, S.S. 7; Alexander Brown, S.S. 10; Arthur Roe, S.S. 11; Garland Irwin, S.S. 11; Clarence Thompson, S.S. 11; Grace Lewis and George Brown, Fleming's, and Lillian Collins and Francis Bibby, Sacred Heart School; Campbellford, Ruth Farrell, Patricia Cryderman, and Jack Carr.

Teachers' Association.

Inspector A. A. Martin addressed the gathering, expressing his appreciation at the large attendance and the interest in the children that it signified. He touched on the fact that the Township of Seymour had organized a Teachers' Association which was for the purpose of mutual help, and suggested that the trustees do the same thing.

Speaking of the future of the children, he made a plea that they be educated, not to leave the farms, but to make their home on them. He knew that this meant work, he said, but stated that all success meant hard labor. It was up to the parents to teach them that farming was not a disgrace. Mr. Martin also stressed the importance of the teaching of music in the schools, pointing out that there were still three schools in Seymour that had not taken up the idea, and urged them to do so.

Develops Children.

Robert Dawson of Castleton, president of the association, also addressed the gathering, explaining the origin of the contest and showing how they had eventually limited the area to the County of Northumberland. Of the contest, he stated that it was for the purpose of bringing out the child's own thought and speech. It was essential that the child looked, spoke, and behaved naturally and got away from outside help as much as possible.

Mr. Dawson also stated that he wished the citizens of Campbellford would get behind the movement as except for the donating of the High School, it had not given one cent to the association, and he thought that it would look bad if the report had to be sent into the Department showing this fact.

Mr. Duncan, in delivering the judges' decision, expressed his appreciation at the largeness of the gathering and his pleasure at officiating in the capacity as judge. He thought that the idea was the right one and said that it was possible to bring forward out of such a group as was represented there that evening some of the future great leaders in our national life.

R. A. Bateson, vice-president of the association, presented the awards, each cup also having a miniature trophy which would be the personal property of the winner. In addition each contestant was presented with a prize book and another gift, these being given by Mr. Martin.

Contributing to the musical portion of the program were selections by A. Hazel's Orchestra, and several entertaining numbers by the pupils of S.S. Nos. 2, 4, 6, 5 and 18.

LIVELY DEBATE AT CONFERENCE

Germany's Delegate Was Accused of Obstructing the Whole Conference.

VICTORS AND VANQUISHED.

GENEVA, Nov. 2 —(CP)—Leaders of the Preparatory Disarmament Conference exchanged rhetorical blows yesterday in debate over relative obligations of the victors and the vanquished in the Great War, with Von Bernstorff of Germany and Lord Cecil of Great Britain participating.

The debate centered about the new French thesis that the victors have the option of reducing armaments or leaving the situation as it is.

Von Bernstorff, said he would feel justified in voting against the whole tentative convention draft if it contained such a proposal, and Lord Cecil charged that Germany's delegate was obstructing the whole conference.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE SENT GOOD WISHES

Established on Playgoers' Subscription Basis to Receive Good Plays.

LONDON, November 27 (By. Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — A message of good wishes wes received from His Majesty last night by The People's Theatre, which has been established on a playgoers' subscription basis with a foundation membership of 25,000. It is hoped to thus revive the public interest in good plays by restaging those which have already earned just approval.

"The Man from Blankley's" is the company's first venture. It appears an eminently suitable choice, for though the play definitely "dates" itself, it is a lively register of the foibles and weaknesses which are likely to remain human nature for all time. F. Anstey's play was first produced in London in 1900.

CREAMERY MEN ELECT OFFICERS

Pass Resolution Opposing on System of Admitting Butter Into Canada.

TRENTON MAN PRESIDENT.

TORONTO, Ont., November 28 (C. P.). — A resolution opposing any system of admitting butter into Canada from any other Dominion under license and favoring unrestricted competitive trading with this country was passed by the Canadian Creamery Association of Ontario at the conclusion of the 15th annual convention here.

A motion asking that the resolution request Dominion legislation compelling all imported butter to bear an imperial station the country of origin, was tabled.

The association resolved to impress upon the Government the necessity of applying the dump duties on consignment shipments of butter sold from bonded warehouses as may be levied on butter sold before arrival.

Officers elected were:

President, W H Enkle Trenton; 1st Vice-president M D Werner, Hamilton; 2nd Vice-president W W Doole, Brockville; secretary-treasurer Stan Thurston Thornbury.

Directors G P Taylor Jr Galt; Lorne Reddick Kemptville; J L Hatton, Owen Sound; J A McFetes, Toronto; Stuart Rawlings Lindsay; J H Dupen, London; S J plett, New Liskeard.

R. T Stillman, Brantford, was appointed representative to the National Dairy Council.

LACK OF WATER SERIOUS AFFAIR

Wells Are Dry and Water Must Be Hauled a Considerable Distance For Stock.

WATER FROM L. ONTARIO.

TORONTO, Ont., November 28 (C. P.). — Lack of water is constituting a serious problem for the farmers of Ontario and Peel Counties. According to reports the situation is specially bad in the vicinity of Myrtle Ashburn, Prospect, and the Scugog Island. Wells which have never lacked water for years are totally dry and some have been forced to the extremity of hauling water for a considerable distance in order to keep a supply on hand for the live stock.

Some families in the rural sections are finding it difficult to secure pure drinking water. Prayers for rain is not an uncommon thing at rural church services these days.

Residents of Toronto Township are alarmed at the outlook for a water famine during the coming winter and so far no solution appears in sight. More than 50 per cent of the wells in the district have run dry, some of them for the first time in forty years. In the Lakeview section a single well supplies as many as fifty families, and this may soon become dry, in view of the heavy drain on its supply.

In many cases farmers have been obliged each day to walk their cattle for several miles to water and failing a heavy rain before the ground becomes frozen, there is little hope of the wells being of service this winter. While drinking water for Lakeview and Middle Road Public Schools is purchased daily from a Toronto firm, water for other purposes is hauled from Lake Ontario. The only relief, it is feared, will be in the construction of water mains to connect with the Port Credit system, which would be a costly undertaking, it is stated, in view of the distance.

Safeguards Against Being Buried Alive

MRS MARY TRUE

SIR THOMAS HORDER

ANN CARTER LEE

ANY MOVEMENT OF BODY SETS INVENTION IN MOTION

The British Labor Government hopes to enact a law establishing safeguards against being buried alive. The law is backed by Sir Thomas Horder, Physician-in-Ordinary to the Prince of Wales. There have been remarkable cases reported where people pronounced dead have been found to be very much alive. Ann Carter Lee, who was declared dead and buried in the old Lee vault in Virginia, was discovered alive as the old sexton brought fresh flowers to lay on her casket. He heard her faint cries—accomplished a rescue and fifteen months later she became the mother of the famous Confederate general, Robert E. Lee. Quite recently Mrs. Mary True, a new York nurse, was found "dead" in a pullman sleeper. After an examination by physicians, the woman was pronounced dead and removed to an undertaking establishment where she came back to life. A Russian nobleman, Count Karnice-Karnicki, has invented an apparatus to secure immediate discovery of a return to life as shown in the above diagram.

SOCIETY WORK SALE SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Affair Held Thursday Afternoon in Connection With St. George's Church.

The annual sale of work in connection with St. George's Church was held in the church basement on Thursday afternoon. The long tables placed round the room were filled with goods of all kinds. The Ladies' Guild is the main organization behind this effort, and their table of plain and fancy sewing showed some beautiful embroidery and crochet work, quilts and wearing apparel. Mrs. H. Wood president, and Mrs. R. King had charge of this booth. A table of home-made cooking and candy in attractive colored paper baskets had table decorations of white and blue, and had Mrs. P. Malsch and Mrs. C. Cole in attendance. Mrs. J. Huxley and Mrs. F. Dorrell had charge of the Country Store, where provisions and vegetables could be obtained. The Woman's Auxiliary was represented by a table where plants and fancy goods were on sale, also M.S.C.C. Calendars for 1931. Mrs. E. Tucker, president of the W.A., had charge of this booth.

The work of the Junior Auxiliary was seen in the booth where Mrs. J. L. Hughes, president, and Mrs. J. McWilliams were in charge, assisted by the girls, who also did a good business with a fish-pond. Embroidered towels and aprons, dressed dolls and novelties, also two pretty cot quilts, one of embroidered blocks in red and white, were the work of the girls, while the work of the boys was seen in the blotter calendars and raffia table mats. The tea room was in charge of Mrs. M. Farthing and Mrs. F. McBride. A good business was carried on here in the afternoon, the large number of ladies in attendance enjoying the welcome addition of the afternoon tea served.

ENGLAND LOSES OUT IN MATCHES

Of Three Matches England Wins One Doubles at Hands of Thomas and White.

A THOUSAND SPECTATORS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 28.—(C. P.)— Before the slashing, aggressive stroking of Vancouver's top rank stars, touring badminton players from England last night succumbed in two of three International matches. Only from a thrilling doubles in which the veteran Sir George Thomas and R. M. White defeated J. G. Muir and Jack Underhill, were the Britons able to pull a victory.

Underhill, former Canadian champion, beat the all-England champion, D. C. Hume, 15-10, 19-9 and Muir downed J. V. Devlin, former British titlist, 18-14, 15-12, in singles matches. More than a thousand spectators witnessed the games.

In the feature doubles, Thomas and White won by scores of 6-15, 17-14 from Muir and Underhill. The match was the most thrilling of the night, the English pair coming from behind to win both of the last two games.

FOUR SECTIONS IN CHURCH LOOP

Officers Elected For Year at Annual Meeting of the League.

NEW REGULATIONS.

The annual meeting of the Church Hockey League was held in the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening. The main item of business was the election of officers, which are as follows: President, Howard Hall; 1st Vice-Pres., Creswell Sproat; 2nd Vice-Pres., A. Hope; secretary-treasurer, H. T. Renill.

Those present received a copy of the new rules and regulations. The league will be made up of four sections, Midget, Juvenile, Junior and Senior. The age limits being the same as in former years. All entries are to be handed in at the Y.M.C.A. or to the secretary-treasurer not later than December 22nd.

The managers are urged to get their teams lined up so that the league may get away to a good start. Last year there were 16 teams contesting.

WITHOUT BACKING.

BERLIN, Nov. 28 (C.P.).—If the seaplane DO-X flies across the Atlantic it will not be with the financial backing of the German Government, Ernst Brandenburg, of the Transportation Ministry, said to-day.

Commenting on reports from Lisbon that Dr. Claude Dornier, designer of the plane, was on his way here to seek Government financial backing, the Transportation Ministry official said the German budget was accounted for to the last cent, and there was no possibility of a DO-X appropriation.

RIDER INJURED AT ROYAL FAIR

BE BACK NEXT YEAR.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.).—Climaxed by a brilliant military spectacle, Canada's annual agricultural show, the Royal Winter Fair was brought to a close early this morning.

A great horse show which lasted until after midnight featured the evening program, and was concluded by the farewell by Premier G. Howard Ferguson on behalf of the Dominion to members of the international military teams. Premier Ferguson paid tribute to executives of the Fair and said he was pleased to announce arrangements for the return of the teams to the show next year. He also announced new stables would be added to the present buildings.

The horse show, while not participated in so extensively by the visiting military teams, was just as thrilling and saw a number of serious spills, resulting in one instance in serious injuries to William McConnell, of Belfast, Ireland, elderly rider for John Warwick of that city. McConnell before suffering his fall won second and third place in the open high jump feature event of the program. McConnell was attempting to clear the barrier at six feet ten inches, the distance finally negotiated by Danny McCrea on a Hollon Crowell horse of Boston to win the event, when his horse hit the barrier and tossed his rider hard into the turf. He was knocked unconscious, but recovered shortly before removal to the hospital.

In the other main event of the program, Lieut. E. Hasse, of the German Army team, won first place on Derby, Major R. S. Timmis, of Canada, taking second and Capt. W. B. Bradford of the United States team on Suzanne third.

WEDDINGS

CLARK—DEYELL.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Manse on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock when Verna Marguerite only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Deyell was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Howard M. Clark youngest son of Mr. W. J. Clark and the late Mrs. Clark of Peterborough.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of brown georgette and velvet with shoes hose gloves and hat to match and wore a Hudson seal coat with kolinsky trimmings.

Mrs. Fred Fowler, cousin of the bride, and Mr Melville Deyell, brother of the bride, signed the register.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Clark left amid showers of confetti for a motor trip. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a handsome white gold bar pin with pearl settings; to Mrs. Fred Fowler a bar pin with emerald setting; and to Mr. Melville Deyell, cuff links.

On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Ennismore.

OBITUARY

THOMAS BEGLEY.

KING'S WHARF, Nov. 28. — The funeral of the late Thomas Begley was held from the family residence Monday morning, Nov. 24th, to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where Requiem High Mass was said by Rev. Father Galvin, who afterwards said the prayers at the cemetery. In the course of his sermon Father Galvin spoke of the uncertainty of life and the very sudden death of the deceased and stressed upon every one to be always ready, for we know not how, when or where death may strike us.

The late Thomas Begley was of a quiet disposition and was loved and highly respected by all in the community in which he lived and was about his work when suddenly stricken and passed away immediately. Deceased was born and raised here, educated in the school and his death was a great shock to his family and also his numerous friends throughout the district. Left to mourn his loss is his mother, four sisters, Misses Nellie, Annie, Mary and Isobel, all at home, three brothers, Daniel, Dennis and Martin in Emily.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Patrick and Michael Duffy, Joseph and Daniel Flynn, Thomas Morrissey and Joseph Guiry.

AUSTIN BRISTOL.

MADOC, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondent).—The funeral service of the late Austin Wellington Bristol, who passed away in Belleville hospital on Thursday evening, November 20th, was held at his late home on the Madoc-Queensboro Road, on Sunday 23rd, at 2 p.m., and was very largely attended. His pastor, Rev. G. W. Rivers, B.A., B.D., of Trinity United Church, had charge of the service and took as his text, "He was not; for God took him," Gen. 5: 24. Miss L. M. Ramsay sang the beautiful solo, "There'll be no night there."

At the conclusion of the service, the large funeral cortege proceeded to Lakeview Cemetery where interment took place.

The late Mr. Bristol was one of the most highly respected young men of Madoc Township. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bristol, and was only 32 years of age. He had been ill only two days, which made his passing a shock not only to his immediate family but to the whole community.

There are left to mourn his loss, his wife (nee Ella Anderson of Cardinal, Ontario), his two little sons, Ross and Eric, his mother and father, and sister, Luella.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Friends were present from Prince Edward County, Oshawa, Cardinal, and Belleville, besides the large gathering of friends and neighbors of the community.

MRS. GEORGE GIMBLETT

Striking tribute was paid to the memory of Gertrude, beloved wife of Fire Chief George Gimblett at the funeral services held at All Saints' Anglican Church last evening, by Rev. J. D. Paterson and by the Peterborough Chapter Order of the Eastern Star of which the late Mrs. Gimblett was an active member.

The late Mrs. Gimblett was born in New York forty-nine years ago, and previous to coming to this city had resided for many years in Hamilton. She always took a most active part in community welfare and was closely allied with several women's and fraternal organizations. She was a member of the Eastern Star Order, and the 57th Chapter Daughters of the Empire here, and the Pythian Sisters in Hamilton.

Each of these orders was fully represented, while floral tributes and messages of sympathy were received in large numbers, all bearing testimony to her popularity and to her kindly Christian character which made her loved by all with whom she came in contact.

The casket was borne to and from the church, by members of the Peterborough Fire Department, as follows: Chief Electrician, Joe Astles, and Firemen Bert Mason, Jack Masters, Harry Carey, Robert Carr and Ernest Jones.

Previous to the Church Service members of the Order of the Eastern Star conducted the rites of their order, then followed the Church of England burial ritual. The casket afterwards laid at Comstock's Funeral Home until it was forwarded to Hamilton early this morning, for burial there on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The City Council was well represented by Aldermen R. S. Cotton, Fred T. Tuggey, Walter Stocker, G. Macdonald, Malcolm McIntyre and Harry Huffman. City Engineer Roy H. Parsons was also present. There were also representatives of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Ltd., including J. T. Braund and All Saints Lawn Bowling Club.

The chief mourners were, Chief George Gimblett, daughter Mrs. Gertrude Whalen, and three sons George James and Jack, all of this city.

CHARLES STEWART.

STRATFORD, November 28.— The death occurred here last night after a brief illness, of Charles Stewart, postal employee, and the first letter-carrier to deliver mail in Stratford. Mr. Stewart was taken to the hospital last Sunday. He had been secretary of the Separate School Board here for three years. Mr. Stewart was born in Guelph 49 years ago, and came to Stratford a quarter of a century ago. He was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hanna Stewart, in Guelph; one son, Lionel, and a daughter, Catharine, at home, J. A. Stewart, manager of Capitol Theatre, Peterborough, is deceased's only brother.

Father of Ten In Hospital

When you have a small farm with a heavy mortgage and a family of ten children to look after, you don't feel like passing up any chances to earn a few extra dollars. This was Daniel A.'s position in Northern Ontario. He used to work in the evenings, cutting wood and doing chores for his neighbors, because the demands for food and clothes at home were so great. Daniel kept it up for several years but in time the strain told on him, and he developed tuberculosis. He was admitted to the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives, very ill indeed.

However, rest, good food and kindly care are performing their customary miracle for Daniel at this institution, and there is every hope that he will soon be sent home, able to take care of his family again.

Your subscription in aid of this excellent work will be very welcome. Please send it to Mr. A. E. Ames, 288 College Street, Toronto.

Cobourg Will Have New Movie Theatre

Plans for the new Capitol Theater, to be a talking picture house of very high quality, are now in the hands of Murray Brown, well known theater architect of Toronto.

More land has been purchased to permit the erection of a large theater, and a complete new street front is contemplated.

Delay in building plans for the theater has been due to legal difficulties in purchasing land which dates back to royal charter days. Great difficulty was experienced in clearing the record which, however, has now been carried through successfully.

The parade starts at 8.30 o'clock from the Exhibition Grounds, and so that you can get a good place to see it all, we have told you the exact route. It will arrive at the Store about 9.30 a.m.

Santa Claus Arrives Saturday!

And There's Going to be a Wonderful Parade!

Oh! Oh! Oh! What a Big Reception Santa is Going to Get! Mother and Daddy Will Want to See Him Too!

And what a grand procession there will be to escort him!

—First there will be a Motorcycle Officer to clear the way for the Jolly Old Gentleman.

—Then the Herald in his smart, colorful suit of blue and pink with his plumed hat.

—Then the Rangers' Band in their bright uniforms.

—Following the Band will be the City Officials and Members of the Police Department, and then representatives of the Fire Department, mounted on Engines, Trucks and Hose Wagon.

—Then the huge Grasshopper with the funny frog driver in his green and yellow suit.

—The Toonerville Trolley with the Skipper wearing his cocky hat and accompanied by Mickey McGuire will follow the Grasshopper.

—Next comes Mistress Mary's float with her beautiful flowers and garden. She, too, dressed in pretty costume and standing 'midst Cockle Bells and Shells and a huge Butterfly —And then will be a monstrous White Bear kept in place by two funny Clowns—and, I almost forgot,

—Santa himself in his regal red velvet and snowy white, fur-trimmed outfit—on an Iceberg float drawn by Reindeer.

—There will be many capering Clowns cutting up in great style and—be careful they don't play any tricks on you.

—Suits and Costumes of every description are here, including gaudily-striped Clown Suits; huge grey Cat; great brown and white Bear, and a big, big Tiger looking oh! so savage—and the Drivers, looking very smart indeed in their well-tailored, colorful suits.

—Follow the parade and crowd to the Canadian Department Store. Visit Santa's Workshop and see just what he has been doing during the past week.

—You're sure to find a good spot to watch the parade somewhere in the route mentioned, aren't you?

—Don't worry about Santa getting here! He has promised to come by train if weather doesn't permit him driving his reindeer.

So Bang on the Drums—and Crash on the Drums—
Saturday's the day
That SANTA CLAUS comes!

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEMBERS HOLD CONVENTION AT TORONTO

Mr. Fairburn, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Speaks on Ontario Products.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS.

WARSAW, Nov. 28—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the Ontario Women's Institute were held in twelve convention areas this fall, the last of these being held in Toronto on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Alderman Roger representing Mayor Wemp, gave a hearty welcome congratulating the Institutes on the number present, on its high ideals and on its community service. Having lived over twenty years in the County of Perth he knew of its first hand. He spoke of Toronto as a City of conventions, 297 have been held there this year.

Mrs. Meeks replied, thanking him for the welcome, saying that the Institute in an army of 40,000 strong and in which there is everlasting team work.

Miss McIntosh gave a report on work on education. "The question is 'what have we done to increase our service and enlarge our minds' From that point of view education has taken in much—lectures by doctors and nurses, increasing and aiding reading and music, study of history, Canadian authors, the League of Nations, the strangers in our midst, textiles, agriculture and other things bearing on the home and community.

Mrs. Lang gave the report on legislation. Several questions were brought up regarding the nationality of women who marry foreigners.

The question of becoming trustees was brought up. Mrs. Meeks, who has been a trustee for nine years, her husband having made her a joint owner of the property so that she could be, advised that if a woman wanted to be a trustee and had not property of her own to ask her husband to make her a joint owner or give her a definite wage.

Branch Institutes are most important in educating themselves, looking after schools and young people.

Members of York Jr. Institute gave a chorus, "The Little Maid of Japan" and followed with an encore.

Mr. Fairbairn, deputy minister of agriculture spoke on the theme 'A slogan for Ontario products.' Men and women in the country live nearer to life than those in any other occupation. They work with plant and animal life so close to life itself, it must inculcate high, noble and true ideals.

He made a strong plea for Canadian products.

Evening Session

Mrs. Walker, provincial president gave a most interesting talk on the first international gathering of Women's Institutes by itself, to which she and Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen were delegates. They were accompanied by Mrs. Watts after they reached England.

The first international convention was held in Belgium because Belgium was the first country in Europe to organize Institutes in 1907.

Miss Hart sang "Trees," which was greatly appreciated.

Mr. Putman spoke of the variety work of the Institutes. It not only included farm women but all classes of women in the community. He also spoke of the high moral character of rural women. Only through co-operation is the work of the many departments done. The root of it all is the mother love in the heart of women. We must have faith in ourselves, know we are the builders in ourselves, be willing to work and pay the price, and have our dreams and visions come true.

Eighty-nine per cent. of our population does not go beyond the public school. There should be definite time in the homes for cultural and educational matters.

There are to be changes made soon in the demonstration courses, plans are being made for courses for a few days which busy housewives may attend.

Chic Color Contrast Lends Apeal in New Mode

(1) Distinctly swagger is this beige lapin sports coat suggestion of the Cossack theme. With such a coat one might wear either the tan accessories which appear in this Marie Marot sketch, or similar models in dark brown. (2) A lovely country sports coat of red, brown and white tweed mixture. (3) A new daytime frock using diagonal lines for slimness. (4) A smart Russian Caracul sports coat with muff and scarf to match, worn by Diana Daniels. It was one of the smart offerings of the Fur Fashion Show this season.

Rebekah Lodge Enjoys Jolly Social Evening

MILLBROOK, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence) — The officers and members of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, were hostesses for an enjoyable progressive euchre party in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday evening, when nineteen tables were in use for play.

Many of the guests drove in from the country for the event, and as usual when the Rebekahs entertain everything possible was done for the pleasure of those accepting their hospitality, the general verdict being that a 'good time' characterized the evening from its beginning until good nights were spoken.

Play ceased at eleven o'clock for the service of supper, the prize-winners afterward being announced, and presented with their respective awards, those for high place going to Mrs. G. Wilson, and Mr. W. Ridge; and for consolation to Miss May Earle and Mr. E. L. Morden.

The committee in charge included Sisters Isabelle Thorndyke, N.G.; Mabel Fallis, P.G.N.; Irene Fallis, P.N.G.; S. Harness, P.N.G.; Maud Armstrong, P.N.G.; May Garside, P.N.G., and Lila Whyte, V.G.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Contracted Bad Cold Believed Getting Pneumonia

Miss Marguerite Croft, R.N., Chester Basin, N.S., writes:—"Last winter I contracted a very bad cold. Nothing I tried gave me any relief from the severe pains in my chest, and I believed I was getting pneumonia. My father told me one night he had a new cough medicine for me to try. Before I had taken a half bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the pain was greatly relieved. I took two bottles and my cold had disappeared."

FABRIC TURBANS

The fabric turban has gone over the top of many a smart costume this autumn. It presses into service everything from silk lace to tweed. It may be a little cap, a beret, a modified toque or a manipulated Oriental headgear. However, a woman should be sure that her features are more or less regular and good before she takes to turbans.

BAILIEBORO MEMBERS GUESTS OF MILLBROOK Y. P. SOCIETY

Gathering Held Under Auspices of Literary and Social Department.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 28.—The Y. People's Society held its meeting on Tuesday evening of this week, in the basement of Saint Andrew's United Church, the members of the Y. P. S. from Bailieboro being guests of the local organization for the gathering which was under the auspices of the literary and social department, the vice president, Miss Marjorie Sayles, occupying the chair.

During the opening worship period the scripture lesson was read by Miss Beatrice Jones, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., leading in prayer.

The business period was in charge of the president, B. B. Dawson, who added his personal words of welcome to the visiting young people, the leader having already extended greetings on behalf of the Society.

The committee appointed to secure a new missionary vice-president for the Y.P.S., taking the place of Miss Phyliss Kidd resigned, reported that Miss Mary Wood had accepted the position, general applause signifying the popularity of the appointment. The president also stressed attendance at the entertainment in the Town Hall on Friday, November 28, under the auspices of the young people, when the Dramatic Club of Knox Church, Peterborough, will present the play, "As a Woman Thinketh."

Musical Program

A piano duet, "Qui Vive," by Misses Mary Burnham and Bryar Edmunds, was much enjoyed, and the leader gave a brief outline of the life of Rev. Stanley Jones, whose books have been "best sellers" with the public for the past two or three years. A solo, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, with Miss Estelle Hetherington at the piano, concluded this part of the program.

Announcement by the leader that an impromptu debate, "Resolved that there is more advantage in being tall than short," would be the next item of the evening's proceedings, caused some consternation in the minds of those unexpectedly invited to the platform to participate in the arguments pro and con, those appointed to uphold the affirmative being: Beatrice Jones, Marie Barnard, Jack Stinson, and Joe Barnard; while contending for negative were Margaret McCarthy, Audrey Barnard, F. Barnard, and Walter Sayles—the two latter, with the 'shorts' as the side upon which they must convince the audience as having the best of it in life, being the two tallest people in the room.

Dorothy McDowell was time keeper, and the judges were, Rev. W. W. Jones, B. B. Dawson, and Miss Burnham. Considering the lack of preparation the debaters did very well with their respective sides of the argument, the judges awarding the verdict in favor of the affirmative. While the judges were absent from the room totalling up points and preparing their decision, Miss Mary Wood entertained the audience with some "howlers" from school pupils' examination papers, and once the verdict was announced, the program of games and contests was proceeded with, the captains choosing sides being Orval Kelly and Keith Barnard.

Friendly Games

For the next hour the rooms resounded with laughter and any formality that may have existed vanished like mist before the sun, and the friendly competition in various contests, ending up with a spelling-match, was carried through with fun and enthusiasm until the call to gather about the supper tables was given.

The long tables were most attractive in a color scheme of mauve and gold, the runners in these shades being overlaid with green tendrils of vine, Mrs. G. W. Sayles and Mrs. G. E. Burnham having looked after this feature of the happy, social occasion.

Enlivening proceedings while the supper was in progress was the dictum that each guest must rise, mention the name of the person on their right, and give their first impressions of the acquaintance. Needless to say there was plenty of fun in this plan, and when the meal was concluded a "Question and Answer" game added to the merriment.

The vote of thanks to the Millbrook Y. P. S. was moved by Fred Barnard, and seconded by Claude Bateman, the members of the hostess society responding by singing heartily, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Next week's meeting will be under the Christian Endeavor department, Miss Jean L. Burnham convenor.

SOUR CREAM

Sour cream should be cherished. It is superb as a dressing for cucumbers, makes cream cheese taste like fresh cottage cheese and used as a dressing over stuffed plums or other tart fruit salads cannot be excelled.

Too bad you must go through another siege of sneezing and coughing, fever and sore throat!

This time, depend on Owbridge's, and continue to take it until all signs of cough and cold have disappeared.

After your cold has vanished, an extra bottle or two of Owbridge's will make you less susceptible to "another cold".

Owbridge's has NO substitute. Ask your druggist for it. 32

Samuel Goldwyn accounts for the great stage success of "Whoopee," which serves as the basis for his first screen musical comedy in association with Florenz Ziegfeld, on the fact that its forefather. "The Nervous Wreck" was one of the most uproariously amusing farces ever written. Further, Goldwyn explains, of everything ever written for the stage or screen, it is the perfect story for Eddie Cantor. "Whoopee" comes to the Regent Theatre Saturday for one week.

Florenz Ziegfeld took his first trip to Hollywood and his first personal interest in the making of a picture in "Whoopee," which comes to the Regent theatre on Saturday, the inaugural film of his new partnership with Samuel Goldwyn. In an advisory capacity and with the assistance of his entire stage staff, Ziegfeld ook part in the whole production. On the screen Eddie Cantor continues his famous stage role.

Three weeks were consumed at the Samuel Goldwyn studios while Mr. Goldwyn and Florenz Ziegfeld personally examined one beauty contest winner after another from two continents, all in their effort to amass the most decorative feminine ensemble ever assembled for a picture. Out of a field of thousands 106 were finally selected for "Whoopee", starring Eddie Cantor which comes to the Regent Theatre on Saturday, for one week. From Broadway, 22 girls were brought in a special car. Not one girl in the entire group acknowledged her age as over 23 years.

Dorothy Knapp, starred in a number of Florenz Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll musical extravaganzas as "the most beautiful girl in the world," heads the decorative battalion of femininity in "Whoopee," Eddie Cantor's first screen comedy extravaganza to be shown at the Regent Theatre for one week commencing Saturday. Samuel Goldwyn and Florenz Ziegfeld produced the picture.

An idea of the added scope and capacity of the screen made be had in considering that the most spectacular number of "Whoopee" in pictures, the famous "Invocation to the Gods" number, required an outdoor set measuring 900 feet in width. Interpolated with this are shots of the actual scene in the Zion Park. On the stage, the set measured 97 feet, and had to be further reduced when the show went on tour. The entire picture is in technicolor. It will be seen at the Regent theatre on Saturday for a weeks' stay.

A huge spectacular dance scene in "Whoopee," which comes to the Regent theatre on Saturday is built on the western fondness for the large "10" gallon Stetson hats, worn by cowboys. The hat company made 200 of the famous hats, all white, for the Eddie Canton screen musical comedy.

WAR VETERAN BRIDEGROOM VANISHES ON WEDDING EVE

but Left Bride-to-be His Bank Balance of $8,000.

GIRL TELLS POLICE.

A action-like story of how the man she was to marry signed over to her an $8,000 bank balance and then vanished was told to police yesterday by Betty Scoccombs, twenty one, of Newark.

The story sent Newark detectives on a search for James Collins, forty-two, reputed to come to a wealthy Denver, Col., family.

Betty, a pretty divorcee, lives with a cousin, Mrs. Alice O'Hara. She told police she met Collins about a year ago.

Consented to Wed.

Last Monday, she said, Collins asked her to marry him and she consented. On Tuesday, she told police he took her to a bank and changed an $8,000 account to be both in her name and his.

Betty said that he also had his will made over, naming her the sole beneficiary of the estate with the exception of a $1,000 bequest to Mrs. O'Hara and $100 to his son. On Thursday, she told police, they came to New York again and went to the Chatham Bank, where Collins said he wanted to withdraw $8000 for wedding and honeymoon expenses.

Vanishes Suddenly.

She said the cashier asked them to return in half an hour. She said they went to a furriers where Collins proposed to buy her a fur coat. Some alterations in the lining of the sleeves was necessary she said, and while she waited Collins left, presumably to buy cigarettes.

He never returned, she told police.

She said she went to the bank and was informed that Collins had not returned.

Police received a report from Bordentown, N.J., of a man found dead on a roadside there who resembled in many respects the description of Collins. The dead man was scarred, as if from a gun wound, and his back bore marks that might have been inflicted by shrapnel. Collins had received wounds similar to these.

Old "Ads" Provide Fascinating Study

LONDON, Nov. 28. (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—It was a happy idea which prompted Bernard Darwin to gather together the traders' advertisments of nearly a century back, which appeared in those now immensely valuable blue-green monthly "parts" in which the works of Charles Dickens were first published. The result, which is just published here by Elkin Mathers in a volume entitled "The Dickens Advertiser", provides delightful reading both for the Dickens "fan" and the student of social customs.

Most of the advertisements appeared as "insets," The vendor of medicinal nostrums was as eager in those days to push his wares as is his successor of today. One of the most enterprising tailors and hatters of London used regularly to 'take" the back cover. Most of his advertisements were in rhyme. Here is one of them:

'Good dress in fact will cover sore defects
While credit on the wearer it reflects.
Moses and Son are such as all admire
For articles in gentlemen's attire."

CHILD BLAMES WELTS ON WHIP

"Never Been in School" She Says, Describing Life of Drudgery on Jersey Farm.

PARENTS ARRESTED.

CAMDEN, Nov. 28.—A fourteen year old girl with blackened eyes and welts about her body told a story of cruelty and drudgery in court that resulted in arrest of her father and stepmother.

George Jonuszki, fifty-one, and his wife, Mrs. Petronelli Jonusziki, forty-one, the latter weighting 200 pounds, were held in the Gloucester county jail on bail of $2,500 each on charges of atrocious assault and battery and cruelty to a child.

Neighbors Interfere.

Neighbors who noticed the puffed and blackened eyes of Mildred Jonuszki fourteen, notified Constables Warner and Ernest Bundens. They reported they found the girl in a bare room, wearing a man's cap and boy's shoes. Taken to the home of Sheriff Tryon, she was examined by Dr. Henry Clark, county physician, who found, he said, numerous bruises on her body. The child told Sheriff Tryon, he said:

"I have never been to school. I have to work around the house. They beat me with a wire whip and with a broom-handle.

"I was sweeping Wednesday and the radio was going, so when my stepmother spoke to me I didn't hear her. I got beaten with a broomhandle for that, and then when I put my hands up to keep my face from getting hit, it made her mad and she got the wire whip."

Never in School.

The girl, school authorities found, had never been to school in her life. She has seen but one movie, she said.

The child said she was delegated to pick bread out of garbage to feed the chickens, and then was ordered to feed the rest of the garbage to pigs. She also said she had to clean the pigpen on their farm, situated between Mantua and Jefferson, fifteen miles south of here. The father and stepmother denied the charges.

SOVIETS CHANGE FORMER POLICY

Confessions Implicating Other Governments Heard Later in Closed Sessions.

MOSCOW PROTESTS.

MOSCOW, Nov. 27 (C.P.)—The court which is trying eight prominent Soviet engineers on charges of plotting the overthrown of the Moscow Government, to-day changed its policy and ruled that any further parts of their "confessions" which implicate "foreign governments" will be heard in closed session at a later date.

The alteration of the former policy of having the defendants repeat their almost identical confessions in open court, with microphones broadcasting their speeches to the entire U.S.S.R., came when M. Kuprianov the fifth of the defendant engineers, took the witness stand.

Judge Vishinsky then warned him that any direct charges of intervention by "foreign governments' would be heard in a later closed session. The four defendants to precede Kuprianov to the stand, however, already had directly implicated Great Britain and France, and less directly Poland and Rumania in their conspiracy.

The court's action followed, although the connection was not clear, a vigorous protest at the French Government through its Moscow Embassy, at the character of the testimony in the trial last night.

WHEAT POOL MEN MEET.

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 27 (C.P.).—After hearing and discussing briefly the report on pool elevator operations during the past year, delegates to the annual meeting of the Alberta Wheat Pool in session here yesterday turned to a long list of resolutions which will probably take up most of the time to-day.

J. Jesse Strang, of Slaresholm, presented the supplementary report on the possibilities and advisabilities of the pool going into the flour milling business. It was tabled.

LINDSAY WOMAN SPEAKS TO W.M.S.

Knox United Church Women in Lakefield Hold Thankoffering Meeting.

STUDY BOOK REVIEWED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 28.—The W. M. S. of Knox United Church held their annual Thankofffering meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the schoolroom of the church with the president, Mrs. J. A. Porter, in the chair. There were present representatives of the other Woman's Missionary societies in the village. Mrs. C. S. Tanner was in charge of the program and Mrs. A. Windsor, convenor of the refreshment group. Mrs. E. Hill read the scripture lesson and Mesdames Kemp, Finnemore, Charlton and Tanner led in prayer. Mrs. G. Craig Bell sang, "The River of Years" with a great depth of expression and delighted her audience. Miss Nelson was the accompanist.

Mrs. Porter introduced the speaker Miss Flavele of Lindsay who spoke on the study book "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem". The title of the book intrigued the speaker and she read the first and last chapters and then those in between. The book is not adequate to the subject, it seems as if there is so little in it and so much out of it. The beginning deals with Jerusalem after Christs' resurrection, then St. Augustine who started the church in Abyssinia which still is carried on by the Copts.

There is a chapter in the winning of Europe, the rise of the Roman church ,the church in Gaul, and in Britain, the reformation and its effect on England, Scotland and Geneva. The art galleries of Europe are filled with Saint's pictures but we always can recognize St. Francis d' Assisi, who lived so close to Christ that he bore the nail prints in his hands and feet. St. Francis was one of the greatest of Christian Missionaries, giving his life to the spreading of the gospel to those who knew it not.

The book is really the history of the Christian church from the day of Pentecost to the conference at Jerusalem in 1928.

The old city, within the wall, is about two and a half miles square. There are four streets which are especially interesting in Jerusalem, Christian Street, which leads to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, David Street which leads to the Mosque of Omar, Damascus Street.

At the Church of the Holy Sepulchre you have to take a great deal for granted and it is the craziest patchwork of a building you could want to see. It is built on the site where the mother of Constantine discovered what was believed to be the true cross, and there are several chapels belonging to the Greeks, Latins, Armenians, Copts and Syrians, and there is so much jealousy among these Christians that they have to have Mohammedan guards to keep the peace. The Greek chapel is under the dome and it is full of lamps given by Russia; the site of the church was given by Solodin, in the days of the Crusaders.

In the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem the Christians quarreled so bitterly that a wall has been built down through the nave. It is a terrible thing to think of.

The dome of the rock in the temple area is the site of the Temple of Soloman; it is supposed to be the place where Abraham bound Isaac; Soloman's temple was destroyed and rebuilt, and at the time of the Roman conquest they took some of the ruins of the temple they destroyed and built the arch of Titus in Rome, and no Jew will go through it to this day because it is the symbol of the destruction of their great temple of worship.

On this site in Jerusalem, Hadrian built a temple to Jupiter; the Moslems had it in the seventh century, the Crusaders had it for a hundred years, and then the Moslems got it and built the Mosque of Omar, which is the most beautiful building the speaker ever saw, octagonal in shape with the tremendous red rock in the centre, there are sixteen pillars inside and twenty-four outside, with the most wonderful mosaics, rugs, stained glass windows. It is the third most sacred place in the Moslem world.

While it was in the possession of the Crusaders they put an iron grille around the rock, which still remains, and when they had gone Solodin sent eighty camels laden with perfume to disinfect the place after the Christian occupation.

A vote of thanks was given on motion of Mesdames Yale and Renwick to Miss Flavelle for her splendid address. Mrs. Hull sang very sweetly a very appropriate selection, "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go, Dear Lord." Mrs. Renwick was the accompanist.

The thankoffering amounted to $46.45. Afternoon tea was served and a social hour spent.

SOCIETY ENJOYS SUCCESFUL YEAR

OMEMEE, Nov. 28. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The Executive of the Omemee Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, met at the home of W. H. Kennedy to arrange the annual report which was very encouraging as the year 1919, was one of the most successful financial years the society in this community has had. The returns were $165.

This Branch was organized in the year 1856 when Omemee was called Metcalfe. At a meeting held in the Wesleyan Methodist church on Tuesday, January 29, 1856. The meeting was addressed by Dr. Irons and Rev. Lochlin Taylor, agent of the Upper Canada Bible Society, the first president, William Cottingham, vice president Robert Warner, Dr. Irons, William Beatty, Sec. Treas., Thomas Matchett.

In 1857, John McNeely was made president and it was in this year the name of the village was changed from Metcalfe to Omemee. In 1858, Rev. J. Hickie became president and in 1859 William Curry Sr., who was a member of the first committee became president, at his death his son, William Curry, Jr., succeeded him, which position he held for many years and the following gentlemen held the office up until their death. The late John McCrea and Dr. Thompson.

Since Dr. Thompson's death, H. Lamb has filled the position of president making a remarkable record of only eight presidents in seventy four years.

SIXTY MILLION DOLLARS PUT IN NEW FORD PLANTS

One Near London, Biggest in Foreign Land, Will Make Cars For All Europe.

9 FACTORIES UNDER WAY.

DETROIT, Nov. 28.—Announcement was made from the Ford offices today that the company is spending $60,000,000 on new plants and improvements of its present plants in this country and in foreign countries and associated companies.

This large program, according to the announcement in Mr. Ford's answer to questions of how the future of business in general and the automobile industry in particular.

Five plants are either under way or slated to be begun in the United States all of them accessible to both rail and water.

Several million dollars is being spent to increase the power capacity of the Rouge plant at Dearborn, including the two-mile water intake tunnel which will have a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons of water a day.

Manufacturing units are also at the Rouge plant to cost will total $50,000,000 several million dollars are to be spent for the Edison Institute of Technology, an airport and land and other items.

Thousands Employed on Work.

In spite of the business depression" the statement says the company, instead of curtailing activities, speeded up its program, and thousands of men were given employment on the construction work while other thousands were engaged in producing building materials and machinery.

"Today, still confident that its business will continue to grow, the company is making new plants under way throughout the world, while plans are being formulated for several others, not yet announced, that will add other millions to the list of expenditure.

"In every instance in which a new plant will supplant an old one the production capacity will be increased, so that the daily output of Fords can be augmented by several thousands. In the United States only new assembly branches will materially expand the company's production facilities.

"In undertaking its building program, which in the last several years has brought about the erection of thirteen new branches in the United States, the Ford company was actuated by a desire both to enlarge its facilities and to effect economies in transportation in operation.

Plants to be Modern.

"Accordingly, wherever possible, the new plants are being erected on sites accessible to both rail and water transportation, so that, with each form of transportation supplementing the other, substantial savings are assured.

"New plants on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts and to be aboard will have deep-water docks to enable ocean freighters to load their cargoes directly into and out of the company's buildings.

CHILDREN'S AID

is specifically for first offenders and aims to deal with them in such a way as to re-establish them in life. All these things, declared Mr. Gordon, tend to increase the responsibility of Children's Aid Societies and also tend to increase the sympathy of the general public toward their work.

Hanged for Mischief

Just prior to the ascension of the throne by Queen Victoria, Mr. Gordon recollected, a young boy who had set fire to a hayrick outside of London was hanged on the public gallows in the sight of his parents, to punish him for that act of mischief. But public opinion had changed and children were now treated differently. Even twenty-five years ago, in this town, said Mr. Gordon, youthful offenders were placed in jail in company with old offenders.

Mr. Gordon spoke of the many ramifications of such societies throughout the province and of the contemplated action of the Prime Minister in appointing the Hon. Mr. Martin as Minister of Public Welfare, as a very advantageous thing. He thought that the demonstration of interest in the local Chief of Police and his wife, manifested by their membership on the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society, showed their attention to its work and he also spoke of the splendid advances made by the organization under the active guidance of the Rev. Dr. Blagrave, under whose presidency its activities had been extended and widened.

The speaker alluded to the wide scope of effort that lay behind the monthly reports of such a society and spoke with pride of the tact and diplomacy necessary to bring about such a happy state of affairs as exists locally, where, in his memory, not a single writ of habeas corpus has ever been issued to remove children from the custody of the society, once they have been committed to it. He spoke also of the wise policy followed, with excellent results, in removing for a short space of time children from parents who did not look after them properly and then allowing them to return home when the parents improved their ways.

Mr. Gordon concluded by remarking on the general appreciation by the public of the manner in which the activities are carried out by a small band of devoted men and women who give their time and attention to this noble work.

The Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe, accepting the office of president, spoke of the splendid work done by his predecessor and of his own reluctance in stepping into such shoes. He alluded to his interest over many years in the work of the organization and promised to do his best as chief executive of the society.

H. B. Cowan, at the close of the session, spoke of the need of making known more widely the activities of the Children's' Aid Society, and E. A. Peck, M.P. also referred to the duty devolving on citizens of helping in this cause of providing sustenance and moral and mental education, for underpriveleged children. He thought that it was only necessary to bring to the attention of the general public the work and needs of such an organization and they would help at once.

This brief concluding discussion arose over the suggestion made, after reading the reports, that the finances were not as glowing as at the last annual meeting and that expenses were constantly mounting. Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, a senior member of the Board ladies' personnel, who has spent the past twenty-three years as a Board member, spoke briefly, recalling some circumstances of early days at the Shelter and speaking in favor of retention of the annual tag day.

General Business

The meeting, which was opened and closed with prayer offered by the Rev. Dr. Blagrave, included the presentation of the annual financial statement by the treasurer, C. S. Cummer.

In commenting on the question of expense involved in the upkeep of the Shelter, the superintendent, J. Edgar, gave his computation of the average rate per day per head, as 87 1-3 cents, based on the total of 5436 days' stay in that institution last years of sixty children and their attendants. The actual total expenses for the year were $4,746.78. Mr. Edgar also gave the superintendent's report, the report of work accomplished during the past year and the report under the administration of the Unmarried Parents' Act, which also devolves upon him.

At the conclusion of the reports, the Rev. Dr. Blagrave remarked on the small attendance at the annual meeting, commenting on it as indicating either a lack of interest on the part of the public or else a demonstration of their confidence in the administration of its affairs.

Dr. Blagrave emphasized the importance of the work being carried on, of the difficulty of much of it and of the excellent service rendered by Mr. Edgar, in pursuing his course undaunted by opposition and discouragement. The reverend speaker went on to refer also to the large amount of endeavor involved in the matron's position of looking after the many children at the Shelter. The ladies of the Board who do weekly sewing at the Shelter came in for a large share of praise from Dr. Blagrave, as did Mrs. S. Newhall for her efforts as convenor of the tag day efforts.

On the Rev. Dr. Blagrave's retirement from the presidential chair, he was appointed as one of the honorary presidents, on motion of the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C.

Several motions were then read and passed. One expressed the regret of the members at the loss of the Rev. Dr. Blagrave as president, after four years' of valuable assistance to the society, and went on to hope for his continued attendance at the meetings and continued interest in the work. The others were expression of thanks in turn to the Ladies' Christian Temperance Union of Norwood and the Women's Institutes of Havelock and Lakefield, for their assistance in helping to finance the work; to the ladies who have so faithfully met at the Shelter every week for the purpose of making clothing for the children, their endeavors resulting in sacrifice of their own time, but the saving of many dollars to the society; to the Mayor and City Council members and to the County Warden and Council members, and to all others who have assisted the society with donations during the past year, and to Dr. D. W. Clark, Dr. E. H. Wood, Drs. Craig and Crough, and also Drs. Holdcroft and Thompson of Havelock, for valuable assistance given entirely gratis to wards of the society.

Those present at last night's meeting including Board members and several interested citizens, included E. A. Peck, M.P., Mayor Denne, the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., the Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Alderman W. Stocker, Chief of Police Newhall, C. S. Cummer, H. B. Cowan, John Edgar, Mesdames W. H. Gibbs, J. Fanning, H. Beal, J. Welsh, E. F. Lawrence, S. Newhall, J. J. Lynch, H. Nigh, H. W. Darcy, J. Edgar, W. Lynch.

The report of the Nominating committee, composed of James Abraham, Mrs. J. J. Lynch and Mrs. S. Newhall was as follows, after the noted changes had been made:

The mayor of the city, the warden of the county, B. F. Ackerman and the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., honorary presidents; E. A. Peck, M.P., J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., J. H. Burnham and Mrs. R. E. Birdsall, honorary vice presidents; the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, president; Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, first vice president; Mrs. J. S. Fanning, second vice president; John Edgar, secretary; C. S. Cummer, treasurer; Messrs. Gordon and Elliott, solicitors.

The executive committee is composed of Mesdames J. Welch, H. W. Darcy, W. Oke, J. J. Lynch, C. Wiggins, J. H. Kimberley, H. Beal, H. W. Nigh, E. F. Lawrence, S. Newhall, L. Yeates, Dr D. W. Clark, Dr. E. H. Wood, the Rev P. Costello, F. H. Dobbin, R. H. Parsons, James Abraham, Walter Stocker, J. A. McNab, W. F. Butcher, Chief Newhall, Vincent Eastwood and H. B. Cowan.

Wards released during the year were as follows: 6 attained their majority, one at request of the society, one was married, one was sent to the Industrial School, two were adopted, one died. There were seven completed adoptions of wards and six adoptions are pending.

Money held in trust for twenty-eight wards of the society totals $1,519.76, cash in bank, and $7,840 in bonds, amounting to $9,369.76. The sum of $1,076.12 in interest and wages, was received by wards and $3,815.77 was paid out to wards, an amount less this year by $2,759.88.

During the year, eleven children were made permanent wards of the society and two were made temporary wards.

The report of the work for the year is as follows:

Applications for children, 70; children brought to Shelter (not wards), 40; children placed on parole (not wards), 6; children returned to parents (not wards), 32; children involved during the year, 306; children made wards, 13; children sent to Industrial School, 6; complaints received, 78; investigations, 80; mail received, 399; mail sent out, 1,012; milage covered, 5,595; places visited outside the city, 73; police court attendance, 32; wards in foster homes heard from, 30; wards placed out, 20; wards returned to shelter, 12; wards visited, 101; warnings given, 5.

Search for Capt. E. J. A. Burke of Vancouver and two companions, whose aeroplane is now reported found abandoned, has developed into a dramatic quest, with three of the second party now lost, aeroplanes combing the northland and winter setting in. Burke's aircraft was found 50 miles north of Wolfe Lake, in head waters of Laird river. Above are shown: (1) Capt. E. J. A. Burke, lost with two companions since October 11; (2) Robin "Pat" Renahan and Frank Hatcher, two fliers of second party, who with Sam Clerf, prospector, are also lost. They are seen here with Renahan's wife prior to take-off on quest of Burke; (3) T. H. Cressy; (4) W. A. Jeffs, and (5) R. I. Van der Byl, trio of searchers who are combing northland with many close shaves in face of approaching winter.

NEGRO BURNED TO DEATH.

JACKSON, Miss., November 28 (C.P.). — An unidentified negro was burned to death here early to-day in a fire that destroyed a three-storey ward of the State Hospital for the Insane from which 330 other inmates marched to safety.

HOME ECONOMICS SUBJECT OF TALKS

Miss Powell Addresses Women's Institute Convention on Care of Health.

WARSAW, Nov. 28. (Examiner Correspondence)—Wednesday morning at the Women's Institute Convention was interesting with reports on Home Economics. It was said that one thing lacking in rural districts often is worthwhile material for conversation.

Models of girls' rooms inexpensively gotten up for Fall Fairs was suggested. In one branch the girls visited several of the homes and inspected kitchen, living rooms and bedrooms.

In speaking of health, Miss Powell mentioned that while general tuberculosis rate is decreasing R is increasing among women from 15 to 25 years of age. She stressed the care of teeth, medical school inspection and short nursing courses.

the 260 girls being entertained by the Department occupied the centre seats during the morning session and were welcomed by Mrs. Walker.

There was a short talk on Canadian literature, and a strong plea to read good books and magazines, to cultivate the art of correct speaking, and so keep the English language in its purity.

Several of the girls told of plans for the Junior Institutes, probably the most interesting being a Dutch girl who came to Canada only two years ago, without any knowledge of Egnlish and started a chicken farm near Millbrook. She told of the great help she had gotten from the short courses.

Twenty-four boys from Halton ranging in age from eight to ten or twelve years made a pleasing interruption with songs, Christmas hymns, and evening hymns, sung ijna most delightful manner.

Reports on work in agriculture which included poultry keeping, making lawns, and flower gardens, vegetable gardens,, planting trees, clearing up rubbish preserving wild flowers, tidying cemeteries, etc., were very interesting. The vanishing of the parlor, used only for funerals and weddings and having a living room and a dining room was also mentioned.

Miss Guest said the interest taken in the farm boys is gratifying. She spoke of the English students beginning to attend Canadian Universities rather than Oxford and Cambridge.

Reports on libraries were interesting. There was a gratifying response to the plea for assistance for the north. The bundles are opened and sent where needed and when money has been donated, it is spent for necessary articles.

AMERICAN SOCIETY HONORED BY PRINCE

Regrets That Nearest He Will Be to U. S. on Tour is Canal Zone.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (C.P.) — The Prince was the guest of honor last night at the Thanksgiving dinner of the American Society at the Savoy Hotel.

Speaking of his forthcoming South American tour, the Prince expressed regret at his inability to extend the journey to travel through the United States, but promised to do so soon.

"The nearest I will get to the United States this time," he went on, "will be to dig a few divots out of the Canal Zone. But I hope in the immediate future to renew the splendid acquaintances I formed there in the past."

Driving Force Behind Toronto Board of Trade Is an Efficiency Expert Without the Fuss

THIS story would never have been written if it had been left with an interviewer to extract the material from the subject, for F. D. Tolchard, general manager of the Toronto board of trade, shrinks from publicity as thoroughly as the average small boy shrinks from soap and water. Under the circumstances it is perhaps not strang that he should be both one of the best known, and at the same time one of the least known, among the big men of Toronto to-day.

F. D. Tolchard

Born and educated in this city, F. D. Tolchard spent some time after leaving school in commercial pursuits. One day, twenty years ago, it was suggested to him that he go to work for the board of trade. Whoever made the suggestion conferred a great and lasting benefit not only upon the board, and the city of Toronto, but the entire country—a benefit which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. For F. D. Tolchard has since become one of the great men of the nation, if by greatness is meant leadership in a multiplicity of movements for the commercial and social welfare of the country, and of this city in particular. He is rightly credited with a more complete knowledge of the commercial structure of Canada in all its ramifications than almost any other man living.

Under his efficient leadership the Toronto board of trade has grown into the largest organization of its kind in the British Empire, and its voice on empire matters is listened to with respect in every part of his majesty's far-flung domains.

For the influence which the board now has, much of the credit must go to F. D. Tolchard, who is not only the man behind the guns but, by the use of some process of perpetual motion, he also personally makes the ammunition.

During the war he was released by the board for service on the British war mission in Washington, where he speedily became assistant director of war supplies. Here, too, he did a tremendously valuable work, and if the records of his department were opened to-day it would undoubtedly be found that every "i" was dotted, every "t" crossed, the minutest detail of the smallest contract complete, and everything in perfect order. Such is F. D. Tolchard.

Six days a week from around nine till seven o'clock or after he will be found in his office at the top of the Royal Bank building. There he sits and works—one of the quietest, calmest, and most efficient of men—a man in ten thousand. The door of his office is always open, and callers are frequent, their purposes varied. None are ever hurried away, and no pains are too great to assist in solving their problems.

Beneath a natural reserve beats one of the truest hearts in Toronto. Expediency has no place in F. D. Tolchard's scheme of things. With him right is right and wrong is wrong—and his decisions are made accordingly. He will put his cards face up on the table every time, and you may as well do likewise, because if you don't he has the uncanny faculty of reading them anyway, even though they be behind your back.

A Duchess and Her Baby

by Annie B. Rankin

THE bond of motherhood took many women, with their babies, to Buckingham Palace on the afternoon of October 30th to see Princess Margaret Rose, the ten-weeks-old daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, arrive for her christening.

The smiling duchess, with her usual sympathetic touch that makes all the world kin, noticed the mothers and leaning forward in the motor car gave a whispered instruction to Nurse Beevors, the substantial figure of a nurse sitting opposite her in whose lap lay a fluffy white bundle. Whereupon the sleeping princess was raised to the window so that the impromptu guard of honor could see her.

Women cheered wildly, waved handkerchiefs and pressed forward on tiptoe in their hundreds in an effort to catch a fleeting glimpse of the tiny face encased in a white fur-trimmed bonnet. They were rewarded by the sight of the happy face of Princess Elizabeth, obviously very proud of her baby sister, who left her seat beside her father and mother to smile and wave to the crowd from the window.

The duke and duchess bowed continually in graceful recognition of the rousing welcome to their second daughter and then the motor car slowed down as it approached the sentry-guarded gates of the great palace which has recently had its face washed so clean as to be almost unrecognizable!

Within its snowy portals the christening party were joined by the King and Queen and when they walked to the tiny private chapel, filled with beautiful white flowers for the happy occasion, the gentlemen and boy choristers from the Chapel Royal, in their quaint uniforms of scarlet and gold; like Beefeaters, were singing the hymns that had been chosen by the duchess herself.

The lovely, old, ivory-colored christening robe of priceless lace fell almost to the ground as the little princess slumbered in the arms of her nurse until the actual ceremony, when the Princess Victoria, the King's unmarried sister, took her and handed her to the Archbishop of Canterbury. It was the same robe in which the babe's great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, had been baptized in the same quiet way at Kensington Palace over 100 years ago and has been worn by many noted babies since, including King Edward, the Empress Frederick, King George and the Prince of Wales.

Little Princess Elizabeth, standing beside her father and mother, was the most interested participant in the intimate, brief ceremony, and was told that she, too, had worn the same beautiful garment of shimmering satin and lace when she was christened in the same chapel four years ago.

The massive pure gold font, shaped like a graceful waterlily on a slender chased stem, which was brought specially from Windsor Castle for the ceremony, was surrounded by white roses—typical for a Princess of York—lilies, marguerites and white heather. This gold font was made for Queen Victoria in 1840 and used for her children and all royal babies since.

It was filled with water from the River Jordan and when the archbishop baptized Margaret Rose she began to stir restlessly, but was soon back in her nurse's arms, dozing peacefully, all unconscious of the privileged few old retainers who were allowed to witness her christening from the wooden seats at the back of the little chapel, which only has room for seventy.

The royal sponsors were the Prince of Wales (represented by Prince George), Princess Victoria, Princess Ingrid of Sweden (represented by Lady Patricia Ramsay) and the sister and brother of the Duchess of York, Lady Rose Leveson-Gower and the Hon. David Bowes-Lyon.

Peacefully the perfect princess slumbered through it all and it is recorded with pride that she was "a quiet, well-behaved child."

She was not even interested in the cutting of her cakes, two gorgeous affairs of 70 pounds each, surmounted by a silver cradle containing a dainty doll, which had been sent specially from Scotland. But her sister, Elizabeth, doubtless atoned by the intensity of her appreciation of the event!

One cake was cut at Buckingham Palace immediately after the ceremony, before the King and Queen left for a short drive round Hyde park. The other was cut at a christening party given later at 145 Piccadilly.

The court photographer, Mr. Richard Speaight, who took photographs of the Duchess of York when she was a child, took the first picture of the baby princess in the drawing-room of the duke's house.

It was a three-quarters of an hour sitting—enough to exhaust the patience of an angel child!—and yet when asked by a London reporter how the princess faced the camera Mr. Speaight said:

"I have never photographed a better baby. She was wonderfully good and is very healthy and happy.

"The drawing-room had to be turned into a studio, which meant the introduction of powerful lights. The little princess' eyes must be very strong, for I have never taken so many pictures of a baby with the eyes always open.

"Not once did she whimper or close her eyes. She has a perfect disposition.

"I was struck, too, by the quick way she seemed to take notice for so young a child. The princess was not at all inanimate like so many other babies, and I think I may say that the pictures are among the very best of a young baby I have ever seen."

The apparent strength of the eyes noticed by the photographer is, it is claimed, a characteristic of the Bowes-Lyon family and seems to show that in this, as well as in a certain similarity of feature, the new baby is more like her mother than anyone else.

However that may be, women generally are agreed that the princess is a child of fine physique and that the Duchess of York has the goodwill and congratulations of every mother in the Empire.

The Blue Danube

By CATHERINE PARMENTER

SHE stood there—puzzled—hesitant—before
The little music shop. What sound was this
That dared to mock her clever artifice.
And swept—strange beauty!—through the open door?
She could not understand this subtle thing—
Who thought herself so altogether wise . . .
Her flippant smile had fled—her hard young eyes
Grew curiously warm and wondering.
. . . Oh, dream of love, surging across the long,
Long years to touch illimitable heights!—
Starlight and dew of lost Vienna nights,
Blent with the pulse of an eternal song! . . .
The music ceased . . . Her laugh was swift and sure—
But swifter still the tears that blinded her!

—New York Herald-Tribune.

SHE WAS DUMB

HE was moody and glum after the dance, and his friend could hardly get a word out of him.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Didn't you get on well with the girl I introduced you to?"

"Well," said his friend, "I asked her three or four times if I could see her home, and she said if I was as keen on her home as all that she'd send me a photograph of it."

"WHAT'YA mean, you only get three hours sleep a day?"

The Youth: "Yeah—I get the rest at night!"

DINGLE WRITES STORIES UNDER IDEAL CONDITIONS

LIFE is fairly pleasant for Captain A. E. Dingle these days. The famous author of sea stories, who is said to be paid the highest rates for that type of fiction, need never worry as to where the next meal is coming from. But 'twas not always thus.

Dingle was born in Oxford, England. His parents were so poor that he never had anything else than bread and lard for his luncheon at school during the few years that he did go to school. On Sundays, as a special treat, he had the thin top of a boiled egg for breakfast. His father, a retired whaler turned itinerant preacher, ate the remainder of the egg.

Dingle shipped on board a sailing vessel at fourteen, and remained a seaman for 22 years, retiring after he had a steamer blown up under him when he was captain. As he had previously had five shipwrecks, he could not get another command, and as his eyes were too poor to permit him to go through the grades again he left England for New York to seek new employment, leaving his wife and family behind him.

Odd jobs—menial jobs, most of them—supported him after a fashion for a few years. Then, at a dinner given by his firm, he made a speech that brought him a request that he write a story.

Dingle did this. The editor returned it with the comment that the script was illegible.

So Dingle answered an advertisement offering ten days' free trial of a reconstructed typewriter and started to practice. His time was up before he could operate the machine, but he got an extension of the trial, and managed to copy out his story in a reasonably neat manner.

That story sold for sixty-five dollars.

He bought the typewriter for thirty-five dollars and set himself up as a professional author. For the following thirteen months he wrote steadily, but never sold a line. He lived, somehow, by selling everything he possessed. Towards the end he existed for a week on fifteen cents' worth of beans, boiled without salt.

The tide turned for Captain Dingle when a friendly editor explained the reasons why his stories were being consistently rejected. The author took the lesson to heart, varied his technique, and found himself launched on the sea of success. Now he lives aboard his own little schooner Gauntlet, cruises the year round, and writes whenever the spirit moves him.

The Captive

By DANIEL WHITEHEAD HICKY

THERE is no turning back for him who goes
Down to the sea at seventeen or so;
The music of the sea that leaps and flows
In emerald tides will haunt him.
He will go
Forever with the sunrise on his lips,
The purple dusk upon his brow, his ears
Throbbing with wings of gulls above the ships;
He will be a prisoner all his years.

Though full-blown moons may call, and he will yearn
For young breasts pale as oleanders are,
He must go on where darkening breakers turn
To silver fire beneath the northern star.
Though he will beat on rocks eternally,
Forever he is captive of the sea.

—New York Times.

I WISH you so much joy in your heart,
So much laughter in your eyes,
So many roses in your cheeks,
That when Old Father Time sees you
He won't find a single place to leave his mark.

Love Affairs of Ileana, Roumania's Lovely Princess Are a Source of Worry to Her Watchful Mother

By C. M. LAPOINTE

FAIRY TALES and romances are coming back into vogue. Although it is soon outgrown, there is an age when girls wish momentarily that they might be princesses and perhaps, if the truth were told, there are some youths in a corresponding period who wish they were, too.

There is one princess to-day who comes very near to filling the fairy tale role. It isn't just a convention when reporters call her good looking. We have the word of Grand Voivode Mihai of Roumania that she is "beautiful," and if he is the son of his father he should be a good judge. A couple of years ago she toured America with her mother and caused emotional turmoil in the breasts of many an otherwise sane adolescent in Canada and United States. Some of those then afflicted are now married to clerks and stenographers.

Coming of a family whose love affairs are history, it would be astonishing if Princess Ileana of Roumania were to pass heart and fancy free. Her father, when Prince Ferdinand von Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen and heir to his uncle, Charles (Carol) I., fell in love with a lady-in-waiting of his aunt, the beloved poet-queen, Carmen Silva. State reasons married him to Marie of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh and a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. When Ferdinand died in 1927, Mlle. Helene Vacarescu was not allowed to leave her exile in Paris where the French Cross of the Legion of Honor had been awarded her for her poetry, to attend the funeral of her old lover.

Then there is Ileana's eldest brother, Carol, whose coup d'etat is of such recent happening that the details of his adventures are fresh in all minds. Her brother Nicholas has also had his troubles other than those relating to traffic problems. A year ago he followed his brother's example but the latter met him in Paris and persuaded him that one man of the family should do his duty by the home. It was unkindly said that the chief reason for Nicholas' endeavors to reinstate Carol as king was a wish to be free to obey the dictates of his heart.

When Carol returned neither his mother nor his youngest sister was there to meet him. Yet for several years discrete visits of Princess Ileana to Paris were rumored in diplomatic circles to be important links in the work going on to bring about his return. At the moment of the actual climax, however, the princess was visiting Palestine and Egypt. She had been having troubles of her own.

It was just between winter and spring of this year that the newspapers had some "hot copy" for a few days and those who take particular delight in "taking off" Queen Marie had material made to order. About a year previous, on a visit to Sigmaringen in Germany, the princess had met Count Alexander Frederick von Hochberg. Her engagement to a cousin was rumored at the time but nothing came of it. The newspapers had been marrying her to every conceivable personage from the Prince of Wales to King Boris of Bulgaria ever since she had been fifteen years of age. Queen Marie suspected nothing, even when her old friend Daisy, Princess of Pless, wrote asking her to be kind to her son, Count Alexander, who was going to visit Roumania.

Then one fine day the University Students' Association was presenting a medal to the count for ski-ing feats when Ileana horrified her personal adjutant by announcing to her chums that she was going to marry the handsome count.

Queen Marie was surprised into consenting and official announcements were made. Then mysterious dispatches arrived, some said through King Alexander of Jugoslavia, husband of Ileana's sister, and the count presently took his departure and Marie took her daughter for a trip.

It was not the princess' first disappointment. During the American tour there was a rumor that a West Point cadet with whom she had danced had won the royal maiden's heart. When she took the naval examinations in navigation—and passed them successfully—a new story came out, which it had been endeavored to suppress. A handsome naval officer had stolen her affections. Hence her interest in the mariner's profession and her trips to the Black sea base to study. Although the lieutenant already had a wife, they planned to elope. They were halted before they reached the border. Another attempt to escape by sea in a speed boat resulted in a wreck from which they were rescued after very real danger. In spite of a rumored attempt at suicide when baulked the poor little princess seemed to have recovered from that heart-ache.

Princess Ileana loves the native costumes of Roumania.

Winston Churchill Has Boxed the Political Compass But He's Still a Figure to Be Reckoned With

By GEORGE MARSHALL

THE manner of my first meeting with Winston Churchill was—I accidentally bumped into him. I was leaving the House of Commons one foggy February evening twenty years ago, and groped my way half across the street to one of the islands that are put there to save pedestrians from becoming involved in the maelstrom of London's traffic. In the "pea soupy" atmosphere I could not see that another pedestrian had stepped on the island from the opposite direction, and we bumped into each other fair and square!

It was Winston! In those days Mrs. Pankhurst and her militant suffragettes were making the lives of certain members of parliament something of a burden to them. Winston's cigar caught me in the region of the collar stud and his hat slipped off the back of his head. He seemed relieved that it was only a man he was up against and smiled knowingly! We exchanged apologies, he rescued his hat, I brushed the cigar ash off my coat collar, and the meeting was over.

The last time I saw Winston was in Montreal a year ago, when he addressed the members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon in his honor. During those years he has changed from Conservatism to Liberalism and back again to Conservatism. He is not afraid to change his mind. So long ago as 1903 he was fighting tooth and nail against the tariff reform proposals of Joseph Chamberlain, so much so that he came to be looked upon as the "enfant terrible" of his own party. The passing of years has changed his tariff outlook, but even now his protectionist views may be more a question of expediency than of principle.

Winston's experience has been one of unequalled variety. He is the Pooh Bah of British politics. He has held nine cabinet offices, and he has been on intimate terms with four prime ministers. Nobody is better versed in the rules and precedents that govern conduct in and around the inner circle at Downing St. Whether as a Conservative or a Liberal he has always managed to draw the limelight on to himself. He is something between an actor and a politician, with the latter element predominating. He has always been a man for big things, and he has done them successfully—and otherwise!

Winston is a great master of words—big words that roll round the tongue and taste rich, colored words that make patterns, words that are weapons. They come on the spur of the moment; he never speaks so well as when he is excited. His gifts are brilliant and fascinating, and he is infinitely resourceful. As a master of repartee he stands second only to Lloyd George. In the last parliament he gave some dazzling exhibitions of his own inimitable skill. His greatest successes were when he was winding up a debate and there could be no reply. After one of these rollicking performances some of the old hands acclaimed him as the first of living parliamentarians, but I am sure he did not think so himself. He would not claim more than second place!

Winston is, undoubtedly, a master of oratory and debating skill, but in both Lloyd George is pre-eminent. He has the greater parliamentary and administrative experience. For its piercing intuition and swiftness of movement, Lloyd George's mind is incomparable. Nobody is so quick to size up a new situation. After all, it is personality that counts, and Lloyd George has it in superlative degree. No living statesman has been so hated or has won so many devoted adherents. He can never be ignored or forgotten. With all his brilliant qualities, Winston has never had more than a small following.

When up against his old friend, Philip Snowden, Winston sometimes "sees red." His biting sarcasm and irony are given full play, and the steady stream of invective that issues from his lips would be enough to wither most opponents. He may start off by "being nice"; and, resplendent in a congenial smile, congratulate the chancellor on the manner in which he had "repressed and held under control the natural amiability of his nature." A characteristic passage was that in which Winston coupled Philip Snowden and Leif Jones, both staunch free traders and equally staunch total abstainers. Looking up dramatically at the roof and with arms extended he said with rhetorical emphasis: "I wish to congratulate the chancellor on his great admirer and supporter, Mr. Leif Jones. What a mellifluous smile would broaden on the saintly countenance of Mr. Cobden if only he could see these twin Victorian dodos caressing and pledging each other in libations of cold water!"

On another occasion, after referring to the criticism that his own financial policy was "fidgety," he said that he wished to congratulate Mr. Snowden on his freedom from this defect. He said: "There is nothing fidgety about the chancellor. Everyone knows what to expect from him. His policy is the dole in all its integrity and permanence—the dole, the whole dole and nothing but the dole. On that policy the unemployed can now organise their lives, their homes, their marriages, and their holidays."

Winston has announced that he will not retire from politics in order to go in for business and literary pursuits while the question of Britain's retention of India has still to be decided. As a matter of fact, it is an open secret that he is in the running for the post of viceroy when Lord Irwin's term comes to an end. He may go. Who knows? His appointment would be a gesture not without significance to the peoples of India.

Winston Churchill strikes a pose.

Central Ontario Bowling Association Formed

Officers Elected For Year

Delegates From District Clubs Discuss New Organization Here Yesterday.

WILL DRAW RULES.

Association to Plan Tournament Dates to Avoid Clash Between Clubs.

Last Bowling Association the entire district [illegible] to receive a decided impetus through the formation yesterday afternoon of a new Association to be known as the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association to govern and look after the interests of the game in this section of the country.

The decisive step was the outcome of a meeting held in the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Limited clubhouse here under the chairmanship of President J. D. Rowntree. The step was not taken, however, but after much discussion and discussion by members of the local club and delegates from several out of town [illegible]

Officers Elected

Officers elected at the meeting were: Honorary President Harry Rosevear of Port Hope; President Mark Bredin; vice-president M. Booth of Cobourg; secretary-treasurer Jack Mayhood and a committee of five composed of Messrs. Dr. H. G. Carleton of Norwood, William Oke of Port Hope, A. E. Sturgess of Whitby, E. J. Goodman of Oshawa, William Markey of Lindsay.

A meeting of the Association will be held in the near future when the rules and regulations governing the body will be drawn up.

Yesterday afternoon's meeting to which representatives from 21 district clubs were invited, was called with the intention of forming an Association or district league. Roy E. Disney, secretary in outlining the need of the Association said it was very desirable that the 21 or more clubs all within reasonable radius should be thus banded together. Each club, he thought, should be entitled to send one or more delegates to the meetings to be held at different clubhouses each year. They should each have one vote. Upon the Association would devolve the responsibility for setting tournament dates, to avoid the possibility of clashing, a factor which had caused considerbale trouble and annoyance in the past. He further suggested a play-off on a date, and at a club to be decided on by the Association, and to be composed of the winning schedule rink from each club in the Association, to play-off for a district championship cup.

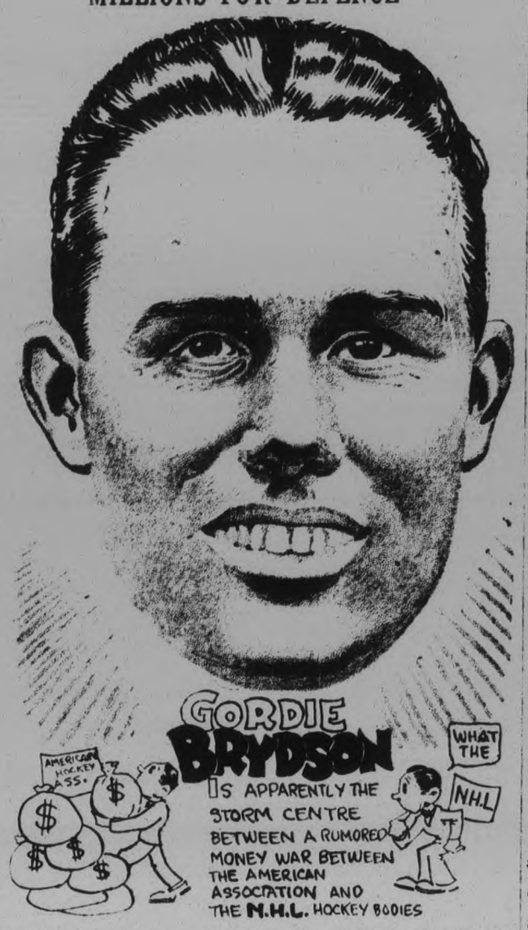
Club Representatives

Out of town delegates to the meeting included Dr. Carleton, Norwood; J. J. Mason, secretary-treasurer Bowmanville Club; E. J. Goodman and Mr. Wright of Oshawa; Messrs. Thomas and Sturgess, of Whitby; Messrs. Booth, Allison, Harcourt and Hircock of Cobourg; H. B. Rosevear, William Oke, H. M. Ryan and Leo Boney of Port Hope, while letters of regret at their inability to attend, with the assurance that they realized the necessity for an Association and would abide by the decision of the meeting were read from: W. J. Whitty, secretary of Stirling Bowling Club; William J. Ferguson; W. C. Livingstone, treasurer of Cannington L.B.C., and George E. Karley, secretary-treasurer of Brighton L.B.C.

The visitors were tendered a civic welcome by Alderman Jack McNabb, on behalf of His Worship Mayor R. Denne. Alderman McNabb in the course of a brief speech spoke of the splendid plant which the Peterborough Club have and of their efforts to foster a community spirit and the spirit of sport.

Following the meeting the visitors were entertained at dinner by their fellow sportsmen at the Paragon Hall.

MILLIONS FOR DEFENCE



Gangway! Here comes another big league hockey war and there is nothing small about it either. According to those in the ringside seats who have the low-down on the situation, the next battle will be one to the finish, and the finish will be when one of the leagues run out of bank cheques. At the present time it is understood that both leagues have pooled their war defence funds to meet the expected situation. The American Association is therefore recruiting capital in a wholesale manner. Their heavy artillery is in the form of millionaire hockey magnates. The latest member to this group being Mr. Perry L Smithers, head of the Booth fisheries who is affiliated with the Minneapolis club. James Norris heads the Chicago Shamrocks, the storm centre. While Walter Whiteside, Oklahoma Oil magnate, George V. Brown the Boston financier, Alve Bradley of Cleveland, as well as Buffalo and Kansas City Council stand behind their respective clubs and they are only a few of the group that believe a certain decision as given out by the President of the National Hockey League to be unfair. It has generally been conceded that the case of Gordie Brydson is the spark that may start fires aflaming in hockey circles. With two cases almost parallel in situations, Mr. Calder has handed out different decisions. The first case being that of Shrimp McPherson who the N.H.L. Prexy declared a free agent because the Tulsa club failed to pay up. Yet in the case of Brydson, Roy Brothers, owner of the London Tecumsehs owed Brydson almost six times the amount that made McPherson a free agent and yet as soon as Brydson signs up with the Chicago Shamrocks, Mr. President orders him back to London. What the difference is, the hockey fan who pays the bill would like to know.

Canadian Teams Lose N.H.L. Games

BRUINS RALLY IN LAST PERIOD TO WIN OUT 2-1

Harry Oliver With Perk Galbraith Score Boston's Winning Goal.

CANADIENS LOSE 3-2.

Hawks Continue Unbeaten Record By Defeating Rangers 4-0.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.)—While it is far too early in the season to make predictions as to the outcome of the National Hockey League races, American teams are trouncing Canadian teams with startling regularity in these young days of the schedule.

Last night both Ottawa and Montreal Canadiens fell before the speedy, well-timed thrusts of teams in the United States section. The Senators went down to defeat, two to one, in a close, hard-fought game at Boston, while the Flying Frenchmen lost to Detroit, three to two.

Chicago Blackhawks, the sensation of the league to date, continued their undefeated record in the third game of the schedule, by decisively beating New York Rangers, four to nothing.

It was only a stirring last period rally which enabled the Boston Bruins to down Ottawa, who played a splendid game throughout. Eric Pettinger, relief forward, put the Canadian team in the lead half-way through the middle frame on Harold Starr's pass, but Eddie Shore and "Dit" Clapper combined to knot the count in the first minute of the third session. Harry Oliver scored the winning goal for the Bruins seven minutes later on Perk Galbraith's assist and the Senators were unable to beat the Boston goalkeeper in their last minute rally. The defeat cost Ottawa the chance of taking the lead in their group.

Detroit startled Canadiens with a goal in the first 25 seconds of play. Thereafter the Motor City team played with confidence, even though the Habitants knotted the score on Howie Morenz's clever goal 11 minutes later.

There was no scoring in the second period, but in the third, Herbie Lewis, speedy Falcon centre, cut loose with a display of hockey which made him a sensation in the American Association several years ago. Two clever goals by Lewis on rebounds, put Detroiters into a commanding lead which they held to the finish, despite the frantic efforts of the Montrealers to tie the count after Howie Morenz had notched his second marker, seven minutes after Lewis' brace of goals.

The Falcons' victory enabled them to keep pace with Boston, the teams being tied for second place in the American group with seven points, two behind Chicago, the leaders. Canadiens' defeat kept them in the cellar position of the Canadian section.

"Chuck" Gardiner, youthful goalkeeper of the Chicago Blackhawks, proved he is one of the main reasons why the Windy City is heading the American group parade, when he blanked the Rangers in Madison Square Garden. The Hawks had a noticeable edge in play, but there were many times when the famous trio of the Cook Brothers and Frankie Boucher, broke through the Hawk defence to test Gardner from close range. He rose to the occasion each time and took considerable steam from the Rangers by his marvelous work.

GEORGE WALLWIN HORSESHOE CHAMP

Winners Declared For Barnyard Golf Tourneys at Royal Winter Fair.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 27.—(CP)—George W. Walwin, a station agent of Janetville, Ont., is the newly crowned king of Canadian horse shoe pitchers.

Never losing a single game through the long series of preliminaries and eliminations. Walwin established two new records before he won the Dominion single horse shoe pitching championship at the Royal Winter Fair last night.

He was scheduled to meet H. G. Brady of the famed Brady Bros. of Fenelon, Ont., but the champion's high score made him unbeatable and he was conceded the title. He was presented the trophy by Hon. George S. Henry, Ontario Minister of Highways.

Walwin simply glided through, score-keepers said, beating Gordon Brown the 1928 champion in one match 30 to 6. He created a record of ten straight ringers, four doubes and two singes and in another match he threw 13 ringers out of 20 shots. He is the best ever to compete in these tournaments an official said and apparently in the "Dead Eye Dick" of the lucky circle fraternity.

During the thining down of the semi groups, J. Riley of the Christina Indian reserve, eliminated his double partner Joe Simon, before he himself was defeated by Walwin who in that game scored 21 ringers while Simons finished with 18.

DE LAVAL WINS FROM ELECTRICS

While Westclox Edge Out C.G.E. Engineers 23-17 in Basketball League.

TRIPLE-HEADER BILL.

All six teams in the City Basketball League participated in the triple-header that was the feature of the league's schedule Wednesday night at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. Victories in all three games were only earned after hard play and by close margins. In the first contest the DeLaval quintet defeated the C.G.E. Test 22 to 20, while the Westclox edged out at 23 to 17 win over the C.G.E. Engineers. The last tangle was a merry one in which the Chev. Motors trampled the C.D.S.L. store keepers by 21 to 11.

Outstanding scorers in the three games were: G. Routley, who nabbed 8 points for DeLaval, Emery for the Westclox with another 11 points; and Ward for the Chev. Motors.

The teams:

DeLaval—C. Routley, B. Graves, G. Palmer, Z. Levine, N. Stanger and S. Cooper.

C.G.E. Test—Fraser, Emery, Larmer, Mallood and Lawrence.

Westclox—Kingston, Smith, Wolstenholme, Kitchen, McLeod and Hayden.

C. G.E. Engineers — McLeish, Greenlaw, Jones, Osterland, Cameron and Dickson.

C.D.S.L.—Gamble, Stanley, King, French, Welbourne, Sexsmith and Bennett.

Chev. Motors — Magee, Laing, Broadley, Ward and Reynolds.

VICS-MARLBOROS WINNERS IN S.P.A.

TORONTO, Nov. 28. The second round of the S.P.A. junior series got under way at the Arena Gardens last evening, and the fans were provided with two fast and exciting games.

In the first game, Victorias came from behind to take a 6-to-3 verdict over West Toronto, last year's O.H.A. champions, while Mariboros were winners by 5 to 1 over the much-improved Mimico juniors in the second contest.

In the first affair, Victorias showed real class and West Toronto were very fortunate to score two goals in the first period as Webster, in the Vics' net, was in no condition to be playing, as he was in an auto accident a few days ago. West Toronto took a 2-to-0 lead in the first period but both goals were of the soft variety. Victorias had the better of the play, and only nice work by McLelland kept them off the score sheet.

McKillop opened the scoring for the West End team when he took a pass from McLelland one minute after the game was under way. Four minutes later McLelland made a long rush and beat Webster with a shot from outside the defense. The teams battled on fairly even terms for the remainder of the period, and, although the Vics were in close time and time again, their snipers were outguessed by McLelland.

Young Western Star

Gordon Pettinger, star defence player and captain of Regina Pats, who coasted through to the Canadian junior hockey championship last season. Madoc

The Christian Endeavor Society, of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, held their first social evening of the season on Monday night. The program consisted of songs, recitations, instrumental selections and various games, and was in charge of President Miss Alice Armstrong.

The Anglican Young People's Social Club held their weekly meeting in the guild rooms on Monday evening with the president, Miss Freda Avery, in the chair. After the devotional exercises, the Scripture reading was given by Lorraine Avery, and a devotional and instructive talk on "Advent, What It Means," was given by Rev. P. G. Reynolds. An interesting paper was given by the president on "The Days," and a reading was given by Mrs. Nickle, entitled "Nubbins." Jean Nickle gave a very pretty solo, after which a spelling match was conducted by Mrs. Reynolds.

CITY COUNCIL IS CONSIDERING PLANS FOR PARK

Mayor Denne Tells Baseball Enthusiasts at Raybestos Club Banquet.

E.P.L. EXTENDS INVITATION.

Good fellowship aiong with much Baseball talk was the keynote of the Raybestos Ball Club's banquet held last evening in Hooper's Tea Rooms.

Mayor Roland Denne congratulated the team on the fine showing they had made in battling the Oshawa Arabs in the championship series of the Lakeshore League. Discussing the condition of James Stevenson Park, he said that the park could only be repaired into a real playing field by spending more than $20,000 and closing it up for a year. The council was considering methods to be adopted, he said, but could do nothing in connection with the work at the present time.

William Kay, district representative of the O.B.A.A., acted as chairman in the absence of Robert Abbott, president of the club. Mr. Kay hinted broadly that baseball enthusiasts in the city were not satisfied with Alderman Walter Stocker as Parks' Commissioner since he had done nothing to keep James Stevenson Park in proper shape.

Extend Invitation.

A strong invitation to the Raybestos team to re-enter the East Peterborough League's fold was given by Dorsey Davis, president of the E.P.L., and Fred Chipps, manager of the Cognawagas.

Speaking as a representative of the City League, Alex Kay again outlined the policy he favors of having a commision of three or four men to control all baseball activities and teams in the city. Charles Curtis, secretary of the E.P.L., briefly outlined some of the difficulties baseball is facing in Peterborough, as did also William Prindible, local convenor of the O.B.A.A.

Honor Al. Heckman.

The players, executive and guests combined to honor Al. Heckman, who piloted the team so successfully last year. Al said he would be out again next summer and might even throw a game if the old "soup bone" would come around right.

Every player was urged to attend the big annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. to be held in Peterborough next April.

FEW SURPRISES HOLIDAY GAMES

Cornell Rides Roughshod Over Vaunted Penn Lines to Win By 18-7 Margin.

FLORIDA BEATS DIXIE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Traditional rivalries rather than national or sectional football titles featured the United States Thanksgiving Day sport program. The ancient feud between Cornell and University of Pensylvannia held major attention in the east. For the first time in seven years the team from Ithaca, N.Y., rode roughshod over a vaunted Penn line and won by a wider margin than the 13 to 7 score indicates. Sixty five thousand shivering spectators saw the game.

At New York, the Columbia-Syracuse struggle that had been forecast as a toss-up, found the Syracuse team on the long end of a 19 to 7 score.

The University of Pittsburg, in another of the "traditional" battles, turned back the Lions of Penn State by 14 to 12. Taking the lead in the second quarter, Pittsburg held grimly to its one-touchdown margin and matched every effort of the visitors.

Other classics on easter gridirons saw Colgate live up to advance notices and defeat Brown by 27 to 0, and the University of Maryland, with a third and fourth quarter drive, bowl over Johns Hopkins of Baltimore 21 to 0.

In the south, Alabama defeated Georgia 13 to 0 to close third undefeated season in eight years and win her conference title.

After years of defeat in their Thanksgiving battle, Florida turned on Georgia Tech and smashed the Dixie rivals by 55 to 7.

Western gridirons struggles brought about a scoreless tie between Oklahoma and Missouri, with a share in the Bix Sig championship fading for the Oklahomans an intersectional game in Chicago that left Oregon State a 12 to 0 victor over University of West Virginia; a 10 to 9 win for Kansas Aggies over Nebraska that spelled an about-face in 14 years of football history; and triumph for the strong Southern California team over University of Washington, 32 to 0.

NEW HAVEN WINS 2-1.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 28.—The brilliant playing of Ayres, Burmeister and Chouinard, gave the New Haven Eagles their second straight victory over the Philadelphia Arrows in a Canadian-American Hockey League contest at the Arena last night. New Haven won 2 to 1 after a hard-fought battle. The Arrows were unable to penetrate the splendid defence of Himes and Speyer until the closing minutes of the contest, when Coulter broke through and scored.

NOT SO GOOD FOR GARDEN

"The House that Jack Built," isn't getting along in the world. Has the World Famous Madison Square Gardens seen it's best days? Some say so anyway. Jack Dempsey, as the "Man-Mauler", the heavyweight champion drew a gate of 93,000 people at Boyles Thirty acres and a gate of more than $1,000,000. These are the fact that built and made Madison Square and made it the Temple of Fistannia. The late Tex Rickard was mighty proud of his new Madison Square Gardens and the fine people his attractions had brought inside of its doors. But—Rickards' gone. Dempsey so far as boxing is concerned is gone and now it looks as if the Gardens are playing their final number. All has changed now. After Demrsey came Tunney, and he turned out to be only half a fight. The Garden was a crazy dream built on nerve, publicity—but Tex had the goods to back it up. But today the fight game has become a flat tire. Now entrenchmen has become the byword of its portals. Maybe this game of chasin' the puck will be the answer to the present situation if it is boosted hard enough. There are five months of gates in this winter sport and Chicago has spent $8,000,000 on an arena while Boston has contributed $3,000,000, and Detroit has invested $2,500,000. But this winter sport was figured on when the Gardens were built and if the present sport promoters figure that hockey as the major attraction can make their arenas pay then it seems reasonable that this new game is the right solution.

GOLF NOTES FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE GREEN

By RALPH H. REVILLE

Prize money for tournaments given on these miniature courses in some cases far exceed the amount awarded at big championships. For instance, recently at Chattanooga, Tenn., the almost unbelievable sum of $6500 was distributed amongst the competitors. The first prize in both the men's and women's sections was $2000, with second prizes of $1000 each. It pays to play miniature golf, if you can play it well and don't mind being professionalized.

"Tom Thumb" courses the past season were even called into requisition by the church. In the town of Haledon, New Jersey, the Methodist Episcopal church rented a vacant lot and opened an 18-hole course with the result that enough money was made to pay off the church debt and to build an addition to the present structure. Perhaps it is needless to state the course was not operated on Sunday.

Tommy Armour has been chosen by the selection committee as the outstanding professional golfer of the year by virtue of his winning the Canadian open the Professional Golfers' Association championship and the St. Louis open, in which his share of the prize-money was $2500. He showed his supremacy in both match and medal play, scoring his victories over the best professional talent in America, including Leo Diegel, Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, Joe Kirkwood and Al. Espinosa.

Armour has now won every major event in American golf for which a professional may compete. He came first to Canada as an amateur and then taking up his residence in the States in the five years since playing the game there as a professional, has captured twenty-seven tournaments of more or less importance. For the first time in years, a foreign-born professional has risen to supremacy in American golf. Tommy Armour erstwhile Edinburgh amateur and distinguished war veteran, is a worthy champion both of the States and Canada.

The question is often asked, How do the leading professionals regard Bobby Jones? Perhaps Leo Diegel sizes up their opinions of the great amateur when he recently stated that a championship without Bobby Jones competing is no longer a major championship. That is high praise indeed. They do, however, claim that Jones gets the favors alike from galleries and officials. He is always given the best starting time in championships in which he enters and is extended other little courtesies which do not come the way of the professionals. And the pros. are possibly right in making this claim. Jones is the "Darling of the Links" and if there are any favors going, he generally gets them.

Talking of the redoubtable "Bob"—as he is always called in his home and home town, there is one thing that he hasn't been able to do that others have done, in some cases more than once. He has never made a "hole-in-one." Harry Vardon has only once performed the stunt, whereas his great rival, Jimmie Braid, has eleven such performances to his credit, not to mention "Sandy" Herd with eighteen. When George S. Lyon first took up golf some thirty years ago he promptly proceeded to do the Hawthorn and Railway holes on the Old Rosedale course in one. Since then, although he has played rounds by the thousand he has never again "teed the tin from the tee." The Goddess of Luck is generally speaking with the novice and not the expert golfer when it comes to making a "One-Shot."

Harry Cooper, who, many years ago, was a caddie at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club, his father occupying the position of steward of the club, at that time is off to a good start on the big winter tournament round, which will take all the leading professionals the next few months clear through to California and Mexico. He picked up the first prize, $1500 in the $5000 event at Salt Lake City, Utah, with a score of 284. George Von Elm, who, as an amateur, ranked second only to Jones, made his professional debut at Salt Lake and managed to tie for third money, netting him $750. Not a bad start for the blonde Detroit player who claimed it cost him $10,000 a year to take part in amateur events and that he simply could not afford such an expenditure.

Cooper, who was born in England, and who is generally known as "Lighthorse Harry," sprang into fame when as a mere youth in 1926 he won the $500 first prize in the Los Angeles tournament and followed this up in 1927 by tieing with Tommy Armour for the open championship of the United States, losing in the play-off. Since then he has more or less faded out of the picture. His Utah victory may be the incentive to again start him off on the road to fame and fortune. During the next few months the professional stars will be competing in tournaments which will run into nearly $100,000 in prizemoney—not bad picking.

It is really too bad that apparently throughout Canada the idea still prevails to some extent that the larger and lighter ball authorized by the United States Golf Association to be put into play on January 1st, 1931, will be the official ball also in Canada. This is, of course, all wrong.

Bob-Sled Tournament 1932 Olympic Games

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Nov. 28.—(CP)—Teams from Canada are to be invited to compete in an international bob-sled tournament to be held here February 6 and 7 on the Mount Van Hoenberg run being groomed for the Olympic games of 1932. The New York State Olympic winter games commission is sponsoring the tournament. Sanction has been sought from the Amateur Athletic Union to make the event for the national championships for both four and two-man bobs. The run is a mile and a half long and contains eleven curves. The drop averages ten per cent. The run has been specially constructed for the Olympic games.

BEACHES HAVE GREAT PUNTER IN ABIE BOX

TIGER CRIPPLES RETURN.

Great Duel Expected Between Reeves and Sprague, the Tallest Gridders.

TORONTO, Ont., November 28 (C.P.). — Apparently Coach Mike Rodden of Hamilton Tigers, Big Four champions, will not be caught napping if the Bengals' opponents in the Dominion final at Varsity Stadium on Saturday prove capable of halting the famed Tiger line. In the final hard workout for the clash with Balmy Beach, Coach Rodden devoted a major part of his activities to backfield passing and, if the display of "Pep" Leadley, Timmy Languay, and "Beano" Wright may be taken as a criterion, a good many of Ab. Box's towering punts may be run back for substantial gains by the Tiger halves.

The trio passed the ball with speed and neatness and Balmy Beach tacklers appear due for a busy afternoon if they would stop the opposing backfielders.

Reports from the Tigers' camp today indicate the "steam roller" is back at full strength, all the casualties have recuperated and the Tiger line will take some stopping.

Balmy Beaches also concluded their strenuous work and will be at full strength and in fine fettle. The Old Gold and Blue has suffered only one serious casualty this season, an unusual record for a team accustomed to being handicapped in this respect.

The Beaches are saying little about their chances against the Jungle Kings, but local fans and critics are confident the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions will give the Dominion titleholders a hard battle.

In youthful Ab. Box, they have one of the finest punters in the game, and he should outkick anyone Coach Rodden elects to handle the kicking duties for Tigers.

Battle of Giants.

A battle of giants may develop when Eddy Reeve and Dave Sprague of the Bengals clash. The pair are considered the two tallest men in Canadian football, and both are middle wings extraordinary. Reeve has been a star for years, but Sprague did not break into the limelight until this year when injuries to Tiger regulars on the Western Canada tour gave him his chance and he made good with a vengeance.

Unless the weatherman relents, the game will be played in the coldest weather experienced here this season, which may affect the attendance somewhat, even though the game promises to be one of the best of the year.

NO EASTERN TRIP FOR REGINA TEAM

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 28.—Officials of Regina Rough Riders, western rugby champions, last night announced they would not challenge the eastern winners for the Dominion title. Coach Al Ritchie said that several of his players were unable to get away for the trip east and he had decided against facing Hamilton Tigers or Balmy Beach with a weakened line-up.

A week ago Rough Riders decided to challenge for the Grey Cup, emblem of national supremacy, and Ritchie was confident his team would make a better showing in the intersectional tilt than any western challenge in the past. It would have been Regina's fourth straight titular battle in the east had the Rough Riders met the winner of Saturdays Beach-Tiger semi-final.

Champions of the west for five years, unbeaten in their Prairie stronghold for three, Rough Riders were reckoned the strongest football machine ever developed in the west.

WHEN FOUL BLOW VICTORIES WERE SCARCE

Will someone please identify the boxers, the timekeeper and the seconds—and do not forget the purp on the chair—in this old-time photograph. This photo turned up in the waste paper basket of a downtown firm in Toronto and was forwarded as a curiosity. It will give the younger boxing fans some idea of how the boys went into the ring in the good old bare-knuckle days—skin-tight woollen shorts, high-necked, long-sleeved jerseys, long stockings and high boots. And their seconds were their managers and financial backers, sportsmen who would just as soon have gone into the corners on fight night in their underwear as to don the labelled jerseys affected by the seconds today.

BRO. R. J. BULLEN RECEIVES GIFT

Past D.D.G.M. of Madoc District, I.O.O.F., Honored By Campbellford Lodge.

JOLLY BANQUET GIVEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The Campbellford Lodge No. 248 is very much to the fore these days as was evidenced Tuesday evening when a large gathering was registered at a splendid banquet staged in the lodge room and at which the presentation of a Past Masters Jewel to Past Master D.D.G.M. R. J. Bullen was a feature.

It had been planned to hold a contest between the Noble Grands and the Vice Grands, sides to be known as the Reds and Blues. Oddfellows will understand the reason for this. Last night was the result of this contest in which the Reds had lost and were called upon to banquet the lodge. To emphasize the good spirit of the members and the friendliness of the contest the members of the Blues voluntarily assisted and were good enough to provide the program. After the regular session lodge work was disposed of the brothers assembled in the lodge dining room where a real fowl supper was spread, with all those other nice things that go to make up a dainty meal. During this period piano music was rendered by Bro. George Lucy and community singing indulged in by the gathering.

After the banquet the members adjourned to the lodge room where a delightful program was presented. This was featured by the presentation to Past Grand Brother Robert J. Bullen of a Past District Deputy Grand Master's Jewel in recognition of his services and to become his personal property to be worn by him at all meetings of the lodge in the place of the lodge insegma. Bro. Bullen held the office of D.D.G.M. of Madoc District No. 45 in 1929-30.

In making the presentation, Past D.D.G.M., S. A. Maguire spoke in humorous vein, drifting from that into the history of the order and then to his associations with Bro. Bullen relative to the long cold drives taken together while on lodge work and the many times that snow drifts had held them up. Nevertheless, the speaker stressed the good times they had had together while on this installing team. And in conclusion, Bro. Bullen was "Assisted to arise" and being placed upon his feet by the kindly assistance of Bro. Maguire had the jewel pinned upon him.

This was the signal for a burst of applause from the gathering, and when at last it had subsided sufficiently for speech Bro. Bullen thanked the lodge for the honor it had bestowed upon him, and for a short while previewed his term of office as D.D.G.M.

The remainder of the program consisted of a concert solo by Bro. W. Lowe, a reading by Bro. J. D. McEachern, a vocal solo by P. G. Bro. J. Poulton, and vocal and piano solos by Bro. G. Lucy.

Being in jovial mood, Bro. Lucy had even prepared a College Yell, but it was thought advisable to read and not demonstrate it, for fear of police intervention.

This event was a successful climax to the contest and all the members went away with a feeling of gratification, and keenly looking forward to the next event of its kind.

RELIEF WORK GOING AHEAD RAPIDLY

Town of Campbellford Taking Advantage of Government Grant to Make Extensions.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The public welfare work that is being carried on at Campbellford under the government grant is continuing rapidly.

On both sides of the river progress has been made. The sewer on Frank street is now completed, the water main on Grand Road has been laid and is ready to fill in. On this stretch the natives will hook up with the main are busy with their extensions.

Work is now under way at Booth Street and digging operations started on Victoria street on Wednesday.

This work is under the supervision of John Hall, for the west side of the river and Robert Fox for the east portion of the town.

WEEKLY MEETING Y.P.S.

Bible Contest Staged By St. Andrew's, Campbellford, Proves Interesting Feature.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, was held on Monday evening, with the president, Thomas Campbell in the chair.

The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn, scripture lesson, and prayer after which a short business session was held.

Miss Marion MacArthur took the chair for the remainder of the program which consisted of the topic, "Presbyterian Missions on Formosa Islands" given by Miss Leah Blue, and a short address on general missionary work by Mr. W. A. Newcourt.

A very interesting Bible contest was held in which all the members took part, after which the meeting closed with the singing of a hymn and the Benediction.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Miss Helen Bygott Regent of Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E., Campbellford, For Coming Season.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The annual business meeting and election of officers of Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E., Campbellford, was held on Tuesday evening with a large attendance registered.

The slate of officers elected is as follows: Hon. regent, Miss Campbell; regent, Miss Helen Bygott; first vice-regent, Miss Eleanor Ferris; second vice-regent, Miss Hazel Thomas; secretary, Mrs. Clifford Weston; treasurer, Miss Florence Thomas; standard bearer, Miss Hazel Wright.

The meeting went on record as expressing its appreciation for the assistance received by those outside the chapter who had helped them in the production of their play, staged in the spring.

MRS H. W. LAPP LEAVES ON TRIP

CHRISTMAS IN HOLY CITY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—On Tuesday next, Dec. 2nd, the Empress of Australia will sail from New York on a 137-day "round the world" tour and will bear as one of its passengers Mrs. H. W. Lapp, of Campbellford, the lucky winner of the Farm and Dairy "Lucky 7" Puzzle Contest staged this spring.

Mrs. Lapp, who won the first award in this competition leading in a field of 150 contestants was 178 points ahead of the second place. She gained 4121 correct solutions and won the choice of a trip around the world or $2,000.

Choosing the trip, Mrs. Lapp declared that it represented to her the finest investment she could make. She was going out to learn all she could about other people and other climes. This had always been her ambition and the choice of the trip enabled her to realize it.

Mrs. Lapp will follow the straight tour with only two optional trips. This will take her into every country and will enable her to spend the Christmas season in Jerusalem and New Year's Eve in Cairo, Egypt. The countries especially attractive to her are the Holy Land, Egypt, India and China.

Mrs. Lapp left Campbellford this week to enable a stop over in New York City. She will return on April 14th, 1931 after having covered a distance of 29,537 miles.

In order that Paul Gregory's singing might be heard in the screen as well as the stage version of "Whoopee", which comes to the Regent theatre on Saturday, Samuel Goldwyn and Florenz Ziegfeld bought his contract from a Broadway producer for $25,000.

Badly Smashed Finger Safely and Quickly Healed

Best For Stopping Pain and Blood-Poisoning

A cut or sore place neglected, may, within a few hours, set up serious inflammation, festering, or blood-poison.

D. P. McKee

Keep Zam-Buk always handy. This reliable antiseptic healer promptly applied to any flesh wound or sore stops dangerous infection from dirt and bad germs. There are powerful herbal extracts in Zam-Buk Ointment which end pain, thoroughly disinfect the tissues and quickly grow new skin.

For its ever-readiness and absolute reliability Zam-Buk is aptly spoken of as "a surgery in a two-inch box." Never be without a box.

NEVER KNOWN IT TO FAIL

"I have used many different kinds of salves and ointments, but Zam-Buk is by far the best of the lot. It never fails to heal. When I badly smashed my finger between two rocks it was split right across and the nail crushed to bits. I straightway applied some Zam-Buk. This soon stopped all festering and blood-poison dangers and quickly healed with new skin. I sure will recommend Zam-Buk to all my friends and neighbors."—David P. McKee, Sunny Dale P.O., Alberta.

"I cut my hand badly with a saw. It became very painful and swollen, and finally turned to blood-poisoning. I applied dressings of Zam-Buk which soon ended the pain, drew out the poison and finally healed the cut. It should be kept handy by everyone in case of emergency."—Mr. S. R. McClure, Ballinafad, Ont.

IF YOU SUFFER from any superficial wound or sore, inflamed, or blotchy skin, dry or weeping eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis, impetigo, pimples, scalp troubles, ulcers, or piles, you will find Zam-Buk quickly soothing and healing. It is the handiest and best first-aid for cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, etc. Zam-Buk Ointment 50c. box, Zam-Buk Medicinal Soap 25c. cake.

Bounty Grants For Products of Ontario

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Nov. 28—J. L. Haycock, former leader of the Patrons of Industry, thirty years ago, remarked to-day, "Why should the Province of Ontario grant a bounty to producers of honey to allow it to sweeten wine (and I am not disputing the right or justice of the bounty) and not grant bounties to other material things that would sweeten life? Why not a bounty on wheat and other grains, on potatoes and other vegetables? If a bounty is paid on honey why not on a score of other Ontario productions? I leave this nut for the Government to crack."

WASHING RUGS

You can wash Oriental rugs if you use fine white soap and scrub them while they lie flat. Hang on the line and rinse with a hose.

Grant And Thorpe Employees' Banquet

The employees of Grant and Thorpe were treated to one of their periodical banquets by the firm last evening in Hooper's Palm Room. The guests of honor were A. S. Weil of Buffalo, head of the advertising firm bearing his name and Howard Hazen one of the department heads of the Lincoln division of the Ford Motor Company of Detroit. Among the other guests were Robert Kingan of this city, A. Woods of Belleville and Mrs Anderson of the Westinghouse Co. in Hamilton.

After the dinner was over the entire company adjourned to the new radio parlor in Grant and Thorpe's store where Mr. Weil delivered a most illuminating and interesting address on organization, pointing out the absolute necessity of co-operation between departments if any business is to run smoothly. Without going too deeply into details he sketched the entire operations of the business and dealt with duties of employees toward the customer, the employer and themselves. Without organization the customer cannot be satisfied and dissatisfied customers cease buying, hence in a short time you have no customers and the bailif takes possession.

Mr. Hazen spoke on cleanliness and the great necessity of keeping every part of the shop, warehouse and shipping room in a perfect state of order. He stated a lady with a silk dress and white kid gloves could go through any part of the Ford plant and touch anything that was touchable without soiling her clothing.

IRVING BERLIN'S FIRST PICTURE

COMPOSES NEW SONGS.

Douglas Fairbanks, minus the trappings of d'Artagnan, Robin Hood and such gentrey with whom he peopled his silent screen career, appears in "Reaching the Moon," the film which he is now making at the United Artists studio in Hollywood, as a 1931 stock broker, a wealthy, aggressive American business prince. It is his first appearance in modern clothes on the screen in some years.

Mr. Fairbanks this time has selected as Director Edmund Goulding. Bebe Daniels has the leading feminine role.

Joseph M. Schenck, who is presenting 'Reaching for the Moom," has assembled a supporting cast that, besides Miss Daniels, includes Jack Mulhall, Edward Everett Horton, Claud Allister, Helen Jerome Eddy, Kate Price, Adrienne d'Ambricourt, Emmett Corrigan, Constance Bennett, Joan Crawford, Sally O'Neill and Katherine De Mille. This picture, which is from the pen of William Anthony McGuire, is placed chiefly on a luxurious and modernistic transatlantic liner that has been created on two stages at the United Artists studio by William Cameron Menzies, the young art director whose sets for "Bulldog Drummond," "The Thief of Bagdad" and other films have won him awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Irving Berling Producer

The entire production represents the debut in active film production work of Irving Berlin, who has composed songs and sketches for motion pictures previously, but who now emerges as a production executive. Mr. Berlin's association with Mr. Schenck dates back to a quarter of a century ago when the composer was known as Izzy Baline and he was a "singing wziter" at "Nigger Mike" Salter's cafe on the Bowery and Mr. Schecnk was a drug clerk in a Chatham square pharmacy, the while he studied to become a pharmacist. The friends were also interested in an earlier venture in the theatre; the financing of the Music Box, the theatre in which revues have been presented. Mr. Berlin began his work with Mr. Schenck in United Artists by contributing music to films, among his songs having been "Coquette" composed for the Mary Pickford film; "Puttin' On the Rits" for the Harry Richman picture, and "A Year From To-day" for Norma Talmadge's first talking picture. Now, in the Fairbanks film, he offers these new songs, "Reaching for the Mobn," "High Up and Low Down," "Little Things in Life" and "It's Yours."

WAR STATESMEN IN NOTABLE PAINTING

Sir James Guthrie's Composite Portrait is an Historic and Human Depiction.

LONDON, Nov., 28. (By the Canadian Press)—In the National Portrait Gallery has just been placed on exhibition "Some Statesmen of the Great War", a composite painting, the work of Sir James Guthrie, who died last year. Naturally the figures are from studies painted at different times and the general setting is, of course, according to the painter's own ideas. With this work Sir Abe Bailey has also presented to the nation a painting of the military leaders in the war, by Sargent, and a painting of the naval chiefs, by Sir David Cope.

In Guthrie's work the figures included are: The Maharajah of Bikanir, General Louis Botha, George Nicholl Barnes, Sir Robert Borden, Lord Balfour, Sir Eric Geddes, Mr. Bonar Law, Lord Morris, Lord Kitchener, Sir Joseph Cook, W. M. Hughes, Mr. Lloyd George, Lord Milner, W. F. Massey, Mr. Winston Churchill, Viscount Grey, The Earl of Oxford and Axquith.

According to a critic in the Manchester Guardian, Sir James Guthrie has achieve that rare thing in a State group on the grand scale of making it historic and human in some obvious points. Balfour, for instance, is standing addressing the Council, but no one appears to be listening to him, except Hughes (who is deaf), and Churchill's head is out of scale compared with Grey's beside him

The difficulties of the task have been too great for the artist, but in its imagnative design, in the rich dignity of its colors, and in the strong characterizations of the figures it surely ranks with the biggest achievements of the times since Reynolds. In a department of art in which England has no continuous tradition, Guthrie's imagination, sincerity, and technical genius have bridged the gulf and left to prosperity an epic of the World War that can stand beside the Masters in the great line of State portraiture without looking unworthy. He has achieved this with little help from uniforms or robes or other apparatus of grandiose effect. "His triumph is that he makes you feel these are men caught by fate to carry the most appaling responsibilities ever set upon men, at the moment when the wings of victory come looming through the darkness," says the Guardian. "Symbolic too, is that it is a victory without a head."

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 5 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan lay in the darkness of the hold, ignorant of the fact that his wife was a prisoner in the cabin almost above his head. For weeks that seemed like months the little steamer forged on—the two prisoners knew not where. Then one day Tarzan was ordered to come above. As he swung himself on deck, he noted over the starboard bow of the Kincaid a strip of land.

The vessel lay at anchor a few hundred yards from shore. Almost down to the water's edge ran a dense tropical jungle. Around him stood a half-dozen armed sailors, commanded by an unkempt, swarthy officer. Tarzan fully expected to see Rokoff, but it was the officer who spoke. "Lord Greystoke," he said, "your child is not on board. We have orders to set you at liberty here."

Tarzan listened with amazement. "Be quick," continued the fellow in broken English, "remove your clothing. Here you will not need it." And, as Tarzan hesitated, a revolver was pointed at him and slowly he obeyed. A boat was lowered and, still heavily guarded, the ape-man was rowed ashore. There a note was thrust into his hand and he was left—marooned—upon a jungle island.

As he watched the departing vessel, Tarzan saw a man appear at the rail, call his name, and with a laugh of derision hold high the figure of a little child. Sick with horror, he realized the full measure of Rokoff's revenge. It numbed his senses completely so that he failed to hear the movement of that hairy thing behind him, creeping stealthily towards him as a cat upon a mouse.

BOSTON BULL IS SHOT

Claimed by police to be one of the sheep killers, which have ravaged flocks extensively in North Monaghan township during the past four weeks, a Boston bull terrier, owned by John Sandbacks has been shot. Provincial Constable D. Sylvester said today that he is taking steps to have another dog killed which he is sure has been worrying sheep. The dog's owner has so far refused to do away with the dog, but the constable said that if his orders are not followed out immediately the owner will be brought into court.

NO TRACE OF TUBERCULOSIS

NOT ASKING FOR HELP.

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (Special to The Examiner).—Frederick W. Eggleton, ex-service man, who died in Toronto Western Hospital, following a seizure, after he had been refused admittance to Christie Street Hospital, was not tubercular. The report of an inquest held in the hospital on Wednesday discloses that there were no traces of tuberculosis.

Mrs. Eggleton, the widow, did not want to talk about the bereavement when interviewed by The Examiner to-day.

"Fred has gone out to the hospital to fetch some of his Dad's papers and keys which were taken from his clothes. He told me to have anybody who called, wait until he got back. We are sorry the newspapers have circulated that Mr. Eggleton died of consumption. There were no traces of the disease. I said so on Tuesday, but at Christie Street they told me that they didn't take tubercular cases. What could I do but bring him home? And then, when he was sized with another hemorrhage, we took him to Toronto Western Hospital."

Asked whether military honors would be accorded at the funeral, Mrs. Eggleton declared that she expected a place could be obtained in the soldiers' plot, but she had made no arrangements for it. "I have made all the funeral arrangements myself," she said. "I would sooner have just a private plot. There is less red tape about that. Anyway, they didn't try to help me when my husband was living; I wouldn't want them to go to any trouble now. It's too late," she concluded, almost in tears.

SAINTS TO MEET BELLEVILLE TEAM

St. John's Juniors Visit Bay of Quinte Town on Monday—May Also Play Oshawa.

St. John's Junior O.H.A. Club will visit Belleville on Monday night and play an exhibition game with the Belleville Juniors, who, under the coaching of Stan Burgoyne, are said to be rounding into great form. The Belleville team recently tied the Toronto Marlboros, and the Saints will have to step to town on Monday if they have to hold the Easterners. The St. John's team by the way is in demand, for the Oshawa management has also invited the local crew to visit the Motor City in the near future, and the invitation will likely be accepted.

IN MEMORIAM
SERVICE—Sacred to the memory of Smollett Ingram, wife of Wm. T. Service, youngest daughter of Wm. Ingram; also infant daughter, aged 2 months, Molly Service. November 28, 1926.

IN MEMORIAM.
LOWTHER.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Francis Lowther, who passed away November 28, 1929.

"God sees when the footsteps falter,
And the way has grown too steep;
So He closes his weary eyelids
And gives His loved one sleep.
And our aching hearts are calling,
To the shadows dark and grey,
For the dear one who has left us
Just one year ago to-day."

—Ever remembered by his Wife and Son, Kenneth.

IN MEMORIAM
SARGENT—In sad and loving memory of a dearly beloved husband and kind father, James Wellington Sargent, who passed away November the 28th, 1929.
One year has passed since that sad day,
When God called the one we loved away;
It is lonesome without dear, and sad the weary way,
For life to us is not the same since you were called away.
God only knows how we miss him,
However long our life may be;
Whatever land we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours
We will always think of you
Who died as every ones friend

Plane in Landing Kills Children

NORTHERN PILOT COLLIDES WITH GASOLINE DRUMS

In Trying to Escape Children Playing on Ice Pilot Kills Four Others.

NEVER SAW THEM.

Accident Occurred Late Thursday Afternoon 500 Miles North of Edmonton.

EDMONTON, Alta, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Four children were killed instantly three were seriously injured, North of Edmonton, late Thursday when an aeroplane piloted by Captain W. N. Sherlock of the Commercial Airways crashed into a pile of gasoline drums behind which they were hiding at play. Sherlock and his passenger were unhurt.

Skilful Flyer

The pilot, long-noted as one of the most skilful fliers of the far north, was risking his life in a desperate attempt to avoid other children playing on the ice where he landed after a trip from Fort McMurray, when he crashed his machine into the gasoline drums. The children behind them were invisible to him.

According to the meagre reports of the tragedy which reached the city today, two of the children killed and two of those hurt were of the family of Thomas Woodman, post manager for the Northern Trading Company at Fort Chippewyan.

The dead: Tommy Woodman, aged 6; Danny Woodman, 8; Freddie McDonald, 6; Willie Bird, 11. Badly injured: Dorothy Woodman, 11; Dickie Woodman, 4; Arthur McDonald, 7.

Pilot Sherlock and his passengers, Right Rev. Bishop O'Breynat of Fort Smith, and the Mother Provincial of the Northern Mission, escaped unhurt. The airplane is reported smashed beyond repair.

According to reports that have reached the Commercial Airways here, Sherlock was landing his machine on the ice at Fort Chipewyan at 4.30 p.m. Thursday, when the accident occurred.

Playing on Ice

Evidently as his machine touched the ice well out from the shore line the pilot noticed a group of children playing on the ice. The light was fading. Aware that he could not avoid striking the children if he allowed his machine to continue its normal course, the pilot swerved it sharply to one side and it crashed into the gasoline drums. These had been placed in readiness for re-fuelling the airplane.

Seven or eight children were hiding behind the drums, unseen to the pilot. Of these, four were killed instantly, three were seriously injured and another was slightly injured, the report continued.

DARING AVIATOR IS FEARED LOST

Mrs. Keith Miller Was Attempting to Fly From Havana to Miami.

DECREPIT AIRPLANE.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 29. (CP) — A wide circle of friends in London was shocked to-day at dispatches that Mrs. J. M. Keith Miller, pretty young and vivacious Australian aviator, apparently had perished in an attempt to fly a badly equipped and decrepit airplane from Havana to Miami.

Mrs. Keith Miller, the wife of an Australian newspaperman and the daughter of English parents, arrived in England in 1927 with money she had saved for the express purpose of studying aviation and acquiring an airplane in which she could return to Australia.

She worked here and secured an airplane which she christened the "Red Rose" and in which she and Captain W. N. Lancaster started a 13,000 mile flight to Sydney on Oct. 14 1927. Their flight was full of adventure. Once, while in the air above Rangoon they had a fight with a big snake which had crawled in the plane. The ship crashed in the East Indies and Mrs. Keith Miller broke her nose. Captain Lancaster receiving a cut lip.

Another mishap caused a further delay but they reached Australia in March, 1928. Mrs. Keith Miller became the first woman ever to fly from England to the smallest continent. Captain Lancaster declared that she had become a good mechanic during the long journey. Prior to this trip she had been in the air only a few times.

CADETS SCORE EARLY IN GAME

R. M. C. Scores Touchdown Against Oshawa in First Quarter.

RECOVER FUMBLE.

RICHARDSON STADIUM Kingston Ont., Nov. 29. (CP)—In weather that was bitterly cold, and in a blinding snowstorm Royal Military College, intermediate intercollegiate champions and Oshawa Blue Devils, winners of the O.R.F.U. met here this afternoon in the finals for the Dominion championship. The cold weather kept the crowd down, but a good game was expected with both teams at full strength.

First Quarter

R.M.C. scored a touchdown in the first quarter against the terrific wind and blinding snow when they recovered a fumble and dribbled the ball almost half the length of the field. Kimethen took the ball over for a touch which was not converted. As the period was ending Hubbel kicked for a point when R.M.C line held on two downs. The play was very loose, with plenty of fumbles prevailing. It was a game in which anything was happening, but against the wind the cadets had the edge. Oshawa handled the ball loosely and failed to take advantage of the wind to kick at every opportunity. The quarter ended with the score, R.M.C. 5, Oshawa 1.

Second Quarter.

A fifty-yard run by Davoud featured the first part of the second quarter, and after that the Cadets kept kicking at every opportunity. Four times Davoud drove the ball far over the dead-line for points, while the play was not past halfway all through the quarter. Davoud's work stood out for the Cadets through the quarter.

Complete rebuilding of many properties destroyed in the hurricane in the Dominion Republic, has been started.

Einstein Only Able to Take Half an Hour To Attend the Wedding of His Daughter

BERLIN, November 29 (C.P.) — Professor Albert Einstein, who sets a relative value on things, allotted just one half-hour of his time this morning to see his daughter, Margot, married at the Municipal Marriage Bureau.

The savant, who has been working until the early morning hours daily, clearing up some matters of mathematics before he sails on his trip to the United States, calculated with mathematical precision that he could spare just 30 minutes to give the bride away to Dr. Dimitri Magianoff, young Russian writer on scientific and artistic subjects. He failed to carry out his program because a witness was late, and he lost a half-hour in getting back to his own quarters to work.

Ten minutes before the ceremony, which was set for 10.30 a.m., a few streets away, he, his daughter, and Dr. Magianoff, emerged from the professor's home and seemed greatly surprised to see several cameramen outside. "No, no, don't photograph!" he exclaimed, greatly distressed, but he was finally persuaded to tarry a moment.

Two Flyers Missing In Winter Weather

Two fliers were missing to-day in premature Winter weather. More than half a hundred deaths were attributed to cold and snow. Marine circles, however, were cheered when two Canadian Lake vessels, the freighters Simcoe and Mapleby, came safely to port. The Mapleby passed through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and the Simcoe docked at Cleveland. Fears had been felt for the safety of both following a storm which swept the Great Lakes and searching parties and ships were sent after them last night and to-day. A third vessel, the British steamer Wearbridge, in distress last night off the New Jersey coast, was proceeding to port under her own power to-day.

CITY TO FIGHT JUSTICE COSTS

GARBAGE CONTRACT LET.

The Finance Committee of the City Council cleaned up all its business for 1930 at a meeting last night and decided to fight the County Council on the arbitration of apportionment of costs of the administration of justice. The arbitrators on the apportioning of the costs were W. R. Morris for the city and George B. Nicholls for the county. Although their arbitrator approved the apportionment the County Council will not endorse his decision. The members of the Finance Committee of the City Council expressed the willingness to carry the matter before the Judge for a final settlement.

Roy Irwin and Ray Paquette formed a delegation asking that the license on miniature golf courses be reduced. The tax was fixed several months ago at $100 but the committee decided to reduce it to $50.

A letter was received from the McQuillan Broom Company, pointing out that nearly every housewife in the city is being solicited to buy brooms represented to be manufactured by the Blind. It was stated that this institution is not a government institution, as many people think, but is a private institution which is also heavily subsidized by Federal and Provincial governments as well as by private gifts, and tag days. Further they do not employ blind people exclusively. The McQuillan company submitted that in fairness to the broom manufacturers and especially to the merchants of this city who retail brooms that steps be taken to protect them and encourage "Made in Peterborough" products.

The matter was referred to the City Solicitor to study the bylaw and learn what method the Council can adopt to prevent the sale of brooms in this manner.

The cost of the Mother Allowance grants in Peterborough during October was $11,011, which the city pays.

Tenders for the collection of garbage was considered by the Property Committee. Robert Manley was given the tender at $8,475. The tender last year was secured by H. J. Withers at $9,750.

Other tenders received were: Justice Blodgett and N. Harper, $8,400; Harry Mitchell and J. M. DeLong, $9,500; Bertram McCarroll, J. H. Bennett and A. J. Blodgett, $9,000; W. Rutherford, $12,000 and H. J. Withers, $9,000.

The Weather

The thermometer went down to 2 degrees below zero during the night; but early this morning it had risen to 15 above. As usually occurs when the temperature rises suddenly after a cold dip, snow has fallen heavily.—W.P.

SANTA ARRIVES AMID GREAT JOY, COLORFUL PARADE

SNOW FALLS STEADILY.

Thousands of Children Filed Through Santa Claus' Workshop in Eaton Store.

With all the pomp and ceremony befitting to his annual mission of joy and good cheer, Santa Claus arrived in Peterborough this morning, and took possession of the palatial workshop which had been prepared for him at the Canadian Department Store, at Simcoe and George street.

What a reception he received! The children turned out en masse, thronging the sidewalks all along the route, eagerly feasting their eyes on the grand spectacle which St. Nicholas and his gay band of attendants presented.

Seasonable weather prevailed as Santa Clause stepped from his iceberg float drawn by Reindeer. He was sharp on time and was greeted at Exhibition Park by officials of the C. D. S., who escorted him as he drove triumphantly through the principal thoroughfares of the city. The snow fell steadily in large light flakes, clothing buildings, streets and the whole countryside in a white mantle. It was weather, the like of which this cheery old gentleman, had recently left behind at his permanent headquarters away up in the Arctic regions.

He's Here, Cried Children

He's here! he's here! Keen eagered children, shouted the glad tidings in shrill piping voices to their parents, meanwhile dacing around in excited anticipation, as soon as the martial strains of the Peterborough Rangers band was heard. Then the supreme moment--Santa Claus himself—there was the reality, not the vision which had kept children awake of nights, for the past week or more. And what an escort he had. First there was Traffic Officer E. Hornick, accompanied by a stalwart constable of the City Police Force, to shepherd the pop-eyed children to the sidewalks—Then the Herald mounted on a prancing charger, and looking very smart and colorful in his suit of blue and pink and large plumed hat.

Following came a private car in which rode His Worship Mayor Roland Denne and Chief Constable Samuel Newhall, the Fire Chief's car with Assistant-Chief George Smith at the wheel and the complete equipment of the City Fire Department, including the monster ladder truck, and hose wagons.

Clowns and Their Antics

Surrounded by a motley collection of clowns, each keeping up a continuous round of frolicking and antics, was the huge grasshopper with a funny frog driver in a green and yellow suit. Then came the Toonerville Trolley. It might have been clipped right from the comic strips, so faithfully was every detail reproduced. The old skipper was present, as large as life, complete with his

CHOIR DELIGHTS CITY AUDIENCE

TOURING CANADA.

The Children of His Majesty's Chapel Savoy, as they are styled were interesting visitors to the city yesterday, when they delighted audiences during afternoon and evening performances in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute, under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club.

These ten young boys, ranging in years from ten to fifteen, were youthful singers of skill and outstanding ability. Their fresh young faces, their unspoiled, grave and yet cheerful demeanor, their fine talent in song, and above all, their manifest wonderfully good training, made them outstanding in their work. Filing in with careful precision, standing at attention to sing their nice songs, bowing stiffly from the waist in foreign fashion, as they acknowledged applause, sitting easily, without fuss or flurry or wriggling, they were good examples of training and discipline.

They seemed to be equally at home in the reverent-atmosphered devotional opening section of the programme, when their songs were all

PETERBORO'S INDUSTRIAL STRENGTH LIES IN DIVERSITY OF INDUSTRIES

Quaker Oats Company's Outbound Shipments Great Surpass Those of 1929.

BUSINESS NEAR NORMAL.

Peterborough has always found stability and comfort in the fate and fact that all her industrial eggs are not packed in one basket.

Lush years have boomed other cities as their key industries have ridden high on the swells of prosperity, but with periodic trade recessions they slumped to the other extreme of inactivity and consequent depression affecting these entire communities. Cities dominated by and depending upon automobile factories have been especially sensitive to this flow and ebb of business. So far, the motor industry has declined to contribute even one of its smokestacks to our skyline, and automobile factory is a big egg in any town's basket.

Peterborough's strength and possibly her policy or luck lies in the diversity of her industries. Their advantage as a group has been demonstrated in other cyclic periods of business disturbance, for although some of them suffered temporary setbacks, others maintained production and in some instances increased it, with the general result that the community more or less balanced its business, and escaped the unemployment and financail straits that beset and worried other cities whose industrial eggs were less favorably distributed.

At the present time Peterborough is passing through a similar experience. It has been widely broadcast as a city whose business is nearer the normal level, where the condition of employment is more satisfactory, and where relief schemes are not required to the same extent as in so many other cities throughout the Dominion. This comparative steadiness is largely due to the diversification of Peterborough's industries. Some of them it is true, have

Marquis Of Douglas Returned In Renfrew

RENFREW, Scotland, Nov. 29. (C. P. Cable).—The Marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale won the East Renfrew by-election and the Conservatives thus retained the seat they have held since 1924, through two general elections and two by-elections.

The vote, announced to-day, was: Marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale, Cons., 19 703.

Baillie Irwin, Independent Labor Party, 12 293.

W. O. Brown, Scottish Nationalist 4,810.

The seat was last held by A. M. MacRobert, Conservative, who was elected in 1924, and re-elected at a by-election in 1926 and the general election of 1929. His majority on the last occasion was 1,563 in a straight fight with a Liberal. He died [illegible] weeks ago.

CONCERT IN HALL.

A Lindsay woman, Francis McPhee, 16 Colborne Street, won the new car offered as the prize in competition recently run by the local branch of the Canadian Legion. The draw was made last night at the largely attended concert in the Legion Hall.

The winner ticket's number was 7,601. The tickets were all placed in a large churn on the platform, which was turned around and around. A little girl from the audience then drew the ticket from the churn.

The winning ticket was purchased from the Canadian Legion branch at Lindsay.

EASTERN CANADA FINAL

Timmis And Cox Enter Fray In Effort To Stop Beaches.

VARSITY STADIUM, Toronto, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.).—Numbed fingers and consequent loose play played an important part in deciding the Eastern Canada football championship today. The Beaches won out by 8-5 score for the title.

Hamilton Tigers, recent winners of the Interprovincial Union title and present holders of the Dominion Crown, and Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, found a frozen gridiron when they trotted out on the field for the game, despite predictions of milder weather by the weather man.

A young blizzard was raging as the game started and the scrimmage lines soon became practically indistinguishable. The wind blew diagonally across the field from the southwest, so that the opposing halfbacks were further handicapped in catching kicks.

Tigers fielded the strongest team to represent the Yellow and Black in months. The Beaches were also at full strength.

The line-up:

TIGERS—Small, flying wing; P. Wright, Leadley and Languay, backs; Walker, quarter; J. Wright, snap; Denman, inside; Sprague and Rolmer middle; Fear and Simpson, outside; Boadway, Gibb, Sutton, Inkseter, Chapple, Timmis, Wilson, subs.

BALMY BEACH—Harris, flying wing; McKenzie, Box and Foster, backs; Kirkpatrick, quarter; Reid, snap; Taylor Cleark and Healey, inside; Temple and Tozer, middle; Keys, Northam, Cossarin, Norman, Snyder, Stewart, Knowles, Peacock, Jones, Har, subs.

Referee—Hal. D. Gruchy, Toronto. Head linesman—Joe OBrien, Montreal.

Umpire—Johnny McKelvey, Hamilton.

First Quarter.

Foster fumbled Wright's short kick but McKenzie recovered on the Beach 45. On the very next play the O.R.F.U. champions got a prostrate Tiger player's foot and Beaches were given the ball.

Languay and Leadley combined on an extension run to advance the ball 25 to the Tiger 40.

The quarter ended a moment later.

First quarter: Tigers 0, Beaches 0.

Second Quarter

Box made Beaches' first real gain so far when he galloped 20 yards after catching Wright's towering hoist. Boadway found a gap in Beaches' short end and made yards, but the play was called back and Tigers penalized for interference.

On the next play Beaches blocked Wright's kick and Reid recovered to race 15 yards for a touchdown, which Harris converted. Box and Harris combined to gain 20 yards when they gained first down twice, and Tigers sent out an SOS. Timmis and Cox, two Tigers on the hospital list, responded by entering the game.

Tigers broke through the block Box kick, but Harris recovered on his 45-yard just prior to the half time whistle.

Third Quarter

Harris kicked off and the ball rolled far behind the goal line to Wright, who was rouged, and Beaches had another point. The locals' line held on two downs and Gibb kicked to Mackenzie. Box returned on the first down. Tigers tried for yards but failed to make it in three downs and Beaches' got possession on the Tiger 20. Box kicked on the second down to Languay, who was rouged and the O.R.F.U. rugbyists scored their eighth point. The Tiger steam roller started putting on steam at this stage and Cox and Gibb hit for yard twice in a row. Sprague then moved the yardsticks for the third time to carry play to Beaches' 25. A fake kick formation then enabled Boadway to make first down and Sprague made it five times in a row to put the ball on Beaches' three-yard line. Leadlay then skirted the Beaches for a touchdown which was not converted. The Beaches were play one man short at the time of the Tiger rampage.

Leadley ran Box's kick back 15 yards and the Tigers started another parade up the field by moving the yard sticks twice through Sprague and Small. Boadway's weak ankle gave out and at this stage he was carried from the field. Sprague hit the Leval line with a smash to gain yards, and Leadlay moved the yard sticks for the fourth time when he found an opening in the Beach right end. Tigers lost possession after this parade to Beaches 25 on a Bengal offside.

Third quarter score: Beaches 8, Tigers 5.

Fourth Quarter.

Denman was injured, and although he was limping badly, he refused to go off. Box kicked short to Languay, who ran it back 15 yards. Boadway came on and hit the opposing line for five yards. Languay got ready to hoof for an easy point but Beaches blocked the kick and recovered the ball.

Tigers were lucky to move the yard sticks on an extension run when Fear fumbled but Timmis covered to complete the play. The Tigers lost the ball on Beaches 25 when they failed to advance the ball on the third down, following a fake kick formation. Box kicked to Leadley, who was nailed in his tracks. The Tigers fumbled on two line plunges and were forced to kick. McKenzie ran it back 20 yards. Tigers offset this Beach play by hurling the Torontonians back to gain first down twice in a row.

Languay tried an onside but McKenzie recovered the ball on his own 40-yard line. Beaches held the ball in this dangerous position for two downs. Box then kicked and the game ended with play on the Beaches' goal line.

Final score—Balmy Beach 8, Tigers 5.

MONTREAL A.A.A. MEETS HAMILTON

If Ontario Team Wins They Must Clash With Argonauts.

EASTERN JUNIOR FINALS.

A.A.A. GROUNDS, Hamilton, Ont., November 29 (C.P.). — With Toronto Argonaut Juniors waiting the outcome which will establish whether they shall hang up their togs for the season, Montreal A.A.A., winners of Quebec, met Hamilton College graduates here this afternoon in the semi-final of the C.R.U. Should the locals win, they will still have to meet Argos to settle the Junior O.R.F.U. situation. A victory for Montreal, on the other hand, means entire elimination for the two Ontario teams from the final game with Winnipeg Native Sons. The annual arrangement was necessitated by reason of the fact that the O.R.F.U. could not declare its championship team in time for to-day's encounter, which was early arranged by the C.R.U.

Hamilton ran up a score of seven points in the first period of play while holding the invaders scoreless. The initial point came when Allen booted and Cloughessy was forced to rouge. Dater Reed crashed through to block one of Cloughessy's boists, and there was nothing to stop him in the 60 yards to the Winged Wheelers' goal. The touchdown was converted by Fitzsimmons.

Two more counters were notched by the Ontario representatives in the second quarter when they continued successfully in warding off any threats of the invaders. For four-fifths of the period, the home team kept play in Montreal territory. Only in the last few minutes was Grad's goal threatened.

The first of the two points came when Dixon was forced to rouge a hoist by Allen. The latter accounted for the other tally, when he lifted on touch-in-goal.

Half time score—Grads 2, Montreal 0.

Ontario To Lose Premier Howard Ferguson

FEDERAL CABINET NAMES PREMIER TO LONDON POST

Appointment Was Announced Yesterday Afternoon By Sir George Perley.

CABINET RE-ORGANIZATION.

Ontario Premier Plans to Leave For London as Soon as Possible.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 29. (CP)—The first step in filling vacancies which have existed for several months among Canadian governments' representatives abroad was taken with the appointment of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, to the important post of High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain. Formal announcement of the appointment was made by Sir George Perley, acting Prime Minister, shortly after a Cabinet meeting. The calling of the meeting of Cabinet was preceded by a long distance telephone conversation between Sir George and Premier R. B. Bennett in London. Just before he announced the appointment, Sir George conversed with Mr. Ferguson in Toronto. The acting Prime Minister expressed gratification with the appointment.

Important Position

The position which Mr. Ferguson has been appointed to is regarded as one of the most important in the Canadian diplomatic service. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, when Prime Minister, stated that he regarded the High Commissionership as the senior post among Canadian Government representatives abroad. It is certainly much the oldest, and famous names are on the list of those who held this high office.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 29.—(CP)—Premier G. Howard Ferguson, will hand in his resignation as Prime Minister of Ontario in "the course of a few days", he stated last night. He had nothing to say about his future activities in London, other than that he would do his best to make a success as Canadian High Commissioner there. It would take some time for him to familiarize himself with the business of the London office, he stated.

It is understood the Ontario Premier will leave for London as soon as he can settle his affairs in Ontario and get a new premier installed in office. This will take some little time and Mr. Ferguson said he had not decided when he would be able to leave.

The announcement brought no surprise to persons in close touch with the government here. It was anticipated Mr. Ferguson would accept some office under the Federal Government ever since the Conservative party came into power at Ottawa. The Ontario Premier has been a force in Dominion affairs ever since the Winnipeg convention of the Conservative party which chose Hon. R. B. Bennett as party leader. It was then Mr. Ferguson had his famous tilt with Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen when he challenged the retiring leader's view that Canada should not participate in any war declared by Great Britain until the people had been consulted in an election.

Mr. Ferguson was prominently mentioned as a prospective leader of the Federal Conservatives party then, but did not allow his name to go before the convention. In the recent Dominion general election he took an active part in the campaign, touring the whole of Ontario in the interests of Mr. Bennett.

Selection of a new Premier is the next step of immediate interest in Ontario politics. The concensus of opinion seems to be that Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways has the best chance, although the names of Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines and Hon. E. A. Dunlop, Provincial Treasurer, are mentioned.

In any case there will be a slight shuffle in the Ontario Cabinet and one or two by-elections will have to be held. Premier Ferguson has represented his home constituency of Grenville continuously since 1905 and that seat will now be vacant.

Notable Career.

The appointment of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson as Canadian High Commissioner in London brings to a close in a provincial sense, one of the most notable political careers in the history of Canada and removes from the sphere of active politics one of the Dominion's most colorful figures.

The loyalty Mr. Ferguson was able to infuse into his followers and his own ability, coupled with a wide knowledge of many phases of life in his native province, enabled him to

BRITISH CRISIS WITH REJECTION OF 'SPREAD OVER'

Miners' Conference Rejects Owners' Principle of 90-Hour Schedule.

NEXT MEETING THURSDAY.

Employers and Miners of South Wales Confer To-day at London.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (C.P.)—A serious situation for the coal mining industry and the country as a whole was created to-day when the Miners' Conference rejected by a large majority the "spread over" principle which would permit the mine owners to run their properties on a schedule of 90 hours a fortnight.

The "spread over" schedule would replace the rigid 7½-hour day which becomes effective Dec. 1. It was proposed by owners in North Wales, Cumberland, Bristol, Leicestershire and North Staffordshire.

The conference also recommended that all other districts should consider giving notice for a national strike in the event of a stoppage of work in any one district.

Coal Mines Act on Monday

The conference will meet again next Thursday, but meantime the new Coal Mines Act becomes effective on Monday and a grave crisis is feared unless the intricate negotiations between unions and owners in many districts come to an unexpectedly satisfactory conclusion.

One of the most important of these districts is the great South Wales coal fields, whose employers and miners were negotiating in London yesterday at the suggestion of the newly-established National Coal Board. The progress of these conversations is being watched with keen anxiety.

MEMBER OPPOSES NEW WOMEN BILL

Opposition Based on Assumption That Husband Alone Should Be Given Consideration.

MARRYING OF FOREIGNER.

LONDON, Nov. 29 (Canadian Press Cable)—If it was argued that the Dominions were against the measure, "Then it is time we stood up against the dictation of the Dominion," remarked Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member for East Middlesborough, during debate in parliament to-day on the Nationality of Women Bill.

Miss Wilkinson said the opposition on the bill was based on the assumption the husband alone should be considered. Many countries gave marriage rights far ahead of those given by Great Britain, she said. The present law inflicted a real hardship on women.

J. Scott, Liberal member for Kincardine and Western, wanted to know if the Government had made any agreement with the Dominions which gave them the right to vote this country from carrying out any measure of this kind.

Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes said the Government emphatically approved the principal of the bill but the Imperial Conference had agreed the changes proposed should only be introduced after consultation and agreement among members of the Commonwealth.

"Passage of the bill would lay us open to an accusation of breach of faith," he said. He hoped that common agreement on the lines of the bill would soon be reached throughout the Empire. A substantial agreement had already been reached with the Dominions on a considerable part of the matter, and the Government was prepared to promote legislation at the early opportunity to give effect to that agreement. Doubtless, he added, the Dominions' parliaments would pass similar legislation.

The present bill provides that a British woman marrying a foreigner shall not thereby lose her nationality, and that a foreign woman marrying a British subject shall not thereby automatically acquire British citizenship, but must become naturalized in the ordinary way.

GIRL INJURED BY CATAPULT

Helen Bedford of Havelock High School Suffering From Inflamed Eye.

DANGEROUS AMUSEMENT.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 29 (Examiner Correspondence).—Helen Bedford, a student in the local Continuation School, is suffering from a badly inflamed eye, sustained when a pellet slung from a catapult in the hands of one of the boy students struck the girl in the corner of the eye causing an irritation that developed into quite an inflammation in twenty-four hours. Nearly every boy in the Continuation School is armed with one of these catapults, and amuses himself by its use during the recreation hour. It is hard for the teacher to do anything in the matter, as none of the girls will complain about the practise, and only when serious injury is sustained is anything heard about it. Parents should warn their boys against the use of this dangerous plaything, as very serious damage might easily be cause by one of these so called pellets.

VETERANS HOLD MADOC RE-UNION

Several Ex-Soldiers From Belleville and District Take Part in Gathering.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

MADOC, Nov. 29 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Great War Veterans of Madoc and vicinity held their annual gathering on Wednesday evening, November 26th, in the Armouries, Madoc, Lt. G. C. White, President of the District Association, was in the chair, and there were seventy veterans present. At the commencement of the evening the toast to His Majesty the King was drunk, and the toast to fallen comrades was observed by two minutes' silence.

Major Wallbridge of Belleville was present, and his address was much enjoyed as was also the entertaining anecdotes of Mr. Turner of the same city. Major Yates of Deloro proved his versatility by his contributions, including an address, playing the piano, singing and also playing the violin. Other speakers were Major Kervyn of the Belgian Army, who gave an interesting talk on the first two days of the War in Belgium, also Father Meagher, Rev. T. G. Marshall, Rev. P. Gatley Reynolds, Campbell Wallbridge, Lt. E. T. Nayler, Rev. Mr. Price, Capt. Broad; Mr. Giles, who is in charge of the Hydro at Bannockburn, and Gavin Wallbridge, who it is interesting to note, spoke as a veteran of the South African War. The boys were also more than delighted to have a few words from the good old Sergeant-Major, Duns McKenzie.

There was a fine musical program which was very much enjoyed and to which the following contributed: Mr. E. Bedford, Major Yates, Mr. Will Hawthorne, Rev. P. Gatley Reynolds, Mr. Bruce Sills, and the old camp choruses were heartily sung by all present.

Rev. Mr. Levason of Bonarlaw presided at the piano and contributed in no small way to the enjoyment of the evening. "Auld Lang Syne" concluded what was voted by all a really enjoyable time, which was only to be expected under the general chairmanship of Lt. G. S. White; good comradeship prevailing from "Fall in" to "Dismiss."

OTTAWA PLANS TO INVESTIGATE EGGLETON DEATH

Tragic Death of Ex-Peterborough Soldier Will Be Investigated.

WITHIN REGULATION.

Must Prove That Tuberculosis is Due to War Service.

OTTAWA, Nov. 29. — The tragic death of Gunner Frederick W. Eggleton at Toronto a few hours after he was denied admission to Christie Street Hospital is being investigated by the Department of Pensions and National Health. In the absence from the Capital of all the chief executives of the department, however, it can only be stated at present that all the facts are being gathered and will be laid before them. Hon. Dr. Murray MacLaren, the Minister, and Dr. J. A. Amyot, the Deputy Minister, are absent on a trip to the Pacific Coast, and Dr. Ross Millar, Director of Medical Servcies, who has authority over Christie Street and other military hospitals, is also away from the Capital.

The Toronto case recalls one which was equally distressing and occurred some four years ago. A Western Ontario veteran sought admission to the Westminster Military Hospital near London, and after waiting for three hours until an answer could be obtained from Ottawa he was turned away. He walked the three miles back to London and died at the railway station while waiting for the train to take him home again.

Within Regulations

In the case of Gunner Eggleton of Toronto it is stated at the department that the authorities at Christie Street Hospital were quite within the regulations in refusing his admittance and, while they do not accuse the Toronto authorities of inhuman treatment or poor judgment in the matter, they say emergent cases may be admitted to military hospitals in spite of the regulations.

"If they had taken Eggleton in and given him treatment, the department would not have reprimanded them for so doing," an official said. At the same time it was stated that Eggleton should really have been taken to a civilian hospital, and it is claimed that Mrs. Eggleton was advised to take him to the Western Hospital. No doctor saw him at Christie Street Hospital the day he died, for the reason that he was not entitled, under the regulations, to treatment at Christie Street Hospital for tuberculosis. He had previously been a patient there from June until October, 1930, when he was suffering from pneumonia. The diagnosis of doctors upon his discharge after four months' treatment was "tentative tuberculosis."

Small Pension

The official file shows that he was in receipts of a small pension for tuberculosis. Unfortunately, owing to the avalanche of applications—numbering something like 20,000—which still await consideration by the Pension Tribunal, his application was never considered. Cursory examination of it, however, indicates that it would have been rejected because his affliction was not attributable to war service, but had developed since the war. This is an old rule which has proved a stumbling block to so many veterans who did their bit and were discharged as fit, only to find years later that they were not fit. Had Gunner Eggleton been able to prove that his tuberculosis was due to war service he would have been entitled to free treatment at the Mountain Sanitarium, Hamilton, and a pension.

When his family doctor, Dr. Walters of Danforth Avenue, telephoned Christie Street Hospital on Tuesday morning and asked them to admit the dying soldier who was suffering from tubercular hemorrhage, the hospital authorities consulted Eggleton's file and saw that he was not eligible for treatment at that institution for that particular trouble, but when a few minutes later they telephoned the family doctor to notify him to that effect the ambulance already had left with Eggleton for Christie Street Hospital.

WEARBRIDGE SAFE FROM GALE

CAPE MAY, N.J., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—The British steamer Wearbridge, which called for aid yesterday while drifting in a gale, 150 miles off shore, was proceeding to Norfolk, Va., under her own power to-day.

The Wearbridge was en route to Norfolk from Boston. She was accompanied into port by the coast-guard cutter Sebage, which left Norfolk in answer to her call.

Falling 130 feet inside a chimney stack in Birmingham, England, recently, Henry Cottingham was killed instantly.

Reported In Distress Simcoe Sighted Today

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—The Lake freighter Simcoe, which was reported in distress off Fairport Harbor last night, was sighted off Cleveland Harbor this morning, coastguards reported.

Nothing had been heard from the steamer which was running light from Buffalo to Cleveland to pick up a load of coal, since 5 a.m. yesterday. Captain L. C. Kirik of the Midland Prince, which sighted the ship 25 miles northeast of here at that hour, said that it evidently had its hold full of water as ballast, and began listing when heavy seas were encountered.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Kirkland Lake Fire Claims Two Young Lives When Home Destroyed.

PARENTS BOTH AWAY.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Danny Paul, two years and nine months, and his one-year-old brother, Frank, were the victims of a fire which broke out in the home of their parents here. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The children had been left alone in the house while their mother was absent for a short time on an errand and their father was at work. Mrs. Paul said said she was not gone more than five minutes and returned to find her house ablaze.

She grasped Frank, already severely burned, and ran downstairs with him just as the fire brigade arrived. One of the firemen located Danny, who had ran to another part of the house, rolled up in a blanket on a bed and rushed him to the fire hall, where a pulmotor was used on him without result. He had been suffocated by the smoke.

The baby, Frank, died in hospital several hours after the fire from burns. Mrs. Paul was severely burned carrying the baby from the house.

FRANCE TO BUY CANADIAN WHEAT

Sale of Canadian Wheat Would Continue For Several Years.

WIDER EMPIRE SPIRIT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.— (C.P.) — France will be substantially in the market for Canadian wheat this winter, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce for Canada, told the Canadian Press on his arrival here last night aboard the Acquitania.

Mr. Stevens, who is returning to Canada after having attended the Imperial conference in London, expressed the belief that arrangements made in France for the sale of Canadian wheat would continue for several years.

Mr. Stevens expressed gratification rather than disappointment at the outcome of the Imperial Conference. While he was disappointed, to a certain extent, that no tangible trade arrangement had been made, he said, he was pleased by the fact that the conference had created a far better understanding between the various units of the Empire.

"There is much wider Empire spirit in Great Britain than there was a few years ago, he declared.

MAPLEBAY UNDAMAGED

SAULTE ST. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 29—The grain carrier Maplebay, of Montreal, which was feared to have been lost in Lake Superior yesterday, passed through the locks here today downbound. The vessel was not damaged and officers aboard said she had been lying in the shelter of Kewennaw Point to escape heavy seas in Lake Superior.

KEEP LIQUOR OUT OF POLITICS

Policy Adopted By Executive of Liberal Association of Northumberland County.

DELEGATES ELECTED.

COBOURG, Nov. 29. (Special to The Examiner).—"Keep the liquor question out of politics" was the policy adopted at yesterday's meeting of the executive of the Liberals Association, Northumberland county, which elected delegates to the coming Liberal convention at Toronto. The executive gave its delegates a free hand with regard to the Liberal leadership in Ontario, but support of W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Oshawa, was warmly voiced, both as a matter of loyalty and expediency. It was pointed out that even if Mr. Sinclair has not measured up to the opportunity of his position the party would be ill advised to change at a time when Liberal membership in the Ontario house is so low. But when, according to the vote cast in the recent election, Liberalism never stood in a better position for effective organization for victory. Delegates named to the convention at Toronto are Clarence Massey, Morganston, president of the County Association, John Morrow, Cobourg, Mrs. S. D. Dudley, Colborne and Mrs Lewis Glover, Campbellford.

A TIME PROVEN MEDICINE for the LIVER AND KIDNEYS

For nearly half a century these pills have been for sale in drug stores and known to the general public.

For at least a generation before that they were used extensively in the medical practice of a celebrated physician.

Their value was proven to the public by the giving away of millions of samples.

Now they are universally known to the medical profession and to the public generally and are found in the great majority of homes.

Since the sale of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is continually increasing, we believe that this is the best proof of their medical value and of the way they are appreciated by the people who use them.

REGULATES THE LIVER

Medical men often refer to the liver as the governor of the human system and blame the liver for many human ills which affect the digestive system.

When healthy and active, the liver filters the poisonous bile from the blood and passes it into the intestines where it acts as a cathartic to regulate the action of the bowels.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills act very promptly and very directly on the liver. They quickly arouse the torpid sluggish action of the liver and thereby relieve biliousness, headache, dizzy feelings, indigestion and all the distressing symptoms which accompany liver complaint.

AROUSES THE KIDNEYS

Kidney troubles usually result from chronic liver derangements. The blood is overloaded with poisons and in an effort to purify the blood, the kidneys break down and the poisons go through the system, resulting in backache, lumbago, rheumatism and other painful and dangerous diseases.

It is not sufficient to treat the kidneys. Medical treatment must also awaken the action of the liver and bowels.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do this very thing they are most effective in relieving disorders of the kidneys.

Their combined and direct action on these great filtering systems of the human body accounts for their remarkable success.

RELIEVES CONSTIPATION

The evils of constipation scarcely need explanation. There is no greater rule of health than "Daily Movement of the Bowels." In this way only can the human system be thoroughly rid of poisonous impurities.

There is no more effective treatment for constipation than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The action of this medicine is prompt and effective. This is why so many thousands of people depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Even when you are not ill, it is a good rule to take one pill at bedtime once a week in order to ensure the health and activity of these organs. This will keep you feeling well and add years to your life.

OVERCOMES THESE SYMPTOMS

Some of the common symptoms arising from derangements of these organs are:—

Headache,
Coated Tongue,
Fickle Appetite and Indigestion,
Feelings of weight about the Stomach,
Pains in the Back,
Depressed Spirits and Irritable Temper,
Irregularity of Bowels,
Loss of Weight,
Kidney Disorders,
Tired, Languid Feelings.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are for sale by all dealers in medicines and are manufactured by The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Canada.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THIS part of the earth has turned its back upon the sun and darkness prevails. It is night! A wind is moaning, carrying on its breath the question that now may be expected at any moment. Yet, as I sit at the manse window, I seem to see far beyond the immediate darkness to a land of sunshine and warmth. Some magic hand has rolled back the years to place me again in the midst of a company of ministers. The churches have been enjoying wonderful times of blessing. They are still moving forward on a tidal wave of real spiritual revival. There has been a great ingathering of all classes and conditions of men and women and young people. Prayer meetings are now meetings for prayer! There is no need to wait for a fairly respectable number to arrive—sometimes fifteen or twenty minutes late—before starting the meeting. People, in large numbers, are there ahead of time. You are made conscious of a spirit of expectancy. It is not difficult to get someone to pray; the difficulty now is to get time for all who are eager to pray. Those who have experienced such times never can be satisfied with anything else again.

A Minister to Ministers.

His theme is prayer—a subject that is more discussed than it is practised. He begins by warning his audience that we are foolishly allowing ourselves to be cheated out of the full privileges of the children of God by a pseudo-science, "science falsely so called." The question before us was, according to the program

"Does God's Providence act in response to the prayers of His creatures?" To put it bluntly, "Do we believe in direct answers to prayer?"

To the soul that really knows God there can be only one answer, and that will be in the affirmative.

We became profoundly conscious of the Unseen Presence as the speaker said: "The outline of this message was prepared by me exactly twelve months ago. Within a few hours I was stricken down with an illness which all but cost me my life. It was the last piece of work which left my hands. When, after several months, I came back from the border of the great silence, in answer, as I shall always believe, to the prayers of so many of God's children, the unfinished draft still lay upon my desk. The intervening experience adds the note of grateful intensity to my affirmative answer."

Paltry Ideas.

What poor and selfish ideas of prayer there are abroad in the church. It has always seemed to me that we are to be pitied if the only idea of prayer is the beggarly one that "prayer is asking from God the things we need." How defective our vision must be if that is all we can see in prayer.

Then there is the commercial idea of prayer, picturesquely expressed, "Prayer is presenting cheques, God's promissory notes, at the Bank of Heaven." We take out the value of these cheques from the Treasury of Heaven as we draw a cheque upon the banker.

I must say that I like the way the Shorter Catechism puts it:

"Prayer is an offering up of our desires unto God, for things agreeable to His will, in the name of Christ, with confession of our sins and thankful acknowledgment of His mercies."

Perhaps it would be perfectly fair to point out that even this is rather a description of the different parts of prayer than a definition of what paye is. As such, I question if it can be bettered.

One has said that "prayer is the communion of the dependent soul with God, who is its life." Communion is the chief characteristic of prayer, but communion of a dependent soul necessarily implies the expression of such dependence, and therefore requests for such things as are agreeable to the Divine Will.

Two Important Questions.

1. Can prayer be answered? 2. Is prayer answered? These questions are not identical, although they are closely related. I doubt not but that many would grant the theoretic possibility of an answer to prayer who would not grant the fact of it.

Is God personal? If God be not personal, then the whole question as to prayer is irrelevant. It is really a farce. There is no God who can hear, or be conscious of our existence.

Man is then himself the greatest of all, for he at any rate is personal, and personality is the highest conceivable form of life.

But, if there be a God at all, He must be personal. Cloud this question as one may in metaphysical phrases, the denial of personality is the denial of God.

Grant This Much.

Surely we are all agreed that man is personal! Admit also that God is personal and see what conclusion the logic of the situation drives you to.

Don't you think it would be an outrage upon reason and experience to deny the possibility of communion between two persons? And as the Divine Personality must be infinite in the sense that it embraces within its own consciousness all that is, the Divine Consciousness must be conscious of man and of every man. This means that God's personality and man's are brought into touch with one another.

The conditions of communion are fulfilled. We must grant this much or practically deny God altogether.

Now if there be the possibility of conscious intercourse between man as a person and God as a person, we have really found an answer to the question, "Can prayer be answered?" though you have not determined the range of such answer.

Go a Little Farther.

If God knows the thoughts of our mind, the desires and the needs of our life, as one personality can know another, if we can commune with God (and all that is implied in the assent to God's personality), can we stop short with the affirmation that prayer can be answered? Is it not utterly irrational to conceive that a personality infinite in wisdom and love can know, and yet never by the slightest tremor of emotion respond?

There be some who say, "Ah, yes, He does respond, but only in the heart of the praying man. It is a communion of spirit with spirit, in which the greater helps the lesser."

To have so much admitted is to have something to go on with. At least we get away from the silly idea that prayer is only auto-suggestion, the exerting of a wholesome influence by our mind upon itself, under the pretence of speaking to God! It is an abuse of language to call this mental exercise "prayer."

To those who say that the only response is in the heart of the praying man we might say, "Very well, let it go at that for a moment! You are admitting, aren't you, that God may influence the spirit of a man, may change his thoughts and purposes, may strengthen and comfort his heart?

"Well, if God can so influence one man, surely He can influence other men!

"Yes, this may be, but God cannot, or at any rate does not, respond by an effect produced upon the world external to man."

Where Many Stumble.

This is the point where many stumble. Yet to every thoughtful person this must seem a strange stone of stumbling. It is granted that God can affect a human will, possessing as the human will does, a self-determining power of its own. If this can be done, as it is, without violating the personality of man, then God can also influence other human wills than that of the praying man.

Is it to be allowed that God can do this so great thing, yet cannot determine the direction of a cloud or the course of the wind? He can influence a man's mind, but not the disease of his body! God has power over a man, but not over a microbe! "How much greater is a microbe than a man?" would be the new version of an old saying.

This is strange logic, and the defence of it is just as strange.

Are God's Hands Tied?

It is not necessary to discuss whether or not the laws of nature can be broken. No one blames the physician when he interferes very seriously with the natural law of the reproduction of microbes.

> But what are these laws of nature about which so much is said and which are supposed to tie even the hands of God?

Would it not be correct to say that they are simply the generalized formulation by us of the observed orderly phenomena of the natural world? They are our expression of the order which God has put into the universe so far as we have observed.

But who will argue that these "laws" exist independent of the Creator and express the whole latent energy of nature? Or who will say that "nature" is the whole of reality?

Surely it is absurd to hold that God's will is fully expressed in the orderly sequence which we call "laws of nature," so that without upsetting the rational unity of His own world, He cannot, for good and wise purposes of His own, make events to happen which would not have happened except for a spcial act of His will, or cannot bring into play forces of which we are not aware in order to accomplish results fitting into human need and in response to humble prayer!

Man Can Do It.

In either case, God can answer prayer by effects in the world external to man. This thing is done, on a limited scale, every day, by the will of man. It might not be irreverent to say, "How much greater is man than God!"

When you come to think of it, is it not strange that so many people assume that the reign of law is confined to the physical universe? Are there no laws of the spiritual life, of human consciousness, of will?

Yet it is allowed that God can influence in that region without upsetting the spiritual universe.

Is it really a simpler or easier thing for God to answer prayer in the region of spirit than in the region of matter? When we pray for strength in temptation, for comfort in sorrow, especially to others, when we pray for the conversion of a friend, we are asking a far greater thing, if one may use the phrase, a far more difficult thing from God, than when we pray for rain in drought, or health in sickness. Yet how many profess to believe that God can do the greater, but not the lesser.

Beware of Fatalism!

Who will deny that there is a wide range of possibilites open to Dvine Wisdom? Who will say that the sequence of events in my life are unalterably fixed? Has God decreed every single event from all eternity? Is the world a mere machine? Or is it meant to be the expression of wisdom and of love?

To tell me that the course of the world, and all the events of my life will be as they will be, whatever my relation to God, and that neither my prayers nor those of my friends can make any difference, is sheer fatalism. Is God in the world, the source of its existence and preservation, but helpless, more helpless than man, one of His own creatures?

The heavenly Home is not an untenanted house! And God is not locked in a room of which He has lost the key! Am I asked to believe that God knows the needs of mankind, yet sits forever immovable and unresponsive in the heavens?

> The God who knows and cannot help is not God at all. And the God who knows, and cares not, cannot be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Let there be a right spiritual attitude to God, a faith in Him which is not merely submission to, but acceptance of, His will. Don't let anything rob us of the belief that God determines our course in light of His own purpose and our good, a good which may not mean a present happiness, but is always good. Let the attitude of our hearts be, "Yea, though He slay me, yet will I trust Him."

Yours for more praying days and praying nights, Allan Fairbairn.

The Hour Of Prayer

LORD of my life, give me some sense of values. Since my day must record so many paltry deeds of passing worth, open mine eyes to perceive the one thing needful to glorify that day; urge me to take the time I cannot find, to raise the average worth of all I do; teach me to seek some moments for my starving soul, and, by some thoughtful little ministry—a note, a flower, the briefest call—to lift my life to purer air. I am caught in a whirlpool, tempted to mistake motion for progress, worry for work, and nerves for genius. I need to be quiet. Help me to be still and know that Thou art God, to cease from troubling about things, to do fewer of them, and to elect some unrequited toil that marks me for a soul. Amen.

THE FASHION OF IT

GOD does not regard sin as any less sin because of the fashion of it. Sins are wicked works, whether politely dressed or naked hideousness. And sin never fails, sooner or later, to find men out!

NO NEED FOR NOISE

THERE are clocks that never strike, yet as registers of time, never fail. The flowers are silent, the trees and the snows; day unto day uttereth speech, night unto night showeth knowledge, though they have no words nor language and their voice cannot be heard. No trumpet heralds the ripening fruit, but the life of the tree is there. Who hears the sun as he softly steals on the noiseless night, yet at his beck a thousand worlds make answer. "Here am I," life flows or ebbs as he comes or goes, while the last remotest atom and faint ionic star hail him their lord.

DICTATING TO A PREACHER

Under such circumstances, what should the preacher do?

When a woman is beautiful but weak, should her wrongdoing be condoned or condemned?

If he knows that a man is bad, despite his high official position, should he save his own skin by saying nothing — or should he speak out and leave the issues with God?

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT 3 O'CLOCK

Sparks From Many Anvils

LARGE was his bounty and his soul sincere—Heaven did a recompense so largely send—He gave to misery (all he had) a tear. He gained from Heaven ('twas all he wished) a friend. —Charles Lamb.

* * *

IF I have faltered more or less in my great task of happiness —If I have moved among my race and shown no glorious morning face—If beams from happy human eyes have moved me not —If morning skies, books, and my food, and summer rain knocked on my sullen heart in vain—Lord, Thy most pointed pleasure take, and stab my spirit broad awake. —Robert Louis Stevenson.

HANDFULS OF PURPOSE

"Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee."—2 Kings 19:20.

IT is the kiss of severance, Shaphat, the farmer of Abel-meholah, and the mother of Elisha, now vanish even from the background of their son's life. The family tie is broken, not by the natural happening of marriage, but by the advent of a new parent. Hereafter it is Elijah to whom the youth shall cry: "My father, my father! As the Lord liveth and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee." The honest folk on the old farm have been kind enough, no doubt, but they have utterly missed the chance to become the spiritual leaders of their own child, they have left it for another, and a stranger, to call him to God and to godliness and to godlike service. And now they are left in their harried nest to chafe, to mourn, to blame.

Perhaps it is a good thing to have an unsound hobby ridden hard: for it is sooner ridden to death.

When the Kingdom is once found, life ceases to be a plodding, and becomes an exaltation, an ecstasy, a joy.

Russian Proverbs

The Proverbs of a nation are not only an epitome of its wisdom, but crystallise for us much of its national temperament and popular habits of thought.

The Russian is clever, but always too late.

Don't Turn Back

"Let us return into Egypt."—Num. 14:4.

* * *

WHAT! Back to slavery? Never! It is better to die with one's feet on the soil of liberty, and have for one's last breath the sweet air of freedom. When the Spanish messengers found Pizzaro and his companions half starved and sick, and commanded them to abandon their foolhardy expedition to Peru, the old adventurer drew a line in the sand with the point of his sword, and told the cowards to return, but bade every hero cross it with him. They crossed to a man. If you have started out to live the "divine" life—the life of purity, of peace, of unselfishness—don't turn back, though death and hell should seem to stand in your way.

Prayer And Effort

MY creed leads me to think that prayer is efficacious, and surely a day's asking God to overrule all events for good is not lost. Still there is a great feeling that when a man is praying he is doing nothing, and this feeling makes us give undue importance to work, sometimes even to the hurrying over or even the neglect of prayer.

Do not we rest in our day too much on the arm of flesh? Cannot the same wonders be done now as of old? Do not the eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth still to show himself strong on behalf of those who put their trust in Him? Oh, that God would give me more practical faith in Him! Where is now the Lord God of Elijah? He is waiting for Elijah to call on Him. —James Gilmour of Mongolia.

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

Reports presented at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society furnish their own evidence of the fact that the work of the organization is expanding, and that each year it is called upon to extend its activities on behalf of neglected and dependent children.

When it is realized that during the year the Children's Shelter has taken care of some sixty children, and that the cost of the work for the twelve months amounted to $4,746.78, it will be seen that the Children's Aid Society as a social service agency has developed into a large concern, the management and direction of which makes heavy demands upon those who are public-spirited enough to enlist in this most meritorious service.

The public owes a debt of gratitude to the men and women who have so unselfishly contributed their time and energy as well as their means toward furthering this splendid work, giving a fresh start in life to children whose future would otherwise be uncertain, to say the least.

The officers and members of the board, some of whom have served for many years, are doing a work of great merit and deserve not only general thanks but general co-operation.

A THIRD PARTY?

The prediction made some time ago by The Examiner that should the Liberal party in Ontario at its coming convention throw overboard the dry plank that has been on its platform for a number of years a third political party in the provincial arena would be the result, has been confirmed by a statement issued by the Ontario Prohibition Union.

Obviously the publication of this manifesto at the present time is in the nature of a warning to the delegates who will attend the convention, and some of whom have already been quoted as being of the opinion that the time has come for the Liberal party to revise its attitude toward the liquor question.

The Prohibition Union leaves no doubt of its intention of seeing that temperance people are given "the opportunity to exercise their franchise in harmony with their views by securing whenever possible candidates who will represent those views in the Legislature."

The formation of a third party, the Union states, was discussed after the last election, but in view of the Liberal convention it was decided to defer action until the results of that gathering are made known.

The inference, therefore, is plain that unless the Liberal party maintains the temperance clause in its platform the next election will see three political parties in the field, the newcomer, of course, being a temperance party that in the rural ridings especially would provide formidable opposition for both the old parties.

A PROGRESSIVE ORGANIZATION.

The action of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club in fostering and promoting a Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association is a progressive step that is in line with the theory that this city, being the logical centre of this section of Ontario, has a responsibility to supply leadership for the surrounding district, not only in the field of sport but generally.

That theory is not based on selfish motives, but springs from the feeling that the largest community in any particular section usually possessing facilities not available in the smaller centres of the same district should not live to itself alone, but must necessarily take an active part in movements of all kinds that are aimed at the improvement of the district as a whole.

The Lawn Bowling Club in its latest activity has displayed the same initiative and enterprise that saw its campaign for a modern bowling plant in Peterborough come to a successful culmination.

There is no question but that the new association will do a great deal for the splendid sport of bowling, and even more important than that, it will have a most beneficial effect in the direction of fostering a better relationship and a closer understanding among the people of Central Ontario.

There is no better cement than that provided by the association of good fellows in a clean sport in which all are mutually interested.

The new association deserves to succeed—and undoubtedly will.

MR. FERGUSON'S APPOINTMENT.

The die is cast; from Ottawa yesterday afternoon came the official announcement that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, had been appointed Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain.

The intelligence had been robbed of any element of surprise, for following the Conservative caucus held on Wednesday no one had any doubt of the Premier's intentions.

Ten years after he became leader of the Conservative party in Ontario Mr. Ferguson is taking leave of his followers in this Province to accept a post which he believes offers him an opportunity to serve the interests both of Canada and the Empire.

His departure robs politics in Ontario of a good deal of color, for his is a personality that necessarily makes itself felt both in the Legislature and on the public platform.

Political foes will be the first to admit that he has the faculty of estimating public opinion, and of keeping in touch with what the man on the street is thinking, while there never has been any doubt as to his ability to win and hold the whole-hearted support of the party he has lead for the last decade.

As head of the Government and as Minister of Education he has given Ontario good service, his administration has been in the main progressive and able, and has been free from charges of graft and corruption.

Mr. Ferguson will be a new type of High Commissioner, for it is certain that he will lose no opportunity of furthering Canada's interests and of seeing that this country is not overlooked by the people of the Motherland, and that in striving to attain those ends he will not hesitate to depart from the old-time methods.

BRITAIN AS A DOMINION.

Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, declares that Great Britain is no longer the predominant partner in the British Commonwealth, but only a Dominion the co-equal of other component parts of the Empire. While this may be true in a strictly constitutional sense, we do not believe that it is true in a sentimental sense. The overseas portion of the Empire will continue to look to the Mother Country for direction in many things.

The Dominions may be mistresses in their own homes, but when it comes to matters affecting the Empire as a whole or to a question of foreign policy, they will naturally turn to Britain for guidance. In every corporate body there is some leading spirit, and in the great British corporation the one best fitted by tradition and experience to take this part is the "tight little Isle," which for many centuries has kept the Union Jack floating triumphant in battle and in breeze.

And another thing. Britain must be accorded a commanding position in the Empire because she bears the greater part of the crushing burden of Imperial defence. It is very nice and soothing of Mr. Thomas to talk about the co-equality of the Empire, with Britain as one of the Dominions, but until the other Dominions bear a greater proportion of the cost of the Empire it would be unfair to regard the Mother Land as having no more say than the rest of the commonwealth.

Loyal citizens of the Dominions may rejoice in the full measure of status which has been granted them and while they may jealously guard their independence in domestic matters, they will nevertheless continue to regard Britain as their mentor in Imperial and world matters. Should foes threaten the Empire it will be to London that they will instinctively look for light, leading and protection—not the kind that Mr. Bennett favors, but the kind that puts the fear of God into the hearts of those who would make sport of the British lion or of its whelps. The Empire has been looking too long and too successfully in that direction to turn elsewhere when a leader is needed.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WHY IS A HOBO?

The men who are at present walking to and fro on the earth are not all members of the hobo species, in fact the majority are mere imitations of the genuine article.

Usually an honest-to-goodness hobo is born that way. He never worked and never will, and is just plain gypsy without the trading instinct. He is no fool, but is well versed on current topics and things in general. A hobo is never sorry for himself, for he is living and cavorting about the earth just as his desires dictate. It is easier to capture and subdue a wild horse than it would be to keep a hobo in one place for an extended period. He is happy going or coming, and never allows himself to be encumbered with the things of the earth, earthy.

The hitch hiker has no resemblance to a hobo, except that he or she walks only when they fail to successfully beg a ride. Unlike the hobo, they usually are headed for somewhere and desire to get there in the easiest possible manner. A great many hitch hikers are young and appear to be testing out something different from living and moving in a routine at home. The majority are possessed of a spirit of adventure, and when that is satisfied they return to normal surroundings and conditions. Hitch hikers have opportunity to be tough if they feel inclined, and occasionally they cut loose as criminals. For the most part, however, hitch hikers want to hitch and hike just to see how it feels to imitate a hobo. Seldom are they really looking for work.

The genuine tramp is in a class by himself, and has no idea of working, at least steadily. This species is, to put it mildly, a natural loafer and beggar, and he will endure much privation, rather than honestly work. Occasionally men come along who would be glad to work, but these are exceedingly few, and do not rightly belong to the tramp fraternity.

What should people do with perigrinators? At times, the best intentioned housewife feels she is being imposed on by the appeals of these non-working wanderers. Yet, even being conscious of this fact, she cannot turn them away. They are human, therefore grow hungry and weary, and people with a heart feel a responsive throb for their wants, and send them away feeling better. The average person concludes that it is far better to err in giving than in withholding. So the wanderers are fed and clothed and will continue to be.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

(From the New York Times)

The ultimate costs of this campaign will fall upon the great mass of the people. It is everybody's duty to contribute to the limit of his ability and in such form as he feels can make his contribution count most. Willingness to make the necessary sacrifices is manifest among the general public. The increased rate at which contributions are pouring into community chests, the ready acquiescence of municipal employees in non-compulsory assessments upon their salaries, the instances of workers volunteering to "share" their jobs with their less fortunate comrades, down to the movement for raising relief funds by football and prizefight benefits—these all testify to a nation-wide sense of sympathy preparing to express itself in the most practical way by digging down deep into one's pockets.

If there is every reason for believing that the nation's response will be adequate, it is also plain that there will be little inclination to stigmatize relief as charity. There can be no speaking of charity at a time when men are walking the streets in search of employment of any sort for any wage. There can be no suggestion of charity when self-respecting skilled American craftsmen are reported present in the bread-lines. The unemployed to-day are, in the great majority, as emphatically the innocent victims of forces beyond their control as were the victims of the Mississippi floods.

There is less justification for thinking of unemployment relief as charity, because it is a method to which this country adheres as against the European dole. The bread-lines are an ironic spectacle less than two years after we were speaking of the abolition of poverty in America. Yet they are a defiant assertion that in this country poverty is casual and not endemic. To them every so often is reduced a people which would have the free play of opportunity accompanied by the chance of disaster rather than more limited opportunity with greater safety. The men in the bread-line are not objects of charity but are economic casualties.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The one-man government is billed for London.

A feature of the Conservative banquet next week is likely to be the singing of "Take Me Back to Dear Old Blighty" by Premier Ferguson.

Football fans at to-day's Dominion championship final doubtless wished the great autumn pastime could really be finished in the autumn.

News of Our Own Village

Col. Johnston's boarding house on Court House hill will soon be able to advertise "24 rooms and a bath" owing to the county council deciding to put a shower in the same.

Sandy Claws was a visitor in our midst this Sat. kinda spying out the ground for his regular visit here next month, your scribe learns.

V. R. Henry talked on "Atoms" when the Rotary Club et at Graham's Hotel Mon. and Jim Matthews thought he was going to tell about the things you find in cheese.

Geo. Morrow and Manse Comstock landed home in the village a few days ago with the biggest chunk of deer meat that has ever been drug in here. The boys believe in stocking the larder for a tough winter.

Elmer Metcalfe said it with moose at the Rotary feed this week, thereby proving that the rifle is mightier than the spoken word, so to speak.

The village engineers donned their tuxes, if any, Tues. nite and draped their legs under the tables at Graham's Hotel for their annual meal. Beyond a report from the civic improvement committee that Ross Dobbin aint married yet, no business was took up.

Keith Lech, having poured a gallon of anti-freeze into his stuffed bear, they is some reason to believe winter has at last set in.

Tommy Hooper our well-known confectioner, took in the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, west of here, this week, giving rise to rumor that Tommy is going in for better farming down at Idyl Wyld, south of here, next summer.

So far as your scribe is concerned the wolves might as well of et up all the venison, no path to our door having been trod by dors of the same, regretfully, say we.

Ford Strickland, our local member, didn't go to Toronto, west of here, Thurs., to help Howie Ferguson make up his mind whether to go to London or not. Ford doubtless felt that anything Fergie decided was all right with him.

Snow having stopped the fall plowing and such, the members of the county council decided they might as well slip into town this week and do a little legislating, which same was did.

Your scribe aint been able to dig up no dirt in regard to village politics as yet, but it won't be long now before some of the old campaigners will be sniffing the breeze and getting ready to go to the barrier, so to speak.

WOULD BREAK RELATIONS

PARIS, Nov. 28 (C.P.)—Matin, influential Paris newspaper to-day demanded that the French Government break off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia in answer to accusations at the trial of eight Russian engineers that this Government has plotted armed intervention to destroy the Moscow regime.

THE SILVER HAWK

By WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Down in the darkened cabin at Titan Pass, Dorn had believed that vengeance belonged to him, not to the law of man or to God.

The detective whimpered, as though pleading for his life: "I heard your shouts, I tried to go back; she was caught fast. I felt her stir beside me. I wanted to save her, like you ordered; but I couldn't come to her, I couldn't see."

The words were meaningless to Dorn. Defending itself by some latent power, his mind had utterly cast out the memory of the biplane's crash and his pack-chute jump and the mesa fire and the blazing machine.

In some vague fashion he recalled that this detective had once been his enemy and Aurore's, and that for some reason he had once sworn to kill this man bare-handed, without mercy or qualm of conscience. But his desire to kill had vanished, his enmity had gone, all hatred and passion had burned itself out in his soul. A strange peace had fallen upon him after that moment by the flaming wreckage. He wanted only to be gentle and friendly.

A great surge of pity and compassion rose up in him as he looked at those sightless eyes.

"You're hurt, poor fellow!" he said. "Here, take my hand. I'm going down to her lake. If we shout loud enough she'll come across and get us."

"She'll come?" The detective started. "She? You're not meaning? . . ."

"Aurore. She'll come and get us. We'd better go. She's waiting for us."

Soft-Shoe finally seemed to understand what had happened to Dorn. After a few moments he listlessly took Dorn's arm and Dorn led him — the blind of reason leading the blind of sight. It was a strange and crazy pilgrimage, toward a fantastic, hopeless goal; but they set out.

A little farther on they came to the ages-old Carrier trail and started down the mountainside. The path they followed was steep and treacherous — a path where strong men needed to be wary and sure of foot. It went down through dangerous fissures and across thin-spun log bridges, and led along the lip of bold-jutting ledges where the air soughed up in their faces and the big pines were mere shrubbery below.

In a low comfortless voice Soft-Shoe kept complaining of the pain and the dark. Frequently Dorn halted to let him rest and once made a cup of birch-paper and gave him to drink and bathed his face with a handkerchief.

While they were resting at this cauldron pool, Soft-Shoe took a billfold from his coat pocket and felt in it for a slip of paper. Holding the slip in front of him, he turned his head toward Dorn. His listless dejection seemed to have suddenly dropped from him; he was courageous and resolute now. He spoke more to himself than to his companion:

"Here's thirty thousand dollars, friend. I jicked a man and I sold a girl to get it. I thought my life 'ud be all sunshine and roses — with that much money. But what is it worth, what does it mean to me now? It can't ever buy me one glimpse of light. I'm blind."

He repeated the word over and over again, and his fingers twisted the check and slowly tore it to bits. He rose and shook himself and said: "Let's go on. . . ."

A little farther down the mountainside, when Dorn was leading him along the edge of a dizzy precipice, Soft-Shoe stopped.

"I feel the air welling up. Is there a cliff here, friend?"

"Yes," Dorn answered, too guileless of mind to guess the man's intention.

"Is it a high cliff?"

"Yes, very high."

"Pick up a rock and throw it down so I can hear if it is high enough."

Dorn let go of him and found a little boulder and rolled it over the precipice. Long seconds later they heard its thud, faint as a watch-tick, on the rocks below.

A shudder passed through Soft-Shoe, but he conquered it. He turned to Dorn.

"You're thinking to find her, friend," he intoned. "Thinking she'll be waiting for you down at the lake. But she was in that plane. And you're near the jumping-off place yourself. You'll find her quicker if you follow me."

He whirled toward the cliff and took a sudden lunge forward. Dorn sprang and grabbed for him, but he was too late.

Dorn sat there a few minutes on the cliff-top. He thought the detective's death had been some accident, and he blamed himself for letting go of the man. The loss of his friend saddened him; he felt lonely and wanted company.

Presently he got up and went on. Below the precipice where the moss began he lost the dim old totepath in a confusion of game trails cut deep into the sphagnum; and wandered aimlessly out along the mountain.

His body was beginning to feel numb. He had to stop more and more frequently to rest, and he wanted to sleep; but he must reach the lake edge and call Aurore before evening. He cut a stick to help him, and went on; and because all the game trails led eventually to the cool waters of the lake, he made progress down the mountainside.

An hour before sunset the path Dorn followed led him back into the old Carrier trail. As he went down the mountain and the sun slanted down behind the western ranges, the twilight in his mind grew apace with the purple shadows that thickened in the valley. In that fantastic borderland lying just the hither side of dark oblivion, the creations of his imagination were just as tangible and vivid to him as the trail underfoot or the columnar pines around him or the lumbering grizzly that snarled and gave him the path. The real and the chimerical were hopelessly mixed and blurred.

At times he believed he was toting Kansas on his shoulders down to the railroad, as he had done that spring in the Lilloocts when Kansas cracked-up on a mesa. His pack-chute jump and his dragging Kansas from the wreckage before it caught afire and their night-mare trip to the grade were burned into his memory; and that disaster was so like the one he had just passed through that the two of them were confused in his mind.

At other times Dorn saw Aurore McNain gliding down the path ahead of him. When he tried to overtake her he would stumble and fall. He could not understand why she kept flitting away from him, reaching out her arms to him but always vanishing when he drew near.

The moonlight glistened into silver and filtered down through the pines to light his way. Presently he was catching glimpses of a lake on ahead, and he hurried a little faster till at last he broke out of the dark woods and stood on a strip of moonlit sand.

A fire, built there on the beach earlier in the evening, had burned to red coals. Near it on the landwash a white canoe was up-turned. Far out across the glistening waters Dorn saw the dark blue of an island, Aurore's island. A rod or two off-shore a graceful airplane lay sleeping at anchor, and Dorn recognized the plane which he had flown and loved and which had brought him safe that day through a machine-gun battle.

For the last hour of his journey down the mountain, Aurore seemed to have forsaken him; the apparition of her had not entered into the misty pictures that shifted and merged and changed in his mind. But now when he came out of the woods Dorn once more saw Aurore. She was standing there ahead of him on the sand, waiting, her slender body silhouetted against the glow of the camp fire. She appeared to him in some way different from the figure which had flitted in front of him on his trip down to the lake; her hair was dishevelled and her jacket torn and muddied; and instead of the laughing, hauntingly elusive girl she had been all afternoon, she seemed utterly dejected and crushed with sorrow now.

And when he stepped out of the shadows and spoke her name, she did not vanish as she had done, but whirled toward him and stood a moment transfixed; and then came running in wild joy, crying his name, and flung herself into his arms.

Chapter XXXV
AURORE'S STORY

For many moments afterward, Aurore had no suspicion of Dorn's trouble. His voice, speaking her name, had been a bombshell to her, breaking the unbearable silence of her lonely vigil and exploding all her fears that Jim Dorn was dead; and the mere sight of him coming out of the shadows had overwhelmed her. She clung to him, sobbing; she felt his hand smoothing her dishevelled hair and felt his lips on her forehead and his arm around her.

Then Aurore heard him speaking to her. It was the strange quality in his voice and the still stranger words he said that woke her to the truth.

"Why did you keep running away from me all afternoon, Aurore? I tried to catch up with you, but I couldn't. You'd hold out your arms to me and then you'd be gone . . . like a ghost . . . like you slipped away from Kansas that night. . . ."

Aurore did not yet understand; she cried brokenly: "Jim — darling — I've been here — all afternoon — waiting for you ——"

But then, when Dorn repeated his question, she started, and glanced up quickly and studied his features. Her hands went up to his cheeks and she half turned him so that the moonlight shone full on his face. Aurore stood on tiptoe; and brushing away her tears, she looked long and intently into Dorn's eyes.

A sudden quiver went through her whole body as she understood his strange words about her flitting away from him that afternoon and understood why he was holding her now with an arm so strong it hurt her. She cried, in compassion, in panic-stricken anguish:

"Jim — Jim — oh, my darling . . ."

But then Aurore checked her outcry and fought down her panic and her emotions. She steeled herself suddenly, and with all the bravery of her nature she struggled to be calm, knowing what had happened to Jim Dorn and realizing that she must take him into her care.

Her voice was terribly quiet, resolute: "Jim, you're — you're sick, darling. You're tired, Jim, and you must rest. I know a place where you can sleep and be well again. See — there's a canoe I can take you in. Won't you come — with me?"

She freed herself for a moment, and stooped, and with her finger traced a message on the sand. Then she took Dorn's hand and led him to the water's edge.

They floated out upon the lake. Aurore would not let Dorn use the canoe paddle, but took it from his hands and made him lie down with his head on her lap. She could feel the beat of gentle wavelets against the wind-water line of the craft, and her rhythmic strokes pushed the canoe steadily onward under the moonlight. From time to time she dipped her kerchief over the gunwale and bathed Dorn's forehead. She was infinite tenderness toward him, but firm at the same time — a little mother who scolded him when he stirred restlessly and kissed him when he obeyed her commands.

In the subdued light Aurore could not see Dorn's features distinctly, but she knew he was looking up at her; and whenever the tears started from her eyes, she dashed them away and smiled bravely at him. She thought: "He knows that he is with me again. He isn't holding me to him now; he's no longer afraid I'll — I'll go away." She knew that her voice had a certain sway over him that recalled him part-way to reality, and that the mere touch of her hand on his forehead was magic against the powers of darkness.

For a while he seemed content to look up at her and be carried on in dreamy peace. But presently he was tossing restlessly, and a little later he spoke to her:

"Why didn't you, Aurore . . . this afternoon when you kept running away from me . . . why wouldn't you stop and answer my question?"

Aurore bent low over him. "What question, dear? I didn't — didn't mean to keep running away from you. I'll never, never again."

"Kansas told me of you marrying Carter-Snowdon."

His words came unawares and startling to Aurore. She gasped — panic-stricken again for a moment; but quickly she was mistress of herself. Her hand crept down and found his; she tried to soothe him into forgetfulness.

"You mustn't toss that way, darling. Won't you try to sleep now? Some time — after you're rested — then we can talk of that."

Dorn insisted feverishly: "But no! Kansas'll have to look after you. Don't you remember I promised to go away?"

He sat up impatiently in the frail wobbly craft, and faced her. It frightened Aurore — his sudden rousing out of quietude. She tried to calm him; she pleaded:

"Jim, darling, please — won't you lie down again, lie very quiet — in this dangerous canoe — out on our lake; and let me take you home? You wouldn't understand, Jim; you're too tired — and worn out."

But Dorn was insistent now and not to be turned aside; and Aurore saw, in desperate alarm, that his mood had flared beyond her controlling and that she would have to yield to him. She knew that he was not conscious of his surroundings, but only of herself and of that torment in his mind. He demanded:

"I won't have another chance to hear. I'll have to go away. That was the promise between us — for me to go away."

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS"

If November 29th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. and from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Improvement in domestic and business conditions is predicted on this date. Propitious time for sports and ultra activity. A favorable atmosphere during the evening hours for lovers and courtship, and Cupid may irrecoverably wound your heart.

Children born on this November 29th will adore music, appreciate color, have a neat sense of humor, and be keenly observant. Their faults will be a lack of ambition and an ungovernable temper. They will not co-operate easily, although they will yield to tactful persuasion.

You have a nature which easily finds contentment, and you will early in life dig into permanent trenches of habit, out of which it will be difficult to rout you. Yours is not a progressive nor an ambitious one, and it will be easy for you to become too sunk in custom to think out new ideas for yourself, and to become too self-satisfied to take them from others. Your non-fretting mind is both a blessing and a curse; it leaves you at peace with the world and is a boon for both physical and mental health. On the other hand, if you worried a little bit more about your material advancement, you would be sitting on higher rungs on the ladder of success. Your chronic good nature covers a multitude of sins.

Your game of life is a very straight one, and although you do not play for high stakes, you follow all rules of honor, and no one would be afraid to partner you. You are a plucky loser, and you never blame your losses upon any one else. You know your own faults and weaknesses, and you do not try to make alibis for them. You have very simple, wholesome tastes, and find your pleasure and happiness in very small and inexpensive things. You very sensibly live in your own sphere of life, and within your means. You do not know how "to put on dog" nor do you ever try to. You have a great deal of patience with children, and are their understanding friend.

If November 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., and from noon to 1 p.m. The danger periods are from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m.

This will not be an important date in your life and much will be left to your own decisions. Personal worries may cause unhappiness. Do not put a false value on transient things—look up! A possible period of vivid happiness during the evening.

The child born on this November 30th will be very imitative, and will be prone to acquire the undesirable as well as the desirable qualities in others. Environment will be of great importance to it. It will be extremely frank, very affectionate, obedient and good-natured.

You hanker after position, fame and glory, and superficial appearances mean much to you. You, however, try to short-change the world for these things, in the way of effort and self-sacrifice. You want to find gold and precious stones on the surface, and are not willing to dig for them. It is very difficult for you to settle down seriously to things, or to focus your mind and attention on one thing for long at a time. Boredom soon kills your enthusiasm and interest, and you forsake to-day, that for which you prayed yesterday. Discontented and restless, you flit from one amusement, one person or concern to another.

You need to cultivate self-poise and to learn how to relax—the former would enhance your personality, and the latter would benefit your nerves and general health. You have a great many likeable and some lovable qualities, and you make many friends. You are generous to an extreme, in material ways, and you will never have a keen sense of the value of money. Your "rainy days" will be dreary affairs, as you never save up for that time when you will need something upon which to fall. You are not entirely free from an inferiority complex, which you try to hide by false superior airs. Your sense of system and order is not highly developed, and you are an untidy worker. You are able to accomplish a great deal within a short time, and you are good at work which requires requires speed and not fussy attention to details.

Women's Association Meets At Queensboro

QUEENSBORO, Nov. 29.—(Examiner Correspondent.)—The November meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Miles Dyer, on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of twenty-one, Mrs. Fred Rollins, the president, presiding. Mrs. Rollins read the Scriptural lesson from St. Matthew, 20:1-10. A large number of donations for the bazaar which was held on Friday were brought in including, fancy aprons, towels, pillows, needle cases, tea pot stands, silk flowers, and curtain ties. The afternoon was spent in preparing and marking the articles for the bazaar. The December meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. John Alexandr Sr., on Thursday, December 18. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

In a cent month more than 200,000 bags of coffee were shipped from Colombia.

LIGHT ADVANCE IN HOLLINGER

Board Declares Bonus of 5 Cents Per Share With Regular Monthly Dividend.

OTHER GOLDS STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 29.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Hollinger, following announcement of a bonus of 5 cents per share with the regular declaration, provided the only interesting action in a dull mining session to-day, price moving to $6.25 and closing slightly higher on the day in spite of subsequent profit-taking.

Other higher-priced golds were steady, but Wright-Hargreaves dropped 4 on the session, Big Missouri and Howey a point each and Granada 5 to $5.45.

Noranda was easier from the opening, registering a net loss of a half at $15.50. Nickel was firmer at $18, Amulet and Sherritt Gordon moved up a few cents apiece.

Acme Gas, whose president wires from Oklahoma that drilling on the company's well is completed and the well will be blown in over the week-end, firmed for a time, but sold off in later trading to close down a couple from last night. Petrol Oil lost a point and Ajax Oil 5 to $1.45.

PREMIER'S APPOINTMENT DELIGHTS KEMPTVILLE

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Nov. 29. (CP) The birthplace of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and his home for many years, Kemptville heard with delight, tinged however with regret, the news that the Ontario Prime Minister has accepted the Canadian High Commissionership to Great Britain. General delight of the citizens that the favorite son was rising still higher in public life could hardly go unmixed with regret at his coming departure from Canada and more particulary from Grenville County which he has represented in the Ontario Legislature for 26 years.

CANADIAN CORPORATIONS TO PAY FIFTY MILLIONS IN DIVIDENDS

December Payments Largest on Record For Any Month of Any Year.

STOCK MARKET FIRM.

By A. D. O'Hallorah.
Special to the Examiner. Copyright 1930.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—The Canadian stock exchanges are entering the final month of the year with prices holding around the new level established after the break in October and the liquidation that carried prices down to the extreme lows apparently over with. There is not as yet sufficient demand for securities to lift averages very much above the bottom for the year, but the danger of substantial reaction through forced and distress selling seems to have been eliminated. In more recent weeks the markets have been occupied in depleting the excess supply of securities created through the complete throwing overboard of speculative holdings and buying for cash has replaced purchases on margin as the chief factor in day to day movements.

A new chapter in the history of Canadian finance will be written in the month of December when Canadian corporations and institutions will pay dividends in cash, or the equivalent, to their shareholders of over $30,000,000, the largest total for any one month on record. The new peak for total monthly distributions is not the only mark to go by the board. The cash dividend of over $16,000,000 by Imperial Oil Ltd., setting a new high peak for individual payment by any one company.

Payment of dividends ov over $50,000,000 in the month of December is the best testimony to be had of the soundness of Canadian industry. That this huge total, exceeding all peaks touched in the years of prosperity, should be reached in a year of depression testifies not only to the soundness of Canadian corporations and institutions, but to the able management of the Dominion's concerns as well and is a direct result of the trend years on the part of Canadians to finance their own enterprises. In late years control of a great many of the Dominion's corporations has been purchased from foreign countries and brought back to Canada and new companies have been financed within the borders of the nation, assuring an ever increasing proportion of the funds paid out by Canadian corporations finding its way back into the pockets of investors in the Dominion. To compensate for that portion which will pass to foreign investors there is the return on Canadian capital invested abroad and the percentage of profit derived by companies here from operations in other countries.

It was pointed in these columns a while back that the list of stockholders of Canadian companies had broadened out through the purchasing and taking up of securities for cash with the owners registering the certificates in their own name. Thus investors here will probably participate to a greater degree in the record dividends being disbursed in December and this will place funds in the hands of investors for reinvestment and create a further demand on the exchanges for securities offering liberal income return. The large distribution will also result in releasing funds for Christmas and make for a more prosperous holiday season. Then again the moderate prices at which the ordinary shares of Canadian corporationas are selling, following market depreciation and splits, will make such shares suitable gifts for Christmas.

Aside from the stock market angle to the increasing shareholders in local companies there is also the advantage to be derived from customer ownership. Every corporation manufacturing and selling products to the public has potential customers and boosters in their stockholders and this is to be greatly desired at this time when efforts are being put forth to have Canadian purchase goods made in their own country.

The stock market will enter the final month of the year in a much improved position over that of the corresponding mongh of 1929. On that occasion the market had just come through the first and worst stage of the reaction, following the end of the bull market that had waged for two or three years. October and November of 1929 were given over to the liquidating of the vast accumulation of speculative holdings and the market was only saved from complete demoralization by banking support that did not furnish a permanent cure but gave a breathing spell to be followed by more orderly selling. The decline in security values continued until late in October when the extreme lows of the past two years were touches. In recent weeks the Canadian exchanges have made moderate recovery which has been held up until this time, yet there are no signs of the upward surge of prices that many believed would follow the drastic deflation in security values. The market itself, has worked into a strong technical position. Values to-day are based conservatively on earnings per share, dividend return is higher than at any time in three or four years and the supply of securities is normal with the over supply taken care of by gradual but consistent purchasing for cash in recent months. The stumbling block is general business and until such time as there are more definite signs of improvement, no great appreciation in security prices can be expected.

SMALLER WHEAT ACREAGE NEEDED

WINNIPEG, November 29 (C.P.)—The only possible permanent solution of the present depression in the world wheat situation is a proportionate reduction of acreage by all wheat producing countries.

John I. McFarland, who yesterday was appointed general manager of the Western Wheat Pools Central Selling Agency, expressed this opinion in a statement to the press.

CANADIAN MART MARKING TIME

November Financing Lowest in Months, a Direct Contrast to October.

FAIR OUTLOOK.

(Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930)

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—New financing through the issue of senior securities continued to be unimportant this week, and the total for November promises to be the smallest in many months in direct contrast to the record breaking month of October when bond and debenture issues exceeded $150,000,000.

The market has run into another sluggish period, as it did in the early fall. Money continues to be at a low rate of interest in the New York call market, funds are available in quantity in Canada and the banks have not loaded up with bonds so that there is reason to believe the bond market will remain strong. Some of the provinces and larger municipalities are holding off for the present in the expectation of better prices later. Ontario recently arranged short term borrowing in New York on an attractive basis.

The market had to contend with a mid-week holiday in New York and consequently moved very slowly. The high grades show strength, though there is not the demand for the Western Provincial as, for instance, the Ontario's. Demand was better at the end than at the beginning of the week but on the whole the market is turning over rather than showing any indication that dealers and individuals stocking up. Interest still lags in the utility and corporation groups. South Americans turned sloppy again, the majority finishing down a couple of points on the week.

WHEAT EXPORTS SHOW DECREASE

Not Due to Pool's Adopting Holding Policy to Get Better Prices.

EUROPEAN TARIFF CAUSE.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Sales heads of the Wheat Pool told Canada last night why only half as much Pool wheat was sold for export last year as in the booming 1928-29 season. It was decidedly not because the Pool adopted a holding policy, seeking better prices, said the annual report of the Central Selling Agency, but rather because importing countries for one reason or another would not buy.

The Pool sold 129,952,000 bushels of wheat to markets, both foreign and domestic, in the past year ending August 31, as compared with a total of more than 250,000,000 bushels the previous year. To foreign markets it shipped 56,877,000 bushels as against 108,000,000 bushels in the preceding 12 months.

It was the "most difficult year in the history of the Pool," declared the Statement, which all three Western Provincial Pools have approved. Greater tariff walls were built in several European countries, drastically reducing absorption power in the very centre of Canada's best market. But the report emphatically denied that it had held back wheat for higher prices.

DRILLER ACCUSED OF USING SPIKES

Endangered Lives of Men By Putting Spikes in Tamping Cartridges.

SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Charged with endangering the lives of his fellow-workmen, contrary to Section 113 of the Criminal Code, by putting 6-inch steel spikes in tamping cartridges in the 2,400-foot level of the Frood Mine, where he was employed as a driller, R. H. Kalm, Burton street, aged 40, appeared before Magistrate Streddart at Copperclife and was remanded eight days.

The remand was requested by Crown Attorney Wilkins in order that he might obtain instructions from the Attorney-General's office in regard to the case.

Kalm was arrested by Chief Ramsbottom of Copper Cliff shortly after midnight Tuesday, after fellow-workmen had reported seeing him place six-inch spikes in the clay-tamping cartridges used for drilling purposes. A spike similar to those in the cartridges was found in his pocket. The offense is alleged to have been committed about ten minutes before the end of the shift.

HIGHER TREND AT NEW YORK

List Strengthens as "Bears" Sell Out Short Contracts For Week.

MARKET DULL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Bears gave the stock market an upward tilt to-day, as they closed out their short contracts at the end of a week of slowly but almost steadily sagging prices.

The market was extremely dull, the turnover of about 650,000 shares making the smallest Saturday total since August, but the list as a whole manifested the best tone since the upturn of a week ago yesterday. Prominent shares generally closed 1 to 2 points higher.

SERVICE STATIONS CONTINUE ADVANCE

Main Body of Stocks Motionless During To-day's Uninteresting Session.

TORONTO, November 29 (C.P.).—The main body of stocks hung motionless in uninteresting trading on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Many of the leaders, including Nickel, Ford of Canada Imperial Oil, C.P.R., were selling ex-dividend and lost the amount of the dividend in market price over the morning, but otherwise the list was steady and practically unchanged. Nickel recovered the amount ex-dividend and closed firm and unchanged to higher.

Service Stations was the best issue, continuing its recent advance to a new high of 35 on the movement. At this price the stock was between one and two points higher than at the close last night.

McColl-Frontenac and Supertest both sold fractionally lower again to-day.

Opening Prices.

AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 29.—Wheat.—November, not opened; December ¼c lower to unchanged at 58¾ to 59⅛; May ⅛c lower to unchanged at 63¾ to 64⅛; July ¼c lower to ⅛c higher at 65¾ to 66⅜.

Oats—December ⅜c to ½c lower at 26 to 25⅞; May ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower at 29¾ to 29⅛.

PARKERS REMANDED A WEEK

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Stanley and Edward Parker, of Toronto, who attempted to hold-up a grocer at Buttonville, Ont., yesterday and who were caught early to-day were remanded a week when they appeared in police court to-day.

SCOTS HONOR PATRON SAINT

Rev. J. B. MacCormack of Lakefield Addresses Caledonian Club at Celebration.

SPLENDID ADDRESS.

The Woodmen of the World Hall was filled to capacity last evening with a large and enthusiastic gathering of Caledonians and their friends, who gathered to celebrate Saint Andrew, the patron saint of Scotland. The evening's entertainment took the form of a concert, with Rev. J. B. MacCormack of Lakefield as guest speaker. A splendid musical program was also much enjoyed by the large audience.

As a fitting reference to the evening's festivities, the beautiful flag of St. Andrew formed the background of the platform. This flag has a white ground, depicted upon which is a blue cross in the form of an X—the form of cross upon which Saint Andrew was crucified.

W. Petrie, president of the Club, was in the chair, and welcomed the members and their friends, and made a few very fitting remarks regarding the auspicious occasion. He introduced Mr. MacCormack, who was accompanied by Mrs. MacCormack, and added his own personal appreciation with that of the club at having such an able speaker as well as one who was well versed in the lore of his native land.

Rev. Mr. MacCormack captured all hearts when he started his oration in a broad Scotch accent by saying what an honor and privilege was his to be invited to speak to his ain folk on an occasion which means so much to every Scottish heart. The speaker took as his theme, "The Scot as an asset to world's progress." Whether rich or poor, he is heir to an inheritance none can take, that is, his birthright. Scotia's sons were privileged beyond many in being able to claim relationship to ancestors who had undoubtedly laid foundations for progress in every part of the world. The word Scot from the Gothic "Skute" means wanderer. The Scot has always had a roving spirit, not as a gad-about, but in order to seek a location to use abilities which God had endowed upon him. The Scottish pioneers of Canada came in for their share of praise, mentioning such men as Sir John A. MacDonald as being one of the builders of this great Dominion.

In a racy and realistic manner Mr. MacCormack enthused his audience by recalling the days of William Wallace and Bannockburn. He described the scenery of Bonnie Scotland in a way which made those present see again the majestic mountains, rugged crags, and lovely valleys and dales.

On ending his oration, Mr. MacCormack received prolonged and hearty applause, signifying the very great pleasure which he had given by his splendid address.

A. D. Clark, vice-president, ably thanked the speaker for the honor he had conferred upon the club by his presence.

G. G. Low, in a witty manner, thanked the various artistes for the splendid musical program rendered.

The following was the program:

Mrs. W. Howes delighted the audience with her group of songs: "Last May a Braw Woo'er," "Just a Wearyin' For You," "I Lo'e Nae a Laddie But Ane," and "The Song that Reached my Heart."

Jack Smith gave the following numbers: "Auld Scotch Sangs," "My Ain Folk," "Queen of the Earth," and "Leezie Lindsay."

Mrs. Lister delighted her hearers with such numbers as "Danny Boy" and "Marguerite."

Miss Pearl Smith made a splendid accompanist at the piano for each of the above.

A pleasant evening was brought to a close by the service of refreshments served by the committee.

FEARS OF "UPSHUR" ALLAYED

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C., Nov. 29 (CP)—No word had been received here to-day or at Cape Lookout, from the steamer Upshur or vessels sent to aid the ship reported in distress 45 miles east of Diamond Shoals.

A calm sea, however, allayed any fears for the safety of the Merchants and Mariners Line boat. The local coast guard station said the ship would probably be taken in tow by the tug Wotoco, owned by the Wood Towing Corporation which put into Cape Lookout late yesterday to request assistance for the Upshur.

Coast guard officials said the steamer Howard, also a Merchants and Mariners ship, was standing by the Upshur.

SCOUT RALLY HERE ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Peterborough Association Will Meet at 7.30 in Council Chamber.

A large attendance is anticipated at the forthcoming annual meeting of Peterborough Boy Scout Association, which is scheduled to take place on Tuesday night next at 7.30 in the City Council Chamber. J. E. Sullivan, president of the association, will occupy the chair, and will accept the reports presented by the Scoutmasters from each troop, and a comprehensive report of the year's activity from District Commissioner John T. Hornsby.

Plans will be discussed, which are of vital interest to the welfare of Scouting in this district, and the election of officers will also take place.

Canadian Freighter Reaches Port Safely

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Ploughing through a Lake Erie snowstorm, the Canadian freighter Simcoe arrived here today and proceeded to her berth after being unreported since she was sighted in distress more than 24 hours ago.

Nothing had been heard of the Simcoe, which was running from Buffalo to Cleveland, since yesterday morning, when Capt. L. C. Kirk of the Midland Prince saw her listing 25 miles northeast of Fairport, Ohio.

Captain E. Greisbach of the Simcoe said he never was in distress and had laid to near Rondeaux, Ont., to ride out of the storm, which accounted for his being overdue.

Captain E. H. Cahours, of the E. M. Young, on arrival at Astabula today said that his ship had stood by another ship which apparently was in distress, but that in the darkness he was unable to make out the ship's name. Captain Cahours said two other ships also were standing by the distressed vessel, but he also was unable to make out their names.

BASKET SECTION PRICES ARE LOW

Produce Not as Plentiful on Local Farmers' Market as Last Week.

CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES.

Supplies in the basket section of the farmers' market, although not as plentiful as last week, were still fairly low in price, with slow buying. Eggs ranged from 40 to 60 cents a dozen, chickens could be bought from 20 to 28 cents a pound and hens from 18 to 22 cents, geese were 20 to 25 cents, ducks were 28 to 30 cents a pound and turkeys 30 to 33 cents. Cream was 30 cents a pint.

In the basket section were the usual novelties for Christmas and plenty of home-made cooking and other varied wares. One woman had sauerkraut in two-pound cartons for 20 cents—but no pretzels were in sight.

On the open market, beef made its appearance, at 11 and 13 cents a pound for front and hind sections. Pork was 17 and 19 cents, lamb 17 to 20 or 16 to 22 cents a pound, according to which dealer you fancied.

Clover honey was 15 cents a pound, potatoes 90 cents and $1 a bag and other vegetables were at usual prices.

Little pigs were priced from $14 to $16 a pair. The fish vendor had fresh cod at 15 cents a pound, fresh pickerel at 18 cents and fresh pike at 15 cents a pound.

TURNER PLANT IS REDECORATED

...al Company Beginning 57th Year of Operation in This City.

NEW GOLD SIGNS.

A concrete example of their faith in the early return to normal business conditions, is shown in the greatly improved appearance of the factory of J. J. Turner and Sons, Limited, which has recently undergone a general external clean-up.

New oak flooring in the dislay windows, new curtains, and a new coat of paint on the woodwork all tend to make this fine old plant attractive.

Special mention should be made of the magnificent set of new gold signs placed on the front, and of the new wall sign facing up George street, all the work of Turner artists.

It is fitting that this brightening up should have been executed at the opening of the 57th year of progress of the Turner firm.

Attractiveness stimulates business, and the example shown by Turner's might well be followed by other similar institutions in our city.

JOINS IN SEARCH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29 (C.P.) — Captain W. M. Lancaster, member of the British Royal Flying Corps, who accompanied Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller on her flight three years ago from London to Australia, left here at 2 p.m. to-day, to assist in the search for the missing aviatrix.

SPEED AND SYSTEM FACTORS IN LOCAL "BELL TELEPHONE"

Every Provision Made For Accurate Service and Good Conditions.

INACCURACY 7 PER CENT.

Two thousand years ago the fastest news transmission was obtained through runners. Pheidippides and his Marathon is a classic example. Six-miles-an-hour stage coaches hustled up the spread of news. In Africa today the jungle inhabitants send telegraphic messages to their neighbors a mile or two away by means of beating on a tum-tum. What then are the essence of communication? Speed and system.

These two factors are what especially struck the reporter in his inspection of the local Bell Telephone exchange. In local calls eight and a half seconds are required from the time the customer lifts his telephone receiver till the party called for is summoned. Long distance, or toll calls, require a minute and a half from the time that the information is given till the person called for is "on the line." Everything is accomplished by system—local calls by speed and accuracy, long distance by a well-knit circuit.

There are a present 3,437 lines in this city. Owing to the large percentage of party lines there are 6,087 telephones in use. These include a number of phones used in private exchanges of which there are about twenty in Peterborough. Long distance calls are handled by 41 trunk lines. There are a group of nine circuits to Toronto which is an important radial point for out-of-town calls. Connection is made with the British Isles and Europe through the New York exchange. However, only one call of this nature is on record at the local exchange—one to Paris. Arrangements were made for the call on the preceding day, and connections were made for a certain specified time. On account of static on the ocean it took an hour for the call to be relayed through to Paris. Owing to the New York operator's accurate control of the instruments, both parties, about 4,000 miles apart, heard each other very distinctly. The return call was put through in a shorter time, but the Peterborough party was out for the afternoon. It is possible to phone Australia, 18 hours away. Another six hours around the world, and you can speak to the gentleman in the next office! However, this would not be economically sound.

Local Exchange Busy.

Fifty-five operators handle our calls every day. These of course work in shifts. During the day there are 8-hour shifts; part day and part evening shifts are 7 hours in duration; in the evening there are 6-hour shifts. In front of each girl are about 360 incoming phones. When the customer picks up his receiver a red light appears at his particular line on the switchboard; the operator immediately "plugs in" and in a sweet and amiable voice enquires, "Number please"; the number is then selected from the 6,000 or more which are within her reach, and connection made. And all this requires an incredibly small number of seconds. The return of the red light denotes that the parties are finished and so the plugs are removed. This process occurs 33,000 times a day in the Peterborough exchange. In addition there are about 400 long distance, and a similar number of "information" calls daily. Party lines are defined by "jacks" and the inconvenience of such lines is shown by the impossibility of certain letter combinations on the switchboard, and the pies. "The line is busy."

Asked what the busiest hours at the local exchange were, the Bell Telephone official replied that the heaviest business occurred between 9.30 and 11 a.m. and at certain times in the afternoon at present; but because people got up earlier in the summer most of the business was transacted between 8.30 and 10 a.m. Long distance switchboards are at their busiest in summer in the evenings till 11 p.m., and in the winter in the morning. Social calls are quite numerous after 8.30 p.m owing to the cheaper rates. There is added business in the summer because Peterborough is a favorite summer resort. At present Thursday is the best evening in the week, but in July both Thursday and Friday see the largest number of calls. A very interesting fact was told the reporter; between 7.00 and 7.15 p.m. there is scarcely a call owing the radio broadcast of Amos and Andy, but that for the succeeding twenty minutes everything assumes a very busy air—everyone must converse with each other about the banter of the two comedians, human nature the world over! However busy the exchange may be though, the operators say that they are "lucky in distribution"—rarely are there three calls at the same time.

Counting the Calls.

Tuesday of every week is taken as a fairly representative day, and count is made on this day. To do this the operator has only to touch an electric button for the local calls. The count is thus registered, and readings are made every hour. Every long distance call is registered on a ticket, so the enumeration of these calls is very easy. Two days are taken, in addition, to ascertain the monthly average of calls.

Inaccuracy Is Small.

In local telephone calls mistakes or wrong numbers average about seven per thousand. These inaccuracies are due to several causes. It may be that the operator's hearing is momentarily poor, or the customer's speaking may be indistinct. A man may ask, "132 please," then "Is Jack there?" The answer may be, "Jack, who's Jack. Wrong number." And the operator is blamed; the number should have been 123 anyway. The letters F and M in the party line are hard to distinguish. Errors in long distance calls are attributed chiefly to the difficult spelling of foreign names and to the customer's speaking in broken English. There is no trouble with the equipment which would lead to miscarriage of calls.

The exchange is well equipped with modern devices, such as the banking of numbers on the switchboard, the colored signals, the different colors of plug wires to aid in tracing lines etc. Good lighting and ventilation, and cleanliness are further marks of facilitating the seemingly monotonous routine of the operator. However, the girls are made as comfortable as possible. Every girl is given half an hour a day for intermission, 15 minutes both morning and afternoon. Some operators are employed for relief work only. There is a very comfortable and neat looking rest room for the girls, and a kitchenette for preparing meals.

Pleasant Training.

New operators commence their training at a blank switchboard, supervised by a supervisor. At certain times they are given work on the exchange with an experienced operator close beside her listening in. If they make a mistake the operator can "split the keys," which required only one second and in intelligible to the customer as a faint click. The training lasts for one week. The central office instructor can check up on any of the girls by listening in without their knowledge. Friendly advice is given in the case of error instead of the customary "calling down." The work is discussed by the supervisors and thus the operators can improve on their work in a quiet manner. Long distance operators have a four weeks' course, and further guidance is conducted along the same lines as the local operator. And what is more, the girls seem to be greatly interested in their work, supposedly because they always have to stop to think. They are not merely part of a machine as is commonly thought, but have to have an alert mind and quick action to correspond.

One must have the privilege of making a trip through the exchange and of following through with a call in order to appreciate "the wizard of modern communication."

FOREST TRAGEDY STILL UNSOLVED

Speculation As To Identity Of Skeleton Minus Head and Feet.

SEARCH FOR MISSING PARTS

SHOWHEGAN, Me., Nov. 29. — An aura of mystery surrounds the discovery of the bones of a New Brunswick man at Indian Pond near here. The skeleton, minus head and feet, was subsequently identified as that of James Douglas Tomlinson of Stanley, N.B.

Tomlinson, as far as authorities have been able to discover, was little known in this section of the country. They knew that he had worked at the Wyman Dam in Bingham in November, 1929, but he had left there suddenly without drawing a week's wages that were due him. From this point on very little is known or has been discovered to date of the young man's movements.

The one on which the authorities have been working was furnished them through the immigration papers found in his clothing. These formed the means of identification and it was later revealed that a man answering the description of the photography on the papers spent a night last November in the cabin of Ward Bessey, a railroad section hand at Indian Pond. Bessey, while unable to give any information that would account for Tomlinson committing suicide said that his guest had talked of going to Greeneville but that had been all that he had been able to learn.

The immigration papers showed that Tomlinson was born at Stanley, N.B., in 1907 and had entered this country through Houlton in September, 1929. A check up at Bingham showed that shortly after his disappearance a letter was received from his mother in Stanley asking for information concerning him. The authorities at the Dam were unable to provide her with any but mailed her a cheque for the money that was due her son.

The fact that the party which discovered the skeleton found it in a position which indicated that Tomlinson had apparently just crossed Indian pond Creek and had seated himself on a log to rest has only further confused the investigating officials. They have considered a theory that Tomlinson might have been struck on the head by a falling branch as he sat on the log, but with the skull missing there is no way to prove this. The sheriff has ordered a search made of the adjourning woods in the hope that the missing bones will be found and something discovered that will help to clear up a situation which at present seems likely to develop into one of the unsolved tragedies of the woods.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town?, Ever think about it?

COUNTY COUNCIL SESSION ENDED

Warden Thanks Members For Their Co-operation During the Year.

ADJOURNED AT NOON.

Following the adjournment of the council this morning Warden Hawkins thanked the members for their hearty co-operation during the year. The county's business had been rather heavy, and the members had made the work light by their assistance.

Warden Hawkins also acknowledged the valuable help he had received from County Clerk Elliott, and it was a matter of satisfaction that county officials generally had performed their duties so efficiently that they had been complimented by the council and others who have supervision of their work.

County Clerk Elliott thanked the Warden for his grateful expression, and said he had only tried to render to the county the best service he could. He also thanked the members for their kindness to him in his illness during part of last summer.

L. W. Cogo, public school inspector, briefly addressed the council, stating that he wished to be of the utmost help to them and to all sections of his inspectorate.

The council decided to pay $20 a month to the House of Providence for the maintenance of the Douro woman who asked for re-admission to the House of Refuge. This arrangement is for a probationary period of three months.

Other minor tag ends of the session's business were wound up, the reports of the committees were confirmed by by-laws, and the 1930 council's administration was ended.

75 INSPECTORS FOUND GUILTY

Involved in Charges of Accepting Bribes to Allow Smuggling.

WARRANTS ARE SIGNED.

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—(C.P.)—Seventy-five present and former United States' border customs patrol inspectors in the Detroit area are involved in charges of accepting bribes to allow smuggling of liquor into this country from Canada, Federal authorities indicated.

Warrants against six were signed yesterday by J. Stanley Hurd, United States' commissioner, on recommendation of Gregory H. Frederick, Chief Assistant District Attorney, in charge of the patrol. Six other warrants had been issued previously.

SIX DEAD FROM LIQUOR.

GREENSBORO, Mich., Nov. 29.—(C.P.)—Six deaths in less than a week from drinking poisonous liquor—supposedly denatured alcohol — were counted to-day in Guilford county. All the victims were negroes.

FIRE CONSUMES LARGE DO-X WING

Wing Contained Quarters For Crew of Giant German Seaplane.

TRIP IS POSTPONED.

LISBON, November 29 (C.P.). — Fire broke out in the great German seaplane DO-X, moored in the harbor, here to-day, consuming the left wing before it was extinguished

Just Loaded Gasoline.

Hundreds of gallons of gasoline had been poured into the great tanks of the flying ocean liner a few hours before the left wing suddenly burst into flames.

When the fire was seen by members of the marine aviation staff ashore sailors and Portuguese pilots volunteered by the dozen for the perilous job of fighting the fire, but even their valiant efforts could not save the big ship. The left wing was destroyed.

The DO-X arrived here on Thanksgiving Day after a shake-down flight over Europe in preparation for a trans-Atlantic trip to either New York or Brazil.

It was to have left to-day or to-morrow for Cadiz, where the engines were to have been overhauled.

The wings of this big ship contained quarters for some of the crew and important parts of the mechanical equipment. They were passageways to the motors, and while the craft was in flight the narrow spaces were filled with a tremendous roar.

Inside the wings the girders holding the ship together looked like the tangle of steel which is the skeleton of a skyscraper.

Passenger quarters, the kitchen, the smoking room, and quarters for the officers and some of the crew were in the main hull of the plane.

FIRE DEPARTMENT WILL FLOOD RINKS

Alderman Robert Cotton Says Officials Will Co-operate With Youngsters.

With winter here, youngsters throughout the city soon will be busy building rinks on every available empty lot. The firemen will be at the service of the boys to flood the rinks, Alderman Bob. Cotton, chairman of the Fire and Water Department, told The Examiner. But, while the firemen will flood the rinks it can not be expected that they will put up the boards and do other preparatory work, said Alderman Cotton.

Last year some of the boys tried to overdo the willingness of the fire department to co-operate and endeavoured to press the firemen into service as carpenters and handymen in getting the rinks built. "We'll flood, but we won't put up the rinks" concluded Alderman Cotton.

BODY IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Solution of Mystery of Half Burned Body Presents Difficulties.

MANY WITNESSES HEARD.

L'ASSOMPTION, Que., Nov. 29.—(CP)—Little progress has been made today in the efforts to solve the mystery of the half burned body of an aged man found on a pile of wood near here last Sunday.

The body was at first believed to be that of an itinerant medicine peddler but this man appeared in the villa several days ago and upset what police and local people believed had been a solution. At the inquest over the body yesterday, two witnesses expressed opinions as to the identity of the man, both mentioning wanderers from Sorel, Quebec, but with different names. One witness said the body resembled that of Arthur Boucher of Sorel who had been seen in the neighborhood recently. Investigations by the police of Sorel disclosed that a man named Arthur Boucher had disappeared from that place last spring, but the descriptions did not tally.

Another witness said the body resembled that of a man who gave his name as St. Martin, Sorel, who had stopped several days at the home of the witness some time before discovery of the dead man. Sorel police could find no trace of a man of that name.

The inquest was adjourned sine die while detectives continue their investigations.

In Police Court

Pleading guilty to a charge of housebreaking, Harry Brown, 25, of Harvey Township, was sentenced in Police Court this morning to one month in jail. Brown admitted that he broke into the home of Edward Alfreds in Harvey and stole blankets and other household articles. It was his first offence.

Appearing in court with a scarred face, which he gained in an accident on the Burleigh Road last Saturday night, James Mace, a farmer living near Burleigh Falls pleaded guilty to driving a wagon on a road at night without a light. He was fined $5 and costs and given a severe reprimand by the Magistrate.

The absence of a light on Mace's wagon is claimed by Provincial Constable David Sylvester to have caused an accident in which two young women were injured. It was raining and dark that night, and Mace was driving a black team. Wm. Lane, driving a car on the road, failed to notice Mace's wagon, which, it is alleged, was also on the wrong side of the road. The car struck the wagon, throwing Mace from his seat, breaking the windshield in Lane's car, and the flying glass cut the face and hands of Lane's two daughters, who were passengers in the car.

Escapes From Jail

Major Ramon Franco, Spain's famous airman and transatlantic flier, sentenced to eight months in jail for a political offence, who has made his escape. He is reported as having landed in a small airplane near Madrid.

BIG COAL STRIKE WILL BE AVERTED

Miners and Owners in England Are Meeting in Conferences.

STATEMENT ISSUED.

LONDON, November 29 (C.P.). — Emmanuel Shinwell, Secretary for Mines, announced to-day that the danger of a national coal strike had been averted. He said owners and miners in practically all important coal areas were proceeding with negotiations looking toward arbitration of their differences, and that there would be no national upheaval on Monday.

Mr. Shinwell issued the following official statement:

"The danger of a national coal strike on Monday, when the new Coal Mines Act becomes effective, happily has been averted. Therefore no state of emergency exists. The movement of coal will proceed in the normal way. There need be no interference with exports. An abundance of coal will be produced. At the very worst most districts will continue operations."

"I am not without hope that work will proceed on Monday in all districts. The Government's message to both owners and men to resume negotiations to-day has proved singularly effective, and according to our latest information eight or ten districts are engaged in conference. We expect, as a result of these discussions, arrangements will be made to continue work. Every effort will be made to prevent even sectional disputes."

SANTA ARRIVES

cocky hat. He was accompanied by that perky little personage, Mickey McGuire. Next came Mistress Mary's float, with her beautiful flowers and garden. She stood demurely in the midst of cockle bells and shells, with a large butterfly on the wing overhead.

Santa Claus himself, in his regal, red velvet and snowy white fur-trimmed outfit—on an iceberg float drawn by reindeer, followed in the rear. He was the personification of good will and happiness and bowed and smiled continuously at the large crowds both on the sidewalks and at the throng who peered down from windows high above the street level.

The large retinue of clowns, who wandered around at will represented characters of story book and fairyland fame. They were attired in suits and costumes of every description. There were huge grey cats great white and brown bears, and a big savage looking tiger.

The parade was marshalled by Bert Munroe to whom full credit must be given for the various costumes and the funny and artistic characters represented. He has had considerable experience in this line of work, having marshalled the T. Eaton Company's parades in Toronto, Montreal and other large centers.

W. F. Butcher, general manager of the local Canadian Department Stores in company with W. M. Hemphill, supervisor from Toronto, covered the entire route which took over an hour to complete, on foot.

Other C.D.S. officials who played no small part in contributing to the complete success of the event, were Jack Palmer, department manager, Toronto; H. Turvey, local merchandise display man and Lorne Henderson, from the Toronto store. The Peterborough Rangers Band was in attendance under Lt.-W. Peryer, by courtesy of Colonel M. H. Park, V.D.

Thousands of children filed through the Santa Claus workshop on the fourth floor of the corner store, today, and viewed with amazement the elaborate preparation, in which no pains or expense have been spared to make Santa's visit one to be long remembered. Many thousands more will file through the store between now and Christmas Eve—all are welcome, and a cordial invitation is extended to young and old, to pay repeated visits.

CHOIR DELIGHTS

of sacred type, and in the gayer secular section that formed the second part of the entertainment. For the opening section, they wore long cassocks of cardinal red and white linen surplices with bell sleeves so voluminous that they seemed to have no arms at all, when they put them behind their backs. This habit of disposing with the hands did away with that awkward problem of most singers, and was just as easy when they wore their neat little Eton suits of black and white for the secular music. They carried in, in dignified style, their stiff mortarboard hats with long red tassels.

The boys are making a tour of the Dominion which will take them about six months to complete. They have been to the Maritimes and Montreal, and will go straight through to Vancouver. Their director, Carleton Borrow, left this morning for England, taking back one of the boys who became ill in Canada. Their director pro tem, Matthew Heft, who played their accompaniments last night, also pleased his hearers with two very finely rendered piano solos.

They sing with splendid attention to detail. Their enunciation is a joy, so clear and fine is it, and they attack and release their tone with a feather edge. They sing entirely from memory, through a lengthy program and they seem to carry with them always an atmosphere of careful interest in their work that gives it a real finish and smoothness.

Solo numbers, two and three part songs comprised the program in these fresh, youthful voices of such melodious charm and easy delivery. Floating up in streams of light, clear, silvery tone were the solo parts essayed by one outstanding youthful singer, whose faultless soprano was listened to with exceptional interest by an audience that encored every number. But the boys responded with only two or three encores, their program being probably lengthy enough, and they came back at the end, after a loud encore, with a humorous bit that proclaimed in song their pleasure in reaching the end of their job of singing.

Devotional Music.

E. V. Morphet made the announcements of the evening. The opening section of sacred numbers included a three-part chorus, "Little Lamb" (Who Made Thee?); a three-part chorus, "Lift Thine Eyes"; a solo and chorus, "Come, Holy Ghost"; a solo, "Jerusalem," with the Master's words reiterated in that sorrowful plain addressed to the proud city of the plain, and a beautiful crescendo effect noticeable; a three-part chorus, "O Light Everlasting"; a gorgeous two-part chorus entitled "God Is a Spirit," in which a touch of consecrated endeavor was apparent in the reverent singing; a three-part chorus, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," and a trio, "God Shall Wipe All Tears," with a fine pianissimo effect and meticulous shading.

For the secular section of the program, they opened with "Passage Birds, Farewell," a two-part chorus which was followed by a three-part choral rendition of "Sweet and Low" and a two-part chorus "Old Folks at Home."

Evidently these young English lads from over the sea didn't think the famous American song should lack vigor, for they sang it with a lusty will and a tempo that hinted at "animato" on the score. Their distinctive English accent, absent from the other choral numbers, crept in here with the likeable little twist to the vowels in "Old Folks at Home." This number was very heartily applauded.

The soloist of the evening sang "Daddy," with its pathetic charm, and its encore "Try Again" followed by a humorous trio rendition of "Little Tommy," that bad little boy who persisted in fishing on Sunday. This was unaccompanied.

A three-part chorus was "This Hour of Splendor," and a very expressive rendering of "Annie Laurie, followed, in solo and choral effect. Another humorous song, with a lot of action, was "Only a Dream," with an encore in a sneezing hit entitled "A Song of Influenza," where the boys and their hankies united in a series of vocal sneezes.

A three-part chorus, "The Long Day Closes," had an encore in the fantastic little thing about the end of the program, "What a Relief It Is" as a comical finish to a splendid program of vocal music. Accompanying the boys was their manager, Ernest Desautel of Montreal.

THEATRE NEWS

MARIE DRESSLER SCORES ANOTHER

With Wallace Beery in "Min and Bill"—Both Praised.

A STRONG CAST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in "Min and Bill" at the Capitol this week present one of the year's best films. Also prominent in the cast are Marjorie Rambeau and Dorothy Jordan.

Above the superiority of the drama as a whole shines the classic portrayal of Miss Dressler. As the hard-visaged, soft-hearted old "sea cow" of the picture, Miss Dressler adds further proof to the fact that she is without equal in her sphere. And that, in or out of it, stands head and shoulders over all of Hollywood. Supreme as is the characterization of Miss Dressler, that of Marjorie Rambeau is scarcely less eminent in its artistry. And Wallace Beery, the masculine thorn between these roses, has never been better. It isn't necessary to bestow further econiums upon him. To the credit of little Dorothy Jordan be it said that in such distinguished company, she keeps her head well above water. In Miss Jordan we have a star of tomorrow.

HOW WINNIE LIGHTNER FALLS.

Winnie Lightner is the ace of the apple boys around Times Square, New York. The other afternoon as Miss Lightner was leaving the Palace, she gave each of the apple sellers a dollar bill. Nor did she miss the newsboys near by either. And without taking an apple.

One of the newsies heard Lady Bountiful was Winnie Lightner. He ran up to the comedienne as she was about to enter a taxi and asked her if the report were true. Winnie said it was, but why? Because, the kid, answered, he wanted her signature too.

"Not so bad, eh?" said Winnie, who was wise but good natured. She staked the autograph fiend to a $5 bill and slipped her signature besides.

REGAINING HEALTH

Lila Lee and Renee Adoree at the same sanitarium in Arizona haven't seen each other. They write notes back and forth. Lila telling Renee all the cheerful news of the sanitarium, and Renee reciprocating by writing what she has heard. Lila expects to leave the sanitarium in February. She will soon be able to sit up, and friends who have seen her say she is as brown as a berry. Renee, who went to the sanitarium much later and whose life was despaired of, is out of danger and gaining in weight. The two girls have made a brave fight for their health, and here's hoping they will soon be back happy and healthy again.

LEW AYRES STAR AFTER ONE YEAR IN PICTURES

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—Lew Ayres is to be starred by U. Climb to this perch was made from obscurity in less than a year. He first came to notice in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

U gives Ayres top billing in "Fires of Youth," a newspaper story by Monta Bell, who will also direct. Young actor was a banjo player in a dance band.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Grace Cunard, queen of serials long ago, is back in 'em, doing a mother part in U's "Heroes of the Flame."

Hope Hampton, cynosure of all eyes at a big Embassy Club (Hollywood) luncheon, proving that red heads can wear pink after all.

Big Bill Tilden, after showing his full stage act last week, folded it. This was Tildens second attempt at vaude, both flivs.

The new concentrator microphones may revive the happy days of the silent films when the public watched pictures being made in public places. Recently the Radio Pictures' unit filming "Hook, Line and Sinker," the current Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey comedy, made street scenes in which dialogue was recorded on one of the main highway arteries into Los Angeles. The noises made by hundreds of passing cars were successfully eliminated, an achievement impossible with the standard microphone, which picks up sounds from all angle. The concentrator is directional, and when aimed at one source of sound is said to record that alone.

Will Rogers will don familiar garb when he begins work in "The Heir to the Hoorah," purchased by Fox Films as the picture to follow "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." The comedian will play the part of a cowboy for the first time in talking pictures, although his rope-throwing tricks and cowboy costume have been associated with practically all his theatrical activities.

Most of the motion picture theatres in Canton, China, give four performances daily—two in the afternoon and two in the evening. Programs are changed twice a week. The average performances consist of from seven to twelve reels, with one feature film and comedies or cartoons.

The Roxy, New York, has installed a message bureau, which provides a repository for the receipt and delivery of notes. Patrons, usually women, who wish to communicate with their friends, or who find it necessary to make or break engagements, leave a communication in the exchange where it can be picked up.

"The Great Train Robbery," first feature motion picture, has been revised and reissued with musical synchronization, the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures announces. It was produced in 1903 by George Klein.

As soon as she completes work in "The Bachelor Father," Marion Davies will occupy herself with the film adaptation of "It's a Wise Child." Lawrence Johnson, the author, will adapt his play to the screen.

GARBO'S NEXT.

Greta Garbo's next talking picture will be "Susan Lenox, Her Rise and Fall," from the popular novel and play by David Graham Phillips, and not "Mata Hari," as announced recently. King Vidor will direct Miss Garbo's new vehicle and work is expected to begin on it as soon as she finishes her part in "Inspiration."

New Hollywood Queen

Marlene Dietrich and "Morocco" Raiment.

A new Queen has arrived in Hollywood. Other picture femme stars better look out. She's Marlene Dietrich. What a gal! The critics need not compare this girl with anybody else, she stands alone.

It is too bad the story of "Morocco" isn't better, but story, good or bad, you will have the time of your life trying to get into the Rivoli (New York) when this German girl is there. The story, however, serves its purpose it trots out a screen star who has everything.

Miss Dietrich appears on shipboard in an all black outfit. In a cabaret she is first a boy in full evening clothes and are they becoming? Another costume is a black velvet romper style with bare legs and worn with a long feathered boa. In her dressing room a negee of black has one white sleeve with the other sleeve black top and deep white flowing cuff. A spotted velvet short sleeved coat and skirt had a white satin blouse.

The rather large hat worn well off the forehead had a facing of the velvet. Her one evening gown seemed to be of black chiffon. Made long and flowing, the neck was cut high with the yoke in tiny tucks. A white afternoon dress was also of chiffon. There was a large hat trimmed in wide velvet ribbons. In an automobile a silk rain coat was worn with one of those new wrap around caps. A white sport dress with polka dot scarf wrote finis.

Many Extras Employed.

Three thousand extras, more than have been used for many weeks by the Hollywood studio, are being employed currently by Paramount for the seven pictures now in production there. Of these, according to reports, 2,500 are being used in Josef von Sternberg's new production, "Dishonored," in which Victor McLaglen and Marlene Dietrich are featured. The mass scenes in "Dishonored" are regimental maneouvres by Austrian and Russian troops in the early days of the war. There are also several air sequences requiring numerous extras for ground crews and patrol forces.

Hundreds of players find employment in George Bancroft's newspaper film, now called "Scandal Sheet." These will be street crowds for the most part. The same types of players also appear in numbers in Clara Bow's new picture, "No Limit." Other films in production which promise to help alleviate unemployment among the extras are Jack Oakie's new picture, "Johnny on the Spot", calling for "big city" types; "Fighting Caravans," the big Western which features Gary Cooper, Lily Damita and Ernest Torrence, Fred Kohler and Tully Marshall, and the new Richard Arlen-Fay Wray Western, tentatively titled "Stampede," which is using scores of cowboys.

John Gilbert's next picture will be "Gentleman's Fate," from a screen story by Ursula Parrott, whose "Strangers May Kiss" is now being filmed. Louis Wolheim has been selected to play the part of Mr. Gilbert's brother in the film.

WOLHEIM'S $3,500.

Universal has lost Louis Wolheim for the lead in "Saint Johnson." Merto has grabbed him for "Gentlemen's Fates," the next John Gilbert picture.

Metro is paying Wolheim $3,500 weekly, which U was also willing to pay.

CHEESE MAKERS MEET TUESDAY

Third Annual Convention of Central Ontario Association.

HELD IN BELLEVILLE.

The third annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association will be held in Belleville, December 2 and 3. The territory of this association comprises the counties of Durham, Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac.

W. V. Drewry, Warkworth, its president, and J. H. Dudgeon, Thomasburg, is secretary-treasurer. Tuesday afternoon's program includes addresses by the president, by John H. Rollin, Dairy Instructor and Cheese Instructor, Eastern Dairy School, Kingston, Chas. F. Linn, Dairy Instructor, winner of the Hon. John S. Martin, silver trophy of 1929; L. A. Zufelt, superintendent eastern Dairy School, Kingston; P. W. McLagan, president Montreal Cheese and Butter Exporters Association; Hugh Ritchie, dairy instructor, Belleville, and remarks by Dr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commission, Ottawa.

Wednesday's program will include addresses by Geo. H. Barr, director of Dairying for Ontario; Joseph Burgess, chief division of Dairy Produce, Ottawa; Donald B. Shutt, B.S.A. Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Dr. Berry, provincial sanitary engineer; George B. Rothwell, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa; R. E. Hunt, president Ontario Milk Producers Association, Brantford; M. C. McPhail, Director of Ontario Department of Agriculture; J. P. Griffin of the Ontario Milk Producers Association, Toronto; Alex Hume, Menie Ayrshire breeder.

The convention concludes with a banquet Wednesday evening. The speakers will be J. B. Fairbairn, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Toronto; Dr. J. A. Ruddick; John Elliott, Belleville; Hon. W. G. Martin.

The commissioner's announcement

"We are glad to announce from the statistics at present available that our record of special and first grade cheese for 1930 will exceed that of 1929 by approximately 1% and that of 1927 (the year immediately before our Association was organized by about 3%. We would also draw attention to the fact that since this organization came into being in 1928 there has been a substantial increase in the percentage of special and first grade cheese manufactured each year in Central Ontario.

Throughout this Convention we will endeavor to place before everyone concerned in Central Ontario's great dairy industry the duties and responsibilities devolving upon them in such manner that they will leave this Convention feeling that the information they have acquired here will enable them to perform their several duties in a better and more efficient manner in the future."

GRADING STATION REPORTS FOR YEAR

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—With the end of the cheese making season here and the factories holding their annual meetings, reports show that the production of cheese in the Central Group has on the average, been maintained and in some cases increased.

Some factories show a greater production this year than last, but the figures have been kept down considerably owing to the low price of cheese on the market. The Central Group of the Association is more fortunate than the Eastern Group however, the price of cheese in this locality having been slightly higher all year.

The report from the Campbellford Grading Station for the last grading shows that 8 lots, 317 boxes of cheese were graded, as compared with the same period last year which totaled 226 boxes.

Up to September 30th of this year the Campbellford Grading Station had graded 15,901 boxes of cheese, last year figures for the same period show a total of 15,224. Some factories are still making however, and it is thought that to the finish of the season the figures will be very close. These figures are according to the office report of the U.D.C.

CASSIDY TO PAY DEED WITH LIFE

Formerly, a Drug Addict Has Served Reformatory and Penitentiary Terms.

IN COURT WHEN 12.

HULL Que., Nov. 29. (CP)—Austin Cassidy will pay with his life on Jan. 30 for the murder of Bert Marshall, young Ottawa athlete. The 28-year-old Ottawan was sentenced by Mr. Justice Loranger to be hanged, after a Hull assizes jury last night had returned a verdit of guilty. They deliberated only fifteen minutes.

A tense scene marked announcement of the jury's verdict, and the sentencing of Cassidy. The condemned man spat viciously when the judge remarked that Providence had been kind to Cassidy in that he was being given some time at least to repent, whereas Marshall had been sent to his death without any preparation.

Again when the judge remarked: "I am sorry....." Cassidy interjected: "I am not." The Judge aded: "I am sorry. So much the worse, my poor friend, if you are not, and I pity you from the bottom of my heart."

Cassidy, formerly a drug addict, has had a lengthy criminal career, serving several reformatory and penitentiary terms for theft and carrying concealed weapons. His first court appearance was made when he was 12 years of age.

Trent Valley Creameries Win Many Awards For Season

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The Trent Valley Creameries show a good list of awards for their produce at the check up made at the end of this season.

In the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto this concern won one first and three second awards for butter and from the Canadian Creamery Association they gained three medals for general proficiency. The Campbellford Factory came fifth in the DeLaval contest for 200-399 pound churnings, and the Keene branch came a close second in the Walker Wallace Trophy.

This year's work has been excellent and the high standard of the quality of the produce has been maintaiend.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM HENRY

QUEENSBORO, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. William Henry, after a lingering illness, which extended over seventeen months, passed suddenly away at her home here on Thursday morning. The day previous she sat in her chair as usual but was taken seriously ill at dusk and soon became unconscious. She was in her 77th year and spent all her lifetime in and around Queensboro.

She was a member of the United Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss two brothers, Sanford and George; one sister, Mrs. William Hallstone, and two sons, Fred and William, all of Elsiver.

GORDON WARNER

PENELLA, Nov. 29. (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral service of Gordon Warner, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Warner, was held on Tuesday afternoon from the home of his parents.

The death occurred very suddenly on Monday morning after being ill only a few hours.

Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Ruby and two young brothers, Clarence and Billie.

The service was conducted by the Rev. M. H. Hawley, of Centreton who based his remarks on the scripture "He shall feed his flock like a shepherd, he shall gather the lambs with his arm and carry them to his bosom and shall gently lead those that are young." He reminded his hearers of Jesus' great love for little children and how the ones he has gathered to Himself have escaped early in life the trials and sorrows of a troubled world.

The pallbearers were Donald George, Floyd Murphy, Hilton Jewell and Alex Hodgson. Burial was made in Centreton cemetery.

raise the Conservative praty in the Ontario Legislature from a handful of members in opposition to a numerical strength never equalled before. He fought many hard battles and encountered bitter opposition. There are few of his political opponents who do not admire his success and wish him well in his new post.

Elected Leader 10 Years Ago.

Mr. Ferguson in stepping out of the field of Provincial politics on the tenth anniversary of his election as leader of the Ontario Conservative party and seven years after his becoming Prime Minister of the Province. His rise to power since December 2, 1920, when a Conservative convention made him party leader has been a surprise to many, even in his own party.

At that time the United Farmer Government under Premier E. C. Drury, was in power and investigation was being made into Mr. Ferguson's administration of the Department of Lands and Forests as a member of the Hearst Government.

Mr. Ferguson declared the investigation was an attempt to discredit the Conservative party and said he had enough ammunition to fight the Farmer Government. At the same time he made his famous prediction: "I will come through when the time comes and when I get through some of these fellows' hides will be on the fence." After the next election in 1923, he was Prime Minister.

Staunch Empire Believer.

A staunch believer in the British Empire, Mr. Ferguson has always been ready to challenge any step which in his opinion might lead to its disintegration. It is his firm convictions in this connection which have been partly responsible for his selection for the London post. It is understood many persons in Great Britain pressed Mr. Ferguson to accept Mr. Bennett's offer of the High Commissionership, feeling his ability to get things done would be valuable at the present time.

In well-informed circles it is said Mr. Ferguson will be a leader in a movement which is under way to build up a greater feeling of unity among the different parts of the British Empire.

Mr. Ferguson was literally cradled in politics. His father, the late Dr. Charles Ferguson, of Kemptville, Ont., was member of the Dominion parliament and a trusted friend and adviser of Sir John A. Macdonald. Settling down in his home town as a lawyer Mr. Ferguson served on the town council and was first elected to the legislature in 1905. Sir William Hearst took him into the Government in 1914 as Minister of Lands and Forests and he was one of the few Cabinet Ministers to survive the election of 1919 which sent the Conservative party into Opposition.

LIINDSAY RESIDENTS WATCH FOR BANDIT

Understood Robber of Brooklin Dominion Bank in Scugog District.

(Special to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov 28.—Considerable excitement prevailed among local bankers and business men on Thursday afternoon when the local police flashed the information that the bandit who had robbed the Dominion bank at Brooklin had taken to Number 7 highway and was heading for Lindsay. The police watched every avenue leading into the town during the afternoon and night but without results. Extra precautions were taken by the merchants during the night in safeguarding their property and extra patrol work was carried out by the police, there is a lingering suspicion in the minds of some of the townsmen that bandit's companion may not be a girl, but a man dressed up in female attire. They recall the activities of a former local man, well known to the police of the country and who has served a number of prison terms, who dressed in female attire when ever he pulled off a holdup. They are fully satisfied also that the Brooklin robber was a man familiar with the highways in this section of the country, a section in which the local man staged most of his operations.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Prices on the local egg market were stronger at the closing of the week, due to an ever-increasing demand from consumers and few receipts. The cold weather that set in during the middle of the week also helped, storage supplies moving much more freely than previously. But quotations from the consumer's point of view have been too high and during the next few weeks country shippers can expect a great reduction in prices. One local dealer stated yesterday that he thought the country shipper would be forced to take about ten cents less per dozen before the middle of December. Some dealers have lists prepared for the first of the week that call for lower prices to shippers.

Eggs

At the end of this week ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, were quoted at 57c to 60c for extras; 50c to 52c for firsts, 32 to 35c for seconds and 45c for pullet extras. Retailers were asked to pay 62c to 65c for extras in cartons, 60c to 62c for extras loose, 52c to 55c for firsts loose, 38c to 40c for seconds, and 49c to 52c for pullet extras loose. Retailers were offered eggs, candled, out of storage, at 38c for extras, 36c for firsts, and 31c for seconds. Brokers were offering wholesalers fresh eggs at 60c to 61c for extras, 54c to 55c for firsts, 49c to 50c for pullet extras, and 32c for seconds, graded, in free cases. British Columbia supplies were selling on spot at 62c for extras, 57c for firsts, and 32c for pullet extras. The cars from the coast contained 250 cases of extras, 50 cases of firsts and 250 cases of pullet extras. Brokers also offered storage eggs at 35c to 36c for extras, 33c to 34c for firsts, and 29c for seconds, candled out of storage.

Butter

The butter market continued steady for the entire week, with prices for Ontario made offerings at 30c to 30¼c for No. 1 and 29c to 29¼c for No. 2. Dealers found a fair trade at these prices, but considerable butter was purchased outside of Ontario. Large quantities of Western butter found buyers locally at prices ranging from 30c to 31c, with most at the lower price. The writer was informed that there were several cars rolling from Manitoba now, sold on a basis of 30c Toronto.

Cream

Churning cream dropped 2c from the old high level it enjoyed while butter was sliding downward. The new range gives 31c for special, 30c for No. 1 and 27c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, November 29.—Falling prices, sagging under the weight of selling orders from many quarters, more than offset the strength from Liverpool and Buenos Aires, and the values at Winnipeg were ½ lower to ½ higher.

The full break of prices at mid-session amounted to little more than 2 cents, but announcement near the close that John I. McFarland had been appointed general manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool had a steadying effect, and shorts covered quickly, while other buying orders reached the market. At the close the market had regained much of its lost ground, and a firm tone was in evidence.

Export business overnight was small, approximating 200,000 bush. is and foreign news was colorless.

Cash and coarse grain trading was dull with prices closely following the trend of wheat.

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. — Successive downward jolts to wheat prices yesterday ended, with word that the week's North American bread-stuff exports were the smallest witnessed for a long while. Other shocks came from British trade estimates greatly enlarging figures on the probable Argentine exportable wheat surplus. Wheat values here also were shaken by indications that United States Government sponsored agencies were on both sides of the market from time to time, with uncertainties likewise prevalent regarding wheat stabilization plans in Canada.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾ to 2⅛ cents a bushel lower than Wednesday's finish. Corn closed 1¼ to 1⅝ cents down; oats 1¼ to 1⅝ cents off, and provisions at 2 to 20 cents decline.

RICE LAKE WATERS ARE FROZEN OVER

Initial Freeze-up Takes Place on Thursday Night—About One Inch Thick.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 29. — The initial freeze up at Rice Lake for this season was Thursday night, when the cold blue waters of the lake completely froze over, leaving a glassy surface which would tempt any lover of skating. The ice however is only about an inch thick and it will require several cold days to make the ice safe to skate over.

The first freeze over of Rice lake this season is about the same date as in previous years.

According to older residents of the district this ice must go off and the lake must freeze over twice yet, ere the ice remains for the winter.

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

"Plant" Farming Necessary for Stock Raising

PLANNING OF DEFINITE SYSTEM FOR UPKEEP OF CERTAIN NUMBER OF LIVESTOCK IS FUNDAMENTAL Serious Study Should Be Given to Problem of How Much Supplies Are to be Made Continuously and Economically Available When Production is on This Basis.

"PLANT" MUST ALSO BE BUILT UP CAREFULLY IN ORDER TO MAKE THIS SYSTEM EFFICIENT

The real measuring stick to apply to farming as an indication of success is the ultimate value of the crop taken off an acre of ground. It is out of the final results from the total acreage operated by a farmer that the business stands or fails. Therefore, the question is, what can the acres of land of any farm be made to produce, not merely in the raw state of hay or grain, but by any subsequent values that the addition of such a process as feeding the crop to livestock may make to the revenue per acre? In other words, in what way can "manufacturing processes" be used in order to secure the desired revenues per acre of land.

Most farmers in Canada this year are realizing that it is unsafe to depend on the sale of the products of their acres in their raw state. Even in the West where straight grain farming has been looked upon as standard it has become evident that it is unsafe to have no means of carrying farm processes any further for, at least, a part of the crop. It has been forced home that there must be maintained on each farm the means of turning grain into livestock or livestock products in order to minimize the effect of a breakdown of cash grain prices.

Built up Carefully.

To provide such safeguards by spasmodic production is impossible. A "plant" must be built up carefully in order to have it efficient. This "plant" which consists of livestock, requires time and skill to build for best results and it must be continuously maintained.

It is, therefore, interesting to look at what returns per acre hogs will give if they are made a part of the permanent "plant" of a farm. The tables given on this page are based entirely on feeding costs and are, therefore, not absolute, but they are indicative of the values that skill and management and some extra labor may give to returns per acre.

It is important to note how the money returns per acre are increased when, through good breeding stock carefully built up over years aided by skilful feeding learned through practise and study, the amount of feed required to produce a hundred pounds of hog is decreased.

Higher Feed Costs.

An in-and-out policy results in high feed costs. It is evident that to get the best returns per acre—which is the ultimate measure of success—an efficient "plant" of breeding stock must of necessity be maintained and the study and experience of breeding and feeding must be capitalized from year to year. In some years an acre of grain will yield margins over cash prices for the crop only when feeding gains are efficient. On the average there will be a very nice increase in acre income.

It will mean that volume of production in any year should not be limited to the size of the crop harvested, but in order that the "plant" may be maintained and kept producing, a certain amount of feed should be provided to carry through the year. Many farms will operate more successfully when an excess of livestock is kept beyond what the acres will produce. Often the maintenance of farm fertility or the reduction of the weed menace requires that the livestock should be in excess of what the farm alone can support. In some cases the acres will yield the largest income when nearly all the grain or other concentrates are purchased. In any case, the planning of a definite system whereby a certain number of livestock is maintained year in and year out is fundamental.

When production is put on this basis serious study will be given to the problem of how such supplies are to be made continuously and economically available.

Farmers Complete Their Fall Plowing

"Despite the abnormally dry fall which has been experienced this year," states J. B. Nelson, local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, farmers have about completed their fall plowing. Such a thing was made possible by the lateness of the season, but Mr. Nelson can foresee a serious situation if the long-looked for rain is not forthcoming. Already he states many farmers are forced to haul water for their livestock, many of the wells having ceased to function. It is quite a phenomenal situation which has arisen, unknown in Mr. Nelson's wide experience in agriculture.

EARNINGS SHOW LESSER PROFITS

Company Figures Indicate Strength of Farmers Co-operation in Relation With Farmers.

STATEMENT MAILED.

Earnings for year:
Amount available for shareholders	$13,01168
Dividends paid to and available for creamery patrons	104,743.70
Approximate balance due to egg Pool shippers	15,000.00
Total Earnings for the 12 months ending Sept. 30, 1930	$132,755.38

These figures, though showing a slight reduction from those presented last year, indicate the strength of The United Farmers Co-operative Company, Limited, in its business relationship with Ontario farmers. While a great many institutions show huge losses or earnings very much reduced from the figures of recent years, this Farmers' Company maintains a fair balance to the good after making regular distributions of surplus earnings to its creamery patrons, and providing for further disbursements to those who put eggs into the Egg Pool last spring.

A condensed, yet comprehensive statement of assets and liabilities, was mailed recently to all Company shareholders along with Secretary Morrison's call to the Annual Meeting, which will be held in Hygeia Hall, 40 Elm Street, Toronto, on Tuesday, December 9th, commencing at 10.30 o'clock.

Lack of Scales is Big Handicap To Farmers

With present-day business being transacted upon a weight basis, those farmers who do not possess scales are seriously handicapped. On many other farms, where scales have been used for years, a large number are no longer accurate within the commercial meaning of the term, as shown by an investigation by the livestock marketing division of the University of Illinois and are in need of replacement. Farmers without scales or whose scales have become rusty or thrown out of adjustment through overloading are compelled to accept the weights of those with whom they do business, which is sometimes to their disadvantage. Good scales are a worthwhile investment and should receive adequate maintenance attention, including inspection, cleaning, adjustment and testing.

MORE ALFALFA HAY WHEN NITRATE USED

Interesting Results Secured By O.A.C. With Fertilizers on Meadows.

Increasing the yield of alfalfa hay, through the use of fertilizers, and particularly nitrogen, was demonstrated in an interesting way this season on the farm of J. H. Vanderburgh, near Jarvis, in Haldimand County. The demonstration was laid out and supervised by G. R. Snyder, fieldman of the Chemistry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

The plots were on a field scale, one-half acre each. The first received an application of 0-12-15 fertilizer, at the rate of 250 pounds per acre, and Chilean nitrate of soda at the rate of 130 pounds per acre, on April 17th. The fertilizer was drilled over the field. This plot yielded hay at the rate of 5.2 tons per acre, green weight.

The second plot received 0-12-15 (no nitrogen, 12 per cent phosphoric acid and 15 per cent potash) at the same rate, with no nitrate. The yield in green weight was 4.06 tons per acre, less by 1.14 tons than when the nitrate was added. A third plot received no fertilizer at all and yielded at the rate of 4 tons per acre.

Similar experiments on hay meadows carried out by the O.A.C. in different parts of the province during 1930, showed an average gain in yield of 2215 pounds (1.1 tons) per acre through the use of nitrate of soda in the spring, as a stimulus to growth.

APPLE INDUSTRY DECLARES WAR WITH ATLANTIC SHIPPING FIRMS

Fruit Growers Back Huge Combine By Chartering Own Steamers.

CLAIM RATES TOO HIGH.

By BERTON E. ROBINSON

(Special to the Examiner—Copyright 1930)

KENTVILLE, N.S., Nov. 29—War to the death with the North Atlantic shipping companies has been declared by apple shippers of Nova Scotia, and a new and vigorous offensive against the shipping companies has been recently announced by the United Fruit Companies of Nova Scotia, and Herbert Oyler, Ltd., two of the largest apple shippers in Nova Scotia.

The war commenced last year when W. H. Chase and Company, an independent apple firm, undertook to charter steamers themselves for transfer of their fruit to Europe. The experiment was rather dubiously regarded, particularly in the face of the strong combination of transportation companies commonly known as the North Atlantic Shipping Combine.

But the experiment graduated from the status of experiment and became an established thing when it was announced that W. H. Chase and Company would not only continue their sailings this year, but contemplated expansion of their programme. The proposed expansion came into being recently, when the company announced that they would conduct weekly sailings to Antwerp until the end of the shipping season.

This announcement brought the other two large companies into line, and since that, the United Fruit Companies have chartered steamers to carry their apples to Belgium. Close upon the heels of that statement came Herbert Oyler's announcement of chartering steamers. Almost immediately the British Columbia Fruit Company fell into line, thus depriving the North Atlantic Shipping Conference of at least four-fifths of the apples which they would otherwise have carried.

The outcome of the war is as yet in the balance. The opinion of fruit exporters, however, is that no matter what steps the Conference takes, a large part of the apple crop will be in the future sent to Europe on independent ships.

The immediate cause of the battle is the refusal of the Conference to lower their freight rates to Europe. These rates, which are considered excessive, are as follows: To the United Kingdom 90 cents, to Copenhagen $1.35, and to Antwerp, $1.00. These rates do not include freight to Halifax, from which port the Conference ships operate. As all independently shipped apples will go from Annapolis Valley ports, a considerable saving in rail freights as well as in ocean rates, is anticipated.

ROOF OF RINK COLLAPSES

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 28 (C.P.)—Under the weight of a huge quantity of snow which has fallen steadily since yesterday, a large section of the roof of the Milverton Skating Rink collapsed this morning. The rink is owned by the Milverton Amusement Company and the loss will be heavy.

Manchester Liners Will Carry Cattle

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Nov. 29—(C.P.)—The Manchester Liners, Ltd., operators of the Manchester boats which ply the year around between Manchester, England, and this port, will take shipments of cattle from Saint John this winter, according to Charles R. Mitchell, travelling freight agent from the office of R. D. Harling, Toronto, representative in Canada for the Manchester Ship Canal Company and Manchester Liners, Ltd. The first shipment will be carried on the Manchester Citizen now en route to this port.

Much Depression In Butter-Cheese Markets

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 29—In common with most other branches of business the butter and cheese trades of the United Kingdom underwent a period of severe trial during the past twelve months. The year started badly and conditions grew steadily worse, all sections of the industry being involved in heavy losses. At the end of the year, even after some recovery from the lowest point, the market value of butter was 20 per cent lower than at the beginning and the value of cheese was 15 per cent less, says a report sent to the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce by Harrison Watson, Trade commissioner, in London, Eng., for the Dominion.

A year ago butter and cheese stocks were normal and shipments were going into consumption as they arrived. To-day, the report continues, the quantity of these dairy products in cold storage in the United Kingdom is greater than at any other time since 1921. Imports of butter were only slightly higher than in the preceding year and arrivals of cheese were actually smaller.

"There is no doubt the world-wide collapse in prices of most commodities was solely responsible for the weakness," says Mr. Watson.

STORAGE EXTRAS SATISFY

Canada leads the world in the excellence of quality in eggs assured by government inspection and grading under federal regulations which apply throughout the Dominion. At this season of the year when the price of "Fresh Extras" and "Fresh Firsts" soars upward the same satisfying excellence in quality is available to the housewife in the "Storage extra." When placed in storage these eggs are carefully graded for quality, and being kept at a constant temperature and under atmospheric conditions designed to conserve quality and flavor they come to the consumer with all their fine qualities essentially unchanged. "Storage Extras" are proving particularly popular with patrons of the chain stores which make quality a specialty.—By Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

New Federal Minister Advocates Better Seed

Cost is Trivial But Results Are Great Says Hon. Robert Weir.

"No person can afford to use poor seed," stated Honourable Robert Weir, the new Federal Minister of Agriculture, at the banquet concluding the International Plowing Match at Stratford recently. Mr. Weir pointed out, in speaking about problems of agriculture during this time of low prices, that the difference between the use of poor seed and good seed only amounted to around fifty cents an acre, whereas the results were vastly greater.

"It costs no more to make a good seed bed than a poor one," he stated, but he also advised against sowing good seed on dirty land. It was by the use of good seed and good stock, involving no more overhead than working with poor material, that the farmer could materially reduce the cost of production, and show some return on his labor even during the present state of depression in farming circles, the new Minister of Agriculture contended.

LATE APPLES BEST.

Apples to be kept for use during the winter months should be carefully selected for that purpose. Early maturing sorts like Wealthy and Gravenstein can hardly be kept past Christmas, so that later keeping varieties, like McIntosh, Northern Spy, Russet and Baldwin, should be selected for this purpose.

All bruised fruit, or scabby fruit, should be discarded and only perfectly sound specimens utilized. If these are wrapped in oiled tissue or in ordinary tissue paper, keeping is greatly facilitated. Storing in bushel boxes is preferable to large containers and these should be kept in a cellar where the temperature does not go much above 40 degrees F., and does not fall below freezing. The average cement cellar, with a heating plant, is not satisfactory for apple storage. The best type of cellar is an ordinary dirt floor cellar without any artificial heat. In such a cellar both temperature and moisture conditions are generally satisfactory for good keeping. In the event of a cement cellar being the only available place, it would be wise to cover the floor with several inches of sawdust, which should be kept well dampened down to provide the necessary humidity. Such a procedure, accompanied by wrapping and a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees F., should result in satisfactory storage conditions.

DO IT THE RIGHT WAY

The final stage in preparing poultry for market, killing and dressing, is most important. Be sure you do it the right way and get the full value for your birds. Just a little carelessness, a little indifference to proper bleeding and plucking, and the premium of one grade or more is lost. The discolouration which follows improper and insufficient bleeding, a tear in the skin from careless plucking, dirt or soil on the finished carcass, all lower the quality of the bird by at least one grade. For the present at least the most practical place for preparing finished poultry for market is on the farm. Before attempting to kill and dress poultry for market farmers will find it well worth while to get in touch with the nearest representative of their Provincial or Federal Department of Agriculture, through whom a demonstration in the proper method of killing and dressing poultry may be arranged.—By Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

CRATE FEEDING PAYS

Some very good reasons why crate feeding poultry pays are supplied by the Division of Poultry Husbandry of the Dominion Experimental Farms, among which are the following:—

Crate feeding pays because it produces the milkfed grades which bring the best prices.

The leading wholesale merchants are now buying poultry by government grades, with substantial differentials between each grade.

The premium assured for birds which grade "Milkfed" makes crate feeding well worth while.

All poultry intended for eating purposes should be properly finished before being marketed.

CHICAGO CATTLE SHOW ATTRACTS ONLY THE BEST

Multiple Exhibits of Rural Wealth Will Be Shown in Keeping With Thanksgiving.

THOUSANDS ATTEND FAIR.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (Special to Examiner)—America's huge congress of agriculture, the International Live Stock Exposition, will open its doors at the Chicago Stock Yards to-day.

In keeping with the Thanksgiving season, there will be multiple exhibits of rural wealth there. The best of the 1930 harvest, the choicest of the feed-lots of the land, the sprightliest of the stables of this country and Canada, the fleeciest of the flocks, the aristocracy of the pork families, the most select of the blue-blooded herds of the continent, will vie for the attention and admiration of the thousands from town and farm that will crowd the exposition halls during the first week of December.

Attracts Only Best

County shows, State Fairs, and regional expositions held earlier in the season serve as weeding processes from which only the best will be sent to this great continental clearing house of agriculture where ribbons of national and international significance are tied.

All that is outstanding in the rural world — human, animal and vegetable, will be gathered here. Prize herds and flocks and the men who fashioned them, field crops of rare perfection and the men who grew them will commingle in this far-famed event. The partnership of man and Nature and the close comradeship and affection between young boys and their prize charges are inspiring.

To the man, woman, or child from the farm the International sets goals for greater attainments. To the man, woman, or child from the city it is fascinating, informing, entertaining. The exposition has grown to be the contact point of the continent for those who breed and those who feed; for those who sell and those who buy; and for all that great and varied number of stockmen, shippers, grain farmers, commission men, packers, breeders, journalists and city and town laymen who meet here each year. It is a melting pot brimming with everything rural.

Heide Voices Welcome

Secretary-manager B. H. Heide of the exposition issues a final welcome to the people of the country at large to attend the 31st anniversary celebration of America's premier live-stock show, November 29 to December 6. All railroads will offer special reduced fares at this time, he says.

THE CLOVER AND GRASS SEED MARKET

Dullness in this market continues owing mainly to lack of export demand for alsike and alfalfa and the low prices of imported red clover. The movement of these seeds from wholesalers to dealers will not commence for some time and until then the demand may not improve.

Ontario seedsmen are buying seed in the rough, cleaning and storing for future trade. With the exception of alsike the quantity moved from growers to the trade is not believed to be as large at this time as in some other years owing to the comparatively low prices which the trade is able to offer.

Substantial quantities of alsike are still in growers' hands in the localities of Tilbury, Shelbourne district, King City, Schomberg, Cookstown, Ivy and Barrie, also in the counties of Lambton, North Kent, Grey and Bruce. While some twenty cars have been exported to Great Britain, the export movement has been comparatively small this year. The eight cents per pound duty against Canadian alsike entering the United States is preventing free movement of our seed there except at very low prices to our growers. The trade is now paying growers from $4 to $7 per bushel according to quality, about $5 being the prevailing price. Some 90 per cent of the total alsike production in old Ontario is believed to have moved from growers to the trade. The total crop was estimated at from 50,000 to 60,000 bushels.

Ontario alfalfa is bringing the grower about $9 to $11 per bushel and is moving slowly at these prices. The trade points out that even at these prices the export demand in the United States is practically nil owing to the additional eight cents per pound duty which must be added to the cost of importing into that country. Alfalfa seed was grown generally over the province this year and relatively large quantities are believed to be in growers' hands, particularly in the London and Harriston districts

The Ontario crop of red clover seed is much smaller than a year ago and the small quantity now moving from growers is bringing about $10 to $11 per bushel. European red clover seed is said to be offered very cheaply this year, which fact has the effect of retarding prices of the home grown product, even though the latter has been proven more suitable for Canadian use.

Best in Past Four Years.

The alsike crop in the Kenora district of northwestern Ontario is expected to be the best in the last four years, yielding about six bushels per acre of seed of good colour. At Lavallee, red clover and alsike will yield about the same as last year, while the crop of alfalfa seed is double that of any previous year. About two carloads of this seed of good quality should be available at this place in the course of the winter.

Sweet clover seed production in the province is believed to be larger than was estimated a month ago, plentiful supply coming forward resulting in a drop in prices to growers to about $2 per bushel for the best quality seed. An estimated production of 11,000 to 12,000 sacks of blue grass is reported in western Ontario, for which growers are being paid from 8 cents to 10 cents per pound.

The production of red clover seed in Quebec is expected to be double that of 1929, when about 500 bushels were produced. This seed is located in the counties of Chateauguay, Chambly, Iberville, Vaudreuil, and Bagot.

Timothy seed in the Jolitete district was a fair crop and the total production will be about the same as last year.

Brome and sweet clover seed is moving slowly in Manitoba, the growers being paid about 8 cents for brome, basis No. 1 grade, and 5 cents for sweet clover. The total production of these seeds is thought to be greater than last year in Manitoba.

Sweet clover, brome and western rye grass seed crops were about equal to the light crops in 1929, owing to the continuous drought in the southern and central portion of the province during the year. Grrwers are receiving basis clean seed, Brome, certified No. 1, 13 cents, ordinary No. 1, 10 cents, No. 2, 8 to 9 cents; Western Rye Grass, No. 1, 6 yo 8 cents, No. 2, 5 to 7 cents; Sweet clover, No. 1, 6 to 7 cents, No. 2, 5 cents.

The production of alfalfa seed in southern Alberta, particularly in the Brooks district, is estimated at about one-half million pounds, and is being offered by growers there at $13 per bushel for No. 1 registered Grimm and $13.20 per bushel for ordinary No. 1 Grimm. About 450,000 pounds of timothy seed is believed to have been produced in the province during the year, mostly in the Pincher Creek district. This seed is being offered at from 7 cents to 9 cents per pound according to grade.

When the five senses went to market

SEEING, tasting, touching, smelling, hearing. All of the five senses needed to be alert when your grandmother went to do her shopping. She poked at this, tasted that, lifted covers and sniffed, asked many questions of the harassed clerk behind the counter. She had to do it that way. For the most part, goods were not standard; there were few well-known names in merchandise—few names to invite confidence and trust.

Now the sense of sight plays the important role. You see a brand name on a package — a name you know — a name which immediately gives you confidence. You don't need to touch, taste or smell the contents. It's an old friend; you know it's always the same, wherever and whenever you buy it. It's an advertised product!

Remember that consistently advertised goods must be worthy, or they couldn't be consistently advertised. Take advantage of the modern way of shopping. Read the advertisements regularly. Learn how pleasant it is — how much time and trouble you save—to be able to buy on sight alone, with your mind all made up before you start.

The minutes you spend reading the advertisements are much more than made up by the minutes and steps you save in the regular routine of shopping

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright.
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass.
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal.
The good of all mankind.

AT MILLBROOK

The secretary who was addressing an Institute gathering in eastern Ontario was large sinning and capable, and her words were listened to with close attention for this was a new branch, recently organized and the members felt they had many things to learn.

At present, there had been a discussion at the morning session regarding details of management and plans of work with instruction for the officers in their several duties, the visiting official had turned to another topic and was speaking on "Health Diet." "Eat lettuce for looks" she said "you younger members, girls still in your teens I am sure the matter of good looks and rosy cheeks appeals stronzly to you. Lettuce leaves are cooling to the blood, and cleansing to the intestinal tract clog that, and you will lack clear skin and bright eyes. Eat a little lettuce each day, sprinkled with a few drops of olive oil if you will, and at least with a small quantity of lemon juice, and skin blemishes will be avoided."

Questions as to the best way of whitening the skin and leaving it soft and smooth brought a recipe for a lotion that other Institute members might like to try: "Scald one or more heads of lettuce with boiling water, letting it drip through the colender, or better still, let it stand for fifteen minutes then drain off the water; place the lettuce in an earthenware bowl and mash to pulp, afterward straining through cheesecloth. Place one ounce of white wax and one of spermacetti in a bowl, stand in boiling water, and let melt. Add four ounces of pure almond oil and mix thoroughly, adding last of all the lettuce juice, gradually, beating the mixture with a silver fork. Pour into small, wide-mouthed jars for use."

As a final thought the speaker mentioned that a good sleep inducer is the eating of lettuce at the evening meal, or just before going to bed.

A habit recommended to women connected with an organization devoted to community service, such as the Institute surely is, is that of reading the labels on the foods they buy. Not all women recognize that the law compels the manufacturer to distinctly state on the label the contents of the container: if the housewives insisted on reading the labels, adulterations and the use of poisonous ingredients would be done away with, and honesty would be promoted, for the good of the general health, yes, and morals of those responsible for the making of the foodsbuffs as well.

The importance of the mother's example was strongly stressed at a W.I. district convention not long since, the instance being cited of two little brothers recently taken to the Reform school for stealing. "They were but ten and twelve years of age," the speaker stated; "and I greatly fear what the future has in store for them. Yet if we look far enough into the background we find the mother taking her two boys to a picture show, leaving them there, and ordering them to wait until she came for them. In the meantime she was out at a bridge party, and knowing her husband sternly disapproved of her spending her afternoons in this way to the neglect of her children, she bade them tell him, at the tea hour, that she had taken them to see the picture show then in the town. "Deceit thus early inculcated led to other and worse sins, and the outcome, the juvenile court and the place of detention, was really the mother's fault, and to her was the punishment due.

"We cannot tell white lies, or black ones either, and expect to keep ourselves, or to teach our children, high ideas of honor. We've got to keep the 'block' true and fine if we want the 'chips' to be likewise. No mother can be selfish, flirtatious, untruthful, without her children seeing through her actions. Nature has a way of letting small folk see through their elders petty deceits, and of bringing to pass 'like seed, like harvest'."

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Reaching out and encouraging the young and extending a welcome to the stranger is the best preventative of a branch becoming a close corporation which is a certain backward movement.

All organizations must move with the times or their face will be that of utter failure.

The question is a kod. How long should I remain a member of the Women's Institute" and that might be answered by asking another question. "Are you of use in your branch are you a cog in the wheels of progress are you making yourself a real asset or not? If the latter remain a member as long as possible, but when or if the time comes when you are looking askance at new members, when you want only your own chosen cities as members, or when the fact that you don't like Miss Blank or don't admire Mrs. So and So, constitutes a barrier to their becoming members of your branch then most assuredly the time has come to end your connection with the branch.

The countless responsibilities which come as we grow older, often bring with them good reasons why women are unable to keep up their connection with the branches in an active manner, there are such claims as young children aged parents, invalids in the home, the pressing demands of business, ill health and heaps of others. Each year sees a few drops out for some of these or other perfectly legitimate reasons and because of this leakage in membership. We need to spare no effort to secure the younger people as members. New members bring new ideas and new blood into the organization and keep it from dropping backward. A leaven of old members is always a good thing as their rich experience often saves the branch from falling into the pitfalls into which incurled youthful enthusiasm might lead it.

Some branches are failing to keep up with the procession because the officers are not changed often enough to admit new blood to the executive which is usually responsible for the year's program. Consequently the program became stale and unattractive. There are many branches, too, where the older members are relegated to the workers ranks, while the young folk are care free to enjoy the social evenings with no thought of the preparation of the good time and no interest in the work of Washing up afterwards. The world rolls on and each year adds to the list of Institute members who are retiring from its activities, but who will remain faithful to the end, to the society in which many of them were inditiated.

There is a note of sadness in the passing on of those we have grown to know and esteem, but there is no standing still and we must keep up with the times if we desire to remain on the list of live organizations. Each year's army list sees a group old soldiers put on the retired list and also the record of enlistment of recruits who fill up the ranks and so it is with life, and ad as lifeso with the Women's Institute, welcome the new, encourage the young recruit make her feel responsibility in a measure for the success of the branch and encourage them to act as standard bearers holding high the torch, which has been flung to them but in turn let us pay a tribute to those who have lived and sewed, and who, in throwing the torch to the younger members are making a sacrifice let us remember and honor those of the old brigade.

BELMONT.

The Social Life of Yesterday, paper given by Mrs. George Smith at Belmont Women's Institute meeting.

It is difficult for us to picture our country or any other country, and its people of yesterday, since that period belongs to our forefathers, but in this paper I shall go back two hundred years.

The population of England at that time was equal to that of London to-day, there were no large factories, no steamboats, no canals no railways, not even good roads. Coaches were coming into use, but people of quality usually travelled in sedan chairs. Wool was extensively raised and made into cloth in the same valleys, where the sheep pastured. The hum of the spinning wheel, and the clack of the shuttle, made music in the cottage. Stockings were becoming common. Some iron was smelted, but only by charcoal and this took so much wood that it was very expensive. Coarse pottery was becoming common, but peasants still ate off wooden trenchers. Fine porcelain was brought from Holland for the healthy classes.

The peasants lived in miserable hovels with mud floors, and thatched roofs. They received less than one shilling a day, and in summer worked from five in the morning, until seven thirty in the evening, with only two hours off for meals. They had few comforts, wore coarse homespun clothes, ate little bread, never tasted tea or coffee, and had meat, perhaps only twice a week. They were ignorant and often vicious, there pleasures were coarse but hearty, Country Fairs, dances, wrestling and grinning matches, and foot racing.

The middle classes, chiefly farmers, tradesmen, and owners of small manufacturers, lived in rude plenty. Their homes were comfortable, even luxurious.

Of the upper classes a fine beau of the day may be taken as a good type. From ten o'clock until one, he received callers in bed, wearing a powdered wig, and taking a pinch of snuff, or whiffs from a smelling bottle. By three o'clock he was dressed, had perfumed his clothes, and perhaps tinted his cheeks. He now dipped his handkerchief in rose water, carefully tied his cravat, cocked his hat upon his head, and sallied out in his chair to a coffee house, there to listen to the latest gossip of the court and street.

They had not yet become common, but coffee and chocolate, were popular drinks, and houses where they were sold, became the favorite meeting places for all classes of people. Newspapers, were as yet few, and gave very little news. The coffee houses were centres of gossip and conversation.

CAVAN.

In years to come when famous Canadian women, and women who have done much for their country, are spoken of, the women's Institute will be numbered among them.

More and more they are being recognized by statesmen and women of note, belonging to city organizations, as a powerful influence for good in rural districts.

At a Womens Institute Convention held in Toronto, Mrs. R. G. Smythe, president of the Provincial Council of Women, Toronto, in delivering the address of welcome had many good things to say to them, and of them.

She enumerated many things the Institute had done in the way of improving conditions in their own neighborhoods, in Community Halls, in better housekeeping, and in assistance to the needy; but she said there was something they had done, that stands out like a beacon light, towering and flaming above every other work. They have helped women to discover themselves. They are discovering and assisting to perfect the talents found in every Branch of the organization.

Some women have the gift of research, which is an interesting treasure; some have the gift of writing a good paper; a great gift some have the faculty of speaking easily and fluently; some are good housekeepers; some have the gift of a beautiful home; some have humour, a very valuable gift in a women's meeting, some have the gift of harmony invaluable in either a man's or a woman's meeting; some have that rare thing called Common Sense.

The big message which she wished to leave with the Institutes was to find the talents, either dormant or otherwise; in our branch, and then lend a hand to develope them.

She said that whenever she felt particularly elated or slightly depressed over women's work in general, that there was one chapter in the Bible that never failed to give comfort and inspiration, and to spur her on to fresh activity. It was written by a wise man; a man who had more experience with woman and her needs and desires than perhaps any other man, who left a record behind.

In the last chapter of Proverbs, Solomon gives a striking picture of his ideal woman.

Mrs. Smyth said she had no doubt that many a mother was sitting in front of her whose children will rise up and say with price 'Mother helped to build that Community Hall," or mother helped to put that family on their feet."

Now when the Institute has gained such a place of honour, it is up to you and me, each individual member, to do our utmost to uphold the dignity and the unity of this worthwhile organization.

The glory in living is to give our time, talents and means.

"What we give we keep,
What we plant we reap."

OVERWORK OR WORRY

Taxes the Health of Thousands of Young Girls.

In the "teen-age" years when school or office work is exacting and outside activities use up so much energy, many girls undermine their health and spoil their happiness for years to come.

At such a time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found most valuable. They purify and enrich the blood; build up the nerve cells and correct run-down conditions. Concerning them Miss Margaret Torrey, Indian Road, Toronto, Ont., says: "When I was attending high school I suffered a complete breakdown. My heart would palpitate at the least exertion; I could not sleep and nothing I ate agreed with me. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and before long I gained in weight and every distressing symptom left me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FASHION SERVICE

It goes without saying, that a rich luxurious feeling usually accompanies the black velvet frock with lace trim.

And isn't this one fascinating?

The cape takes the place of sleeves. However, if long sleeves are preferred, you may have them as seen in the small back view.

It's so voguish for afternoons and Sunday night occasions.

Low placed circular godets give the skirt a charmingly youthful swinging movement. A panel at the front lengthens the figure.

Style No. 2831 may be had in sizes 14 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 30 inches bust.

This little rig is stunning too in forest green canton crepe with eggshell vest, and is thoroughly wearable.

Plain and patterned wool crepe, marocain crepe and triple georgette crepe are particularly likable materials.

Everybody hates that expression

He murmured: "Oh, Pardon Me" ...a hundred times a day . . . . .

It was embarrassing to his friends—doubly so to him. No matter what he ate, it caused gas and distress. He was nervous, irritable and rapidly losing weight. He couldn't sleep. So-called "quick reliefs" had no effect. A friend suggested Tanlac. In a few days the previous condition left him. His nerves relaxed. And now he is completely well—sleeps like a boy.

If you suffer with gas discomfort, pains in stomach, and are rundown from stomach disorders, why don't you try Tanlac? It is good, pure medicine—made of roots, barks and herbs—nature's own remedies for the sick. Tanlac costs less than 2c. a dose; and your money will be refunded if it does not help you. C.G.I.T. SECRETARY STRESSES THE MATTER OF "BUDGETING"

Smaller Attendance at Regular Meeting of Millbrook Society.

LEAGUE ENTERTAINED.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—The weekly meeting of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. groups held on Wednesday evening, at the leader's home, the attendance of thirteen members being smaller than usual owing to a number of other events this week at which it has been necessary for the girls to be present, and with school duties, 'every night out' is naturally frowned upon by their parents.

The president, Miss Marian O'Brian, was in the chair, and reported one member, Miss Eva Howson, who has been ill for some months and whom the girls have remembered with a simple gift each week to help lighten the shut-in hours, as now able to be downstairs, and on the way to complete recovery.

A letter from the general secretary of C.G.I.T. work for Ontario, Miss Jessie McPherson, was read by the leader, the matter of 'budgeting' being stressed, in order to be quite up-to-date in all C.G.I.T. work. The local organization will try out this method of managing its finances for 1931.

Annual Concert

The annual entertainment which the group intended presenting on Hallowe'en night, and which was unavoidably postponed will now me left over until after the New Year, and the proposal that the girls sponsor a tea, with musical program, as soon as a date can be conveniently arranged for, received endorsation.

On motion, it was decided that the group will sing Christmas carols again this year, visiting a number of the shut-in, and older people of the community on Christmas Eve, and rendering them this service. The initial venture along this line was made last year, and won for the girls much favorable comment for their visits.

Two new members, Bonna Clarke and Marjorie Vance, were received on Wednesday evening, and the president reported others as ready to join in the near future. Teen age girls are welcomed, providing they have reached their thirteenth birthday, or will do so within a few weeks' time.

The scripture lesson was read alternately in the worship period, and the prayer session was followed by a talk on the verse which all C.G.I.T. members repeat at each meeting, and by which their lives are to be controlled and enriched: "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." John 10,10.

League Entertained

The Women's League of Grace Church was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. William McKnight, Seventh Line, Cavan, on Thursday afternoon, Miss Ethel McKnight and her sister, Mrs. Ernest Armstrong, assisting their mother in receiving the numerous guests.

A business session, with the president, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, in the chair, took up a considerable part of the time, and members employing themselves busily with their needles on various pieces of work designed to be sold on Saturday, December 6, at the annual sale by the League, while the matters requiring attention came up for discussion.

Later the guests gathered about the daintily-laid tea tables, centred with flowers, and with golden candles burning in silver holders, Miss McKnight, Mrs. Armstrong, and the latter's two daughters, Misses Mary and Dorothy, having the service of the delicious meal in their charge.

Music and social converse filled in the time happily while the meal was in progress, and for a short time afterward, the hearty thanks of the guests being extended to the hostesses.

DOWNEYVILLE

The shortage of water is felt in this locality and herds of cattle are being driven to the different creek's for water.

RADIO PROGRAM

C.N.R. PROGRAM.

"I am going too soon," said the Composer Herold, on his deathbed: "I was just beginning to understand the stage." All his life, which was not very long, after all, for he died in his early forties, Herold had been ambitious to do something big in music, and although his operas are not well-known to-day, he did achieve some eminence to crown his drudgery. It has been said that he might have left behind him a name bright for symphony, but his taste ran to the operatic stage.

Louis Joseph Ferdinald Herold was born at Paris in 1791, the only son of a pianist of attainment, and he was attracted to music in his childhood. In time, he became pianist for Queen Caroline at Naples and at her Court he led a happy life and wrote his first opera.

Probably his greatest success, and certainly the best known of his compositions to-day, was "Zampa," which was produced a few years before his death.

The overture to "Zampa" will open The Canadian National Railways' All-Canada Symphony Hour, Sunday afternoon, November 30th, when the Toronto Symphony Orchestra will play also parts three and four from Guiraud's Second Suite. Guiraud, who was born at New Orleans and died in Paris, wrote two orchestral suites, as well as a number of operas and other works. The soloist will be Findlay Campbell, Canadian baritone.

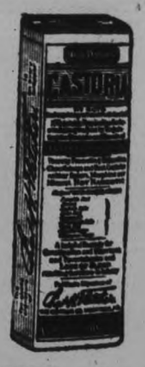
SUNDAY EVENING

One of autumn's contributions is the "Sunday evening frock." This is a semi-formal dress, often of black crepe, velvet or lace, made with sweeping lines, rather picturesque but always with long sleeves.

FOR ANY CHILD



CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

T-R-C's TREMAINE'S RHEUMATIC CAPSULES

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It is a long time since comfort was stressed in decoration as it is today!

• • • • • • •

Before the term 'interior decoration' was stressed and necessity foremost, comfort was in it's supremacy—all household furnishings were most, comfort was in its supremacy—all household furnishings were comfort

• • • • • • •

It has not been so far back that many who are alive can remember the time when rooms must be decorative whether they were at the price of ease or not!

• • • • • • •

Much strict period decoration was far from comfortable to live in, since the luxuries of the period they represented could not include the modern conveniences and developments to make living easier.

• • • • • • •

The craze for super-sanitation eleminated many comfortable furnishings, putting in their place severe and hard fittings, and strange as it may seem that very influence is partly responsible for the return of some luxurious furnishings.

• • • • • • •

For instance, carpets were once banished and portable rugs that could be taken from rooms were the favorite floor coverings, because the dust raised when carpets were swept was undoubtedly unsanitary—the dust not only got into whatever remained in the room but it was breathed in also by the one who swept.

• • • • • • •

But with the modern vacuum cleaners carpets with their soft luxurious tread are again in style. They make floors warmer and ease the feet of the occupants.

• • • • • • •

They do not slip as rugs on bare floors do—and that's a consolation isn't it for no doubt you know what it is like to fall on a hardwood floor from slipping on a rug!

• • • • • • •

The return of footstools makes life more livable too—now that long dresses are coming into vogue, women find them graceful to use as foot rests and just as easy for tired feet as do men.

• • • • • • •

There is a long distance to go before the modern house in city, suburb or outlying districts can have freedom from noise that has so much to do with comfortable living.

• • • • • • •

There is an era of sound as well as mechanics and while the latter aids comfort, the former destroys, and for this reason we should do all we can to soften noises in our homes.

Trans-Atlantic Air Mail Service For U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A definite step toward inauguration of a Trans-Atlantic air mail service was taken by the post office department of the Government.

Bids will be opened at noon on December 29 in the office of Assistant Post-master General Glover for an air mail route from New York, by Norfolk, Va., or Charleston, South Carolina, and thence by Hamilton, Bermuda and the Azores or some other practicable route to a point in Europe to be designated by Postmaster General Brown.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

COLDS.

The question is naturally asked why colds are more common during the cold weather if colds are not due to the coldness of the air.

As a matter of fact, what are called "colds" may be due to a number of causes—overeating, undereating, exposure to dampness, exposure to cold, overwork, underwork and other causes.

Your family doctor will tell you that he finds colds amongst children who are not getting enough to eat, and in other children where too much has been eaten. Factory physicians report the same condition in adults.

In the case of lack of food the blood is not rich enough to ward off the organisms that attack the mucous membrane of nose, throat, and lining of bronchial tubes.

Overwork likewise weakens the resistance of the blood.

Where there has been overeating there is so much waste in the blood from the unnecessary food eaten, that again the blood is not able to fight off the organisms, and so the cold starts.

Now although simple colds cause more loss of time from employment than any other ailment, the serious thing to be considered is what may develop or follow from a simple cold.

Influenza, broncho pneumonia, pneumonia itself, may all develop from a simple cold, and that is why a cold should not be treated lightly — should never be neglected.

And the way to get ahead of a cold, to beat pneumonia or other serious condition, is to build up the natural resistance of the body.

There are two things to do and to do immediately. First, get rid of the wastes, the poisons, in the blood by a good purgative medicine—calomel, followed by epsom salts, castor oil, snd sometimes the use of enemas. Second, give the body, particularly the heart, as much rest as possible by getting right to bed.

As a matter of fact, it will be your heart that will fight off the ailment, it will be your heart that you must depend on to save your life if pneumonia sets in. And lying down cuts its work down tremendously.

What about food?

Strength must be maintained, and while the stomach and intestines must not be given much work for a couple of days, real good foods, concentrated foods—meat juices, eggs, milk—should be given.

Don't neglect a cold. Get off your feet at once; get intestine clear — eat lightly.

IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Cabotte, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ART SHOWN AT CONSERVATORY HIGHLY PRAISED

Scenes of Peterborough Play Prominent Part in Exhibits Entered.

DIVERSITY OF TALENT.

Exhibit is Being Held Under Auspices of the Women's Art Association.

Peterborough had a large place in the exhibit of work by members of the Guild of Arts and Crafts of the Lyceum Women's Art Association, which opened yesterday afternoon in the studios at the Conservatory of Music, and continued to-day. Peterborough streets and bits of its district scenic beauty were in the pretty little oil and water color sketches by Miss F. Hatton, with one exceptionally good bit in the view of George Street from the Stewart Street hill, and in the gay water color sketches of Park Street, Bonacord Street, and Monaghan Road, also the water-color portrait sketches of local people, done by Miss Mamie McCarthy, while Armour Hill with the sun up was pictured in quaint and likeable style in Mrs. N. H. Sutton's hooked rug; the Normal School had a place in one of Mrs. T. Cruikshank's oil sketches; and there was a distinct novelty in a wax crayon pictorial map of Peterborough district in the year 1840, the work of Miss Grace Reinhardt.

The exhibit, which was in charge of the convenor of the Guild, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, was exceptionally good this year, with a diversity of fine pieces of handicraft that ranged all the way from tiny boudoir ornaments to a large wall panel in batik. Mrs. J. E. R. Munro was the creator of the last-named piece, a very interesting example of this difficult work.

This exhibit, which is an annual event in the life of the Guild of Arts and Crafts, grows better each year, and this season's showing is extremely creditable to the members themselves and to the interest taken by the energetic convenor, Mrs. Sutton, who spared no trouble in seeing that each member was represented in some way.

The diversity of talent is glimpsed by a list of the articles shown: Fine needlework in laces, embroideries, needlepoint, hooked, and crocheted rugs and quaint little silhouettes worked by hand by Mrs. H. E. Connelly and framed under glass; oil and water-color sketches and dainty Christmas cards; drypoint etchings, painted china, lamp shades and flower pots; a very interesting exhibit by Miss Jean Harstone, of wood cuts and also a portfolio holding Miss Harstone's drawings for interior decorative work and interior floor plans; tied and dyed work of many shapes, with a particularly fetching coolie coat done by Mrs. C. Saunders; painted bridge table covers and accessories; oilcloth bags with large ornamental flowers in the same interesting black and white material; hooked and crocheted chair seats: a brilliantly colored wool afghan; pottery, wood carvings, batik purses, a cross-stitch worked rug in a new effect, done by Mrs. W. A. Conner, and fetching little pen and ink silhouettes by Miss Mamie McCarthy, with dainty ladies and gentlemen having a "dish of tea" in "tea for two"; also water-color portraits of local people.

Ladies Exhibiting.

Space forbids enumeration of every pretty thing, but the list of exhibitors included the following: Mrs. T. Cruikshank (oil sketches); Miss A. L. Going (dry-point etchings and water-color sketches); Mrs. N. H. Sutton (hooked rugs and wool afghan); Miss Cameron Edwards (water color sketches and pottery); Mrs. W. Blackwell (crocheted rug); Mrs. E. G. Hiland (needlepoint done in antique style); Miss Jean Harstone (woodcuts, drawings of decorative designs and a pair of Louis XV. carved shelf brackets); Mrs. R. F. Sedgewick (hooked rug); Mrs. C. Saunders (tied and dyed work); Mrs. N. C. Staples (painted bridge novelties, needlepoint and painted trays); Mrs. F. Hooper (painted novelties and lamp-shades, with one especially pretty thing in handkerchief linen with design in conventionalized Elizabethan galleons); Mrs. B. L. Barns (painted china, batik purses and hooked and crocheted chair seats); Miss Mamie McCarthy (painted Christmas cards, water-color portrait sketches of Miss Vera Hiland and Miss Violet Davidson, water-color local sketches and pen and ink silhouettes); Mrs. H. E. Connelly (needlework silhouettes); Madam Sifroy Goulet (water-color painting, china, and cutwork embroideries); Miss L. Elliott (oil sketches); Mrs. J. E. R. Munro (batik wall panel, lamp shades, wood carving, novelty bags, and Christmas cards); Miss Grace Reinhardt (wax crayon pictorial map of Peterborough); Miss F. Hatton (water-color sketches); Mrs. J. H. Seels (oilcloth bags); Mrs. W. A. Conner (cross-stitch rug).

Loaned pieces were those of Mrs. S. D. Carver, exhibiting some very pretty point lace and a dainty orange crepe-paper bed-cushion fashioned of many petals, and Mrs. W. B. Bletcher, who loaned lamps for the exhibit.

An interesting demonstration of the method of doing wood-block printing was in charge on both days of Miss Esther Devell.

Afternoon tea was served yesterday and to-day.

RELATION OF ORANGE ORDER TO CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

Col. A. W. Grey, Grand Master of Eastern Ontario, is Guest of Honor at Orange Banquet.

PATRIOTIC SPIRIT OF ORDER.

The relation of the Orange Order to the British Empire and Canada and the manner in which the former helped the latter were the two points stressed in the speeches following the banquet in the Orangemen's Hall last evening.

Mr. Earnest F. Reid, Past Grand Master, called the members to order and introduced the guest of the evening, Col. A. W. Grey, Grand Master of Eastern Ontario, who came here from Brockville. Mr. Reid then called upon His Worship Mayor Denne to propose the toast to the King.

Mr. Denne said that this was one of the hardest years in the history of Canada, but that Peterborough was coming through the period of depression better than any other city in Canada, but that Peterborough was coming through the period of deuression better than any other city in Canada. However, the farmers were hit the hardest—their buying power was cut off. There was great hope for better things in the Spring; Bennett would be back to give added protection to our markets. Then the sick problem is a great one indeed; there is urgent need of the building of a new Protestant hospital. The Nicholl's Hospital officers are at present asking the Ontario Legislature for four citizens (some of them aldermen) to be on the Board. Everyone must help to push forward Peterborough, Canada and the Empire.

In replying to the toast to the King Aderman Cotton stated that this was his first time to this Lodge because he was in three others (The Mayor—"So am I"). There is now a great difficulty in keeping Peterborough on the map, declared the alderman. He then invited everyone to come to the Council meetings and "put their feet under the table with them." Mr. Cotton then excused himself and the Mayor as they were then due at a meeting.

Union of Canada and Empire

Lt. Col. C. F. Ackerman in proposing a toast to Canada and the Empire stressed the need of great knowledge of these two factors today. To lose the influence of the Empire would mean Canada's inability to cope with the condition of the world to-day. Canada is closely attached to the Mother Country; Bennett presented plans at the Imperial Conference, and the result will be Great Britain's taking more interest in and making more visits to the dominions. We must keep up the traditions of the Anglo-Saxon race; the lessons of the War must not be lost in the rush of to-day. And this tradition is kept in orders like that of the Orangemen.

In reply, E. A. Peck, M.P., based his speech on much the same idea as Col. Ackerman. We must be thankful for this great land given us by Great Britain; it is really too large for only ten millions of people. However, there are rich possibilities of mineral and waterpower development, etc. Westerly, the country has been opened by a network of railways; northerly, by airways which resulted in prospectors and settlements. We are not citizens of Canada alone, but of the Empire also. We are striving to keep the Empire together, and yet gain the individuality of each part. There are questions yet to be answered: How can a naturalized Canadian be an Australian, or a subject of any other part of the Empire? Can Canada make treaties? The independence of each part of the Empire must be proportional to the ties binding us to it. There is every commodity we need produced in the British Empire and yet imports from foreign countries surpass those from the Empire. Thus there is a further need of unity.

Mr. Walter Binks then sang "In the Garden of my Heart" and "My Jean" with Col. Ackerman at the piano.

Resources of Ontario

Mr. W. J. Hancock was then called upon to propose the toast to "Our Province." Mr. J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., in reply, stated that we are enjoying comforts and our surroundings due to the resources of the Province, and the ways in which these resources are made use of. However Ontario is losing one of her greatest assests; Prime Minister Ferguson was announced last evening to be Canada's new High Commissioner. Ontario's loss is the Empire's gain, for Mr. Ferguson is peculiarly fitted to his new office. He being a member of the Orange Order is thereby bringing credit to the organization; Ontario shall be proud of him in the future as she has been in the past.

Mr. Henry then rendered another vocal selection "My Ain Wee House" and gave a recitation.

To the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East" was the next toast given by Col. J. W. Miller. Our sons, said Col. Miller, sprang to Britain's call to arms; they fought like men—like their forefathers. The only requiem over their graves was the bursting of shells, yet all were in God's hands. Then these boys ask the question: We paid the sacrifice—what are you doing to make the world a better place? The Orange Order is the greatest unit in Canada; many men have given their lives. The Lodge is one of the many units that make up the whole.

Importance of the Lodge

Col. A. W. Grey responded heartily to this toast. The Colonel remembered when Mr. Ferguson as a young man, came to the Lodge to receive his first Orangeman's degree from him. He claimed that the Order is just as active to-day as it was when he joined it forty years ago. The Lodge had started in England but there was an Act on political bodies then. The Order came to Canada through Montreal and Quebec City. Soon there were 51 Lodges in Eastern Ontario with headquarters in Brockville. At that time Col. Grey's Lodge had one hundred members; to-day it has 250; and soon the membership will be increased to 330 In the later days of the Order a piece of land was bought in Brockville at a cost of $10,000 and a temple was built. Further progress of the society is noted in the fact that one thousand members are being initiated every month. Col. Grey next proceeded to define the Order as a "Protestant Patriotic Society organized for the civil and religious exercise of people regardless of class, color, or race". Church union of Protestant denominations is an aim of the society. And there are those British connections in the Order which will make citizens better men.

A vocal solo by Harold Farr followed.

Mr. J. H. Cunningham, Past County Master, then proposed the toast to County Peterborough Lodge. The P.C.M. stated that there were nine primary Lodges in the county, each of these as members of the Order wer subjects of the flag.

In reply, Mr. Frank Millard, County Master, said that the Orangemen gave great service in the War; that they gave splendid support to the County officers; and that more inter-county visits should be encouraged.

Claiming that the L.O.B.A. was the back-bone of the Orange Order, Mr. Larton gave the toast to the ladies, to which Miss Brown ably replied. She said that her Lodge had 115 members; that it was very glad to provide the banquet; and concluded by conveying the best wishes of Vimy Lodge.

Mr. E. F. Reid then called upon Col. Ackerman to play 'God Save the King."

Regina Roughriders To Challenge Eastern Winners

TIGERS SLIGHT FAVORITES TO WIN THE TITLE

Toronto East Enders Prepared For Eastern Final Tangle To-day.

REGULAR LINE-UPS.

Hope to Offset Tigers' Experience With Speed and Battling Spirit.

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — Hamilton Tigers and Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union monarchs, had decided they were fit and ready to play for the Canadian crown at Varsity stadium here this afternoon. Regina Roughriders, pride of the west, decided they will challenge for the honors after all.

Its been a case of "On agin, off agin Finnigan" with the westerners who have changed their minds three times within a fortnight. First deciding to come then announcing several stars could not make the trip and calling it off. Early this morning word was flashed to the east via the Canadian Press that the Rough Riders will challenge the winners of today's match and meet them in the east one week from today.

Accordingly the Beaches and Tigers must be content with calling their game the Eastern Canada final instead of Dominion final, as the westerners are full entitled to a crack at the football bauble, even though Tigers have already beaten them while touring the west in October.

At the eleventh hour the weatheman relented and indications point to fairly good football weather instead of icy blasts from the north and a frost-bound grid-iron as had been previously anticipated.

The change to milder weather will be welcomed by both teams and the fans and a much larger number of enthusiasts will no doubt favor the teams with their presence.

Latest reports from the rival camps indicate the competing twelves will be practically at full strength. The locals have suffered but one serious injury all season, that being to Ernie Growhurst, lineman. "Gear" Elford injured early in the season will be the lone absentee from the Tiger ranks who will field the strongest teams in months.

The Jungle Kings, naturally, are slight favorites to finish on the long end of the score. Their splendid record this season alone entitles them to this consideration. This afternoon's game will be their sixteenth match and though far from the fresh team which started the campaign, the Bengals retain enough scoring punch to be classed with the best, as their recent triumphs over Queen's University, intercollegiate titleholders and Toronto Argonauts, have proved.

Like the Tigers, Balmy Beach also have established a fine reputation, having come through the season undefeated. It must be admitted, however, their opposition has been interior to that encountered by the Hamiltonians.

1ST PETERBOROUGH TROOP

The weekly meeting of the troop was held this week on Wednesday instead of Friday. Considering the changed meeting day the turnout was surprisingly good.

The meeting commenced in the customary manner with the Assistant Scoutmaster in charge. The patrol inspection found the boys tidy and clean as usual.

The instruction period gave the boys time to drill on first and second class work, and gave an opportunity to the three recruits to finally brush up on their Tenderfoot work. At this time the Scoutmaster took first aid with the Bulldog patrol.

The recreational period included a game of "Buzz" and one of "Two Deep."

The camp-fire was particularly interesting. Jack Wemp told a very amusing story of going deer hunting and of bagging two rabbits. Alf. Alf. Pooley and Cliff Boate had anecdotes to relate, one of which accused one member of the troop of being Scotch and which offered as a proof that this member stood at a busy intersection on George street Saturday evening with a slice of bread waiting for a jam.

The seven boys in the troop who belong to the church choir, entertained very pleasingly with an impromptu chorus.

The patrol standing is as follows:

Bulldogs	138
Buffaloes	132½
Seals	130
Wolves	126¼

The boys are asked to especially note that next week the meeting will be on Friday as is usual.

Next meeting, Friday, Dec. 5.

ANDY BLAIR STAGES A COME-BACK

Andy Blair, Winnipeg's six-foot entry in the major hockey loop with the Toronto Leafs, got started on the wrong foot this season and it hasn't been until lately that he has been showing the old form that used to send the boys away from the arenas in the Calder loop raving about him. When Andy reported for training this year he had to first go into a huddle with the dentist and have some troublesome molars removed. The results were that when Mr. Dentist threw Andy for a considerable loss the big boy was the only man in camp that hadn't shown any signs of putting on weight. This was readily seen in the opening games and not only this but appeared to hold back the regular forward line of "Ace" Bailey and Harold Cotton form looking as good as they should have in action. Andy just didn't seem to show the finish or the ambition at centre ice that he did last year. In the last game the Leafs played in New York on November 20 Andy began to mix it up for the first time this year, but so did the Americans, with the results that the 'Peg lad was on the receiving end of the butt of a stick that very nearly started the teeth question again for even on the way to the Grand Central Station Andy was still rubbing the troublesome jaw. In the Ottawa game in Toronto about a week ago Andy was a stand-out for the game in his poke checking at centre ice. Once again the Toronto crowd howled with approval when he stole the puck away from the dashing Senators time and time again. With the results that all Connie Smythe worries about now is that the dentist has made a good job of Andy's ivories and there will be no more of these dentist acts.

LONG WINTER SAYS HUNTER

Vincent L. Harris States Denizens of Woods Laid Away Large Storage of Food.

DEER SCARCER.

Vincent L. Harris, captain of Eagle Lake Hunt Club, who has recently returned to this city along with his fellow club members, is of the opinion that there is a long cold winter ahead. He bases his predictions on the manifestations of the denizens of the woods, particularly the squirrels, who have laid up extra large stores of food. The rabbits, also, he states, have shed their little brown coats, in favour of snow white fur - Nature's method of affording them a natural camouflage to protect them from their enemies.

Mr. Harris, who was accompanied by Messrs. Fred Harris, Aaron Harris, Jim Freeburn, Bob Freeburn and Bob Armstrong, says that deer are getting scarcer each season owing to the depredations of the wolves. He is of the opinion that some steps should be taken to give the deer better protection, and thinks that an increased bounty would be worth considering. Many carcases of deer were found in the woods—deer that had been cornered and had fallen victims to the ferocious attacks of the wolves. Wolves were heard every night, Mr. Harris exclaimed, but we were not lucky enough to see one during two weeks in the backwoods. Fox were quite numerous but owing to the lack of snow were hard to follow.

Mr. Harris is an experienced hunter, and has stated his intention of going to Eagle Lake again after the first heavy fall of snow, and of laying a wolf or two.

The party returned with one small deer, and were fortunate in securing a nice variety of cranberries and fifty pounds of herrings.

RED WINGERS WIN BY DECISIVE COUNT

U. of T. Juniors Put Aurora Out of S. P. A. Hockey Series.

TORONTO, Nov. 29. —Two easy victories featured the S.P.A. junior doubleheader at the Arena Gardens last evening. Toronto Canoe Club defeating Oakville 14 to 3 in the first game and the U. of T. juniors scoring an 8-to-2 victory over Aurora in the second contest.

The Red Ringers were much too good for their Oakville opponents in the first encounter and the night's play was just a good workout for their team. They were contented to use the substitutes for the majority of the time in the last two periods after they had piled up a 6-to-1 lead in the first stanza. Even at that the substitutes had more class than their opponents and added to the already decisive margin.

FRY ELECTED HEAD

EMPIRE PARLEY IS SUBJECT OF VOTE OF CENSURE

Labor Party Supported By Liberals Wins on Division 299 to 234.

NOT HELP TRADE.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Not for many a day has the House of Commons been so aroused as when the Labor government was yesterday subjected to a heated onslaught by the Conservative party, led by their leader, Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, who moved censure of the administration "for failure to formulate any effective proposals for an extension of Empire trade, and to consider the offers made by the Dominions."

All the Liberals who participated in the division supported the government, who won the day by a vote of 299 to 234.

The use of the words "humbug" by Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, in referring to reciprocal preference proposals made at the Imperial Conference by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada, brought shouts of "shame" and "withdraw" from the opposition.

Mr. Thomas was saying it would have been the government's duty to accept any proposal which would help trade and relieve unemployment in Britain. He was interrupted with the query: "Why were not the Bennett proposals accepted?"

"For the simple reason that there never was sure humbug as this proposal" replied the Secretary for the Dominions.

Captain Peter MacDonald, Conservative, asked the secretary for the Dominions to explain what or whom he had called a "humbug" and why. Mr. Thomas replied it was obvious he had not meant any individual, he had said distinctly the proposals were humbug.

OTTAWA SHOWS LARGE DEFICIT

Formerly Supposed Surplus of $15,419—Now Deficit of $287,016.

ITEM UNACCOUNTED FOR.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 29—(C.P.)—Instead of finishing the year 1929 with a surplus of $15,419 as had been reported by the City Treasurer, Ottawa was actually "in the hole" $287,016, says a report to Board of Control by a firm of private accountants who have just completed a lengthy survey of municipal accounts. Improper charges to tax reserves and lack of reconciliation of accounts over a period of years is blamed for the condition.

The showing of a deficit where a surplus was believed to exist, is explained by the fact that certain items amounting to $302,435 had not been taken into account, says the report. One item of $124,352 is held to be the difference between taxes collectable and the amount really collected. Explanation for this is held to be a lack of centralized accounting. The auditors further declare that charges for local improvements have been charged to the tax reserve in place of having rightfuly been raised by the city in the years to which they were applicable.

OLYMPICS DRAW WITH LONDON

Penalty to Briden in Third Period Costly to Home Team.

FINAL SCORE 1-1.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 29.—Detroit Olympics and London Tecumsehs played to a one-all tie in an International Hockey League game before 3,500 spectators at the London Arena last night. London, with victory practically within their grasp, and but three remaining minutes to play, were handicapped when Archie Briden drew a penalty, and during his absence Gillie, left winger for the Olympics, scored on Newman's pass to tie the count. The overtime session failed to break the deadlock.

In the overtime session "Toots" Holway came close to breaking the deadlock when he fired a hard drive which Venne barely managed to save.

WINDSOR OUTSCORES SYRACUSE BY 5 TO 1

Stars Secure First Goal of Game But Are Outplayed Afterwards.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 29.—Windsor Bulldogs handed the Syracuse Stars one goal on a bad bit of defensive play in the opening minutes of the first period here tonight, and then went out to outspeed and outgeneral Percy Lesueuer's team for a handy 5 to 1 victory.

"Deed" Klein, recently acquired from the Boston Bruins, shoved that lone Syracuse tally past Benedict after the lanky Windsorite had hit the ice in making a save from Fred Brown. He didn't toss the puck far enough and his mates didn't clear, leaving Klein a clinch goal.

The Bulldogs made it 1 to 1 before the end of the first period, when Jack Arbour converted Robinson's pass in the very mouth of the net.

George Lever took a hand in the scoring in the second period, bagging Windsor's second goal on a pass from Duncan and feeding a pass to Robinson on which the latter made it 3 to 1.

Early in the last chapter Northcott tallied on King's perfect pass, and midway through Robinson collected his third point of the night, beating Gray with the assistance of Phillips.

Robinson, who scored five goals in Windsor's games at Pittsburg and Cleveland earlier in the week, was again the star last night with his two goals and one assist. Northcott, Lever and Phillips were also very prominent.

WALKER KNOCKS OUT CHRISTNER QUICKLY

Akron Heavyweight is Knocked From Ring in First Round.

CHICAGO, Ills., Nov. 29. —(CP)— Mickey Walker, making his second invasion in the heavyweight ranks, scored a technical knockout over "K. O." Christner, the Akron, Ohio, rubberman, in the first round of their bout at the coliseum last night that had a decidedly peculiar ending.

After thirty eight seconds of boxing, in which Christner was knocked down for a count of three, with a left hook to the jaw, Christner suddenly took another left hook on the chin and dove right through the ropes landing in the laps of the spectators. The Akron heavyweight rolled over on the press tables and then fell to the floor. He remained there while the timekeeper tolled off a count of twenty instead of the usual ten. Under the rules of the Illinois state Athletic Commission, a boxer knocked out of the ring is entitled to twenty seconds in which to return to the contest.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since my last the S.P.A. serious has come and gone, as far as our two jr. teams is concerned, both local outfits taking it on the chin by the same score this week, Galt ousting St. John's 4 to 2, while the figgers was the same the next nite when Stratford tossed the Petes jrs. out on their ear. Both teams done as well as could be expected. In both cases the Peterborough kids was up against teams what had had a chance to practice on artificial ice, and the extra bit of condition killed off any chances the lads mighta had of emerging into the 2nd round of the S.P.A. doings. Quite a few new faces is likely to be glimpsed by the home fans, if any, this season, both the Saints and the Petes tossing some recruits over the boards in Toronto this week.

Our football season ended last Sat., Mac, when the Delta tractors smashed through our P.C.I. kids for a 24 to 11 victory. It was a simple case of the bigger battalion winning the war. The home youngsters had more plays than the winners, far more speed and tackled better, but in the long run the bulk of the Hamilton team turned the trick. P.C.I. stopped their plunges with much success early in the fray, and the home lads' speed enabled them to set up a early lead, but as the battle went on the poundage of the young tanks from Hamilton gradually wore down the resistance. It was straight football with the Delta gang, who also tossed in a little fist work along the line, but didn't get no credit for none of the punches, owing to the fact that Referee De Gruchy was admiring the Quaker Oats mill or the view down the river when the fists was operating. P.C.I. has had a great season, and they got the satisfaction of knowing they finished fighting to the last ditch.

The big battle this week, Mac, is Balmy Beach vs. the Tigers, and while I been calling them jungle cats all the way round the track, I gotta hunch mebbe Balmy Beach will make it a close call. It's a tussle between a team what has had too much football and another what hasn't had enough—and on a frozen field the fresher outfit may have the edge. Well, you'll know all about it anyway before this gets into print.

The Maple Leaves run into a unexpected bump at Philadelphia the other nite, Mac. After running through five games without a score being hung up on them, Mister Smythe's boys was expected to just naturally mop up the former Pittsburgers. However, when the smoke lifted Mister Benny Leonard's play boys was in front 2 to 1. Well, you can't expect to win them all, and if the Leaves hadda lose they isn't nobody needs a victory much worse than Philadelphia.

Well, Mac, in case you ain't been reminded yet, dig down in the old sock and do your Christmas shopping early. I'll leave you to think it over.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

The heavy hitters in the City League dished up some clever bowling in this week's battles and the results indicate that five out of the ten teams will battle it out for the first half.

By virtue of an exceptionally lucky win over the Brintons, the Big Five are in a tie for first place with the Rangers. The winners garnered four points without topping the 1,000 mark in any single game, and this, comparatively speaking was very unusual for this league. Cummings chalked up two singles of 228 and 258 for the winners, while Anderson crumpled 669 pins for the high triple on the losing team.

The lusty arm of Vince O'Connell accounted for the nicest bowling of the night when he battered the pins for a triple of 843, making 272, 263 and 308. This clever mark paved the way for a 4-point victory for the Lucky Strikes over the Westclox. Weese and Hickey were also breezing along in top form for the winners both going over the 600 mark in triples. The Westclox were distinctly outclassed in this struggle despite the fact that they had 7 out of 15 games over 200.

A noisy gallery of rabid bowling fans watched the Examiner crew split a 2—2 decision with the Bowlrites, who stand third in the league. The Printers won the first tussle by 6 pins and total pinnage in the third when they were forced to bowl a dummy. Scates, for the Printers, notched the pine for a total of 337 pins in one game, which was high for the night. For the Bowlrites, Galbraith and Sweetman provided the feature work, scoring 265, 265, 211, and 204, 233 respectively.

The Rangers clamped down on the Belmonts to cop a lopsided victory, almost every player on the winning side securing an outstanding score. W. McGee and Fred Jones ran a close race for high three, the former running out with 764, two pins ahead of his opponent. Joe Marsden was next in line with 754, which included a 330 single. Holyman collected the highest total for the clubmen making 669.

The Canadians gained 3 points in their mix-up with the Cogs, who were going nice. Nels Routley led the parade with 749, while careful gunning by H. Delahaye and Freeman resulted in triples of 685 and 686. Bill Prest's score of 727 was high for the Southenders.

The Ladies' City League got away to a brisk start on Thursday night when four teams tangled in a classy display of bowling.

The Columbians had things pretty much their own way in the games against the Nashua, winning two and losing the third by only 3 pins. L. Campbell set up a single of 306 for the winners, which will probably stand for the season as a record in the league while her team-mates scored as follows: B. Coursey, 221; D. Prest, 196; E. Drury, 217, 242, 164.

The Quakers disposed of the West Ends in a thorough manner, winning four points to take first place in the league. A. Dixon with 212, 245 and J. Northey with 199, 198 were high for the winners. T. Pearson's single of 233 was high for the West Ends.

BELLEVILLE "Y" 'CAGE QUINTET HERE TO-NIGHT

Squads From Local Associations Will Be Worthy Opponents.

FOR QUINTE TEAMS.

Belleville Intermediates Winners Over Toronto "Y" in Early Season.

Those in the city looking for an evening's entertainment could do nothing better than drop up at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock this evening and see the Belleville-Peterborough basketball games. Belleville is sending up two strong quintets, girls and boys, and Doug. Loomis and Miss Littlefield have selected two smart teams to oppose them. Plenty of action and keen cage competition should be supplied in these two peppy games.

The Belleville team, which represents that city in the Intermediate Ontario Basketball Association, have already shown their strength by defeating a Toronto "Y" team. The best basketball players in the city will oppose them.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF ALTAR BOYS

Delicious Repast Partaken of in Basement of Sacred Heart Church.

The annual banquet of the altar boys of the Sacred Heart Church was an enjoyable event of Thursday evening in the parish hall. The boys' mothers, preparing a bountiful and delicious repast surpassed even the high standard of excellence set by them in former years. Miss Gertrude Bacon, in decorating the banquet hall, worked out a pleasing effect in white and yellow.

Guests of the boys for the evening included the Rev. J. B. Masterson and a trio of former altar boys, Joseph and Kenneth O'Toole and Joseph O'Connell.

During the evening five new altar boys, Vernon Heath, Vernon LaPlante, Tommy McCarthy, Clare Grady and Gordon Courneyea, were introduced and given an enthusiastic welcome.

After the banquet the boys presented a fine program of speeches and recitations under the chairmanship of Vincent Anglesey, who managed the affair with expert skill. The program included the following numbers: "The Round Table Conference" by John Cairns; "The Stayer" by Gerald Grady; "Just for Tomorrow" by Billy Grady; "Aviation" by Earl O'Toole; "The Proud Turkey", by Lornie Heath; "A Small Boy's Notion" by Harold Maloney; "One for Dad" by Eddie Ryan; "Transport and Customs" by Joseph Collins; "Holiday Time" by Dan Ryan; "The Colonial Boy" by Jack Collins; "Drafting" by Leo Masterson; "Ma and the Auto" by Leonard Goulah; "My Grandfather" by Joseph Ryan; "Manufacture of Puffed Rice" by Roy Bacon; "Angel Cake" by George Maloney; "Miss Foggarty's Cake" by Leo Pearson" and "A Boy's Remarks" by Jack Corkery.

A feature of the entertainment was a debate on the resolution: That Homework Should be Abolished." For the affirmative, Herb. Masterson, P. J. Anglesey and Burt Taylor argued with enthusiasm and for the negative, Gordon LaPlante, Murray Corkery and Gerard LaPlante spoke quite vigorously, but it was suspected that they would rather have been debating on the affirmative side also. The honored guest of the evening, the Rev. Dr. Masterson, declared the debate a draw, much to the dissatisfaction of the smaller boys.

A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, with Vincent Angelsey at the piano.

WINNIPEG ELECTS WEBB

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Winnipeg has re-elected Colonel Ralph H. Webb its Mayor for a fifth term. Opposed by Marcus Hyman, Independent Labor Party candidate, Mayor Webb received large majorities in nearly every part of the city, as voters went to the polls in numbers slightly less than a year ago.

FIVE TEAMS IN SENIOR "A"

199 Clubs Enter Applications to O.H.A. to Compete This Year.

MORE THAN FORMERLY.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Despite the inroads made by professional clubs on the youthful talent of the Province, hockey of the amateur brand, continues to prosper, if entries for membership in the Ontario Hockey Association can be taken as a criterion.

Altogether 199 clubs sent in application to compete in three series—Senior, Intermediate and Junior, which is five more than entered last season.

There are five teams in the Senior "A" Class—University of Toronto, Toronto Marlboros, Port Colborne, Hamilton and Kitchener. The first two clubs are in a group by themselves.

Eight teams comprise the Senior "B" section—Queen's University, Belleville, Kingston and Oshawa, form Group No. 1, while Woodstock, Chatham, Windsor and London constitute Group No. 2.

The Senior "B" Series was formulated last year for the purpose of giving players not quite up to the Senior standard and yet better than Intermediate, an opportunity to play in their own class.

JACK PRIMEAU CELEBRATES 12TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY AS LOCAL HABERDASHER FOR MEN

Operates Fashion Craft Shop on Hunter Street Formerly Owned By Laidlaw.

EXCLUSIVE CLIENTIELLE.

Earned Enviable Reputation Among Peterborough Business Men For Square Dealing.

Another milestone in a successful business career is reached to-day. Jack Primeau, genial proprietor of the Shop of Fashion-Craft, 140 Hunter Street, is celebrating the twelfth anniversary since he assumed complete control of the business formerly owned and operated by A. Laidlaw—a business which has steadily advanced ever in keeping with the times and fashions, and which to-day boasts an exclusive clientele of particular men of all ages.

Mr. Primeau's association with the business he now controls, commenced seventeen years ago, during which time he has earned an enviable reputation among Peterborough business men for square dealing, and for high quality merchandise and popular prices.

No radical alterations to structure or policy have marked the steady upward rise of this business, rather has it been a continuous, sure, and steady growth the result of strict adherence to a sound business program.

Attractive Line.

The premises themselves are of modern design. Back of the double-lighted show windows, always stocked with an attractive line of merchandise in the way of men's wear, is carried an equally attractive, but immense, stock of suits, overcoats, underwear, and all accessories, a line of goods not to be excelled in a day's march. At the moment a special anniversary sale is in progress, with stock marked down considerably lower than normal selling price. The sale affords a splendid opportunity of solving the Christmas gift problem.

Mr. Gehler of Montreal, one of Canada's greatest merchandising experts, in speaking of Mr. Primeau's store is of the opinion that it is one of the finest stores in the Dominion, in the manner in which it is conducted and the class of goods displayed.

Mr. Primeau is assisted in his business by Hugh Blair, a young man of wide experience in the men's wear business in Ottawa, Toronto, and other cities.

No Mention Of Salary Declares Ferguson

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—Premier G. Howard Ferguson has denied reports published in Toronto newspapers that his salary as Canadian High Commissioner to London would be set at $75,000 a year. "I never heard of it," he said, when asked about the report.

"The matter of salary has never been discussed by Mr. Bennett and me. I am not interested in the salary. I am not looking for a job. I am responding to a call to what I thought would be an opportunity for service to the Empire. No one has ever mentioned salary," said Mr. Ferguson.

Latest news and views of the Golfing World

By RALPH H. REVILLE

By Ralph H. Reville.

(Special to the Examiner Copyright, 1930.)

TORONTO, Nov. 29nd.—In previous winters the Indoor Golf School has been quite popular in the larger golfing centres such as Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg. This year, however, every city and many smaller towns have installed Indour Courses. They will not be nearly as numerous as the "Pee-Wee" courses last summer, but they will be very much in evidence from Coast to Coast. Some of these Indoor institutions are quite elaborate affairs costing as much as $5,000 to install. From the standpoint of learning and perfecting the game they are infinitely to be preferred to the "Tom Thumb" courses so popular the past season. They really do permit of a good short game being developed, and the short game after all wins the majority of golf championships.

It is only a few weeks now—January 1st, next, before the new ball becomes legalized in the States. It measures 1.68 inches in diameter and weighs 1.55 ounces and is, therefore, both larger and lighter than the ball which has been used by all golfers the past five years. Bobby Jones is strongly in favor of the new ball and so also is Cyril Tolley the ex-amateur champion of Great Britain who in a recent match with Jones had several drives of over 300 yards and one which measured 350 yards, and the chief complaint has always been that the new ball would cut many yards off the drive, but then it must be remembered that Tolley is the world's longest amateur driver.

Golfers in Canada, many of them at least, are still under the impression that this new U.S. official ball after January 1st, will have to be used in this Country. This is entirely wrong. The Royal Canadian Golf Association, following as it nearly always does the rulings of the Royal and Ancient, has refused to legalize the new ball. Canadian Golfers the coming year will play as usual with the ball 1.62 both in weight and diameter,t which has been so popular for the pas few years. If, however, Canadians enter any competitions in the States in 1931, which several of them undoubtedly will do, they will have to conform to the U.S. conditions and play with the new 1.55 ounce ball. Americans on the other hand playing in Canada will be permi ted to use either ball. In International contests the situation will certainly be confusing.

There has been a movement afoot to induce some of the leading British lady players to join in the golfing festivals in the Southern States this winter. Miss Enid Wilson, the English Lady Champion is one who is invited to make the trip, but there is little likelihood of any of the British players accepting the invitation to be the guests of the promoters of tournaments there. Old country golfers have a strict regard for their amateur status, and since it is obvious that they are to be invited as an attraction, they have some doubt about making the trip, pleasant though it may be during the winter months.

Fire has dealt rather harshly the last few years with prominent golf clubs in Canada. In Victoria, B.C., the Victoria Golf Club and the Colwood Golf Club both lost their homes as a result of conflagrations. Then the capacious club house of the Beaconsfield Golf Club, Montreal, last year went up in smoke and now on Thanksgiving Day that of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club which in 1909 was also burnt to the ground.

The Royal Ottawa was especially a charming building which during the past twenty years has housed not only Governor Generals and their wives, Judges of the Supreme Court and members of the Diplomatic Corps but the Prince of Wales and other Royalties not to mention Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of Great Britain, Mr. Lloyd George, ex-premier, the late former U.S. President, Mr. W. H. Taft, and other world-wide celebrities. There is no other club in Canada golfing or otherwise that in its time has entertained more distinguished guests.

It is very satisfactory to know that thanks to the efforts of Lord and Lady Willingdon, who were lunching at the time at the Club, Sir George Perley acting Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister, and scores of willing workers, not forgetting many caddies that all the historical golfing pictures and cups, which could not possibly have been replaced were saved. Until the insurance adjusters complete their work a definite line of policy with regard to re-building cannot be decided upon, but it can be taken for granted that the Royal Ottawa Club House will rise from its ashes Phoenix like, bigger and better than ever. The loss was in the neighborhood of $125,000 fully covered by insurance. In the meantime, the professionals shop, a good sized building which remains intact and which was only erected two years ago and the large drive shed will be put into shape by the Directors of the club for the temporary use of the members this winter.

They are even playing golf in Turkey now. British and American officials resident there have started a club near Constantinople and some of the "Unspeakable Turks" are also taking up with the game. A leading Pasha was recently the chief guest at a golf dinner there and he made a great hit when he prefaced his speech in acknowledging the great reception accorded him by saying and saying slowly "Gentlemen", "I'm nae sae fou, but my heart is fou." Then having exhausted his "Scotch" he sat down. He certainly in the vernacular, 'went over, and went over big."

Already the trek on the part of Canadian Golfers to winter resorts has commenced, several prominent residents of Montreal, Toronto, having left this month for Bermuda, California and other places, where they can continue to persue their favorite game, sans snow and sans cold. The big exodus however, will not take place until after Christmas and New Years. Several thousand Canadian Golfers now spend the winter in the South and Bermuda and Jamaica, the latter Island having recently greatly increased its golfing facilities. As usual Nicol Thompson of Hamilton, and Andy Kay of Lambton, will have professional positions in Bermuda and George Cumming and his son, Lou Cumming, in Jamaica. Karl Keffer of the Royal Ottawa and C. R. Murray of the Royal Montreal, leave next month to take over pro jobs in Florida. W. M. Freeman of Toronto, goes to the Barbadoes and John Peacock, of St. Andrews, N.B., to Pinehurst, N.S. These winter positions are much coveted by the leading pros both in Canada and the States, as they are alike lucrative and enjoyable berths.

Mr. Samuel Ryder, the rich English merchant, donor of the Ryder Cup for competition amongst the professionals of Great Britain and the United States, has in company with his daughter, sailed for South Africa to take up the question of a series of International matches be ween British and South African players. It would be a splendid thing if Mr. Ryder could be induced to also include Canada in the matches he is planning. It would be a wonderful stimulus for professional golf in this country if matches could be arranged next year in England between teams from Great Britain, South Africa, and Canada. The Canadian Professional Golf Association might possibly be well advised to get in touch with Mr. Ryder along these lines.

BENNETT REFUSES TO COMMENT ON THOMAS 'HUMBUG'

Premier Bennett Gently Brushes His London Questionaires Aside.

RETRACTED STATEMENT.

Thomas Referred to the Oppositions Picturing of the Canadian Proposals.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(CP) Mr. [illegible] Premier R. B. Bennett [illegible] Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions made during Tariff [illegible] House of Commons [illegible] Imperial Conference.

Questioned on Mr. Thomas' [illegible] Premier Bennett [illegible] questioners [illegible] Thomas [illegible] Canadian proposals [illegible] Government's attitude [illegible] them.

Believed Statement Fact

The Daily News says it brought an immediate rebuke from the Speaker [illegible] Mr. Thomas meant as a [illegible] he did, that there was nothing in this offer from the viewpoint of the British worker, he was comfortably within the fact. A Canadian paper has itself described the proposal as a fraud—a horse bargain—and while it may be expressed more politely, the fact will remain."

The Manchester Guardian recently accused of issuing a garbled report of remarks by Premier Bennett before a private gathering of the Empire Parliamentary Association, today deals with Mr. Thomas's "humbug" phrase by reproducing a passage from the Pickwick Papers. In this a speaker said:

"The Honorable gentleman is a humbug."

And after "Immense confusion and loud cries of "chair" and "order", the Speaker said he had used the word in its Pickwickian sense, and he was bound to acknowledge that he, personally, entertained the highest regard and esteem for the honorable gentleman."

The Guardian goes on: "We are sure Mr. Thomas's sentiments to Premier Bennett [illegible] akin to these and we are sure than Canadian papers as well as the Guardian are aware of the difficulty of accepting Premier Bennett's statement in a "common sense."

The Financial News declared the most effective proposals for extension of Empire Trade would be to reduce the barriers now hindering goods from one part of the Empire from admission to another part. Mr. Thomas, said the News, had no difficulty in showing that the charge against the Government, of failing to consider the Dominion proposals, was unwarranted.

The Telegraph deplored that "The British Government have proclaimed themselves impotent to take a new view of Imperial trade and worse than impotent in dealing with hostile foreign tariffs."

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard P. Garr

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SUNSHINE BOTTLE.

[illegible] the weather was getting cold in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains where Uncle Wiggily lived in a yellow lump bungalow, still, now and then came a warm, sunny day when all the animal were happy. They knew winter was coming, for they did not live in the warm Scotland, where there is seldom any snow. And, though the animals liked the warm sunny days, there were some who had warm, fur coats like Uncle Wiggily who were glad to feel that soon there would be ice on which to slide and snow with which to make balls to toss about.

Those who were most glad that winter was coming, of course were the annual children, Jackie and Bertie Bow Wow, the dogs, loved to frolic in the snow. Nannie and Billie Waggail, the goats, were anxious for the time to come when they could climb on the ice covered Duck Pond.

"And I am going to build a snow fort," cried Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy. "I'm going to get Uncle and Jingle Longears and we'll make a snow man, and have a snow fortress."

"You'll have out of the way in winter

Bunty, my dear, what are you doing?

comes," chuckled Uncle Wiggily when he heard the animal children talking this way. "And it will not be long until Thanksgiving Day is here. Then will come Christmas—"

But Uncle Wiggily could not hear himself say any more. For at the word "Christmas" the animal children set up such jolly shouts that the rabbit gentleman had to hold his paws over his ears. Then away he hopped to find an adventure. He had not gone very far, blinking in the sunshine and twinkling his pink nose, before he saw Baby Bunty sitting on a grassy hill where the sun was brightest.

The little orphan rabbit child sat very still and quiet with something in front of her. And Uncle Wiggily said to himself:

"What can Bunty be doing? She isn't playing, for there is no water near her. But she is doing something queer." So he hopped a little nearer and called: "Bunty, my dear, what are you doing?"

"I am trying to catch some sunshine in a bottle," was the strange answer of the little rabbit orphan.

"Sunshine in a bottle!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily in surprise.

"Yes," Bunty answered. "Look," and she showed Mr. Longears a large bottle that once had held sweet pickles, but which was now empty. Bunty grasped the bottle in one paw and the cork in the other. "As soon as I get my bottle full of sunshine," she said, "I'm going to cork it up and take it home."

"But this is the queerest thing I ever heard of, Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily. "Catching sunshine in a bottle to take home! What's the idea?"

"Well, you see it's like this," explained Bunty. "It's [illegible] bottle higher up so the yellow, golden beam of the sun could [illegible] it will soon be winter and there are many cold and cloudy days when the sun never shines. So I thought if I got a bottle full of sunshine when it was out and cheerful, as it is now, I could uncork the bottle and let the sunshine out in our bungalow, even if it was cloudy and cold outside."

"That would be lovely," Mr. Longears said, twinkling his pink nose.

"Bottled sunshine! Wonderful. I remember reading once a story where somebody thought they could make bottled sunshine out of cucumbers, but I don't remember that it ever came out."

"I wouldn't like cucumber sunshine," said Baby Bunty, waving her bottle around to make sure it would be filled to the very top before she corked it. "I like outdoor sunshine much better. There, I think I have enough now," she said as she stuffed the cork in the old pickle bottle. "I'll take it home and when it gets cold and cloudy, and we need sunshine to make us feel glad and happy, I'll open my bottle and let a little out."

"That's a fine idea," said Uncle Wiggily. "I think I'll get a bottle and catch some sunshine for myself."

"Get a milk bottle," advised Bunty. "That's bigger and it will hold a terrible lot of sunshine."

"I will," said Uncle Wiggily, quickly hopping back to his bungalow.

"You can stop it up with a bunch of grass so the sunshine can't get out after you catch it," said Baby Bunty when Uncle Wiggily got back to where she sat on the hillside. "I never saw a cork for a milk bottle." Uncle Wiggily said he hadn't either.

"Won't it be fun, and won't everybody be surprised," whispered the orphan rabbit to Mr. Longears, "when there comes a cloudy day and we let the sunshine out of our bottles?"

"Oh, won't they be surprised!" murmured Mr. Longears. Then he and Baby Bunty watched the sunshine fill the milk bottle. "They could hardly wait for a dark day to let some of it out.

The Only Thing that Gave Relief

"Two years ago I had bad backache," writes Mr. J. G. Haffner, Aylesbury, Sask. "I tried different medicines but couldn't get any relief. I then tried a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and have never had any trouble since. Thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. You will be surprised how soon they begin to cleanse and purify, to soothe and heal the kidneys, at the same time, Backache, Rheumatism, Headaches and all ailments due to faulty Kidneys disappear.

Millbrook

Miss Gilbert, who has spent the summer and early fall months with her sister, Mrs. George Howson, left for Toronto on Tuesday morning, to resume her duties as governess in a private family.

R. J. McKnight, Deputy Reeve of Cavan township, has definitely announced his candidature for the Wardenship of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland for 1931.

The local branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society will hold its annual meeting in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Wednesday, December 3, at 8 p.m.

Rev. C. R. Spencer, M.A., who has served the parish of Shanty Bay as rector for some years, and who was formerly of Millbrook, was inducted as rector of Saint John's anglican church, Bowmanville, on Sunday, November 16, the Right Reverend J. F. Sweeny, D.D., L.L.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Toronto, and Venerable Archdeacon Warren, conducting the impressive service. Before leaving their parish at Shanty Bay, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer were the recipients of a number of gifts including well filled purses, from the congregations of the three churches which made up his pastoral charge. From the Woman's Auxiliary also Mrs. Spencer received kindly remembrance and Mr. Spencer, while guest of the Canadian Legion Club, at Barrie, was presented with a smoker's stand, and best wishes were extended to both himself and his family in their new home at Bowmanville. Rev. Mr. Spencer served overseas as a chaplain during the world war.

The Badminton Club organized locally with Dr. L. J. Stuart as president, is evidently a popular move as over twenty members are already signed up, and the list will probably be extended. Play is in the Armouries.

The annual concert under the auspices of the Public School is now in course of preparation, and will be given in the Town Hall just before dismissal for the Christmas holidays. Principal B. B. Dawson, and the teachers, Misses L. Orchard and B. Montgomery, are training the pupils, and without doubt the event will be carried through with its usual success.

The play, "Dr. Wake's Patient", which was given locally on the two nights of the fall fair, and for which Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, was the trainer and directress, was taken to Orono on Wednesday evening of this week, and successfully presented.

Trent River

Mr. John Scott is having his residence wired for Hydro.

Miss Terry and Mr. D. Johnston, of Grimsby, have been guests for a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Ward.

Mr. Robert Kennedy and son, Walton; Dr. Taylor and Colonel Cooper left Wednesday for Toronto, having spent a few days at "Kendon EEEE."

The Ladies' Aid meet at the United Church on Wednesday afternoon, December 3rd for election of officers for the incoming year.

Efficiency League was withdrawn for the week owing to the wiring of the church for Hydro.

Mrs. John Free, who resides with her brother, Mr. John Lawson, has been called to Brighton to see her sister-in-law who is seriously ill there.

Mrs. Alley, of Peterborough, was called to see her son, Freddie, who has been suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Mrs. John Sedgwick is visiting relatives in Roseneath and Fenella.

Miss Marguerite Garneau has accepted a position in a beauty parlor at Campbellford.

Mr. Francis Ruttan has gone to Toronto where he has accepted a position.

Miss Irene Fish has accepted a position in the fishing tackle factory at Havelock.

The annual meeting of I.X.L. Cheese and Butter Co. will be held in the factory on Thursday, December 4, at 1:30 p.m.

The annual meeting of Seymour West Cheese and Butter Co. will be held in the factory on Saturday, December 6, 1930, at 1:30 p.m., for transaction of general business.

Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Nov. 28 (Examiner Correspondent). — The monthly meeting of St. James Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Lottie Nichol with fifteen members and five visitors present.

The president, Mrs. James Timlin, conducted the meeting.

It was decided to take quilts and any clothing available and send in bale in the near future.

Church hangings were left in the hands of the committee, Mrs. J. T. Drope, Mrs. Battersby and Mrs. L. Nichol, to purchase and make for the church.

Mrs. James Webb gave the Bible reading, St. Matthew 6.

November being the month of thanksgiving, appropriate readings were given by Mrs. Lottie Nichol, Mrs. Gordon Parker, Mrs. Ernest Timlin, and Miss J. Johnston.

Letters of thanks were read from members who had received fruit during their illness.

Communications on business were read and discussed during the meeting. Rev. F. Battersby closed the meeting with a beautiful thanksgiving prayer, after which the gathering partook of a dainty luncheon.

QUEENSBORO.

Mr. Charles Thompson spent several days attending the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Miss Francis Harris has returned after several days spent in visiting her sister, Mrs. Robert Michael, of Oshawa.

The Rev. J. F. Everson and Mr. Leslie Herbertson attended the missionary banquet held in Madoc on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sager spent the week-end with friends in Toronto.

Miss Jean Hamm is the guest of friends in Toronto.

Messrs. James Moore, reeve of Elziver, and Charles Thompson, reeve of Madoc township, are attending the county council meetings being held in Belleville.

Messrs. Philo Harris and Maxwell Burnside spent the first three days of this week at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Miss Margaret Kincaid, of Belleville, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Wallace Kincaid.

TOO MUCH RACIAL PREJUDICE

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 (C.P.)—Racial prejudice, suspicion and discord in the past and should not be allowed to Quebec had done too much harm is stand in the way of progress in the future, Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster-General of Canada, declared in his address at a banquet given last night by the Arthur Sauve Club, to the Postmaster-General and Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine.

TOO MUCH ACID

may be causing those frequent headaches

WHEN there's too much acid in your stomach, you must force yourself to work, and even pleasures are too great an effort. Appetite lags; the digestion is poor; the whole system suffers.

Laboratory tests show an acid condition is due to errors in our modern diet. But you need not wait to diet your way out of the trouble!

Take a tablespoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This will neutralize the excess acid instantly; make you feel like a new person in just a few moments.

Take a little whenever heartburn, sick headaches, nausea, flatulence, indigestion or biliousness show the digestive system is becoming too acid. Whenever you are taking cold or feel sluggish, weak, constipated. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle laxative action.

Delightful to take. Endorsed by physicians for 50 years and prescribed everywhere for men, women and children. The genuine is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. It always bears the name Phillips' for your protection.

Heart and Nerves So Bad

Was Unable To Sleep For Hours

Miss Theresa M. Ravary, Gallingertown, Ont. writes: "I was troubled, for almost a year, with my heart and nerves, especially on retiring at night when I would be unable to sleep for hours. I was easily fatigued, and became very excitable and irritable. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking them for a few weeks I could enjoy a good night's rest and rapidly regained my former state of health."

Sold at all drug and general stores, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

BOY CANDIDATES ADDRESS MEETING

Explain Ideals of Boys' Parliament—Feature of "Y" Activity.

John Hunter, present member of the Boys' Parliament, addressing members of the "Y" Friday Night Supper Club, outlined in splendid manner the functions of the Boys' Parliament which is conducted annually during Christmas week. He said that the first Boy's Parliament took place in the Parliament Buildings in 1917. The purpose for which it was organized was to stimulate the growth of Christian character. The duty of the Parliament is to promote and conduct camps, conferences, athletic contests, leadership training, and the sale of bonds for carrying out the work.

Andy Rutter, who is candidate in the coming election, speaking along similar lines, explained the practical application of the program as practised by the T.O.B. Square of which he is a member.

C. A. Salmonsen, who presided over the meeting read a message from L. Killaly, who is at present attending a T.M.C.A. convention in Montreal and also an acknowledgment from Mr. Wallace, former president of the Club, for the birthday present which was recently sent to him.

Ferdy Mowry led the community singing, while the musical part of the program was further augmented by a piano solo by W. Steer, a violin solo, George Gatfield, and a duet by the Duffus brothers.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THE FARMER?

(Farmer's Sun)

Few men write with a clearer understanding of rural problems than Rev. M. V. Kelly of St. Michael's College. Father Kelly has long been a friend of the farmer and has contributed to The Sun's correspondence columns on many occasions. The following able letter from his pen, which lately appeared in the Globe over the pseudonym "A Toronto Clergyman," admirably sums up the position in which the farmer finds himself at this time.

In the midst of much discussion about unemployment and business depression very little notice seems taken of the stern fact that agriculture in this province is in a condition of bankruptcy. The Ontario farmer is intelligent he is not lacking in industry; he understands his business and knows how to get the best results from the soil. Nevertheless, during these years it is doubtful if there is one farm in Ontario giving its occupant anything like an addequate return for his time and outlay. Good crops are being produced, never better, perhaps; live stock on the farm has been very much improved, and everything else accordingly. But by far the greater part of it is taken from the farmer through conditions over which he has no control. Unlike the Irish peasant of the forties who watched one supposed creditor carrying off the fruits of his toil, the farmer to-day must stand by and watch the pillage of his produce by a numerous group of vested interests. He is unduly taxed by federal and provincial legislatures, by manufacturers of implements, by the large commercial firms, who buy his produce, by the railways, by th department of education, by schoo teachers, doctors and nurses. 1

Implements Doubled in Price.

With the price of practically everything he produces reduced below all reasomable bounds, his implements have more than doubled in price; and now in the recent session the fatherly hand of government steps in with a 25 per cent tariff on those implements and the inevitable outcome of a corresponding increase in their price. The farmer is one of the very few to whom under present conditions an automobile has become a necessity. Generally he is satisfied with the cheapest car available. Our federal government insists on maintaining a 25 per cent tariff on even the cheapest style of car, and this notwithstanding Mr. Ford's public assertion that he can manufacture cheaper in Canada than in the United States. This, of course, simply means that a Ford car costs you $150 to $200 more in Canada than in the United States, or, in other words, that every time a farmer buys the cheapest car attainable, our federal government paternally insists that he make a present of $150 or $200 to Henry Ford or some other struggling manufacturer.

The public seem to accept the notion that the gasoline tax builds and maintains the highways. Apparently only a few know that 20 per cent of that outlay comes from the counties' revenue, even in the case of provincial highways. Those highways are not for the farmer at all; not one farmer in a hundred uses them. But every year there is a large addition to his tax bill in order that people with high-priced cars and high-priced situations or business prospects, with their wives and sons and daughters, may speed from one city to another.

Every year the farmer's taxes increase until to-day they have become more than half of what the farm would rent for. The land he struggled years to to pay for is no longer his. Meanwhile local autonomy, as a fundamental principle of government and a cherished protection of the people's liberties, our provincial legislatures have practically abolished. It is not in the power of either township or county councils to reduce taxation in any way worth while. County councils and township councils are compelled to collect large proportions of these ever-increasing taxes without any voice whatever in the disposal of the money.

Contributors to the press may find, if they choose, some interesting topics for discussion in an account of the economic conditions to which the farmer is subjected. The public is not often reminded, for instance, that while dealers in meat have made little or no reduction in their charges they are paying the farmer for fatter cattle just about half the price paid last April. Or again, while wool, a world product, is selling at about one-seventh of the war years' price, the farmer has yet observed no reduction in the price of a suit of clothes. His family are provided with boots and shoes with no abatement of cost as years go by, while the price offered for hides barely remunerates for the expense of sending them to market.

Transportation Charges Exhorbitant.

Transportation charges are so exorbitant that farmers not 40 miles away from Toronto have paid for railway and cartage delivery a figure exceeding the actual price of potatoes. There is probably nowhere in the world a climate better suited for the production of apples than in Ontario. Are your city readers aware that the apple industry of this province, for years so prosperous, is ruined? The price obtainable for the very best quality does not remunerate the farmer for the cost of picking and freight charges. Every time the city housewife finds a raise in the price of butter and eggs she rails against the farmer, apparently unaware that no farmer, nor all the farmers together, have anything at all to do with it; equally unaware of how small a share of what she pays goes into the farmer's pockets.

There was a time when the farmer and his wife preserved the kindest recollections of the physician. A period of sickness in the home resulted in a lifelong friendship, in feelings of esteem and tender regard. To-day sickness is dreaded in much the same spirit as the bailiff is held in horror. A term of sickness results in an indebtedness which requires years of struggle and privation to meet and overcome. I have met an estimable couple married seven years whose payments to doctors and nurse have reached a total of $2,500. I do no know just what that figure may seem like to a city family, but to a farmer of these years it is an impossibility. 'The couple in question are not invalids by any means. It is safe to say that, while the attention they received did not take much more than seven weeks of the nurse's time, and certainly not seven days, perhaps not seven hours, of the doctor's, this man and woman would have not been able to save as much out of seven years' hard work as would meet the demand.

To be a successful farmer requires as great, if not greater, intelligence, than to be a successful surgeon; it requires more years of training—considerations which give some idea of the injustice of such extortions on the part of those whom we call professional.

Children not Working.

Here and there in every community, however, there is evidence of prosperity in a certain number of farm homes. Invariably these are the families with a daughter or two teaching school. In dress, in furnishings purchased, in a general ease of circumstances, the difference is soon observable. It is a rather extraordinary equalizing of rewards when a young girl just out of the normal school can make a larger contribution to the family budget than all the rest of the family together. Of course, the explanation is that the department of education places her in a position similar to that enjoyed by large commercial, manufacturing interests, railways or banks. She can impose a high tax on all the farmers in the neighborhood and carry the returns to her home or to be spent on her own amusements.

Under circumstances which I have been trying to describe, what hope is there for agriculture? Every public man, every newspaper editor reminds us frequently that agriculture is the basic industry, the foundation of all industrial and commercial interests. We are told that with it everything must rise and fall. Meanwhile it would seem that all these interests unite in impairing, if not destroying, that foundation. What must be the consequence? Just exactly what we are experiencing—world-wide depression and unemployment. For the past twelve years, whether intentionally or not, every movement in financial and commercial life had a tendency to handicap the farmer. The working of the entire economic system was aimed at allowing him less for what he had to give and charging him more for what he had to buy. Meanwhile the parasite element in commerce has multiplied beyond calculation, each one endeavoring to fill his pockets from the products of the soil and give nothing in return. The farming population has ceased to buy. It cannot. When things are not being sold they cannot be manufactured, with the resultant condition of unemployment everywhere.

Will no one be generous enough to suggest that the radical remedy for unemployment is to place the farming community in a more prosperous condition; that the prevailing policy in recent years of extortion and pillage at the expense of the farmer is the real cause of present distressful conditions? A North Dakota senator stated on the floor of congress that in 1928 grain speculators got hold of five hundred million dollars which should have gone into the pockets of the United States farmers. Even that amount properly placed would have put those farmers in a position to contribute very materially to the general prosperity of the country. Less than a year ago large grain interests undertook to bring wheat to bottom prices (no one in sane mind supposes that either the large supply or the action of the co-operatives could have done this). There has been an active propaganda to kill in the public mind anything like sympathy for the farmer and his losses in this matter. But does anyone stop to think of the general effect? If there had been some power on earth to guarantee that a fair price for wheat would prevail against undisguised opposition; if, for instance, the price prevailing in August, 1929, had continued to this hour, every business interest in Canada would have continued prosperous. On the other hand, with that figure for wheat prevailing, would the public have found their bread bills an item of expense sufficient to make any difference in their standard of living?

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No 6 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan stood rigid, his gaze riveted upon the disappearing steamer. In the jungle at his back, fierce, blood-shot eyes glared at him from overhanging brows. Little monkeys in the trees chattered and scolded. From the distant inland forest came the scream of [illegible]. "I have," he thought, "at least [illegible] tale in London."

Then he recalled the note thrust into his hand and slowly he read its hideous contents. "You were born an ape," it said, "and to your own we have returned you. But your son shall rise higher. He shall be no naked beast of the jungle. He shall be decked with ornaments, perhaps a ring in his nose. For he is to be reared by men—a tribe of savage cannibals."

After allowing his fancy full play over this inhuman picture and adding many epithets and vile phrases of abuse, the Russian ended the note with these ominous words: "I might have killed you, but living—in a place from which you can never escape—you shall suffer worse than death. The balance of your punishment has to do with what shall befall your wife. This is the vengeance of Nicolas Rokoff."

As Tarzan dropped the note from his clenched hands, a slight sound behind him brought him abruptly back to the world of present realities. Instantly his senses awoke, and again he was Tarzan of the Apes. As he wheeled about it was a beast at bay, vibrant with the instinct of self-preservation, that faced a huge bull-ape already charging down upon him.

Thomas Apologizes To Premier Bennett

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—It is understood R. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, has personally expressed to Premier R. B. Bennett his regret at the use during the Parliamentary debate Thursday of the word "dumbing" in connection with the Canadian proposals at the Imperial Conference.

Mr. Thomas, it is explained, had no intention of applying the word to the Canadian proposals. But rather to the opposition's picture of them. But in the heat of the debate the word slipped out with a meaning that was not intended.

Premier Bennett thad declined to make any comment of the incident except to remark that he might make

The polling divisions close at 6 o'clock sharp.

GAS METER USED AS TARGET

To what degree of mischief will a child's irresponsibility and imagination lead him? Here's an instance: Presented with a nice brand new .22 rifle, a small boy residing with his parents somewhere on Aylmer street, sought around for a target on which to practice. He found one, indeed he found two or three and without further ado, opened fire. The crack of the rifle shot was accompanied by the slight tinkle of broken glass and the metallic sound of metal striking against metal. Soon the entire household was aroused by a strong and deadly odour; a counter attack was in progress—a gas attack! Yes, that bad boy had been firing at the small clock-like recorders on the gas meter in the basement. Fortunately the catastrophe was discovered before the gas had a chance to reap any casualties, but it was a very narrow escape.

RECEIVED WITH THANKS

The Examiner acknowledges with gratitude responses to several appeals for food and clothing that was very much needed, and wishes to thank Mrs. F. M. DelaFosse for bedsprings, Mrs. J. S. Donley for a bed, also a stove, clothing and shoes from Mrs. B. Rogow, and a quantity of vegetables from J. H. Callander.

DANDELIONS IN NOVEMBER

Dandelions in bloom on November 29th. That's a fact, as a specimen brought into this office to-day, by Mrs. Patton of Charlotte street W., testifies. Probably the drop to zero weather and the fall of snow and the promise of further snowfalls, will bring to an end this unusual display on the part of nature, of flowers blooming out of season.

ROUTINE BUSINESS CHAPTER MEETING

Arrangements Made For Monthly Bridge Party To Be Held in Armouries.

The November meeting of the 57th Regiment Chapter was held in the Armouries on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance. The Regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young, presided, and the meeting opened with the prayer of the Order and the presentation of the flag, followed by the secretary's report by Mrs. F. Miller and the treasurer's report read by Mrs. Young, owing to the absence of Miss Rogers.

Letters of thanks were read from members and verbal thanks given for flowers received during illness. Deep regret was expressed for the passing of Mrs. G. Gimblett.

A concise report of the meeting of the Provincial Chapter at Chatham was given by Mrs. Young, who also read an article from the Mail and Empire entitled "Peterborough members' and eulogizing the work done by the Well Babies' Clinic in starting a maternal insurance fund in the city of Peterborough.

Mrs. Sharpe, for the Sick and Visiting committee, reported 60 calls made and a quantity of oranges and pears distributed.

Mrs. W. Gordon Hall was given a donation from the Chapter for Christmas cheer baskets.

Arrangements were made for the monthly bridge party to be held in the Armouries on Thursday afternoon, December 4th, with the following ladies acting as hostesses: Mesdames Cottrell, Clysdale, Dishart, Ecobichon and Miss F. Dickson, with Mrs. Cottrell acting as convenor.

It was decided to withdraw the December meeting as the date of the meeting fell on Christmas Day.

Mrs. J. S. Fanning was appointed as convenor of the January bridge party which will probably be held the second week of the month and the members whose names come in this month for hostesses will be notified by the Regent.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

PETERBORO'S INDUSTRIAL

been slowed up by the world wide economic adversity, but others are keeping the wheels humming in spite of the times that seem so out of joint.

New Production Records.

The Quaker Oats Company, for example, is definitely on the side of the optimists with new records of production and sales volume in prospect for this year of 1930. It is one of the brightest spots industrially not only among Peterborough's manufactories, but likewise throughout the country. The Quaker Oaks mills are running daily with a full complement of employees. Their only worry just now is the low water in the Otonabee River and a consequent shortage of power.

From George A. Macdonald, vice-president of The Quaker Oats Company of Canada, it was learned that up to the end of October the local factory's outbound shipments exceeded by more than two hundred cars, the figures for the corresponding period in 1929; and November's business is well ahead of that for the same month last year.

Commenting on this notable improvement in the company's sales, Mr. Macdonald said that past experience had been that cereal manufacturers were proof against reactions such as now are hampering certain other lines of manufacture. Cereals can provide meals for the family at a minimum of cost and the public knows well the food and health value of cereal products, their wholesomeness and economy.

While it is true that domestic business has shown a greater increase in volume, on the other hand, because of the low cost of raw materials, it is generally possible now to compete in foreign markets, despite adverse tariffs, and secure business which was impossible when grain prices here were above world levels.

Mr. Macdonald believed the outlook for the future was encouraging. He felt that business has passed its lowest ebb and that from now on gradual improvement should be noticed. It has been the policy of the company to pass on to the consumer in finished products the benefit of the declines in the raw materials, believing that the sooner the consumer gets the full advantage of the reduced prices on practically all commodities the quicker will general business work back to normal.

The Quaker Oats Company have recently put on the market a new package cereal, Crackels. It is entirely different to any other cereal on the market and has been very favorably received by the public. When fullest distribution is attained the company is confident that Crackels will add a large new volume of output to the Quaker Oats cereal mill.

Notorious Bandit Chief Shot To Death

POLICE SURPRISE ROBBER AT HOME; KILLED ESCAPING

Smith's Wife Taken in Raid is Identified as Blonde Who Drove Bandit's Car.

AIDED IN TWO HOLD-UPS.

Gang Engineered Five Big Raids in Past 2 Years Netting $125,000.

OAKLAND, Cal., December 1 (C.P.). — A man with a long criminal record, identified by police as the leader of the gang that robbed a Southern Pacific train of $56,000 at Nobel on November 9, was trapped by ten officers in his Oakland home yesterday, and shot to death when he tried to escape from them.

The asserted bandit chieftain was Frank E. Smith, alias Frank Ellis, alias W. A. Harris alias William Z. Smith. Police said the Nobel robbery was only one of a long series of hold-ups engineered by Smith from Vancouver, B.C., to Fresno Cal.

Wife Arrested

Smith's wife, known as Evelyn Ellis who was arrested with him, was identified as the "attractive blonde" who piloted the bandit automobiles in two robberies attributed to the gang.

Outstanding among the California robberies attributed to Smith were the Rodeo Branch of the Bank of Pinole, Sept. 26, 1929 in which Constable Arthur McDonald was killed and $28,000 stolen; the Tracy post office robbery in 1928 when $25,000 was taken; the McAvoy train robbery in which $16,000 was taken, June 22, 1929.

TORIES PREPARE GREAT BANQUET

Affair To Be Farewell Party to Ferguson and Celebration of Recent Election Victory.

MACNICOL MAY RETIRE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec 1.—(C.P.)—Unusual interest attaches to the annual meeting of the Ontario Conservative Association here to-morrow because of the early retirement of Premier G. Howard Ferguson from the field of Provincial politics. The banquet to be held to-morrow night will be a farewell party for the Ontario Premier combined with a celebration of the recent victory of the Conservative party in the Dominion general election.

The Dominion Government will be represented by a number of ministers, although the original plan to have Premier Bennett present fell through. Among the Federal ministers in attendance will be Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. Hugh Stewart, Minister of Public Works, Hon. W. A Gordon, Minister of Immigration, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture and Hon. D. M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence.

A full attendance of the Ontario Cabinet including Hon George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, who it is reported, will be the next Ontario Premier, is expected.

The meeting may see the retirement of John R. MacNicol as president of the Ontario Conservative Association. Mr MacNichol is now a member of the House of Commons and it is stated he will retire in favor of W. H. Ireland, chief Conservative whip, in the Ontario Legislature.

The Weather

Another month has gone into history. November on the whole was a pleasant month—warmer than usual, and with but little rain. The precipitation was but 1.40 inches, the most of it falling on the last two days. The warmest day was the 16th with 60 degrees; the coldest the 29th, with 2 below zero. The snowfall of the month was 6.2.10 inches. Snow fell on 4 days; rain on 10 days to the amount of .78.—W.P.

Following a record haul of herrings recently the fish were sold in Deal, England, at two for a cent.

The Irish Free State has appointed a commission of three government officials to consider applications for protective tariffs.

CANADIANS WIN THREE LAURELS IN CHICAGO SHOW

Hugh Jeffrey, Whitby, Takes Championship on Soy Beans.

WESTERN ENTRIES ON TOP.

Dominion Exhibitors in Grain and Field Crop Sections Place High.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1 (C.P.)—Canadian farmers indicated that they will be a strong factor in the competition for grain championships at the International Livestock Exposition Saturday by winning three championships and more than their share of minor awards, as early judging was completely in the hay and grain show, which is conducted in conjunction with the exposition.

Outstanding in the early winnings was the taking of the first prize in the rye division by George Avery of Kelso, Sask.

Herman Trelle of Wembly, in the Peace River country of Albert, signalized his return to successful competition by taking the field peas championship with his exhibit of small yellow variety. Trelle, a former wheat kind, did not compete in last years show.

Ontario Girl, Winner

In the field beans classes, Mary E. Maycock of Milford, Ontario, won a surprise victory, when her sample of navy beans was adjudged the best field bean exhibit of the show.

In the flax competition Charles F. Holmes of Dollard, Sask., who finished third, was the highest ranking of the Canadians.

In soy beans, in which competition is by classes and regions, C. S. Looney of Sparta, Tenn., was awarded the championship. Hugh Jeffrey of Whitby, Ont., after winning first place in the region which includes Ontario, Michigan and territory as far as eastern Wisconsin, saw his entries take the reserve soy bean championship.

In the inter-collegiate livestock judging competition the only Canadian entry, the Ontario Agricultural College team finished fifteenth in a field of twenty-three.

Cecil Trowell, of Saltcoat, Sask., won first prize for his exhibit of large yellow field peas, with H. L. Goltz, of Bracebridge, Ont., second. Canadians completed the triumph in this class as G. Avery, Kelso, Sask., placed third and A. Schmidt, Midway, Ont., fourth.

Following up the successes of Herman Trelle, J. W. Abbott, of Baldonel, B.C., was placed second with his entry in the class for small yellow field peas, while R. R. Howes, Melfort, Sask., got third, G. Avery, fourth and T. Berberich, Jr., of Midway, Ont., fifth.

William Darnbrough, of Laura Sask., also gained honors with Trelle for field peas (unclassified). Sixth place in this division went to T. Thompson, of Fairlight, Sask.

Canadian prize winners in the navy field beans class included beside Miss Maycock and Hugh Jeffrey the following: J. H. Lampman and son, Ridgetown, Ont. (third); O. Eberle, Ridgetown, (fourth); J. H. Frisby, Gormley, Ont., (fifth); R. Robbins, Shaunavon, Sask. (twelfth), and G. Avery, Kelso, Sask. (fifteenth).

W. G. Gibson, of Ladner, B.C. gained third place for his field beans (any other variety) for soy beans, yellow, (regions 1 and 2) Robert W. Kniser, North Wood, Ontario, won second prize; M. Heckendorn Breslau, Ont., seventh, and J. R. Watson and son, Guelph, Ont., eighth.

CANADIAN BAN ON LIQUOR EXPORT DRIVES SMUGGLERS TO MOVE BASE TO HIGH SEAS CLAIMS U.S. REPORT

Twenty-five of Twenty-nine Ships Seized During 1930 Were British.

RUM RUNNING REVIVES.

Canada's Action Indicates Desire to Co-operate Says U. S. Attorney General.

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 1 (By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — Liquor smugglers have been driven from the Canadian border to the high seas by the Canadian Anti-Export Act, Attorney-General Mitchell discovers in his annual report.

"The Canadian nation dealt a severe blow to border traffic when it amended its Export Act on May 30 1930 and outlawed direct clearance of liquor from Canada to the United States" the report says. "The natural result of this restrictive legislation was to drive some additional professional smugglers to the high seas, where their activities would be more likely to succeed. The French possession of St. Pierre Miquelon which for a number of years has been the chief rendezvous and supply point for the liquor-smuggling fraternity off our eastern coast, has experienced a substantial increase in this form of business.

25 British Ships Seized

"It is also noteworthy that 25 of the 29 foreign liquor ships seized during the year were British. Vessels of this nationality still predominate in the trade even though the chief smuggling base is French. Increased activity in Nova Scotia ports has been observed because most of the vessels which operate in the smuggling trade out of St. Pierre are documented in Nova Scotia ports and are owned, at least ostensibly by Canadian citizens."

"The hampering of the liquor smuggling traffic across the Canadian border...has already been mentioned. This action on the part of Canada is real evidence of the desire of that nation to co-operate with us in the solution of our smuggling problem and is very highly appreciated."

Noting the increase in seizures of alleged smugglers the report says the liquor smuggling business has had a

LAKE MARINERS PREPARE TO PLAY GAME OF CHANCE

"Gambling Season" Opens as Insurance on Many Vessels Expires.

1930 DISASTERS FEW.

Possibility of Blockade at Sault Ste. Marie Persists—May Tie Up Grain Flow.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A year devoid of major disasters served tonight as a reassurance to Great Lakes mariners prepared to play their yearly game of chance with winter.

The stroke of midnight marked the opening of the "gambling season". So called because at that time insurance on many classes of ships expire. In the brief period before ice locks many harbors and barricades the shipping ways to Lake Superior, skippers must pit their skill singlehanded against wintry hazards.

The few boats still plying greyish waters between the eastern manufacturing cities and the grain and ore ports of the North thus must move with added care and at the same time reach their destinations before winter closes down for good.

Last year the grim total of more than 100 deaths on stormlashed shipping courses made the "gambling season" a period of menace.

Death Toll of 12

This year, the death toll was only 12, all on Lake Michigan. The pounding waves that harassed cities along the shorline of the inland lakes and dragged a half dozen vessels down with their crews in 1929 sprang up only a few times in 1930. Mariners, learning a new caution from the previous fall, came through the season with but three ships lost.

But the possibility of a blockade at Sault Ste. Marie, where the billion-dollar flow of western products funnels through the locks at St. Mary's Mary's river, still persists. A few years ago a score of vessels were held at the Soo all winter when the ice closed prematurely. Last year there was a week's blockade.

Many of the cigar-shaped freighters already are laid up for the winter, in dun-colored lines at South Chicago, Fairport, Duluth and other ports. On every lake, however a few ships are prepared to take the gamble.

Mother Jones, Working Man's Defender, Lone and Broken, Passes in Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 1 (C.P.). — Mary "Mother" Jones is no more. The staunch little defender of the working man last night closed her eyes on a hundred years of throbbing life.

It was her body that failed under the pressure of time, for the spirit which had carried her through the battles of union labor was militant still. Only one friend was with her in the still hour of midnigh, when her heart ceased its feeble beat.

She stirred slightly on her bed, and then lay still. Mrs. Walter Burgess, who had harbored and tended her in the retirement of the final years, bent over and saw it was the end.

Mary Jones was born in Cork, Ireland. Her father brought her to the United States and then went to Canada. She returned to Michigan to teach school in Monroe. Then she married, only to lose her husband and four children in the terrible yellow fever epidemic of 1867.

She went to Chicago, only to lose what she had made in a second start when the great fire of 1871 destroyed her little dress shop.

But her real career was on then, agitating constantly for the laboring men in strikes and troubles of all sorts.

From place to place she went, in and out of jail, deported from States, but never quitting. In her there was no compromise.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor said of her death:

"The loss sustained cannot be measured and the service she rendered will never be surpassed or excelled. The hearts of the men and women of labor are very sad."

FAMILY SIDING WITH STRICKEN MOTHER HURL MIRROR AND KNIFE TO HALT FATHER'S ATTACKS

Two Neighbors Summoned By Children's Screams For Help Rush in Only to Find Man and Woman Both Dead—Inquest Ordered By Coroner.

RIENFAIT, Sask., December 1 (C.P.). — In a fit of rage, William Newton, late on Saturday night, killed his wife, cutting her throat with an old, disused razor, and then committed suicide with the same weapon as his four children, the oldest 12 years of age, attempted to avert the tragedy.

Climaxing a bitter quarrel, Newton attacked his wife with the razor after shouting "I'm going to kill you." A terrific battle ensued in which Mrs. Newton attempted to disarm the crazed man. The children came to the aid of the mother, hurling various objects, including a mirror and butcher knife at their father. Their efforts proved in vain, however, and they rushed from the house screaming for help. In answer to their cries, Provincial Constable Sassard, manager of the Rienfait Mine, and Joseph Sembrick, [illegible] to the home clad only in their night apparel. There they found the mother and woman dead.

Coroner Dr. Logan, after a preliminary investigation, ordered the bodies to be held this afternoon.

FIFTEEN MISSING ON PACIFIC COAST

Fog Hampers Search For Two Boats, One Lost Since November 21.

PLANES TO GO OUT.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 1. (CP)—The fate of fifteen men and two boats was veiled by the Pacific today as coast guardsmen and naval forces prepared to conduct searches for them off the Southern California coast.

The Fidelity and her crew of eleven, missing since November 21, were objects of a search off the Santa Barbara Islands by two coast guard patrol boats. The Fidelity disappeared in a wind storm and no trace has been found of her, although a minute search already has been made.

A small boat carrying four internes of the San Diego County Hospital was missing off the Coronado Islands, 20 miles west of San Diego. Naval officers prepared to send planes to search for the boat to-day. Fog hampered a thorough search yesterday. The four men, Jules Matherman, Byron Zaning, Charles A. Foulks and A. H. Fogg, left San Diego early Saturday morning for the islands.

50 ARE INJURED OVER WEEK-END IN GERMAN RIOTS

One Man Succumbs Following Clash With Communists Saturday.

34 ARRESTS IN BERLIN.

Car Charges Into Group of Reds Sending 15 to Hospital—Stabbings Occur.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Nearly fifty persons were injured, one person was killed and many were arrested in an unusual series of week-end political riots and brawls all over Germany.

In Berlin police quelled twelve minor political clashes in which six persons were injured and 34 persons arrested. At Luebeck, one Fascist who was injured in a clash with Communists Saturday died today at Eutin.

In the neighborhood of the Battle of the Nations memorial at Leipsig, one hundred Communists fell upon four Fascists and manhandled them severely. One person was wounded seriously with a knife thrust. At Ludwigshafen two persons were injured seriously and six slightly during brawls between Fascists and their political opponents.

At Muelheim Communists invaded a Fascist meeting and hurled chairs into the assembly, injuring many. The police used their clubs freely to break up the disturbance. In Shoenebeck, near Madgeburg, Fascists attacked Social Democratic demonstrators. Many were hurt and a considerable number arrested.

Fifteen persons were sent to hospitals at Fankfort-on-Main when an automobile ran over a group of Communists.

2,000 Western Horses Sold To Soviet Gov't.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 1 (C.P.).—A sale of 2,000 Canadian horses has been negotiated with the Government of Soviet Russia by Alphonso Champagne of North Battleford, Sask., he reported on his arrival here over the week-end, following a business trip to Europe. The horses will be shipped from Western Canada at an early date.

Mr. Champagne, who formerly sat in the House of Commons for North Battleford, stated that his preconceived notions of conditions in the Soviet have been completely changed as the result of his visit to that country. "I found not only Government officials but the people generally friendly to Canada," he said, "and anxious to further commercial relations between the two countries."

LOCAL PUPILS GIVEN CHANCE TO SPECIALIZE

First Year's General Training Designed to Develop Aptitude For Some Particular Branch.

MR. MOON SPEAKS.

Tells Rotary Club of What is Being Accomplished in Local Vocational School.

By giving its pupils a varied experience in industrial processes during their first year the Peterborough Vocational School was endeavoring to make it easy for them to develop an aptitude for some particular industrial activity in which they were allowed to afterwards specialize, A. M. Moon told the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today in the course of a most interesting paper on Vocational Education.

Mr. Moon, who was introduced by Rotarian Peder Westbye, prefaced his description of the work done in the local school by giving a brief history of the development of vocational education in Canada beginning with the appointment in 1913 by the Federal Government at the request of labor, of a Royal Commission to study the whole question, both as to the facilities already provided in Canada and as to the policies followed in Britain, Germany, France, and the United States. This was followed by the passing of the Technical Education Act in 1919 by which the Federal Government made a grant of $10,000,000 to cover a ten-year period of assistance toward the development of vocational education in the various provices.

The speaker next dealt with the progress made in Ontario where the program authorized was even more ambitious than the Federal scheme. Vocational schools were soon established throughout the province with a total full time attendance of nearly 27,000 pupils, while night classes everywhere were largely attended.

The local Vocational School began its work in 1928, providing education in commerce, industrial arts and household arts. The Industrial Arts Department, the speaker explained, started with an enrollment of 60 two years ago, while this year there were 132 pupils. In their first year these pupils were given training in woodworking, machine shop practice, electricity, motor mechanics, etc., while 50 per cent. of their time was devoted to academic training, so that the course had a two-fold object of developing not only useful citizens, but more capable artisans. At the end of the first year pupils were permitted to specialize in whichever one of the branches of training that appealed most to them, and the school was satisfied that if the first years general training developed an appti-

HENRY NEW CHIEF STATES KENNEDY

Minister of Agriculture Believes Sinclair Will Stay Liberal Leader.

HAS RURAL CONFIDENCE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 1 (C.P.).—The Ottawa Evening Citizen, in a feature story to-day, says:

"Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, is to be Ontario's Premier as successor to Hon. G. H. Ferguson, who is going to London as Canadian High Commissioner, Col. the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, stated definitely to The Citizen when interviewed this morning. Col. Kennedy, who is in the capital to officially open the Ottawa Winter Fair this evening, gave it as his opinion that Hon. W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., will be confirmed as Ontario Liberal leader when the Provincial convention is held later this month.

"Col. Kennedy said he thought Mr. Sinclair will be continued as Liberal leader because he holds the confidence of the country, though he may not have just the same support from the city constituencies of the Province."

DESPERATE THUG TAKEN IN SCRAP AFTER ASSAULT

Aged Hamilton Woman Dragged Senseless Down Stairs of Home.

HUSBAND STUNNED.

Detective Badly Injured, Finally Overcomes Opponent in Dark.

HAMILTON, Dec. 1.—Near the unconscious form of an elderly woman, throttled and dragged from her bedroom over her invalid husband's battered body, fiendish brutality and the law fought a terrific battle on Saturday night—and the law triumphed.

In the darkness of a residence at 26 Bay Street South a skulking prowler attacked Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Thomson, aged 75, and then, scuttling in terror to hide on the approach of the police, fought like a rat in a trap.

Against a courageous detective, who purposely refrained from employing revolver or billy against an unseen opponent, the burglar, using the first object which came to his hand — a heavy glass tumbler—smashed it on the head of Detective Edward Burkett in a futile effort to escape, and was seen crashing backward into the bathtub of the washroom in which he was cornered.

The consequences of one of the most outrageous attacks of its kind in Hamilton's police history will face the unnamed thug in court; two elderly people attacked in the sanctity of their home, and as a result in a serious condition; the damage resulting from a ruthless rampage through the dwelling; an officer wounded in the discharge of his duty, and an attempt made to escape from custody in the police station.

Daughter Calls Help

The man—whose actual identity is unknown, but whose pockets held papers bearing the name of Robert Haliday, a recent emigrant from Scotland—was caught by the police through the help of Miss Alfetta Thomson, a daughter of his elderly victim, and Hugh Bennett of apartment 8, 174 Main Street West.

At 10.30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Thomson were alone in their bedroom—the husband having been ill for three weeks — when the door suddenly opened and a young stranger strode in. Mr. Thomson shouted for help, only to be beaten brutally by the intruder.

Mrs. Thomson appealed to the thug to spare her husband, telling him that he had been ill. His answer was to seize her by the throat, drag her from the room, and pull her down the stairway to the main hall, where he hurled her to the floor, her head striking and rendering her unconscious.

At this point the daughter, Miss Thomson, whose presence in the third floor room of the house was unsuspected by the prowler, hearing the commotion below and thinking that her father had had a relapse, peered out on the landing, and was horrified to see a strange man dragging her mother down the lower staircase.

TELEPHONES IN TAXICABS

Telephones in taxicabs might be "topping" when one learns to use them, but not now, according to patrons of the London taxis equipped with them. The novelty of telephones instead of speaking tubes has just been introduced, the instruments having been invented by a Londoner. But the riders get all mixed up with their "Are you there's?" "The mistake people make," says the inventor, "is in pressing the button next to the transmitter, instead of using the hand farthest away. It makes all the difference."

Wolves Lose Out To Wiley Hunters

NORTH BAY, Dec. 1. — Paul and Nere Gauthier of Corbeil have returned from Iron Bridge 70 miles east of the Sault, with eleven wolf pelts and a dozen red fox skins. A week ago two other members of the same family returned from the same district with a like number of wolf pelts, making a total of 22 for the family in five weeks' trapping. A general exodus of wolves is attributed to the operations of these boys at Corbeil. The animals probably are heading for the comparatively safe district near the Sault, where the hunters are —well, just ordinary. The Gauthier boys are now going into the woods near Tilden Lake.

AMAZING DENIAL BY 8 ENGINEERS

Soviet Prisoners Claim They Have Been Treated Gently—Gained in Health.

GAVE CONFESSIONS FREELY.

MOSCOW, Dec. 1 (CP)—Another amazing chapter has been added to the trial in the grand ball room of the historic old "House of Columns" here where eight Soviet engineers are facing execution for having plotted the overthrow of the Moscow Government.

The eight defendants Sunday, answering an article in a Warsaw newspaper that their confessions of intrigue had been obtained through coercive means by the "ogpu" or secret police testified that they had been treated gently by the Government agents and, far from suffering in prison had gained in health while in Government custody.

N. B. Krilenko, the Moscow public prosecutor, first read the article from the Warsaw newspaper aloud to the entire courtroom and then indignantly asked each of the defendants if it were true that their confessions came after a third degree and that the entire case was a frame-up.

One by one each of the eight prisoners took the stand and declared that the warsaw story, which was a publication of a letter denying participation in any plot and questioning existence of any plot, was "all lies" and reiterating that their confession had been made of their own free will, without inducement, promises or threats.

MISS EAGLESON HURT IN FALL

Millbrook Woman Slips on Icy Pavement on Saturday Night.

FRACTURES HIP.

MILLBROOK, December 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — Slippery pavements were responsible for an accident to Miss Mary Eagleson on Saturday evening, a nasty fall in front of the Armouries resulting in a fractured hip. Fresh snow over the ice-covered cement evidently was responsible for the misfortune.

Miss Eagleson, who was on her way to the post office for her mail when the accident happened, was removed to her home, King Street, by car, Dr. H. A. Turner giving the necessary medical attention. Only three years ago Miss Eagleson met with a somewhat similar accident when she slipped on an icy verandah and fractured her right wrist.

Prince of Wales Shows First Film

LONDON, Dec. 1 (C. P.).—The Prince of Wales yesterday assumed the role of film impresario.

In South London, he exhibited his own movie of African adventures before 700 former service men.

"It's entirely an amateur effort," the Prince told them. "Some of the captions are rather short, but that's not my fault."

The Prince expressed the hope that the spectators would "get as much of the enjoyment at seeing the really pictures which I got by taking them." At his special request no close shots of the film itself will be photographed.

G. HAYMAN DIES IN LONDON

Prominent Alderman's Wife Survived By Brother, Walter Oke, of This City.

HEART ATTACK FATAL.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 1. (CP)—The death of Mrs. George Hayman, wife of Ald. Hayman, occurred suddenly at her home here Saturday. First stricken with a heart attack at the noon hour, she died in a sleep a few hours later.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday.

Mrs. Hayman's maiden name was Oke. She was born in Port Hope, Ont., of pioneer English stock and lived there until 33 years ago, when she was married. She is survived by her husband, two children Howard of London, and Marion at home, and three brothers, William and Fred of Port Hope and Walter of Peterborough.

Ald. Hayman is a candidate for Mayor of this city at the elections being held to-day.

MILK IN TORONTO DROPS ONE CENT

Cut Comes After Long Discussion Between Producers and Distributors.

12 CENTS A QUART.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 1. (CP)—The price of milk to the consumers, starting to-day, will be 12 cents a quart as a result of an agreement arrived at by the Toronto Milk Producers and the Toronto Milk Distributors' Associations.

The producers after lengthy negotiations accepted the offer of the distributors of between $2.20 and $2.30 per hundredweight. The producers held out for $2.50 per hundredweight claiming they would not make a profit on less but finally agreed to the reduction on the understanding it would be passed on to the consumer.

The price of milk in Toronto was 12½ cents last summer and was raised to 13 cents per quart about two months ago when the price paid to the producers became $2.50.

MAN BADLY HURT IN AUTO SMASH

Thieves Fleeing Police in Stolen Car Crash Into Toronto Resident's Machine.

ONE IS CAPTURED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 1. (CP)—Speeding along an uptown street last night in a stolen motor car, two men, one of whom has been identified as Patrick Foley, Toronto, and who were alleged to have been intoxicated, struck another car broadside, probably fatally injuring Roger J. Sullivan, 25.

According to police the car driven by Foley struck Sullivan's machine with terrific force and hurled it over the sidewalk into a store doorway. Sullivan suffered a fractured skull and other injuries. His condition is critical.

Foley's companion escaped after the crash, but the former was taken into custody by police after treatment at a hospital where his injuries were said to be of a minor nature.

ENGLISH BANKER ON WAY TO U. S. IS CALLED HOME

Bank of England Governor Transfers From One Liner to Another.

LAUNCH IS USED.

No Explanation Made Explaining Cause of Unusual Action.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 1.—Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, who sailed from Southampton for New York on Thursday, was hurriedly recalled to England Saturday and, by a quick change in Cherbourg Harbor from the liner Bremen to the Majestic, he returned to London twenty-two hours after starting for the United States.

No explanation has been made regarding the urgency of his return, but the details of the rapid transfer have become known.

Mr. Norman sailed on the Bremen and while it was still in the English Channel he received a wireless for his return immediately.

Wireless to Majestic

The captain of the Bremen, knowing that the Majestic was due at Cherbourg, wirelessed her captain for a launch to be ready in the harbor. By a rope-ladder Mr. Norman and his party climbed down to the launch and were taken to the side of the Majestic, where they clambered aboard again by the same route. He disembarked at Southampton and went immediately to London.

The Sunday Express gives a graphic account of the transfer, saying it took place at midnight.

"A rope-ladder dropped from the lower deck of the Bremen" the paper continues, "and hung down the sheer side of the great liner. The Governor of the Bank of England with his hat pulled down over his eyes, clambered over the rail went, hand over fist, down the rope-ladder, swaying in the wind."

BAPTISTS HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Rev. C. J. Cameron, B.A., of Toronto, is Special Preacher on Sunday.

URGES PERSONAL SERVICE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1. (Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Sunday in the Baptist Church, Campbellford, was featured by their anniversary celebration, when the Rev. C. J. Cameron, B.A., of Toronto was the special preacher for the day. Services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. L. M. Smith, and at both periods of worship special music was rendered by the choir.

At the morning service Mr. Smith delivered a story sermon to the children who were in attendance in goodly numbers. Mr. Cameron participated by reading the lesson.

In introducing his subject at the morning service, Mr. Cameron stated that he wished to set before the people just one way whereby they could make their church successful. He said that every Christian gets orders, and if they acknowledge them they should display them. But this was not enough. To let ones light shine was only part of the duty. We must not only do this but must witness for the light. And before anyone can witness for Christ they must have the spiritual experience of Christ.

Taking for his text John 1:38 "What seek ye?" Mr. Cameron told the story of the calling of a new and the outcome of it, which was the calling of Simon, by his brother, Andrew, pointing out that Andrew was not satisfied with having found the Christ himself, but wanted his brother to do the same with the result that "He brought him to Jesus."

The preacher said that there were two thoughts that he wished to leave with the people. The first was

Choice Of Ferguson Pleases J. L. Garvin

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer)—The acceptance by Hon. Howard Ferguson Premier of Ontario, of the post of Canadian High Commissioner in London is described by the Sunday Observer as "a splendid illustration of the power of inspiration afforded by the Imperial idea."

"Here is a man," says the Observer which is edited by the celebrated J. L. Garvin, "who until now has lived in, and for, his native Province. In Ontario, whose Premier he has been for seven years, he has been all-powerful, the more so because Dominion politics have not allured him. But when the Empire calls he jettisons his whole scheme of life.

"This is a great adventure on which Mr. Ferguson no starts. With all our hearts we welcome him to the post which we are sure he will adorn."

92,000 MINERS GO ON STRIKE IN SCOTLAND

Hope Held Out That General Walk-out Will Not Be Staged.

7½ HOUR DAY IN EFFECT.

Conference With Owners May Avert Strike in Wales.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—A strike of 92,000 men in the coalfields of Scotland started yesterday, but Great Britain as a whole breathed a sigh of relief as it appeared certain there would be no general stoppage of work in the coalfields today when the new coal mines law goes into effect.

On Friday the situation appeared as dark as it could be. The miners' leaders, in a great majority of the districts, as well as the delegate conference meeting in London, had decisively turned down the plan of ninety hours' work per fortnight — the "spread-over" system—which was the only alternative the owners could propose to a wage-cut when the 7½-hour day becomes compulsory under the new Coal Mines Act.

Then, on Friday night, the Government intervened, and, in telegrams to both the owners and miners in all districts, urged some sort of temporary working agreement until further negotiations could be completed.

Effect of Spread-Over

The course of events since has been a welter of complex negotiations varying from district to district; but the fact remains there will be no general stoppage of work tomorrow.

The spread-over system would permit the owners to stretch the 45-hour week through five 8-hour days and one 5-hour day. The miners are bitterly opposed to this schedule, maintaining that 7½ hours is long enough for a man to stay in a mine at one stretch.

The menacing possibility of an extension of the strike to the South Wales mines appeared to have been averted yesterday, however, when the union delegates from that field decided by a large majority to accept a temporary settlement of disputes with owners, pending renewal of conferences which have been going on for some time. The next meeting of these conferees was scheduled for Tuesday.

AFRICAN AIR MAIL APRIL 1

Air mail service between Egypt and Cape Town, South Africa, is to be inaugurated April 1, 1931. It is hoped to open the northern half of the route, as far as Mwanza, on Lake Victoria Nyanza, by January 1. The service will connect with the London-Cairo air line. The aviation company expects to receive subsidies totalling $4,700,000 in the first five years.

Hands equally lovely!

Now wives who do all their own work have hands lovely as women with maids . . . thanks to Lux

Almost anywhere they may meet . . .

The woman of wealth—with maids at her call—the young wife who is homemaker—cook—dishwasher, too. Notice this amazing TRUE fact—

You can't tell, from their hands, which is which!

Everywhere wives are achieving this triumph . . . doing all the many tasks of a home . . . yet keeping their HANDS so EXQUISITE, so white—you'd think they never touched housework.

Women discovered the secret themselves. Washing fine things in Lux, they noticed how nice their hands looked afterward. Then began using Lux for dishes. Then for cleaning. In fact, whenever their hands touched soap and water!

Almost AT ONCE their hands showed the difference . . . became lovelier . . . SMOOTH, WHITE, like a GIRL'S!

So wonderful is Lux for the hands that beauty experts—with all their experience—say, "We can't distinguish between the hands of a woman with maids and the hands of the housewife who uses Lux."

Here is the Secret

Why is Lux so fine for the hands? The reason is this. Many soaps contain harmful alkali that dries up the oils of the skin, the oils that nature placed there to keep the skin smooth and white.

Lux does not dry these delicate oils. Those sparkling Lux suds in your dishpan are soothing and very bland.

Why not try Lux for YOUR dishes—it costs less than 1c a day!

HAILEYBURY'S PREDICAMENT.

Seldom does a municipality find itself in the position which is embarrassing the citizens of Haileybury at the present time.

Other communities sometimes suffer from too plentiful a supply of mayoralty candidates, but a situation that sees nobody ready to step into the chief magistrate's shoes is a decided novelty.

At this distance, it is a little difficult to diagnose the cause of Haileybury's predicament.

It may be that there is such a lack of community interest and responsibility that nobody feels in the least obligated to take up the task of running the town's business.

On the other hand, it may be that interest in civic government is so keen and criticism of governing bodies so trenchant that ambitious citizens refuse to accept a position that is apt to expose them to the "slings and arrows" of public criticism.

At all events Haileybury has no candidates for mayor unless the offer of the Toronto Globe to ship north a car-load of ambitious Queen City politicians is accepted.

A SEPARATE DEPARTMENT.

With the departure of Premier Ferguson and the rumored retirement of Hon. Chas. McCrea, it is stated that there will be in the near future a re-organization of the Ontario Cabinet.

There are many people who hope that the process will include the conversion of the Fish and Game Department into a separate department under the direction of a Minister who would be able to give his whole time to the business of conserving and controlling the Province's resources of fish and game and to the promotion of tourist traffic, an activity that might well be turned over to such a Minister.

The tourist situation is so intimately linked up with fishing and hunting that it would be highly advisable to have the one department deal with both.

It has long been the opinion of many Ontario sportsmen that the handling of problems in connection with the conservation of Ontario's wild life is a sufficiently important responsibility to justify the establishment of a separate department for this purpose.

At the same time there is a feeling that Ontario should conduct a more aggressive and effective tourist propaganda campaign, and as the majority of visitors are interested in the possibilities offered by Ontario to fishermen and hunters, the Minister of Game and Fisheries would be the logical person to be placed in charge of tourist promotion.

To expect a Minister to look after Ontario's mining activities and also be responsible for fish and game control, as has been the case for some time, is putting too great a responsibility upon one individual, and The Examiner is firmly of the opinion that the change suggested above would be a decided improvement over the existing arrangement.

YOUR GIFTS AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

In his latest advertisement to the people of Canada, this one addressed to "Christmas shoppers everywhere in Canada," Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, whose energetic campaign to stimulate the buying of Canadian goods deserves commendation, discusses a new angle of merchandizing when he pleads that in the purchasing of presents Canadians should choose gifts that will give Canadians jobs.

The figures quoted by the Minister are striking.

He estimates that Canadians every year spend well over $75,000,000 on things to be given away, mostly as tokens of esteem and affection.

The aggregate Christmas shopping bill alone, based on an average of $5 per capita, amounts to $50,000,000, and Mr. Stevens estimates that as the production of every $7,500 worth of such goods provides steady employment for one person, the money spent by Canadians on Christmas presents if confined to the purchase of goods produced in this country would keep 10,000 Canadians busy all year round.

More than that, the spending power of those 10,000 people would in turn help to give jobs to other Canadians.

The other day a citizen, who had been looking at a certain article he intended to purchase for a Christmas gift, found that it could be had in three or four stores at about the same price, but in only one case was the article Canadian-made.

He immediately decided to buy the Canadian product, believing that there was a moral obligation on his part to help provide a job for Canadians.

That is the attitude Mr. Stevens is appealing for—and that is the attitude The Examiner believes should be taken by every Canadian at this time.

Perhaps you have been careless in this respect and have failed to ascertain the origin of the goods you were purchasing.

The Christmas shopping season is here; why not help to make this a merrier Christmas for Canadians by insisting on Canadian-made goods—even if you have to take the trouble to look around a bit to find them?

In the closing words of this striking advertisement Mr. Stevens makes this plea, which should be earnestly heeded at this time:

> Remembering that this is the season of peace on earth and good-will to man, and that the relieving of unemployment is one of the most ideal ways of spreading Christmas cheer, may I not plead with all of you to restrict your Christmas buying as far as possible to things that have been produced in Canada, so that in addition to bringing joy to the recipients of your favor, you will be conferring great happiness on some fellow Canadian who is now out of work!

TONS OF MONEY IN CANADA.

Tell a man often enough that he looks sick and presently he'll feel sick.

There is money in this Canada of ours . . . tons of it. Savings deposits in Canadian banks increased in September, the last month for which figures are available, by $85,000,000 over August. They totalled $2,087,528,019 in that month.

I don't personally know a single person who has laid up or sold his car because of shortage of money. But I do know several who have bought new cars.

Take a look at the stock market sales totals in the newspapers. Hundreds of thousands of shares change hands each day. Somebody sells them, but on the other hand somebody also buys them.

To-day I talked with the driver of a soft-drink truck and he said: "Our October sales were 22 per cent. greater than September's." Last Saturday I was one of 20,584 persons at a football game. Last night 7,800 other hockey fans helped me to enjoy a game.

This week a Toronto motion picture house held over the current attraction for the third week because the crowds couldn't be accommodated. A department store executive told me ten days ago that they are running 10 per cent. above 1929. A newspaper to-day tells the story of a manufacturer whose business is 20 per cent. ahead of 1929 and this, incidentally, is but one of a series of prosperity articles which has been running in that newspaper.

I'm not trying to get across the fairy tale that business is booming. It isn't; and probably won't be for some little time. In fact, I hope it never booms, if a boom means inflated conditions such as were experienced in 1929.

But what I do contend and what I earnestly and conscientiously believe is this . . . that there is plenty of money in the country; that people are ready to buy good merchandise at fair prices and that dealers are selling that merchandise if they are trying to sell it.

In other words, the business is there for the fellow who goes after it, which is just another way of saying that you can sell 'em if you tell 'em.

Wouldn't it seem to you that we can start going somewhere if we just pull up our socks and start digging for sales instead of digging graves?

Why not trade some big chunks of gloom for an honest-to-goodness songbird? It's much nicer company.—Goodyear News.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

From a former Canadian now living in Hartford, Connecticut, The Examiner has received a copy of a letter which appeared a few days ago in the Hartford Times and purported to give an accurate description of conditions in Peterborough under the Liquor Control Act.

In forwarding this letter our correspondent says that he would like to hear from The Examiner as to the liquor situation here, "which can hardly be as wicked as 'Reader' has pointed out," the writer adds.

First, let us have the letter itself, which is as follows:

To the Editor of The Times:

Since the final vote was cast in the recent State elections throughout the country the tidal wave of controversial editorials on the subject of liquor traffic have subsided somewhat, but it is interesting to know certain reactions to the question which have come about in Ontario, Canada.

Ontario has Government control of the sale of liquor; yet there are more cases of intoxication, illicite sale and increasing growth of violation of the liquor law comparing the present conditions with the state of affairs during the rule of prohibition, which was introduced at the beginning of the World War by the Conservative party. It was the same party, under Premier Howard Ferguson, which introduced a measure providing for the Government sale of liquor in 1923.

Last fall a count was made of the number of liquor prosecutions in the police court of Peterborough, Ontario, over four months under Government sale, as compared with a similar period under prohibition. The records showed that there had been an increase of 400 per cent. in the number of liquor cases. For a period of years, before prohibition, the commitments to the Peterborough County all averaged 114 a year. During the approximately ten years of prohibition these commitments dropped to an average of around 14. Since the introduction of Government sale they have gone back to the former figure. Last year the Government stores sold $55,000,000 worth of liquor. The fact speaks for itself.

The information regarding Peterborough, which has a population of nearly 300,000, is, according to newspapers, indicative of the situation throughout the entire Province of Ontario. There is a large, well populated area in which both forms of Governmental control have been tried over a period of years. One form has succeeded well, but the present method is not a success. The question now arises, as the affairs in our own country are considered, would State control of liquor be any more successful than Government control in Ontario?

Hartford, Nov. 21. A READER.

Peterborough citizens will read this communication with a certain amount of surprise and a little elation, the latter cause by the fact that from a modest, bustling little city of some 23,000 souls this community has all at once bounded up into the metropolis class with a population, according to the writer, of "nearly 300,000."

The tone of the letter is in keeping with the accuracy of this estimate of Peterborough's population, as our readers will at once recognize.

Jail commitments here have somewhat increased in recent years, it is true, just as they have increased elsewhere in Canada and in the United States.

It would be just as logical to say that the increase, say in Hartford, was due to prohibition as it would be to credit the Liquor Control Act with the increase in Ontario.

The real test of any system of handling the liquor problem cannot be made by a comparison of a few figures, more or less inaccurate, that after all prove little or nothing.

The simple truth is that in this Province, under prohibition, we were breeding a contempt for law and becoming a generation of law-breakers.

Liquor was the favorite topic of conversation in many circles, just as it is over the border in large centres today, and the making of home-brew, the prices charged by bootleggers and the helpfulness of certain avenues of supply were discussed on every hand.

Men of all classes appeared to regard prohibition legislation as something to be broken with impunity.

To-day liquor has ceased to be the main theme, the liquor control law is regarded by most people as a reasonable compromise that has killed bootlegging as a major industry, and yet avoids the temptation of the open bar, and so far as Peterborough is concerned regard for law and order is as high as ever, there is little or no serious crime, and conditions morally and otherwise, we can assure our Hartford friend, will compare with those in any similarly sized community anywhere.

Yesterday's weather was not very pleasant, but rural Ontario probably enjoyed it more than it would a perfect Indian summer day.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

White of face, Aurore desperately was trying to steady the canoe. In her terrible dilemma, with that rear gunwale nearly awash, it was no longer of any moment to her whether Dorn could understand or not. She cried: "Jim, if you'll lie down again, lie very still and listen, with your head on my lap again, I'll tell you!"

It was only by her promise that she persuaded him to lie back obediently. His feverish excitement was warning not to resist him: not to deny him what he wanted to know. She divined what it was that would not let him rest: that stayed with him, a torment, when other memories were veiled or fantastically distorted in his mind; and as she dipped her kerchief overboard and laid it, cool and soothing, on his forehead, Aurore was thinking: "If he knew the truth, if I could only make him understand a little of the story . . . it's the source and cause of all this — his trouble now, and he'll never rest quietly till he does know . . . I think it would bring him peace."

The canoe drifted, but the night revanche running north up the middle of the lake carried it on toward its goal. A high-flying V of cranes on a night trip to marshlands over cast winged across the face of the moon, outstretching their long necks like broomsticks and gabbling like a flock of witches. On the bosom of the lake deep-diving ducks feeding in ten fathoms merely swam a few feet aside. A pair of wild swans, wariest of all the migrants, circled curiously around the ghostly canoe at a short distance, like two stately and ceremonial attendants upon its progress.

For a little while, bending low over him, Aurore asked Dorn questions, seeking to find out what he could and could not understand.

"Do you remember that night, three weeks ago, Jim, when Dad Bergelot brought me across to your tent, and you and I flew north? Can you remember that, dear?"

"Could I forget it?"

"And your trip into Edmonton and your return to me, and how we spent that morning exploring our island . . . the fox den, the bird nests, our little baby trout, Jim . . . can you remember that? And then — it was only yesterday! — when you took me away all day in your plane; and how we lit down in the Bighorn's Looking-Glass and talked for hours?"

Dorn nodded to all her questions. Aurore was beginning to see that he could understand more than she had thought; that only the day just passing was mercifully blank to him and as nonexistent as though it had not been. And when she saw that he could understand her, Aurore no longer wanted to keep from telling the story of her marriage, but seized upon it with frantic eagerness as something which would heal him.

She said: "Then you remember our talk, Jim, when I told you about my father . . . how he watched over me for seventeen years and I went with him on all his work and we lived in the mountains in tents and cabins and construction shanties. When he died I went down to Victoria and lived with Mother in a big house on a terrace. It was a new, strange life, Jim. I was dazzled by it, and I gradually forgot about the bush and forgot Dad's training; and at girls' school I was such a barbarian it made me ashamed of that old life.

"Mother's social position — she was a leader like Dad in all she did — that was entry for me into her own circle. Instead of having friends like my father and old Luke and the young field engineers who worked for Dad, I came to know men of another type. They weren't all like Henry Carter-Snowdon. By and large they were neither better nor worse than the men I'd known. They were just utterly different — products of their birth and environment and training, just as you and I are, Jim. You told me once, dear, that I must have had lots of attention from those men. And I did. I was young; I guess I brought a certain freshness or wildness out of the mountains; I had money and the prominence of the McNain name; and naturally, after I came back from school . . . Jim, I was flattered and my head was turned by having men who owned steamship lines and railroads and were powerful in politics — by having them make offers to Mother for me.

"But she kept me aloof. I can see why — now. She knew Carter-Snowdon was planning to get a divorce. She knew he liked me even before his separation. The fault wasn't all hers, Jim. She did throw us together after his divorce, and she swayed me and broke down with sarcasm and contempt those ideals Dad had given me. So far she was guilty, but in the end she left the decision entirely in my hands. I remember . . . one night she came into my room and told me what Carter-Snowdon had said, and she went out without urging me or saying another word.

"I remember my thoughts that night, Jim. I didn't like him — in God's truth, I didn't. I hardly knew him. He was so much older, I didn't understand his nature or his outlook, so how could I like him? But that did not seem important then. Jim, my mother had told me and made me believe, that marriage for love was a blind, irrational act — a school-girl's notion; and that sensible people married for more enduring reasons.

"How could I be sure she was wrong? There was the example of her and Dad: they had liked each other at first, and see how miserable their relations became! And I'd never been in love, Jim. I could talk about it and read about it and wonder about it, but till it came to me I couldn't realize what it meant. I was blind — worse than blind!"

For Dorn's sake Aurore had kept their narrative subdued and her voice unimpassioned. But into her last words, low and trembling, crept a penitence so bitter that it roused Dorn. He raised her hand to his lips.

"Yes, I can understand. I remember . . . when I first heard your voice in the darkness, when you stood under the torch in my tent . . . I never realized until then."

Aurore went on, fighting to be calm again: "But I was guilty of something worse than blindness in my thoughts that night. I yielded to the most sordid kind of promptings. In my mother's circle, at girls' school — all around me for three years — I'd heard nothing but 'good catches' and 'prestige' and 'marry up not down.' Hardly ever a word about affection or lifelong companionship in a sacred relation. Dad's memory was very dim and the mountains were far away, and it seemed I'd left that old life forever and would have to live this new one according to its own rules. It was up to me, I reasoned, to make the 'best catch' I could.

"That night I kept thinking how immensely rich and immensely powerful Carter-Snowdon was, and what my position would be if I married him. The prospect of that — it swept me off my feet, Jim. Whenever a worthy thought came to me, I fought it down. My mother had furnished me the weapons. Ideals won't stand sarcasm, Jim; they're too fragile. During that night I called back everything she'd told me in three years, and used it to beat down my own conscience.

"The next morning when I went into the library he was there talking to Mother, and she left us alone, and he told me he loved me and I — I promised him . . ."

Aurore's words trailed off into whispers and her voice broke, and for many moments, till Dorn's restless impatience recalled her, she was silent. A little breathlessly, forcing herself to the ugly narrative, she hurried on:

"You know now why I married him — because of his money and power and position. And I'll have to tell you why he wanted to marry me, or you never can understand what happened later and you'd think I was guilty of a great wrong in what I did. His reason wasn't his infatuation for me; he had been infatuated with others. He married me because I was political capital. It was a cunning and a deep-sighted political play — his marriage.

"There was the tremendous emotional appeal. It was a personal element, all favorable to him, injected into a political campaign. It was the kind of thing to appeal to common folk everywhere. With them marriage is a thing of the heart: in their minds it's all bound up with romance and beauty; and he knew it would have infinitely more sway over them than any platform or dry statement of policy.

"But his chief reason was my name. I was always introduced to people as Roger McNain's daughter, and that's how folk everywhere thought of me. In his lifetime my father was a leader, and powerful; but he never had half the power or the following then that he had after his death, when people began to understand what he'd been fighting for. His name has tremendous power; it's come to be the rallying cry of the reform party — of all Carter-Snowdon's enemies. Think of him marrying into their camp! Think how common folk everywhere would see our two names linked, and what the effect on them would be!

"We were married in Prince Rupert. Secretly. He had told me that with this campaign on his hands he could not spare time for all the lengthy social obligations that our marriage called for. But I saw later that this reason which he gave me was a lie. He knew his political enemies were going to use my father's name as their slogan and his policies as their platform. He wanted them to; he schemed to let their campaign get fully under way, to be irrevocable; and then — when they had committed themselves and could not draw back — then he would announce that he had married Roger McNain's daughter, and blast their plans, and make his enemies appear ridiculous! That's why our marriage was secret!

"Just after the wedding we started across for Edmonton. It was that morning, during our first real talk, that I got a glimpse into his nature. Something had come over him — some change; and it set me to wondering, it made me uneasy. I understand now — he was sure of me and didn't have to dissemble any longer. That's why he changed. He was tired of acting a part to please a silly girl.

"I was appalled by his mercenary outlook. The forests we passed through — he thought of them only as so much timber to be graded and cut and marketed, and of mountains as big heaps of ore to be mined, and of wild creatures as things to be shot for his sport when he was vacationing at one of his hunting lodges.

"That glimpse of his soul, of the man I was married to. . . . But, Jim, it was nothing, it was only the faint beginning of what happened later and of the horror that grew on me all that day. We were travelling incognito; but just east of Hazelton, a rancher from down Chilcotin way — he must have seen and recognized Carter-Snowdon — this man came into our coach. He was a man in his forties, big and powerful and wearing a gun; I saw the bulge of it against his breast. He didn't recognize me. He must have thought I was Carter-Snowdon's — he didn't know I was married, for he pointed his finger at me and he said to me in terrible contempt: 'So you've taken the place that my girl had with him last summer! I'm going over to Winnipeg now, miss, to tell her she can come home.' Then he turned on Carter-Snowdon. I never in my life, Jim, heard such slow, deadly words — like bullets dropping on a pan. The last thing he said was, 'I've got a wife and two boys; that's why' — and he touched his breast pocket — 'that's why I'm not killing you!'

"Carter-Snowdon didn't deny what the man said. He couldn't; it was true on the very face of it. He didn't even show any shame; but I could see he was shaken inside with rage and his fingers twitched and he wanted to murder the rancher for exposing him — before me.

"He tried to take my mind off the incident by talking about his campaign. He had the brazen effrontery to tell me he'd have to appear on the platform with him. He talked about the vote-value of my name and the plans of his enemies; and it was only then, Jim, that I began to see down into his real motives in the marriage and see how I'd been traitress to my father and to his loyal friends and to all the principles he had stood for.

"It was revolting to me — the prospect of being exhibited, of dragging a proud name down, of being publicly used. I asked him — I was angry by then, Jim — I demanded to know if that was the reason he had married me. He laughed and he said, 'No, not the whole reason.' He looked at me in a way he'd never done before and he said, 'You're almost reason enough by yourself,' and he put his arms around me. It made me shudder. I never realized, till I saw that look on his face and he began talking a simpering language to me, that body and soul he was repugnant and loathsome in my sight; and I began to know then what love in marriage meant and that without love it's a hideous thing that violates all a girl's most sacred instincts.

"All that afternoon I heard nothing but the stinging, scorching words the rancher had lashed him with: 'You great white beast!' — 'You big drooling brute!' And as evening shut down it seemed to me the hours of my life were numbered. I prayed that the sun would never set. I prayed that the train would plunge down into a black canyon. I once thought to bargain with him: if he would never touch me, I'd travel with him till the campaign was over and then go away.

"But I knew he'd never release me. I could never get a divorce. What grounds did I have? None — none that any court could ever, ever understand. And I knew he'd fight me — to protect his name — fight me with all his power and money, and keep me from getting a divorce. And that day, that afternoon, that night, the law itself would uphold his power over me. I was caught trapped, in his coach, in his power, his wife. To-morrow, in Edmonton . . . I had friends there, I could flee to them, but to-morrow, if it ever came — I'd no longer care then what happened to me. So I sat there hopeless, waiting, with no strength or courage to fight him . . ."

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 2 p.m to 3 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. and from 5 p.m. o 7 p.m

Unexpected and surprising events will be ground out of the mills of Destiny on this date. The astrological influences will be energising, and affairs will be attached with vim and vigor. The fruits of effort will be disappointing.

The child born on this December 1st will have a sunny disposition, and a vivid personality, and it will charm its way through this world. It will be an indifferent student, but will have an alert mind and an observant eye.

Your nature is not an unlikeable or unsolvable one, but procrastination and irresolution have made your character a non-dependable one. You become so used to putting things off, and are so inclined to think life is a prolonged picnic, that when confronted with something which demands orderly, concise thinking, and punctual efficient action, you are not ready to deliver the goods. Your good intentions are poor substitutes for neglected duties. The world soon tires of hearing "I am going to," when it is listening for "I have."

You are usually in a good humor, although your indifference to your own responsibilities, does not promote good humor, in those about you. You are not enough of a genius to be forgiven for your temperamental eccentricities. You have considerable individuality, and originality is displayed in your work. Nature gave you a six-cylinder mind, the value of which you have not appreciated and the power of which you have never exhibited.

You are never happy with your superiors, as you yourself wish to be "it." You must, to be happy, be the speaker and not the audience. A vivid imagination and a tendency to romance makes you an interesting entertainer. You are not an unconvincing talker, although, for the sake of color, you do not always stick to facts. Your life will never run along a level plane.

OMEMEE VETERANS HOLD RE-UNION

Enjoyable Gathering Held in Basement of Presbyterian Church.

OMEMEE, December 1. — A very enjoyable function was held in the Presbyterian Church basement here, when the returned men of the district held a re-union. The gathering was presided over by Dr. W. H. McPhee, and an entertaining program, together with a sumptuous banquet provided by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church, made the evening most enjoyable. The toast to the King was given by Mr. Havelock Fee of Peterborough; to our fallen comrades, by Mr. Bannon, responded to by Mr. Curtis; to the ladies by Mr. T. Rice, responded to by Mrs. (Dr.) McPhee; to our visitors by Mr. Brockley, responded to by Rev. J. E. Whitham of Cavan.

Solos were rendered by Mrs. Elliott, Mr. MacKay, and Rev. J. T. Blanchard. Community singing included such numbers as "Pack all your troubles," "Tipperary" and "Take me back to dear old Blighty" brought back very vividly the memory of the hectic times which were experienced twelve and more years ago.

The committee in charge of these arrangements is to be congratulated on the splendid success of such a gathering, which we here will be the forerunner of greater things in the days to come, not only as a fitting remembrance to our brave men, but also as a contribution to the abolition of a system which breeds war with all its horror and tragedy and unnecessary sacrifice, and also to keep alive the ideals for which these men died.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1. — Exports of cheese, eggs and butter from Montreal to Europe have ended for the season. With 22,690 boxes exported last week, the total for 1930 was 849,513 boxes, as compared with 940,484 boxes in 1929. This was the smallest export total and a new low level since the decline of cheese exports started twenty-five years ago.

Exports of eggs, all being United States eggs, brought here in bond, were 3,496 cases last week, and 30,527 cases for the season.

Exports of Butter Increase.

Exports of butter were 163 boxes for the season, as compared with 4 boxes in 1929.

On the produce and dairy market prices were unchanged. Butter, grass-made, regraded, was quoted at 29c a pound. Receipts last week were 3,306 boxes.

Ontario cheese was 12½c to 12¾c, and Quebec 12c to 12½c a pound, with receipts for last week totalling 5,806 boxes.

Fresh Extras at 60c.

Carlot prices for fresh eggs were: Fresh extras, 60c.; fresh firsts, 55c, and pullets 50c a dozen. Last week's receipts were 6,643, of which the majority were American eggs going through here for export.

New Brunswick Green Mountains were 95c per 80-pound bag on the potato market. Prince Edward Island potatoes were $1 for Cobblers and $1.10 for Mountains per 90-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, December 1. — Sudden strength developed in the corn market Saturday and gave all cereals an upturn in price at the last. A widespread unsettled weather likely to impede the movement of corn to market did much to emphasize the fact that stocks of corn available for distribution were unusually meager. Furthermore, buyers were prompt to act on talk which went around that four-cents-a-bushel setback in corn values, as compared with the week's high point appeared to call for quicker readjustment.

Closing quotations on corn were firm at the day's topmost level, ¼c to 1⅝c higher than Saturday's finish. Wheat closed irregular ⅛c off to ¾c up; oats, ¼ to ⅝c advanced and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 1. — After an erratic session the wheat market showed fractional losses, ranging from ⅛c to ¾c in Saturday's short session.

Late buying by New York interests brought the values up from the low points of the day, but generally it was a day of quite active selling, with the evening-up of speculative accounts and the unwinding of spreads between Winnipeg and Chicago. Export trade was meagre.

Only a fair demand existed for cash wheat, while business in coarse grains was light and featureless.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Cheques for the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share were received by the stockholders of L blaw Groceteria Company, Limited, to-day and in a brief message accompanying it is stated: "Our shareholders will be pleased to know that the business of the company continues satisfactory. As the number of our shareholders increases, the number of people interested in the company in reases, the management bespeaks the co-operation of the shareholders in increasing sales and thus assuring continuance of profits This can be done by shareholders buying from the company's stores and recommending the stores to their friends."

Loblaw Grocerteias is one of the few companies to publish earning and sales figures throughout the year and stockholders are herefore kept well informed of progress In 1930 the company to date has been able to maintain sales and profits well up to the level of the preceding year

Many of the most important advances in the production and distribution of Dairy Products have been developed by Borden Companies, and through well defined co-ordination channels, made available to all bordern units. "The pamphlet will be interesting to former stockholders of City Dairy in that the reverse side contains lis: of associated companies, there location and products giving an idea of the diversified operations of the company which they now have an equity in.

Shareholders of City Dairy, who exchanged their shares for those of the Borden company under the recent sale of the former company to the latter, received their first dividend cheques from the Borden Company to-day. The dividend by Borden is at the rate of $3 annually against $2 on City Dairy shares, however. City Dairy shareholders lost two months dividend in the exchange which they will get back in time through the higher rate on the securities now held. Some idea of the operations of the Borden Company are contained in a pamphlet mailed along with the cheques giving a list of associated companies and the products they distribute. In a brief memo shareholders are told the advantage, in fact, the vital necessity of the research in the successful conduct of modern business is recognized to-day by economists, by industrial leaders, and by investors." Among the Associated Borden companies, research is being carried on constantly, to perfect products to improve production methods and to eliminate wastes, in distribution.

Insurance Folder.

"Little Faith" is the title of a folder published by the Ontario Equitable ife and Accident Insurance company containing a reprint of an article on Canada that appeared in 1881 in London "truth" and essays of Macaulay, the famous English essayist and published in 'Edinburgh review," of January 1930! The article from truth has been published in those columns before and is very pessimistic on the Dominion. Prophecies made of disaster for Canada failed to materialize and instead of blue ruin there have been years of prosperity. Macaulay's essays take Britain to task for the pessimism at that time and most all of his predictions have since been fulfilled.

The Ontario Equitable Life says they have a different purpose in presenting these two old documents at this time when hesitancy and an element of uncertainty have entered public thought

"This is assuredly not the first time for us or other nations that the outlines of the future have been obscured by temporary difficulties. Sometimes we forgot that, and we forget also how trivial these difficulties appeared in retrospect, judged by the great developments which have been successfully lifted us to new heights."

In conclusion it is said these two article offer us examples for present benefit. "Those who lack vision however, they may dress their position with fine arguments about the limits of progress, make a sorry spectacle in the light of events of a few years later."

COPPER BUYING IMPROVES OVER WEEK-END WITH A PRICE INCREASE

Prices of Both Standard and Electrolytic Up at London in Opening To-day.

DULL MARKETS PREDICTED.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—According to New York advices copper buying improved towards the end of last week and all customs smelters to-day were offering metal at 11 cents delivered. Sales were made in the Domestic market at that price Saturday and fair sales were reported to-day at the same level. Large producers continue to hold at 12 cents delivered. Prices of both standard and electrolytic copper were up in London in the opening session to-day. Standard copper was quoted at £48 17s 6d and increase of £1 17s 6d and electrolytic £51 10s a gain of 10s. Tin was unchanged at £114 17s 6d, lead off 6s 4d at £15 17s 6d and zinc unchanged at £14 6s 3d.

The oracle of Jordan Street, a well known figure in the local financial district is looking for dull markets for some time to come. He bases his opinion on what he claims to be very best authority there are, he says, only two sure buys in the market at present gold stocks and shoe laces.

Drilling for oil about six miles from Meaford, Penn-Ryan Oil and Gas Company has purchased additional equipment to carry down their well which has reached a depth of 1,370 feet. According to authorities who have examined the structure production can be expected with the next 150 feet. A contract has been let for a gas well on the Johnston farm in the vicinity where a gas strike caused considerable comment about six years. This should be completed, officials believe before Christmas.

By December 10 the new building for McIntyre-Porcupine mill will be completed and the installation of equipment well under way. Progress made assures completion of the flotation section some time in March when this section will be operated and part of the equipment from the old mill transferred to the new. The entire plant of 2,000 tons daily capacity is expected to be in operation in June with little, if any, loss of production in the meantime.

Surface stripping and trenching on the Lakeview group, on Ollie Mountain, 60 miles up the North Thompson river from Kamloops is reported to have a mineralized zone 50 to 50 feet wide in which a band of heavy sulphide arsenide ore, assaying from $80 to $310 to the ton has been encountered. Premier Gold has acquired control of this property and is pushing development.

The street is awaiting with considerable interest the result of the Noranda directors' meeting which will probably be held this week to consider the matter of a dividend declaration.

The recent rise in price of copper has changed the picture somewhat general opinion previously anticipating a further reduction or passing of the payment due early in 1931.

BUILDING PERMITS GREATER FOR MONTH

Totals For November Equal $19,350 Against $14,000 For Same Period in 1929.

Another note of optimism was sounded to-day in the figures given out by City Engineer Parsons for building during the month of November. While the building activity during the month was slight as compared with the high totals registered in the summer season, still it was greater than in November of last year.

Total building for the month was $19,350, as compared with $14,000 for the same month in 1929. Five dwellings accounted for $14,900 of the total.

This brings the city's building costs up to the new high of $727,525 for the year. No year in the city's history has reached that total. The best 1929 could do was $561,803.

W. J. Lundy is building a house on Brewer street with five rooms, one and a half stories, to cost $1,500. Two houses, each to cost $4,500, are being built on the west side of Monaghan Road by the T. A. Brown Construction Company. Both will have six rooms, two storeys and be heated by hot air. John Lathford is building a $2,400 house of six rooms at 136 Prince street. Russel Henry is building a six-roomed house at an estimated cost of $2,000 on Lot 3, McDonnel street.

Repairs to 495 Donegal street, which house was damaged by a recent fire, are being made by H. Huffman and Sons at an estimated cost of $1,800. The Toronto Savings and Loan Company is taking off the iron roof on 402 George street and putting on a tar and gravel roof. The work is costing $1,200.

NEW PEND OREILLE MILL IS ON THREE-SHIFT RUN

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1.—Pend Oreille Mines and Metals, Ltd., started milling operations at the Josephine Mine on Monday. The hill, which is of 200 tons capacity, is running at full time on a three-shift basis.

A carload of lead concrete will leave the mine for the smelter today says a Metaline Falls report. From 30 to 40 men are employed. Production was started in the belief that prices of metals had scraped bottom. Operations will be enlarged in the Spring, when it is believed metals will have advanced and activity in mining becomes general.

Source of the ore is the body entered for 200 feet on the 200-foot level of shaft workings. Its average metallics content is reported at 20 per cent. The same body has been opened by a tunnel on the horizon 180 feet lower and its continuity shown by a raise between these levels. All work has been in ore since completion of the tunnel.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

While there was a fair trade for a week-end session passing in the local wheat pit, volume was not large by any means. Opening prices were fractionally lower and the market held steady during the first period, but around mid-session there was some selling by southern interests that depressed prices 1⅜ to ⅝ under the previous close, November and December being the weakest months. There was also some local selling of the December against purchases of May. Later a little buying came in from New York which started locals buying, and offerings being very light, a good reaction took place, the early losses being recovered with May and July advancing from ⅛ to ⅜ above the previous close. Insofar as export business was concerned, it was very small, possibly 200,000 bushels in all positions. However, there is a more friendly feeling towards the market, and good local support develops on the recessions. The cash market was dull with only a small demand for certain grades from shippers to fill boat space. Offerings were light and all spreads were unchanged. There was no change in the flour situation. Liverpool closed ⅝ lower, and B. A. was ⅛ higher at the close. Country marketings Friday were 1,139,000 bushels, as against 685,000 for the same date a year ago. Winnipeg futures closed ⅞ to 1 lower selling off at the close. The market appears to be pretty well evened up outside of the spreads being held by American interests.

Coarse grains. — These markets were inclined to be rather weak. Trade was light, with some switching from the nearby months to the deferred. Cash markets very dull with demand poor. Oats closed 1 cents to ⅛off; barley unchanged to ⅛ lower, and rye ½ to 1⅛ lower.

Flax—This market was a little firmer and crushers were in the market for small amounts. Offerings were light.

Liverpool due ½ to ⅝ lower on Winnipeg.

GANGS DIGGING STORM DRAINS

One Hundred and Sixty Men Given Jobs Under Unemployment Relief Scheme.

SNOW CLEARING PLANS.

Snow and a cold westerly wind failed to keep the men given jobs under the city's unemployment relief scheme away from their work this morning. One hundred and sixty of them, who returned to work on Friday morning after a week or two weeks' lay off, were busy all day with pick and shovel digging storm drains.

The city has five gangs at work, City Engineer Parsons stated. The men want the work, and the city intends to proceed with it throughout the winter, or until all the money set aside for the jobs has been used up.

Street Cleaning

As fast as the snow falls on the city's streets it will be removed, Mr. Parsons said. Last year the city introduced a snow removing program which kept the city's roadways clear of snow and allowed free movement of cars and other vehicles. The work cost the city $4,600 and according to Mayor Denne was worth all of that.

The city's trucks will be used as graders with snow plows attached in front to sweep the snow unto the side of the streets, Mr. Parsons said. Later gangs of the city's unemployed will be given the job of shovelling it unto sleds which will carry it to places where it cannot interfere with the city's busy traffic.

MAJ. C. SHEPARD TO GO ON TRIAL

Former Belleville Man Faces Charge of Murdering His Wife.

GOV'T HAS 40 WITNESSES.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 1.—Maj. Charles Shepard, army medical corps officer, formerly of Belleville, Ont., charged with the murder of his second wife, Mrs. Zenna Shepard, goes to trial here tomorrow in Federal District Court.

Both the Government and the defense have assembled their witnesses here for the trial of the 59-year-old defendant, who was charged in an indictment with poisoning Mrs. Shepard in June, 1929, while the Major was stationed at Fort Riley, Kas. Forty witnesses were here to testify for the Government, among them Los Angeles relatives of Mrs. Shepard, and Miss Grace Brandon, San Antonio, Tex, stenographer, identified by the Government as a recipient of Major Shepard's attention while he was at Brooks Field in 1928.

English divorce cases filed in the last 21 months numbered more than 4,000.

ISSUE SHOWS 1 POINT GAIN OVER SATURDAY

General List Stocks Move Within Small Fraction of Last Week's Close.

ON TORONTO EXCHANGE.

Most of Oils Tend to Ease With Imperial and Supertest Off.

TORONTO, Dec. 1. (CP)—Se Stations rose to a new high on the movement of 36½ this morning, up a point from Saturday's final.

Stocks over the general list moved slowly, always within a small fraction of last week's close. Apart from Service Stations no interest was show in the general market and where demand did not come in stocks were allowed to settle. Most of the oils tended to ease; Supertest was back to 29 this morning. McColl did nothing and B. A. Oil, Imperial sold fractionally lower, International Petroleum holding unchanged to slightly higher.

Ford was unchanged from Saturday's final and Nickle, Brazilian and a few individuals scattered throughout the list added approximately ¼ point.

HERTZOG IS GIVEN WARM WELCOME AT CAPE TOWN

Premier Returning From Imperial Parley Met By Huge Delegation.

HOPES NOT REALIZED.

Appeals to South Africans to Rise Above Party Interests and Passions.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, December 1 (C.P. Cable via Reuters). —A rousing welcome was given to Prime Minister James Hertzog when he returned to Cape Town to-day from the Imperial Conference at London. A huge official delegation invaded the liner on which he arrived and took the Prime Minister to the City Hall for a hearty civic welcome.

"Our expectations were realized, but our hopes were not," Premier Hertzog said in a speech at the City Hall, to a great throng. So far as the constitutional question was concerned, he said that effect would be given within a year to the declarations of the conferences of 1926 and 1930. "After that there will be no occasion to trouble anyone," he said amid cheers.

Must Be Satisfied.

"So far as the economic question is concerned," Premier Hertzog continued, "we would have liked more facilities for disposal of our products, but we must be satisfied that we were successful in retaining the existing preferences for another three years."

Premier Hertzog continued that after his visit to Geneva he was impressed by the League of Nations' tremendous influence on the world. The League never contemplated maintaining world peace by force. Peace had to be maintained by moral influence.

"I am not one of those, however, who are prepared at this moment to entrust the keeping of world peace to the League, as that moral influence has not yet matured," Premier Hertzog added.

The Prime Minister concluded with an appeal to South Africans to rise above party interests and passions so the people could come together and become one solid nation. It could not be denied that there was still an estrangement between certain sections over certain questions, he said, but as these were now definitely settled there was no reason why every section should not work together harmoniously.

Hon. N. C. Havenga, Finance Minister of the Union, who accompanied Premier Hertzog to London, said they were firmly convinced that the Imperial Conference had laid foundations which would prove of the greatest importance in the future to all members of the British Commonwealth in connection with trade facilities.

FIVE YEAR PLAN SEEN AS SUCCESS

Originator of Russian Industrial Scheme Confident After Two Years.

RESULTS UP TO SCHEDULE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (C.P.).—In a despatch from Moscow, Valerian V. Kuibyshev, vice-president of the Council of People's Commissars and President of the State Planning Commission of the Soviet Union, gives the Soviet view of progress of the five-year industrialization plan in Russia.

The article is based on a statement made especially to the Associated Press.

In two years of operation, M. Kuibyshev, asserts, the Soviet five-year industrialization plan not only has succeeded beyond expectation but has given every promise of completion within four years instead of five.

"The present task," says M. Kuibyshev, who is responsible for putting the five-year plan into operation, "consists of fulfillment of the plan before schedule, that is, within four years."

In an exhaustive report on the first two years of the plan's operation, which ended October 1, M. Kuibyshev presents figures to show an increase beyond the planned production estimates in every department mentioned; not in a single one he lists do the results come beneath what had been produced.

Visitor To Hospital Returns As Patient

(Special to The Examiner)

OMEMEE, Dec. 1—A few hours after having visited Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay on a business mission Albert Edwards, salesman for the Ovaltine Company of Toronto paid a hurried return visit as a patient.

He was travelling down King's Highway No. 7, when at about 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, four miles west of Omemee his car skidded on the icy surface of the road for a distance of 35 feet, after which it slid to the south side of the road, overturned in the ditch and faced in the opposite direction.

Mr. Edwards sustained severe acerations to the left side of his scalp, as the result of broken glass. Traffic Officer Victor White who came across the wrecked car a few minutes later, found the injured man in a nearby farmhouse awaiting the doctor. He was bleeding freely. The officer rendered first aid, and Dr. Earl of Omemee inserted nine stitches in the wound, before ordering the man to hospital.

Lyric Moment

An Interview by Robert Harstsone given to "A Bystander at the Office Window."

OUT OF THE MASS of opinions, pro and con, which are being so freely expressed these days relative to the possible solution of the Western Farmer's problems and lower-priced wheat, a quiet chat which the Bystander had this week with Robert Harstone of Peterborough stands out vividly as a brief, but very practical sizing-up of the situation.

Mr. Harstone, an old friend, favored us with a short call recently while in Toronto. Just some little time previously he had completed a business trip into the Western Provinces, where he has large interests. It might, perhaps, be best first to explain that Mr. Harstone operates some 6,000 acres of farm lands on the prairies and has been vitally interested in Western farming for more than a quarter of a century. So, when he dropped in for a few moments, we quite naturally asked him what he thought would be the outcome of the present wheat-price situation.

"I have unbounded confidence in the West," said Mr. Harstone, at once. "I say that without reservation, notwithstanding the present problems which are facing that section of the Dominion. I have unbounded faith in the Western farmer and his ability to meet this very situation. The practical farmer needs no advice from any one. He has thoroughly sized up the situation and he knows how to deal with it, just as he knows how foolhardy would be many of the schemes outlined for trying to secure for him a price for his wheat that is above what the world will pay for it. He does not need the help or advice of outsiders, beyond one very definite source, and that is the readjustment of prices by the people who are seeking to sell him something. He is ready to help himself, but he must have the co-operation of the rest of the country in readjusting its prices for the commodities he has to buy—a readjustment that must be made in ratio to his curtailed income from his chief product. By whom? The manufacturers of implements, the loan companies and the bankers. In other words, lower overhead costs.

"It is a waste of time to discuss the wheat-price situation itself," Mr. Harstone continued. "All the talk in the world and all the resolutions of governing bodies that might be passed will have no effect in changing the price which foreign countries are prepared to pay for our wheat; though the farmer can be excused for wondering why, for instance, with this vast reduction in wheat, the price of commodities, such as bread, manufactured from this lower-priced wheat, has not come down. The farmer, therefore will have to curtail his buying activities until adjustments are made that will once more justify him in spending freely.

"You know the previous situation. The Western farmer was oversold to the saturation point by high-pressure salesmen for machinery and other farm equipment and luxuries. He purchased those implements on the basis of his high-priced wheat, and he paid for his threshing, his help and his freight on the same ratio. With lower prices for his wheat, he must and will adjust himself, and he will be enabled to do so much more rapidly if there is a proper and fair adjustment of the prices he must pay for his needs. For the moment, he is attempting to meet the situation with practically everything out of balance. Also, he was misled in practical politics when he voted for a change of Government—a change which has disappointed him and has been far from bringing him the relief, or even a sense of relief, as was promised him. He has to forget about that and face the problem of economics as it particularly affects him, his family and his farm.

"No, I have no desire whatever to offer advice to the farmer on what he should do," emphasized Mr. Harstone. "The practical farmer does not need my advice or that of any one else. He knows his business just a little better than the arm-chair critics who are setting out to tell him. Tower-of-Babel fashion, what he ought to do. He didn't expect the drop in wheat nor the sudden flooding of the markets with Russian wheat, but now that he realizes just what has happened the Canadian farmer will adjust himself, and other people who sell to him must adjust their prices to meet the same thing that he is facing—a world situation

"The farmer in the West realizes to-day, as he never did before, that his first duty in connection with farming is to make provision for his family by having cows, hogs, hens and other live stock on his place. Any grain crop he might have would be for the purpose of meeting incidental debts, taxes, interest, and so forth."

Mr. Harstone said it was true that the tenant farmers and the wheat growers who neglected mixed farming were very hard hit at the present time. "But," he added, "the practical farmer who has run his farm, first, to make a living for himself and his family by growing and raising as many of the practical necessaries of life as his farm would permit, is not so hard hit, and he will be the first to recover from the present slump. All he needs is the co-operation I have mentioned."

Stock Market Ticker Briefs and Flashes

Trading through the first hour was dull. Price changes in Steel and Amn. Can were confined to fractional area around Saturday's closing levels. Amn. Tel. was in moderate supply selling off to 186, while N. Y. Central dipped to 128¾. On the other hand Allied Chem. firmed up to 200 and Woolworth reached a new high up 5-8. Generally speaking however, the market was sluggish and uninteresting clearly showing disposition of financial community to await Presidents address, in fresh light of course of business in coming months.

Copper buying improved towards the end of last week and all the Customs Smelters are at 11 cents a pound delivered, in domestic market. Foreign sales in forenoon trading come to slightly over 2,000,000 lbs. Largest buying since the lull that followed advance of price to 12.30 abroad. This 2,000,000 lbs. was of regular shares at 12.30 a pound at Mamburg, Havre and London. Large producers continue to hold at 12 cents delivered in domestic market.

Grain, Chicago.

Little interest was taken in the wheat market early. With market slightly easier in sympathy with Liverpool and Winnipeg the latter dropped around one cent from Saturday close. After the opening some new May was wanted at 79 by Commission houses on resting orders. Corn firmer on absence of deliveries, but figures were not maintained due to scattered Commission houses selling trade mainly local.

Higher prices for wheat are dependent on broader general buying power. At these levels and under present weather conditions, it is no time to get bearish on corn.

LARGE INCREASE IN BIRTH RATE

Births in Peterborough will reach a new all-time record this year. Full information of just how busy the "stork" has been here this year was gained from the City Clerk's office this morning.

There's no doubt about the record. Up to Saturday night 654 births were registered in the city this year. Comparing these figures with the total for the first eleven months last year, 580, which was also something of a banner year in itself, it is found that 74 more babies arrived this year.

November did its share in adding to the birth total, there being 62 new arrivals last month, as compared with 53 in the same month in 1929.

Marriages Decrease

Sad to relate, however, this year has not been so auspicious for the love-lorn. Whether the business depression has made the swains more hesitant or the moon is losing its appeal, or the girls getting less beautiful, or more cautious, the records do not disclose. They do show that there have been only 186 weddings this year as compared with 226 in the first eleven months in 1929.

November added to the decline in nuptials. There were only 11 as against 29 in the same month last year.

IMPROVED DEMAND NOTICEABLE IN HIGHER-PRICED MINE ISSUES

International Nickel and Noranda Both Fractionally Above Saturday's Close.

LIGHT TRADING.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 1. (CP)—A somewhat firmer feeling was evident on the mining market at the opening of the week to-day. Trend continued mixed, but improved demand was noticeable for some of the higher-priced issues. Trade was in light volume.

International Nickel and Noranda were both fractionally above Saturday, former selling up 35 at $18.10 and latter 60 at $17.25 at noon. Lindsleys were unchanged. White Lake and Abana were slightly higher.

Golds Irregular.

Golds were an irregular group, McIntyre, selling in one lot at $17, showing a decline of 60. Big Missodri and Granada displayed small recessions at 40 and $1.45. Hollinger added another 5 to recent gains at $6.15, Wright-Hargreaves was up 4 and Kirkland Lake gold a point at 46. Nining Corp. fell 5 to $1.50.

Home Oil firmed a couple to $2.12 and Acme Gas a fraction to 33. Calgary and Edmonton and Calmont were off a cent or so each.

LOCAL PUPILS

tude for one particular branch it was doing a most desirable work.

The night classes, Mr. Moon explained, consisted of some forty classes a week, covering a large range of subjects. The co-operation of a number of local industries had been obtained, and this, the speaker pointed out, was essential, inasmuch as if the school was not turning out the class of pupils that could be usefully absorbed into the city's industries, it was not fulfilling its purpose.

Several developments were touched upon by the speaker as desirable particularly the providing of pre-vocational training in the higher grades of the Public Schools for those pupils who found the ordinary educational menu unappealing.

Rotarian R. F. Downey expressed the thanks of the club to the speaker.

Rotarian Dr. Moir announced that the Clinic for Crippled Children would be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and that some eighteen children would be examined Rotarians were invited to be present.

It was decided in regard to the Christmas work of the club that each Rotarian would make himself responsible for the relief of a family that was in need of assistance.

FIRMER TREND IS NOTICED ON NEW YORK LIST

Although Value in Trading Holds Close to Lowest Level in Years.

SOME LIGHT SELLING.

Gradual Upward Trend is Feature in Industrial and Specialty Issues.

(By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Although the stock market was merely a temporizing affair to-day, prices wandered toward higher levels.

The volume of trading held close to the lowest levels of the year. Impelling developments were lacking in the news of the week-end, and with Congress convening, traders merely killed time pending delivery of the President's message, expected tomorrow.

There was a ripple or two of selling in the morning, mostly in the rails and utilities, but a gradual upward trend in industrials and specialties soon dominated the list. Few gains extended much beyond a point, but here and there a stock stepped up 2 or 3, including Dupont, Missouri Pacific, Cerro De Pasco, Atlantic Coast Line, Missouri Kansas Texas Preferred, Studebaker, and Allied Chemical. Shades advancing a point or so included American Can, Woolworth, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Union Carbide, Underwood Elliott, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Gas, Goodyear, Royal Dutch, North American and Electric Power and Light. U. S. Steel about made up the $1.75 dividend deducted to-day.

Although trading was too light to indicate any decisive trend, the fact that activity came almost to a standstill when prices declined, and picked up a little on the advance, was regarded as encouraging.

SECOND ROUND DRAW

LONDON, England, Dec. 1. — (C P Cable)—The draw for the second round proper of the English Football Association cup competition to be played Dec. 13 was made today and announced as follows:

Gainsborough vs. Southport.
Brentford vs. Norwich.
Accrington Stanley vs. Torquay U.

Congregational Supper For St. John's Church

The Church Women's Association of St. John's Church held a very successful annual congregational supper, afternoon tea, and small sale of work, in the Parish Hall, on Friday afternoon and evening. Over two hundred people attended the supper, which was served in the lower rooms at long tables decorated with bowls filled with Christmas greens and red barberry branches and tall red candles in low holders.

The general convenor was the president, Mrs. J. Comstock, and ladies in charge of the tables included Mesdames T. W. H. Young, C. Ackerman, W. J. Kent, W. T. Holloway, R. C. Blagrave, Webber Turner, J. Patterson, with their assistants, including Mesdames A. H. Stratton, H. W. Morphet, E. W. Borbridge, W. Hall, and Miss S. A. Tomkins, in charge of refreshments, and helpers in the dining-room: Mesdames R. Denne, P. Bond, W. Denston, A. T. Barnes, R. Hutchinson, T. Yeates, J. D. Collins, Clark, and the Misses Grace Caddy, Gwen Sorby, Margaret Rogers, Jean Cooper, Peggy Scott, Elizabeth Mulholland, Cora Mitchell, Arleigh Comstock, Patricia McClelland, Mary James, Lillian McClelland, Denston.

On the stage, which was cosy with a lighted grate fire and lighted floor lamps, afternoon tea was served by Miss Margaret English at a table arranged with bronze dwarf 'mums in a green glass bowl. Mrs. C. L. Brewer acted as treasurer.

A bright Christmas tree illuminated with tiny lights and hung with gay parcels was in charge of Mrs. F. L. Roy, Mrs. B. D. Hall, and Mrs. H. A. Morrow, while a sale of dainty fancy work was in charge of Miss Marie Campbell, Mrs. A. L. Anys and Mrs. Wood.

In the evening, after supper, bridge was played, the prizes being won by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Robinson and Mrs. B. H. Peole.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Covered With Boils on Arms, Back and Neck

Miss Margaret Higgins, Dyment, Ont., writes:—"I was covered with boils on my arms, face and neck. I used plasters and other remedies with no results. My attention was drawn to Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to get a bottle. The results were marvellous, as in no time the boils had completely disappeared, and my skin was clearer and fresher than ever."

NORTH AMERICA ACT AMENDMENTS

Basis of Resolution To Be Presented to Dominion Parliament.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 1 (C.P.) — When Premier R. B. Bennett returns to Canada he will bring with him a copy of a bill providing for amendments to the British North America Act in accordance with conclusions reached at the recent Imperial Conference, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice explained to-day. This bill will form the basis of a resolution to be presented to the Dominion Parliament at the next session. Before it is presented, the provinces of Canada will be consulted in order that there may be general understanding of the proposed changes and full agreement thereon. Similar documents to the one which the Prime Minister will bring are being given to the other Empire premiers who were in attendance at the Conference.

Canada cannot amend her own constitution. When a change is considered essential the Dominion Parliament passes a resolution requesting that the British North America Act be amended. An amendment in line with the changes is subsequently introduced and passed by the Parliament of Great Britain, and the Canadian constitution is thereby altered.

GOODS MARKETS CAUSE NEXT WAR

Fights Over Markets in Which to Dispose of Raw Materials.

ECONOMIC INFLUENCES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 1. — The next war, if there is one, will be fought over markets in which to dispose of raw materials, and not over raw materials themselves, or over national political aspirations, Vernon Bartlett, English journalist and member of the League of Nations, Permanent Secretariat, declared before the People's Forum in an address on "The Influence of Economics on International Politics."

His work since the formation of the League, Mr. Bartlett said, had brought him into touch with international politics and had brought him to realize just how much economics affects peace and war. Struggles of the past had not been without their economic side. It was true that Elizabethan adventurers were not indifferent to the call of patriotism and a love of fighting but neither were they indifferent to the lure of America's gold.

OBITUARY

ANNIE VOYER

HAVELOCK, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Annie Voyer, whose death occurred on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock, from the family residence, George street, to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, where Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. J. J. McCarthy. Burial was made in the family plot at the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The late Miss Voyer, who had been ill for the past eighteen months, was the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voyer and had resided in Havelock all her life.

She is survived by two sisters and one brother, Frank Voyer and Miss Carrie, of Havelock, and Mrs. E. Walker, of Franham, Que.

The church choir rendered special music throughout the Mass, and at the Offertory the beautiful hymn, "Hark, Hark my Soul," was sung.

The pall bearers were John Moore, R. Brennan, E. Carr, Dave Forde, George Chiles and Ernest Steeney.

MRS. WILLIAM HENRY

QUEENSBORO, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. William Henry, who passed away at her home here on Thursday was held in the United Church on Saturday afternoon and was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. J. F. Everson.

Mrs. Henry was in her 77th year and was well known and highly respected, having lived here all her days. She had been in poor health for about seventeen months, but not until a few days before her death was her condition thought to be serious. She was a patient sufferer and was never known to complain, although for over a year unable to walk or go about the home. She sat up the day before her death and conversed with the other members of the family as was her usual custom.

Two brothers and one sister, also two sons are left to mourn. The pallbearers were Messrs. Harry Tokley, Simeon Clarke, Samuel Palmer, Miles Dyer, John Alexander, Sr., and David Martin. Interment was made in the Queensboro cemetery.

WALTER F. ELLIS

HAVELOCK, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—Walter F. Ellis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis, who was injured at the Detroit Rock Salt Co. plant at Detroit on Tuesday last, died on Saturday morning at the Delray Industrial Hospital.

Mr. Ellis, who was in his twenty-fourth year, was employed on a construction job for the R. G. Johnson Co., and was working in the main shaft of the Salt Co. plant. He was struck by a skip or bucket and severely crushed, receiving internal injuries from which he died. The remains were brought here on the noon train, Sunday.

This makes a total of three deaths in three years in the Ellis family. The funeral will be held from the home of his uncle, W. W. Steenburg, at Rockdale on Tuesday afternoon, at 1.30. Interment at Rockdale Cemetery.

GEORGE TOWNS.

George Towns, lifelong resident of Douro Township, passed away this morning at the residence of his son, P. G. Towns, in his 84th year, following an extended illness.

The late Mr. Towns was born in Douro Township, and was a highly respected and familiar figure throughout that district. He leaves three sons, P. G. Towns of Douro, Paul of Lakefield, and J. J. Towns of Rochester, N.Y., also two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Riley of Toronto and Mrs. Albert OConnell of Detroit. He was predeceased by his wife thirty-three years ago.

The funeral will be held from the residence of his son in Douro Township on Wednesday morning at 9.30 o'clock to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery, Douro.

ARTIST TRAVELS WITH CIRCUS

After traveling with a circus through England, during the summer season, Dame Laura Knight has placed her paintings on exhibition in London. They are said to have made a sensation, those of ponies, zebras and elephants being almost alive with color. Some of the sketches of behind the scenes are particularly vivid and spontaneous. When members of the circus troupe visited the exhibit they gave an acrobatic turn to show their appreciation. The fair artist travelled as a regular member of the troupe and shared their joys and hardships.

Marmora

(Examiner Correspondence)

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webber entertained a number of their friends at their home on Cordova Road on Wednesday evening, when dancing was enjoyed. Edward Flynn and a visitor from Corbyville sang songs and step dancing by Miss French added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Community bridge was played at Deloro Hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the local Social and Dramatic Society. Winners were R. A. Elliott and Miss Betty Brown, with consolation awards going to F. Leal and Miss M. Wickens.

A special meeting of the Executive Council of the Anglican Parish of Marmora was held at the White Hall on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Lavender and son Glen visited relatives at Glanmire on Sunday.

Miss Margaret Vesterefelt spent Saturday evening at her home at Cordova.

Born—At Deloro on Friday, Nov. 28th, to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Regan, a daughter.

Mrs. Wesley Vilneff is quite ill at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. McFaul.

Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—The town hall was packed on Tuesday evening for the public speaking contest for the scholars of Alnwick township which was an outstanding event in every particular.

Clarence Varcoe made a capable chairman of the evening and handled the lengthy program in a most efficient manner.

Billy Halstead who was the successful speaker winning honors for the Roseneath school, spoke very easily and distinctly on his subject, "Going to Market." He is now the possessor of the miniature trophy and also the larger trophy will be on exhibit at S.S. No. 2. He also received a book entitled, "The Second Chance," by Nellie McClung.

Thelma Lockhart following close received second prize, explained the origin of rubber. She was awarded a beautiful fern stand donated by Chas. Brown, of Roseneath, along with a copy of "The Only Girl."

Lois Talling, S.S. No. 2 was successful in carrying off third prize and did exceedingly well in describing the auto tire from its sap until it reaches our local dealers. A third prize special of a fountain pen donated by Charlie Brown and a copy of "Sowing Seeds in Danny," was also won by Miss Talling.

Only three contestants were judged but each of the pupils received a book for the interest shown. Others taking part were Harry Sherwin, Lena McCracken, Mildred Blake, and Ailie Wellwood.

The judges were Milton Ames, Plainsville; Robert Sutton, Bewdley and Elmer Linton, of Harwood. Milton Ames when announcing the winners spoke briefly about public speaking—a child should speak as a child and a man as a man.

Mr. Martin, public school inspector made a few pleasing remarks about the contest, commending Robert Dawson who sponsored the contests. Mr. Dawson thanked the people for the interest taken.

Other items on the program included recitations by Rosella Taylor; song, Lavigne McMillan, with accompaniment by Mrs. Lily Turner; song, Gwendolyn Varcoe; song, Wilfred Wellwood; duet, Vera Sherwin, Jean Eddington; recitation, Berence Beatty; trio, Misses Bessie Turner, Avis Towns and Jessie Mouncey.

Short addresses were given by the Rev. Mr. McLeod, Brighton, the Rev. Mr. Battersby, Hastings and the Rev. Lees, of Hilton.

Tom Sawyer and his chums was well acted in a dialogue given by pupils of the North School, and concluded the program.

Eight farm hands in smocks and silk hats acted as pallbearers at the funeral of Sir Joseph Tichborne, held recently at Tichborne, England, and a red and blue farm wagon was used as a hearse.

To Christmas Shoppers,
Everywhere in Canada.

Choose Gifts that Give Canadians Jobs!

What do you suppose is the size of Canada's annual gift bill? Would it surprise you to learn that it is vastly greater than the sum voted by Parliament in September last for the relief of unemployment? Note the following, and you will realize that it must be so.

To begin with, everyone of her 10,000,000 people has a birthday each year. If only one in five receives a birthday gift, and it is worth only a dollar, there is $2,000,000 to begin with.

About 70,000 weddings take place in Canada each year. At the low average of $100 for the presents sent each bride, there is another $7,000,000. And at least 500,000 of the wedding anniversaries celebrated each year are marked by a gift to the wife costing at the very least $5. So there is another $2,500,000.

There are over 1,800,000 mothers in Canada and about the same number of fathers—say 3,500,000 in all. With Mother's Day and Father's Day observed as widely as they are, another $1,000,000 for gifts for them is easily accounted for.

Other huge sums are spent for gifts to sweethearts, for bridge prizes, and for trophies for every conceivable kind of contest.

And commencing now, and continuing for the next three weeks, comes the great annual round of gift buying that marks the Christmas season. Computing the per capita Christmas shopping bill at only $5.00, the aggregate for that alone would be $50,000,000!

All told, Canadians probably spend well over $75,000,000 a year on things to be given away, sometimes as rewards but mostly as tokens of esteem or affection! And if we assume that in the production of every $7,500 worth of such goods, as sold at retail, steady employment has been given to one person, it follows that Canada's annual gift bill is sufficient to keep 10,000 producers busy the year round!

With unemployment so prevalent in all parts of the country, with so many of our fellow Canadians dependant upon charity even for the bare necessities of life, don't you agree with me that the moral obligation rests heavily on all of us to govern our Christmas gift buying by the "Produced-in-Canada" policy, to the end that it will help to give some fellow citizen a job?

Another point! For our personal consumption we buy what we specifically require, but for gift purposes we buy anything that we think will prove acceptable to the recipient. That being the case, shouldn't it always be easy to find, among the many splendid things that are produced in Canada, something that is suitable alike to the person and to the occasion?

Remembering that this is the season of peace on earth and good will to man, and that the relieving of unemployment is one of the most ideal ways of spreading Christmas cheer, may I not plead with all of you to restrict your Christmas buying as far as possible to things that have been produced in Canada, so that in addition to bringing joy to the recipients of your favour, you will be conferring great happiness on some fellow Canadian who is now out of work!

Very sincerely yours,

H. H. Stevens

Minister of Trade and Commerce.

FREAK WEATHER IN MARITIMES BRINGS OUT STRAWBERRY BUDS

Budding Trees and New Crops Seen, With Zero Weather 50 Miles South.

RECALL INDIAN RACE.

(Special to the Examiner—Copyright 1930)

CAMPBELLTON, N.B., Dec. 1—Vicissitudinous as New Brunswick's weather is in habit, present conditions in Northern N.B. present curious contrast. On the North Shore weather variance is most unusual.

Here the weather is not unlike springtime. November ushered in its fourth week of mild soft spell. Warm showers and brilliant sunshine brought back thoughts of April and May. Nature, in some apparent mood, is doing her share. Hereabouts trees are budding anew. As are the lesser growth of bushes and shrubs.

In contrast just 53 miles southeast as the crow flies down the Bay of Chaleur coast, winter is just around the corner. One may gaze out across the expanse of water toward the cold Gaspe Peninsula from both centres. Yet in Bathurst, flourishing paper-mill town, folks are skating. Noted for its hockey enthusiasm the puckmen are daily training for days of competition ahead.

But in this town one must doff heavy clothing. Strangely, mild weather in late November. And Campbellton is on the 48th meridian of latitude, at that.

While older residents cannot recall the like in their time, the story goes that many, many years ago a crew of Indians from the mission at Cross Point, Que., engaged in a canoe race here with whites from this town on January 1st.

OYSTER SUPPER AT CODRINGTON

Over Hundred and Twenty-five Gather in Basement of Church.

AUSPICES OF ORANGE LODGE

NORHAM, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Wednesday evening, the members of Codrington Orange Lodge held their second annual oyster supper in the basement of Codrington United Church, when more than one hundred and twenty-five sat down to the supper.

After the supper, Rev. Major Belford acted as toastmaster and chairman. The musical part of the program was provided by Mr. Smith, of Belleville and his associates, with Mr. Gordon acting as accompanist.

After the toast to "The King" the toast to "Our Canada" was ably proposed by Ben Buchanan, of Warkworth, and responded to by Mr. Anderson, of Campbellford.

The toast to "Our Lodge" was proposed by Carl Murphy, of Colborne, District Deputy Master, and responded to by the County Master, of Coldsprings.

Mr. Latimer, of Orland, proposed the toast to "The Church," and responded to by Rev. D. R. Clare, of Norham. The toast to "Our Legislature" was proposed by F. Wade, of Hilton, and responded to by Mr. McArthur, M.L.A. of Cobourg.

Mr. Dancy proposed to the toast to "The Ladies" and Mrs. Kilband, of Brighton, responded, making a strong appeal for loyalty to Lady Orange Society.

SPEAKER APPEALS FOR MISSION WORK

Rev. H. H. Smith Addresses Men's Banquet in Stirling Church.

STIRLING, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—Rev. H. H. Smith, of India, was the speaker at the men's banquet held in the basement of St. Paul's Church on Thursday evening, when more than one hundred men were present.

Rev. Mr. Smith has been a soldier as well as a missionary, in India, and he gave a very vivid description of the dark land filled not only with various kinds of poisonous pests, but of deep rooted superstition as well. An appeal was made to the church for deeper interest in the good work that has been started.

Guild Meeting

The members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Guild met on Monday evening, William Dermoty acting as chairman. Alex Nathan gave a reading entitled, "The Cow and the Bishop" and Mrs. Bissonnette led in prayer. "A Christian in Loyalty" was the title of the topic given during the evening.

Bible Society Meets

The members of the Bible Society of St. Andrew's Church met on Tuesday evening when the election of officers for the coming year took place, resulting as follows: President, W. Martin; vice presidents, all resident Ministers; secretary, Miss Mae Currie; treasurer, Nora Wescott. Rev. S. G. Pinnick, who has been in Africa for thirty-five years, addressed the meeting.

Y.P.S. Meets

Miss Mary Hulin took charge of the Monday evening program of the Y.P.S. when the scriptural reading was read by Roy Brooks. Farley Lindenfield gave a reading, "Be Yourself" and other numbers on the program were: reading, Harry Hulin, "The Widening Sovereignty of Christ" and solo, "O Heart of Mine" J. Balmforth.

CHURCH CHOIR PRESENTS OPERA

Program Held Under Auspices of W.M.S. of Regent Street United Church.

BY KNOX CHORISTERS.

LAKEFIELD, December 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — Music lovers had a real treat on Wednesday evening in the presentation of the Gilbert & Sullivan light opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," by the choir of Knox United Church, Peterborough, under the auspices of the W.M.S. of Regent Street United Church.

W. R. Potter, the director of the play, deserves much credit for the production, which was presented in the Town Hall. The choral work was especially fine. The nautical note in the scenery and uniforms struck a responsive chord with the audience, and the romance of the fair Josephine with her beautiful voice and the "foremost hand' Ralph, kept the audience guessing. Ralph, Dick the Captain, and the Admiral had especially fine voices, and Little Buttercup and the personality of Miss Crocker as Bebe dominated the production, giving zest to the ensemble.

The cast of characters was: Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, Herbert Hughes; Captain Corcoran, Commander of the Pinafore, Arthur Pitchford; Ralph Rockstraw, Stanley Willis; Dick Deadeye, Jack Herd; Bill Bobstay, Tom Allen; Bob Becket, James Gerard; Tom Tucket, Keith Hughes; Josephine, the Captain's daughter, Mrs. Ken. Baker; Bebe, Sir Joseph's cousin, Miss Annie Crocker; Mrs. Cripps (Little Buttercup), Mrs. H. Wood; sisters, cousins, and aunts of Sir Joseph Porter, Mesdames Huffman, Rogers, Butcher, Pierce, M. Morton, B. Morrison, G. Chambers, M. Donaldson, E. Parnes, R. Benson, I. Black, M. Pollock, M. Hughes, M. Armstrong, and M. Ralston; sailors, R. Brown, D. Hull, H. Rudford, B. Kelsey, H. McCannan, D. Gillespie, W. Steven, and J. Ridyard; pianist, Mrs. A. B. Kelsey; violinist, A. Robertson; drums, R. M. Beach; and musical director, W. R. Potter.

BONARLAW

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Milne, of Campbellford visited Mr. and Mrs. Mac Anderson on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones have returned to Toronto after spending a few days with Mrs. Alisia Jones.

Mr. D. Wellman, Sr., and Mr. Clarence Wellman were in Peterborough recently.

Mr. Mac Anderson motored to Springbrook on Saturday.

The Sorocabana Railway, owned by the State of Sao Paulo, Brazil, now has 1,160 miles of line.

DAIRYMEN HOLD ANNUAL "AT HOME"

Cheesemakers of District Congratulated on Quality of Product at Stirling Gathering.

STIRLING, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—About three hundred people including cheesemakers, inspectors, buyers, graders and guests attending the annual 'At Home' of the Dairymen's Association held in the Community Hall on Thursday evening.

John West, president of the Association acting as chairman, spoke of Ontario being the banner cheese province and of the Belleville area being especially noted for its splendid manufacture.

George Luery said the prosperity of Stirling depended on the properity of cheesemakers, and Mr. Drewry, of Warkworth, mentioned the unique gathering, saying it must be a barometer revealing the interest taken by the community in the cheese manufacture. James Cook, of Belleville congratulated the cheesemakers and Herb Bailey said such a gathering should be an incentive to the Madoc district, of which he was most interested.

J. Griffin, of Toronto spoke of the various farm competitions saying there should be great revelations as to what could really be done. James Irwin, grader, suggested matters might be improved in the case of No. 2 grade and J. Wilson, agricultural representative, expressed his appreciation of the Association.

C. F. Linn took charge of the distribution of the prizes and A. Murduff, of the Royal Bank presented the silver cup to Mr. McLaughlan of Syrney for the highest score. Having won it three times, Mr. McLaughlan retains the cup.

The Steel Trough People, of Tweed, donated the second prize which went to W. Henderson and the third prize, a half dozen knives and forks donated by L. and R. Meiklejohn, and presented by R. W. Meiklejohn went to Mrs. Russell Emery, of Frankford.

The fourth prize, a rug, donated by Fox and Anderson went to the maker at Ivanhoe and the fifth, a felt hat was presented to Matt Johnson, of White Lake Factory by Tom Ward. The sixth going to Ray Brown of Maple Leaf Factory was donated by George Luery and the seventh donLeidster, of Rawdon township.

Cheques were given to Ray Brown, J. West, and J. Donohue. Cheques for the best kept factories went to F. Parmer and H. Henderson.

H. Martin donated prizes for best kept factory on inside and went to F. Parmer and J. Wilkinson.

A cheque donated by Tom Spry for best kept factory on outside went to J. Bateman, of Stirling and J. West, of Evergreen.

A prize was given by the Stirling Box and Basket Factory for the maker who bought boxes from them having the highest score. This was won by R. Emery, J. West and Mr. Leidster.

Prizes were given to men who were pronounced 100 per cent cheesemakers, M. Johnson, H. Henderson, W. Henderson, Mr. McLaughlan and J. West. The De Laval Co. donated prizes of dairy thermometers and Joe Hagerman also gave prizes for men between 99 and 10 per cent. These were won by Messrs. Emery, Brown, Donohue, Rodgers and Bateman and Carlyle.

Dancing followed the distribution of prizes, with music supplied by the Rosebush Orchestra.

HAD TO GO TO SEA AGAIN

Rheumatism or No Rheumatism

BUT KRUSCHEN KEPT HIM FREE FROM PAIN

This skipper of a steam trawler was "up against it." He had Rheumatism, and his doctor said he must not go to sea. But times were hard, and he was forced to go afloat again. That was two years ago. Now see what he says:—

"I go to sea and two years ago I was laid up for six months with very much suffering from rheumatism and general breakdown, and was forbidden by my doctor to go to sea, or to touch water. But it was 'Hobson's Choice' with me. There was so much unemployment I was forced to get somewhere. So I am still here weathering the storms of the last two winters, and I can honestly say I have never felt the slightest pain from my old complaints, since I started two years ago to take Kruschen Salts. I wish Kruschen every success, and you may make whatever use you think fit of this letter."—Skipper J. J.

It is common knowledge that rheumatism is associated with an excess of uric acid in the system. Uric acid is composed of needle-like crystals, and the pain of rheumatism is caused by those "needles" settling down in the joints, muscles and tendons.

Kruschen is a powerful solvent of these torturing crystals. It swiftly dulls their sharp edges, then expels them from the system. Your pains ease: swellings subside, knotted joints become loose. Afterwards, the "little daily dose" so stimulates the liver and kidneys that regular and complete elimination is ensured. Your inside is kept clean. Mischievous uric acid never gets the chance to accumulate again.

Start on Kruschen to-morrow. Keep up "the little daily dose" and you'll soon joyfully agree with thousands of others that rheumatism meets its master in Kruschen.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

Leafs Strengthen Hold On Top Place In Canuck Group

TORONTO SQUAD BEATS FALCONS BY 4-2 COUNT

Bailey and Conacher Share Goal-scoring Honors on Saturday.

PRIMEAU ON ASSISTS.

Chabot's Shutout Record Broken By Deflected Shot in Second Period.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on first place in the International Section of the N.H.L. on Saturday night by handing the Detroit Falcons a 4 to 2 defeat at Arena Gardens. The locals were full value for their win, scoring two goals in the first period, regaining the lead again in the mid-way session after Detroit had tied the score, and adding a goal for good measure in the final frame to make certain of the result.

It was a fast game, particularly in the first two periods and the near-capacity crowd appeared to enjoy it immensely.

With fifteen players in uniform, Manager Jack Adams called upon his entire squad to stop the Leafs, but they were not equal to the task. They did make things decidedly interesting, however, when they broke Lorne Chabot's shut-out record in the middle period and added a further goal to knot the score. The visitors made their best showing in that frame, but the first goal they got was more or less a gift, the puck, driven by Carson Cooper's stick, being deflected into the unguarded side of the Toronto net off "Red" Horner's stick. Chabot was camped in the other side of the cage, all set for the shot, but the deflection gave him no chance to block it.

The second Detroit goal was scored by Tommy Filmore on a neat bit of passing engineered by George Hay. Hay passed the rubber disc from the corner and Filmore, left unguarded, had a clear shot at the net from close range.

Bailey and Conacher

Irvin Bailey and Charlie Conacher accounted for all four of the Toronto tallies, each getting two. All were the result of combination. Joe Primeau provided the pass for Conacher's two and one of Bailey's, while Harold Cotton paved the way for Bailey's other score.

The game was cleanly played, only nine penalties being inflicted by the referees. Of this number, Detroit drew six, George Hay getting a ten-minute automatic rest in the final period when his stick accidentally connected with Bailey's nose and caused that young man's retirement to check the bleeding. Bailey returned a few minutes later. It was not a serious injury, and there appeared to be nothing intentional about it. Hay having his back turned to Bailey at the time. Under the rules, however, the referees are forced to give a ten-minute penalty.

DETROIT OLYMPICS BEATEN BY JACKETS

Proudlock Scores Only Goal of Game, Netting Curry's Rebound.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets of the International Hockey League finally broke into the win column Saturday night defeating Detroit Olympics, 1 to 0, in a fast and furious game punctuated by many penalties. Previous to Saturday evening the Jackets had lost four and tied one.

The lone goal was made in the first period, and "Duke" McCurry, who is suffering from a hip injury, engineered the play. With Fraser in the penalty box and the Jackets a man short, Duke broke up a Detroit drive in mid-ice, chaperoned the puck down the left lane and let go a shot as he sifted through the Olympic defence. Goalkeeper Venne made a great save, but Cam Proudlock, following McCurry down, came in fast to bat the rebound into the net.

Falcons Tie Americans In Last Minute of Play

DETROIT, Dec. 1.—The New York Americans had a National Hockey League victory in their grasp here last night, but saw it turned into a 2 to 2 tie when the Detroit Falcons, fighting from behind all the way, scored a goal 30 seconds before the close of a wild overtime period. Most of the action was confined to the extra session.

Burch scored for the Americans midway in the first period, and the New York team fell back on their stonewall defense and held the lead until late in the third period, when Noble scored for the Falcons. The game went into overtime. Forty seconds after the overtime began Hughes put the Americans a goal ahead, and the New Yorkers again fell back on the defense. But just before the period closed Herbie Lewis, Falcon wingman, sent a long hard shot down the ice that Roy Worters, in the American net, failed to save, and the game ended a tie.

TWO GOALS BY VOSS GIVE HERD VICTORY

Cleveland's Lead is Overcome in Last Three Minutes of Game.

FORT ERIE, Dec. 1. — Buffalo snatched victory from Cleveland last night in the last three minutes of play by scoring two goals, to give them the verdict by a 2-to-1 count. More than 5,000 fans cheered themselves hoarse when Captain Carl Voss tied the score on a perfect pass from Martin. Forty-five second later Voss again dented the net on a pass from Lederman.

Balmy Beach Wins Eastern Title

MORENZ KISSED BY TEAM MATE

But Goal McCaffery Scores Gives Canadiens Win Over Bruins.

MORENZ FIRST COUNTER.

MONTREAL Dec. 1.—Bert McCaffrey, former Olympic star, scores few goals in his National Hockey League games, but he picked a perfect spot Saturday night for his first goal of the present season. Halfway through the third period of the Boston-Canadiens match, with the score tied 2 all, McCaffrey swept down the ice with Johnny Gagnon and netted Gagnon's pass to give Canadiens a 3 to 2 victory over the team which had beaten them at Boston last week.

As usual, Howie Morenz was the main-spring of Canadiens' attack. The goal he scored in the second period to send Canadiens into the lead after the match had been squared, 1 to 1, in the first period, was a beautiful play. His shot, coming from the Boston defense, hammered hard and true between Thompson and the goalpost without a quarter of an inch to spare. Albert Leduc promptly grabbed Morenz, threw his arms around him and kissed him in hearty Gallic style.

Boston's most dangerous threat, Eddie Shore, was held goalless, but he had Hainsworth in difficulties all night, and deserved a tally on his play. Lionel Hitchman looked ill, and took long and frequent rests.

RANGERS WIN FROM QUAKERS

Cook Brothers, Keeling and Boucher Are Tallymen For New York.

WIN OUT 6-3.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 1.—The New York Rangers swept the Philadelphia Quakers to defeat, 6—3, in a National Hockey League game Saturday night. Rangers ran through Quakers easily and scored in the opening minutes.

Rangers scored three goals in the first period, two in the second and one in the final. The Quakers scored in each period, with Lowery, Howe and Darragh the point makers. For Rangers, Bill Cook had two goals, Keeling two, Bun Cook and Boucher one each.

Quakers tied the score at one-all early in the first period, but Rangers soon took the lead and were never headed, their speed and strong defense being too much for their opponents to overcome. The second period was nine minutes old when Bill Cook solved the Quakers and scored the only unassisted goal of the game.

BANK WINS CHINA GUNS CASE

William R. Herend's case against the National Provincial Bank, Ltd., for damages because the bank was alleged to have refused to take ammunition and guns said to have been ordered for use in China, was dismissed recently by Justice Avery of London. Herend, of Newry, Ireland, claimed he had been employed as the bank's agent to obtain large quantities of rifles, ammunition and military equipment "for a customer of the bank abroad." This was denied by the bank.

Here is Frank Patrick's choice of puck talent in his bid to win a third successive Pacific Coast Hockey League title for Vancouver. The picture shows, left to right, (standing): Lorne Carr, forward; Sammy McAdam, centre; Gordon Pettinger, forward; Frank Jerwa, forward; "Sandy" Sanderson, forward; Ralph Blyth forward; "Chuck" Dunn, forward. (Seated) Jimmy Arnott, defence; Percy Jackson, goal and Doug Brennan, defence. Pettinger, last season's star with the champion Regina Juniors, is regarded as the find of the year in the Coast loop.

HAWKS RETAIN UNBEATEN MARK

Snatch 3-0 Victory From Ottawa Senators on Saturday Night.

PLAY FAST HOCKEY.

OTTAWA, Dec. 1.—Flying high on their victorious tour of the National Hockey League circuit, Chicago Black Hawks swooped down Saturday night to snatch a 3-0 win from Ottawa Senators. With a goal in each period, the Hawks, only unbeaten team in the league, scored their fifth win in six starts in a clean, fast, well played match.

Ingram tallied the first goal halfway through the initial period; Ripley and Couture combined for the second in the middle session, and "Mush" March snared the third 53 seconds after the last period started.

A big fast team, the Chicagoans kept up a steady attack that the locals found difficulty in matching. Dick Irvin used 15 men to the locals' 12 and dumped a steady stream of replacements on the ice to face the Ottawans. A fair crowd saw the Hawks keep their record unsullied in contrast to last season when a few turned out to witness Chicago-Ottawa tussles.

Ingram scored the first goal from a scramble in front of the Ottawa nets after Chicago had sent up a three-man attack, and he was left uncovered in front of the goal. For the second Couture dashed down and was carried behind the net by Starr, but on the pass-out Ripley, who was uncovered, poked the puck into the net over Connell's prostrate body. Marsh sifted through the local defense and sent a fast, high shot past Connell for the third tally.

KNIGHTHOODS MAY FLOWER IN CANADA ONCE AGAIN

Deputy Speaker Lavergne to Move For Restoration of Titles.

'KINGDOM' OF CANADA.

(By Wilfrid Eggleston, Special to The Examiner, Copyright, 1930)

OTTAWA, Dec. 1.—Titles for Canadians looms as a possible development of the early future as the result of an announcement by Armand Lavergne, deputy-speaker of the House of Commons, that he will move their restoration at the forthcoming session.

The news that the issue would be revived set tongues wagging at the capital and opinion as to the chances of the motion becoming law resolved itself into the conclusion that there is a very probability of titles flourishing again in Canada.

The chances of "dominion" giving way into "kingdom" and "Governor-general" to "viceroy" are much smaller according to Ottawa speculation. The report gives some color to the rumor which was circulated just after the election that Premier Bennett favored the restoration of titles.

Hon. C. H. Cahan, now secretary of state, made an effort some years ago to have titles restored at least to the extent that if the king wished to recognise outstanding literary or scientific achievement he could do so by means of a title. The motion was heavily defeated.

Those who believe the motion will pass the house asserted that the ending of the practice at the close of the war was one of the manifestations of an intensely democratic anti-ceremonial wave which has since cooled down to an attitude much more tolerant of such honors.

Canada's crop of titled gentlemen has been sorely thinned since the banning of titles over a decade ago, and there are only two knights in the present house, Sir George Perley and Sir Eugene Fiset. Were it to become proper again for the king to decorate Canadians in this manner, a number of present members would reasonably expect to be in the honored group.

Sir Richard Bedford Bennett would be number one, it is anticipated, with Sir Hugh Guthries and Sir Charles H. Cahan close behind. The speaker of the senate, Hon. Sir Pierre Blodin, lieutenant-governor of the provinces and justices of the supreme court of Canada would afford further opportunities for the distribution of knighthoods.

If Armand Lavergne's motion passes the house it would be only fair that he should be knighted as a reward for his services, but it would hardly do, say commentators at the capital, for him to be so honored, unless the speaker, Hon. George Black, were first recognised.

The honoring of outstanding scientists and literary men would be urged by Hon. C. H. Cahan, it is expected, and Senator Thomas Chapais, Dr. Charles G. Roberts, Dr. Banting of insulin fame, Dr. Saunders of marquis wheat discovery, and Dr. Duncan Campbell Scott are among those named which Ottawa expects might be discussed in this connection.

FARMERS GIVEN AID IN SWEDEN

Associations Enabled to Borrow Money to Build Elevators and Ensure Sale of Grain.

INTEREST DIFFERS.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 1.— Sweden has fallen in line with many other countries by adopting a policy of state assistance to agriculture. The nature of the aid being rendered to farmers by the government of Sweden is outlined in a report Frederick H. Palmer, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Oslo, has made to the Department of Trade and Commerce here.

Farmers' Associations of Sweden are now able to borrow money from the State for the purpose of building grain storage elevators and grain driers, as well as to facilitate purchase of the grain of members of these associations, to prevent possible wholesale dumping of grain on the autumn of harvest months. Conditions of the loan and the interest charged depend upon the nature of the association using the funds. In certain instances no charge whatever is made.

To attract attention to his housing program, William Marshall, only socialist member of the Town Council of Deal, England, recently paraded the streets dressed as a woman and pushed a baby buggy containing household goods and bearing a sign "Wanted a House."

HIGHER VALUATION ON NURSERY STOCK

For Duty Purposes to Prevent Dumping of Foreign Goods.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 29. (CP)—Hon. C. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, has been empowered through an order-in-council passed by the Dominion Cabinet to fix higher valuations for duty purposes on importations of nursery stock. The order-in-council, printed in this week's Canada Gazette, is a preliminary step toward the announcement of the higher valuations. This will be done in an effort to prevent dumping of foreign goods into the Canadian market to the detriment of home producers.

Under the order-in-council the minister may fix duty valuations on apple, pear, plum, cherry, peach, quince and apricot trees, currant and gooseberry bushes and grape vines. Rose bushes, excepting dwarf, polyanthus and stocks for budding and grafting, also included.

Ontario Union Champions Repeat 1927 Triumph By Scoring 8-5 Victory.

BLOCKED KICK PAVES WAY.

Tigers Rally in Third But Fail to Break Down Defense of Beaches.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—It was journey's end for Hamilton Tigers at Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon. Weakened by injuries and weary from the long, long, arduous football trail they have followed this fall, they took the knockout punch from Toronto's only senior title representatives, Balmy Beach, O.R.F.U. champions, who inflicted an 8-to-5 defeat upon them to capture the Eastern Canada gridiron crown.

It was the second time in four seasons that Balmy Beach dethroned the Tigers and Saturday's victory was almost a repetition of that notable upset in 1927 when the Jungle Kings were eliminated by a 9 to 6 score on the same field.

The winners will now meet the Western Canada threat, Regina Roughriders, at U. of T. Stadium next Saturday in the Canadian championship final for the Grey Cup.

The game attracted less than ten thousand spectators, but it was a spirited struggle from first to last, played on a fast, hard field, amid occasional snow flurries. However, weather conditions were not as bad as expected, and neither the players nor the spectators were inconvenienced by them. The southwest wind did not play a very important part in the the result. Tigers and Beaches scored a touchdown each while playing against the wind, and the only points tallied under the favoring breeze were the two that Balmy Beach scored in the third quarter. Tigers were not able to chalk up a point while the wind was at their backs.

TEAM AND LEAGUE DELEGATES FROM COAST TO COAST GATHER AT MINOR BASEBALL "POW-WOW"

No Set Program Arranged Outside Regular Sessions of Conference.

SEPARATE MEETINGS.

No Indication Class AA Leagues Will Change Attitude of Cleveland Meeting.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1.—(CP)—Baseball notables representing leagues and teams from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast and from Mexico to Canada were pouring into Montreal last night for the annual gathering of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues which opens here today with the meeting of the International League and continues throughout the week. Although the meeting officially opens its sessions on Wednesday and closes on Friday, the thousand-odd delegates will be busy the whole seven days with the meetings of the various leagues and associations which are taking place.

The Far West was represented by Henry A. Williams, president of the Pacific Coast League; while Charles W. Knapp, president of the International League was among the representatives of the Atlantic coast delegation. The South sent W. G. Bramham, of Durham, North Carolina, president of the Piedmont and Sally Leaguers. From the Gulf of Mexico territory came J. Alvin Gardiner, president of the Texas League; while J. E. Beltzer president of the Nebraska State League, represented the Middle West. These and several score other delegates were in town tonight, while hundreds of others will arrive tomorrow and Tuesday.

No Set Program

Outside the regular sessions of the conference beginning Wednesday, no set program has been arranged for the week. Each league and association will hold its own meetings and discussions independent of each other, the body only meeting all together for the main sessions.

Meetings of the International and Pacific Coast leagues are scheduled for today, with one outstanding issue to be discussed at both. There is no indication from either of these Class AA leagues that they will change the standing they took at the meeting with the majors in Cleveland a month ago and regarding the draft question, and today is the last day of grace. The majors themselves have stated their intentions of standing pat and discussions at to-day's meetings will probably have a strong bearing on the question. If no verdict is reached at this session the question will be carried over till the meeting of the National and American leagues at New York next week.

Notre Dame And S.C. On Saturday Next

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. (CP)—A football "natural" with the mythical national championship at stake, brings together Notre Dame's Rough Riders and Southern California's Trojans at Los Angeles on Saturday as the grand climax of a spectacular season.

If Rockne's brigade can check the Trojans the National title will be theirs with few, if any, dissenting votes. Already the Rough Riders have crushed Southern Methodist of the Southwest Conference, Navy, Petti, Carnegie, Penn and the Army in the East, India and Northwestern of the Big Ten, and Drake of the Missouri valley conference.

On the other hand, a victory for Southern California will leave the situation in a tangle with several unbeaten elevens ready to advance their claims. Among these might be Alabama and Washington State, both unbeaten an untied who will clash in the annual Rose bowl game on the coast, New Year's day.

HUNT CONTINUES FOR LOST FLIER

William Griffin, of Cleveland Airport Lost Since Monday's Storm.

PATROL LAKE SHORE.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1 (C.P.) — A forlorn search was in progress to-day for William E. Griffin, plane pilot, who has been unreported since he headed his home-made monoplane west from Buffalo in the teeth of Monday's blizzard.

Although officials at the Cleveland Airport had little hope that Griffin would be found alive, Pilot Barney Rawson said he would take off today on a search of the northeast Ohio hills.

Coastguardsmen patrolled the shore from Buffalo to Cleveland yesterday in the believe that Griffin's body would have been blown ashore had he fallen in the lake, but found no trace of him.

Mail pilots on eastward runs also were instructed to watch for the missing man. There were reports that a plane had been in trouble over Chesterland and Bainbridge in Geuga County Tuesday night. Griffin who is 28, has been flying for four years.

GLIDER ATTACK MYSTERY

Police and members of the Dumfries Gliding Club of Dumfries, Scotland, have been searching for the man who wrecked their new glider, and to learn his motive. The machine had just been used for the first time and was placed in a garage over night. A strange man was seen to go into the building, and the next morning the glider was found demolished.

NOTRE DAME SCORES ONE POINT VICTORY OVER ARMY GRIDDERS

Courageous Cadets Fight Tooth and Nail Before Bowing to Roughriders 7-6.

STANFORD WINS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Two of the East's strongest football teams, Army and Dartmouth, headed for home Saturday ready to confirm an already strong suspicion that the Middle West have more than a hazy idea of how the game should be played.

Army's courageous cadets took an unbeaten record with them to Chicago and fought the rough riders of Notre Dame tooth and nail before bowing by the margin of a single point, 7-6. Dartmouth, another previously undefeated team, invaded Palo Alto, held Stanford even for three periods, but finally surrendered, 14-7.

Just to add a little more color to the same picture, Washington State's Cougars, champions of the Pacific Coast conference, invaded Philadelphia to wallop Villanova 13-0, while Drake, Missouri Valley titleholders, trounced Temple in the same city, 49-20.

A crowd of 100 000 braved rain and sleet in Soldiers' Field to watch Army seek to halt the Notre Dame juggernaut which had rolled over Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, Pittsburg, Indiana, Penn, Drake and Northwestern in succession.

Strong Fighting Line

And a fighting line almost turned the trick for the cadets. For three periods and ten minutes of the fourth it was a gruelling scoreless duel although Army was called upon to repel five dangerous Notre Dame scoring threats. With five minutes to play, the Rough Riders had the ball on their own 42-yard line. Two line thrusts netted only four yards, but on the next play Marchmont Schwartz, flashing halfback, broke loose for 54 yards and a touchdown. Frank Carideo calmly booted the extra point, which, as it turned out, meant victory. Soon afterward, a long Army punt put Notre Dame back almost to its goal line. Carideo attempted to punt but Dick King, substitute Army end, broke through blocked it and fell on the ball over the line for a touchdown. Broushous, a substitute, was sent in to try for the all-important extra point but the Notre Dame forwards smashed through and smothered it.

At Palo Alto, Stanford consistently outgained Dartmouth, but found the Easterners' defense exceedingly hard to pierce in scoring territory. After each had scored touchdowns in the second period the contest developed into a tight defensive duel until the final quarter, when Stanford drove 59 yards in three plays for the winning touchdown. The scoring play was a 17-yard dash by Caglieri.

NEW INDIAN HOSPITAL IN B.C. CULMINATES LIFE'S AMBITION

Dr. H. C. Wrinch "Great Blonde Giant in White Coat" Gets New Hospital.

A WORK OF THIRTY YEARS.

(Special to the Examiner—Copyright 1930)

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 — Horace C. Wrinch, M.D., M.L.A., the beloved physician of the Skeena country in British Columbia, is getting a new hospital at the mission to the Indians which he established thirty years ago. His friends say this tribute has been long overdue. At any rate, it is being provided handsomely.

The Department of Indian Affairs, Ottawa, and the British Columbia Government have combined with the home mission board of the United Church of Canada to make possible modern plant which is to be opened early this month, thirty years after Dr. and Mrs. Wrinch set out from Ontario.

The cost, amounting to $75,000 in all, is being divided equally. The Dominion comes into it because a major portion of the work is done for the Indians on the north coast and the province recognizes the influx of white settlement into the region.

In 1900 Dr. Wrinch arrived in Hazelton, the site of the imposing new structure, when it was the chief business centre and distributing point for supplies for a region of 200 miles, north, south and east. It is the head of navigation on the Skeena river and the sick travel long distances to it from the interior for treatment at the hands of the great blond giant in the white coat.

Dr. Wrinch was a Governor General's gold medallist in agriculture and a successful farmer when his fiancee, who was a teacher, suggested that he undertake missionary service. Leaving the farm, he attended Albert College, Belleville, and Trinity Medical College, Toronto. Meanwhile she had qualified as a nurse, graduating as medallist at Grace Hospital, Toronto.

Shortly after their marriage, they began medical service at Kisphiax, near Hazelton, in the lean-to to an Indian log house which served as office, dispensary and operating room. They opened the first hospital of 20 beds in 1904 at Hazelton, having decided that there was the strategic location. Conversion in the same year of the Indian medicine man, with his confession that his methods were sham, greatly speeded the work of winning confidence.

From 1900 onwards Dr. Wrinch visited Hazelton each week and to-day the town, which now has train service, justifies his choice. The hospital farm supplies seed, cuttings and methods to northern agriculture, while trappers and miners, Indians and propectors, Hudson's Bay folk and travellers acclaim the hospital as a good friend. They have elected Dr. Wrinch as member of legislature, although he acknowledges no political ambitions. Mrs. Wrinch, who greatly aided her husband in carrying on his unselfish work, died in 1923.

TORCHY PADEN STEALS LAP IN OPENING OF BIKE GRIND

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (C.P.)—William "Torchy" Peden of Toronto, partnered with Al Crossley of Boston, Massachusetts, stole the first lap of the forty-ninth international six-day bicycle race which started at Madison Square Garden last night at nine o'clock with nearly 15,000 excited fans looking on.

The German team, composed of Franc Duelberg and Paul Buschenhagen, started the jam with the race only 25 minutes old, but Crossley went after Buschenhagen and was brilliantly picked up by the Toronto boy who overhauled the German rider as the parade circled the track for the tenth time. Alternating several times with his partner without losing an inch of ground, Peden finally caught up with the pack after a maddening ride of nearly five minutes.

Former Mascot Buys Jersey City Skeeters

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 1.—Samuel V. Colacurcio, former mascot of the Jersey City Baseball Club, now a contractor, Saturday announced that he had completed one of the most interesting baseball deals in years by purchasing the team for which he rooted in his boyhood. Eighteen years ago Colacurcio polished the bats for the Skeeters and exhorted the athletes of that period to produce hits and runs in honor of the fair name of Jersey City. Saturday, he passed over $200,000 to Frank J. Donnelly and took full possession of the International League franchise in Jersey City.

A Jersey City boy all his life, Colacurcio always has held a keen interest in baseball. Even after he had passed out of the hero-worship period of his youth he still was keen for baseball and wanted to see Jersey City at the top of the International League standings. He never had that wish gratified, but he helped to keep the team in Jersey City when others were threatening to transfer the franchise because of lack of support, and now that he owns it himself he is keener for a pennant than ever.

QUINTE TEAM WINNERS OVER LOCALS 36-29

Y.M.C.A. Squad Displays Surprising Speed and Form in Exhibition Tilt.

GOOD INDIVIDUAL PLAY.

Although Smarter Combination and Condition Factors in Belleville Win.

Surprising speed and form was displayed by the local Y.M.C.A. squad of basketball players in the exhibition tilt with the strong Belleville team played Saturday evening on the "Y" gym floor. Although Belleville walked off the floor winners by 36 points to 29, as the score sheet shows, the locals forced the pace throughout.

The Belleville quintet has had several games this season and last year played in the Intermediate O.A.B.A. finals, but Doug. Loomis' array of local cage artists forced them to call on all their tricks. Smarter combination and condition were the factors that gave the Quinte team the win. Individually the Petes were every bit as good, even though they have been short of practises.

It was a heartening exhibition the locals gave and gave further proof that if a team were entered in the intermediate playdowns with serious effort, they could make any quintet in the province step.

Lead at Half Time

At half time the locals led 17 to 16, but in the final canter they tired, to allow Belleville to go on and win.

McLeish, Kingston and Routley were the outstanding sharpshooters for Peterborough, while McPill and Faulkner accounted for the majority of Belleville's score.

The teams:

Belleville—Forwards, McPill and Davidson; centre, Faulkner; guards, Buck and White; subs, Allen, Evoy and Clarke.

Peterborough—Forwards, C. G. McLeish, K. Kingston; centre, Osterland; guards, D. Hadlock and E. Emery; subs, C. Greenlaw, C. Routley, J. Cooper and W. Dickson.

Referee—D. A. Loomis.

CARNERA SECURES DECISIVE VICTORY

Paolino Takes But One Round in Heavyweight Bout in Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 1. — Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, clubbed his way to a ten-round decision over Paolino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper, in the Montjuich Stadium yesterday afternoon. The fight was witnessed by 75,000 persons, the largest crowd ever to attend a sporting event in Spain, the gate being about $110,000.

Although Carnera's victory was decisive, the Italian taking every round except the fifth, which was Paolino's, and the sixth, which was even, the decision proved unpopular with the crowd. The huge stadium rang with jeers and boos when Carnera's hand was raised. Paolino blamed the referee for his loss.

The Perils of Old Pepys

Living in the 17th century was dangerous

(Extracts from the famous diary of Samuel Pepys)

¶ Sept. 19, 1662—At night I walked with three or four to guard me—it being a joy to my heart . . . that people should of themselves provide this for me. I hear this walk is dangerous by night.

¶ May 11, 1663—On foot, I was set upon by a great dog who got hold of my garters and might have done me hurt, but Lord! to see what a maze I was that, having a sword about me, I never thought to use it.

¶ June 30, 1664—Walked back all alone. Saw a man that had a cudgel in his hand and though he told me he labored in the King's Yard, and many other good arguments that he is an honest man, yet, God forgive me, I did doubt he might knock me on the head with his club.

¶ July 11, 1664—About 11 o'clock, knowing what money I have in the house and hearing a noise, I began to sweat worse and worse till I melted almost to water. Then I understood it was only a dog!

"Long talking with my wife," wrote Pepys on one occasion. "What she should do if I should by accident die!"

Living in the 20th century is more dangerous:

True, its perils are different—swift transport—air flight—machinery—the pace that kills!

LITERARY SOCIETY GIVES FINE PROGRAM

Campbellford High School Organization Holds Regular Meeting—Pupils of Form III Give Program.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1 (Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The regular meeting of the Campbellford High School Literary Society was held on Friday afternoon, with the president, Jack Bygott, in the chair. The program was staged by the pupils of Form III., the critic, by appointment, being William Nelson.

The first number was a chorus entitled "Barnacle Bill the Sailor," and was very well received. Bessie Inkster then gave a reading, which was followed by the current events, read by Frank O'Sullivan.

A recitation, "An Inventor's Wife," was given by Willimena Russau, which was followed by a one-act play entitled "Just Across the Road." Those taking part in this production were: Helen McCredie, Frank Roe and Russell Roe.

The third form novelty orchestra, comprised of Frank Roe and Fred Palmer, delighted the audience with several selections.

After the critic's report had been given, the meeting concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S DARK NIGHT.

"Unkie Wig!" called Baby Bunty as she skipped along through the woods beside the rabbit gentleman one day. "Unkie Wig!"

"Be careful now, Bunty!" warned Mr. Longears shaking a paw at her. "No baby talk, remember!"

"No, only des—I mean only JUST—Unkie Wig," went on the little orphan rabbit with a smile. "That much baby talk is all right; isn't it? If I call you Unkie Wig I mean."

"Yes, that's all right, but no more," Mr. Longears said, smiling. "But what were you going to say, Bunty?"

"I was going to say won't everybody be surprised?"

"Indeed they will, if we can do what we think we can," the rabbit gentleman answered. "Look out! Don't drop your sunshine, Bunty!"

"And please don't drop yours!" cried Bunty, as Uncle Wiggily made a little stumble on the path after she had done the same. "That would be dreadful!"

Uncle Wiggily and Bunty were hopping along, each rabbit carrying a bottle. Bunty's bottle was one that had once held sweet pickles. It was closed by a cork, and though it seemed to have nothing in, yet Bunty thought her pickle bottle was filled with something wonderful.

Take that! cried the rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily carried a milk bottle, which had a bunch of dried grass stuffed in for a cork, as it is hard to get a regular cork to fit a milk bottle. And Uncle Wiggily's milk bottle seemed to be empty but, for all that, it was filled with something mysterious.

"We don't want to drop and break our bottles of sunshine before we get to the bungalow with them; do we?" asked Bunty.

"No, indeed," Mr. Longears answered. "We want to save our bottles of sunshine until there comes a cold, cloudy day and then we'll pull the corks, out will shine the yellow light and everybody will be happy; won't they?" asked the little orphan rabbit girl.

"I hope so," Uncle Wiggily answered.

So the two hopped on, carefully carrying their bottles. I told you in the story before this how Mr. Longears and Baby Bunty sat out on a grassy hillside, holding out their bottles until they hoped they were filled with sunshine which they wanted to cork up and take home.

Reaching the hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty put the milk and pickle bottles on the mantle in the living room.

"What have you there?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was setting the table for supper.

"Oh, it's a secret," Uncle Wiggily replied, for he didn't know whether Bunty wanted it told or not.

"We'll tell Nurse Jane," the little orphan rabbit said with a jolly laugh. "We have some bottles of sunshine there, Nurse Jane. And when we have a dark and gloomy day we are going to uncork the bottles and let the sunshine out," Bunty added.

"Ha! Ha! What a wonderful idea!" squeaked the muskrat lady. "Bottles of sunshine! Why didn't some one think of that before."

"I'm not sure it will work," said Uncle Wiggily. "I mean I'm not certain the sunshine will come out when we uncork the bottles."

"I am!" cried Bunty, dancing happily around the bungalow.

That night, when it was very dark, all of a sudden Uncle Wiggily was awakened in his bungalow by hearing a noise on the front steps. He knew none of his family was out so he thought it must be one of the Bad Chaps trying to get in.

"I'll slip down and tell him to go away!" said Mr. Longears to himself. "I don't want any Fox, Wolf or Bob Cat in here now. It's too dark for company." It was very dark. Not wanting to make a light and let the Bad Chap see to get in, Uncle Wiggily felt his way down the stairs to the living room. On his way to the door he happened to think of his milk bottle full of sunshine on the mantle.

"I'll open the door, uncork my bottle and let a lot of sunshine flash in the Bad Chap's face," thought the rabbit. "That will surprise him so he will run away." He could still hear the Bad Chap rattling away at the front door, trying to get in.

Uncle Wiggily felt his way to the mantle and got his milk bottle of sunshine. Suddenly opening the door, the rabbit gentleman took out the cork, but, to his surprise, no sunshine came from the bottle. Of course you know you can't bottle sunshine like that.

"Ha! Now I have you!" cried the Fox Bad Chap, who could see in the dark night. "I'll get you!"

"No you won't! Take that!" cried the rabbit. And he threw the heavy milk bottle in the face of the Fox banging him on the nose. It did not need sunshine to surprise the Bad Chap so that he ran away and Mr. Longears went back to bed and slept in peace and quietness.

"I guess you can't bottle sunshine," chuckled the bunny gentleman. "But I bottled the Fox all right! Ha! Ha!"

BAPTISTS HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Motive. In every man's heart and soul there was a power that makes him move, he declared, and this power is the motive force, which if used rightly can win souls. But too many people are in Christian service with the wrong motive. The man who believes in Christianity because it aids civilization; the teachers who teach because they delight in the art of teaching or because they love children, or the slum workers who labor because they love humanity. The motives were all good, said the speaker, but not high enough.

Andrew was thrilled with the divine call of service and this should be our motive, for it is the motive that has impelled all the saints who have accomplished. And so with us, our work will not be successful until it is done with this motive.

And the second thought that Mr. Cameron gave was that of method. Andrew brought his brother to Jesus by going out for him. In God's command there was nothing to state church, but it was the authority of that the world must come to the the scripture that the church must go to the world. And this Andrew did by coming into personal contact with his brother. When Christ wanted to save the world he did not send an angel to do it but came himself, establishing a human contact with humanity. This should be the attitude of all Christians. It was not right to leave the work of drawing souls into the fold to committees and individuals, but that all people should work to that end by themselves, going out and establishing the human touch.

This could be done the preacher said by tactful conversation, a thing that was very hard in these days, but a duty all followers of Christ should perform.

And also by prayer, which it was very certain Andrew used as he went to find his brother. There are two elements in life the speaker stated, the human and the divine. God saves man, but through men. To work for God we must be empowered with the spirit of God. It is not sufficient that we ourselves are saved, if we in our turn do not go out and try and save others. 'Let us then work, said Mr. Cameron, as if all depends on us, and let us trust as if all depends on God."

India's boycott on British piece goods resulted in Indian imports from the United Kingdom dropping to only about one-third of the total from all sources, as compared to nearly two-thirds before the World war.

MARMORA LOSES OLDEST RESIDENT

William Knox Succumbs in His 91st Year After Several Months' Illness.

INTERESTING HISTORY.

MARMORA, December 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — Another of Marmora's grand old men passed to his eternal reward on Friday in the person of William Knox. His death occurred just a month after the 31st anniversary of his birth occurred and two and a half months from the laying to rest of his beloved wife.

With the death of George Albert Wright a month ago, the late William Knox became Marmora's oldest resident. Singular to relate, both men over half a century ago were members of Linn's L.O.L. 441, a lodge which, before absorption by the present Wellman's Corners Lodge met first in a room over the drive house on the property of the late Robert Linn of the 7th Concession of Rawdon Township, next on the property of the late James Irwin of the 10th Concession of Seymour Township and later on the property of the late Dave Wellman, situated in the 10th Concession of Rawdon Township.

The late William Knox, who was born in Lower Canada, enlisted shortly before the termination of the Fenian Raid. He was practically on the train with reinforcements when word came that reinforcements would not be required. The greater part of his life was spent in Marmora. On December 5, 1866, he married Elizabeth, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little of Rawdon Township. In 1874 he had a part in the erection of the Methodist Church which was then to grace the village. Though stones were conveyed to the site of the church by horse power, William Knox was there with a yoke of oxen and a stone boat to convey them to the spot where the masons required them. As the building grew into shape and beauty he came to love it. When later on in life he elected for a period of about twenty-five years to be its caretaker, he so desired to see worshippers regular in attendance and faithful in their duties that on occasions in the winter time he remained near the furnace all the hours of Saturday night in order that physical discomfort should not be felt by the Sabbath attendants at the house of God. For years, too, he was caretaker at the Protestant Cemetery, and his courtesy to mourners there is another trait of his character now to be recalled.

During his lifetime, besides being an Orangeman, he was also a member of Marmora Council No. 279, Canadian Order of Chosen Friends. Until two years ago his vitality was a subject of wonder. With the weakening of his wife's health, however, feebleness began to overtake him and he realized when his best earthly friend was removed from him that his own end was not far distant.

Ten of the twelve children of this highly respected family have the sympathy of the village in the double mourning. They are Mrs. W. J. Baker, Grand Rapids, Mich., Mrs. James Thomas, Erie, Penn., Mrs. George Crowther, Soders, N.Y., Mrs. H. Clark, Rochester, N.Y., Miss Effie at home, William, Toronto, John of Portage la Prairie, Man., Uselle, of Rochester, N.Y., George, Newark N.J., and David of Marmora.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon. Service at the United Church was taken by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, and was followed by interment in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

PIG'S PLANE IN MUSEUM

The plane in which the first English pig enjoyed a flight has been placed on exhibition in the British Science Museum in London. A seat closely resembling a soap box is pointed out as the travelling compartment of the porker. Lieutenant-Colonel Moor-Barbazon was the pilot, and the flight was made in the Isle of Sheppey in 1909 "just for fun."

REV. BRETHERTON IS LAID TO REST

Hastings Residents Pay Final Tribute to Pastor of Hastings Church.

LINGERING ILLNESS.

HASTINGS, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death took place on Thursday morning, after a lingering illness of Rev. Father Cyril Stephen Bretherton, Parish Priest of the Diocese of Hastings for the past twenty-five years.

Father Bretherton has not been able to take any active part in the parish for the past two years. Rev. Father McGuire of Peterborough having charge.

Father Bretherton was ordained in Peterborough in 1883 by Bishop Jomot, first Bishop of Peterborough. At the time of his death he had the distinction of being, in point of service, the senior Priest of the Diocese. After his ordination Father Bretherton spent twenty-two years in different parishes in the Diocese before coming to Hastings in 1905.

The present highly commendable condition of the church and its surroundings are due to his care and foresight. The congregation are justly proud of their beautiful church with its terraced wall, neat fencing and walks, and many shade trees, the credit of which is due to the late Father Bretherton's artistic taste and to his zeal that all things in and about the House of God should possess the characteristics of order and seemliness. The interior decoration and renovation of the church is also one of the many improvements of his pastorate.

The other church property—the school house and grounds and the well-kept cemetery also testify to his care. The erecting of the substantial vault on the cemetery grounds and the beautiful monument in front of the church in memory of the members of the parish who gave up their lives, are due to the work of the late Father Bretherton.

He was loved and respected not only by the people of his own parish but by the entire community. He always took a deep interest in anything for the good of the village or community. He was one of the organizers of the Horticultural Society and was president for a number of years, during which time his knowledge of horticulture soon brought the society to the front; during his office as president he was one of the ones to have a Manitiba maple planted on Bridge street for each boy who gave up his life for their country from this community during the Great War.

The late Father Bretherton was a keen sportsman, always ready to give his support for good clean sport or amusement for the youth of the community. He was a keen curler and bowler, doing a great deal to make the curling club the success it has been. He has been honorary president of practically every sporting organization in the village.

The funeral which was held on Saturday morning was the largest in Hastings in some years showing the esteem he was held by all regardless of creed.

Solemn High Mass was sung with Father Ferguson of Warkworth as celebrant, Father Galvin of Downeyville, Deacon; Father Guiry of Port Hope sub-Deacon; Father Butler of Cobourg, Master of Ceremonies, Father Maher of Huntsville, Thurifer; Fathers Carroll of Peterborough and Cleary of Kincount, Acolytes.

His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough in a few words expressed his sorrow in the death of the Senior Priest of the parish who had been ordained before he was born. His Lordship asked the parish to ever remember their late pastor, who had done so much for them during his twenty-five years as parish Priest of Hastings.

The bearers were: Rev. Father McCauley of Ennismore; Phalen of Campbellford; J. O'Sullivan of Woolcr; Gilloigy of Kinmount; Garvey of Lakefield; McCarthy of Norwood. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor said the prayers at the grave.

Interment took place in Hastings Roman Catholic cemetery.

OBITUARY

ROBERT LUNN.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death of Robert Lunn, in his eightieth year, following an extended illness, removes yet another of the oldest and most respected citizens of Cavan Township. Deceased was a member of a pioneer family, his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Lunn, being early settlers of Clarke Township, and of their family of four children, but one son, John Lunn, of Millbrook, still survives.

Forty-six years ago Mr. Lunn was united in marriage to Margaret Kennedy, the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Richardson, taking place at Orono. Mrs. Lunn survives her husband, as do also their three children: William and Martha on the homestead, and John, also of Cavan Township.

Robert Lunn, in his earlier years, was actively connected with the Orange Order, and his two sons carry on the family tradition as prominent members of the organization. Mr. Lunn was a life-long member of the former Methodist and later of the United Church; a staunch Conservative in politics; and interested, so far as health and advancing years would permit, in public events and community enterprises, his residence for the past thirty-five years being three miles south of the village of Carmel.

The funeral, which took place from his late farm homestead, Second Line, Cavan, on Friday, November 28, at 2.30 p.m., was largely attended, his pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., having charge of the services. The pallbearers were six nephews: David, Howard, Archie, Robert, William (Peterborough) and Andrew (Orono) Lunn. Interment was at Gardner's Cemetery.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends were wreaths from the Sunday School of Carmel United Church, and from the L.O.L. No. 421, also of Carmel.

KENYA DEVELOPING WHITE SETTLEMENT

Passage of Land Bank Bill By Legislature Allays Fears About the Future.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Dec. 1 (C.P.)—Great satisfaction is felt throughout the Colony over the passing of the Land Bank Bill by the Legislature recently. The only regret in connection with the measure is the limiting of the capital of the bank to $1,200,000, this being stipulated by Lord Passfield, Secretary of State for the Colonies, before giving assent to the bill. The people would like it better if the capital were larger, Lord Passfield's action in sanctioning the bill has brought to a satisfactory end a matter long delayed, and provides an answer to the fears that recent political events threatened the future of white settlement. The Land Bank probably will be as useful in assisting native agricultural development as in developing in closer white settlement.

The Kenya government is budgeting for an increase in revenue in 1931 of $270,000 over this year's estimates, partly from increase motor traffic. The education grant is being increased.

To increase the use of electricity from the national Shannon hydro-electric scheme the government electricity board has established salesrooms for appliances in 20 cities of the Irish Free State.

RED ELEMENT ENTERS PROTEST OF THE SASKATCHEWAN FARMER

Communistic Literature Finding Way on to the Prairies Mostly Via Winnipeg.

WEST A SEPARATE UNIT.

REGINA, Dec. 1.—Outbursts of protests against conditions on the prairies have been recorded from central and northeast Saskatchewan: secession of western Canada from the rest of the Dominion has been seriously urged at an organised meeting of farmers; at the same meeting it was decided to organise to resist the sheriff and to combat foreclosures by every possible measure. The leading cities of Regina, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon are menaced with a serious unemployment question and from most of the agricultural districts and rural municipalities appeals for help are pouring in to the central provincial government.

This, despite the optimistic talk of big business heads, who make a flying trip through the province, and then after a couple of day's hasty passage talk of the depression being mostly a mental state, is actually the deplorable state of Saskatchewan. In an interview with the police the writer has learned that communistic literature is already finding its way on to the prairies, mostly via Winnipeg, and that affairs are not so rosy or prosperous as some would make it appear. The following few accounts of happenings in the province are indicative of the present industrial and economic situation.

At a recent meeting of 500 farmers at Canora strong and inflammatory criticism was levelled at the provincial government with reference to the tax sale act This meeting was presided over by Dr. Cymbalisky and W. B. Iluk. Milton N. Campbell, M.P., and Anton Morken, M.I.A., were also present but had left before the following had been put to the meeting and carried—

"The resolution read: "We, the farmers of the Rural Municipalities of Buchanan No. 305, Keys No. 303, Sliding Hills No. 273 and Good Lake No. 274, at a meeting assembled at Canora on November 9, 1930, do strongly protest against a tax sale imposed on us by the Saskatchewan provincial government through the department of municipal affairs in times of the present crisis. We know full well that our demand will not receive serious consideration by the representatives of big business as evidenced by the last government creditor farmer conference where instead of giving us debt ridden farmers relief, we were given a sheriff, an agent of financial capital, with whom we refuse to co-operate, but we do rely on our ability to organize ourselves on a new basis in a struggle for existence and resists foreclosure. evictions from land either through foreclosures or tax sales and boycotting sheriffs and foreclosures."

Commenting on the above a revision of the Debt Adjustment Act, reduction of the interest rate of arrears of taxes and of taxes owing under Tax Sales Certificates was forecast by Hon. Howard McConnell, minister of municipal affairs as a measure of relief.

Fewer Foreclosures.

"It is difficult to understand what has been said as it is a matter of record that there are less foreclosures and less writs issued according to court records than for many years in Saskatchewan" declared Hon. M. A. MacPherson, K.C., attorney-general, when confronted with the resolution.

Hon. James F. Bryant, K.C., minister of public works was very explicit in attributing the Canora outburst to communistic propaganda. When shown the despatches he said: "The despatches do not represent the viewpoint of the farmers of Saskatchewan. Our farmers are able and willing and want to pay their debts and the taxes for the service which they have asked for and received—all they ask is time. They are hard hit financially, but they are loyal, honest and clear thinking—a few reds cannot give Saskatchewan a black eye in the face of the financial world. The despatch is organized propaganda perhaps part of the SOVIET CAMPAIGN."

Another resolution passed at the same meeting was "A demand of the federal government to investigate the fascist dictatorship of Poland oppressing and terrorizing the working class and political minorities."

This resolution certainly appeared to be inspired from an outside source, as the farmers have too many problems of their own to worry much about the affairs of nationalities in Europe, with the exception of certain nationalities, recently arrived from those countries and with financial and other ties connecting them.

Secession of Western Canada from the rest of the Dominion was advocated by members of the Last Mountain Provincial Progressive Association at a meeting held at Strasbourg. The following resolution was passed: "In view of the general economic depression and the fact the solution of this crisis as advocated by Eastern Financial interests is diametrically opposed to the best interests of western Canada, therefore, be it resolved that this association favors a policy whereby Western Canada becomes a separate and distinct unit of the British commonwealth of nations."

DAVIES TELLS OF EXPEDITION

Was Member of Byrd Expedition to Ross Sea For Study of Terrestrial Magnetism.

THRILLING ADVENTURES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 1:—Sole British subject to accompany Rear-Admiral Evelyn Byrd on his successful expedition to the Antarctic, Frank T. Davies of McGill University, is home again busy tabulating, amplifying and arranging scientific data he secured while a member of the expedition at Little America.

Mr. Davies was primarily occupied with studies of terrestial magnetism, acting as chief physicist to the expedition camped on the edge of the ice barriers beyond the Ross Sea.

Not the least hazardous of Mr. Davies' duties was to be lowered by a rope down deep fissures and crevices in the ice packs to examine formation of ice crystals and to climb over large ice fields to study pressure ice. Mr. Davies explains that while Mawson, Scott and others had obtained valuable data on terrestial magnetism while in the Antartic, they were there at a time when sun spots were fewest and the phenomena of magnetism is acted upon by the sun's spots. The Byrd expedition was fortunate to be in the Antarctic at a more favorable time when the sun spots were at their maximum in the eleven-year cycle. Observations were also made on the Aurora-Australis, meterology and many other scientific subjects.

The crews and commanders of the two supply ships of the expedition cannot be too highly commended, says Mr. Davies. Practically unmentioned in glowing accounts of the expedition they ploughed their way through perilous seas of drifting ice, amid freezing cold to bring relief to the little party camped on the ice.

Life on the ice barrier was not so bad, he says. There was no distinction made because he was a Britisher. The long Antarctic night passed quickly enough with cards, contests and work, minor tasks such as building sleds and dog harness, making furniture and fur clothing, and preparing the aeroplane engines and scientifide equipment. A remarkable feature of the expedition was the fact that all the 42 men returned to New Zealand in good health after their two years sojourn amid snow and ice. The only point of hardship was perhaps when the men had to go two months without cigarettes when their supply ran out. Plentifully supplied with pipe obacco they were obliged to roll their own or smoke a pipe.

Mr. Davies will continue revising and arranging his work in the Carnegie Institute at Washington.

Sound news films are becoming popular in Germany.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 7 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

With a low snarl the beast now came toward Tarzan. Two years that the ape-man had spent in civilization had but slightly diminished the mighty power that had made him the invincible lord of the jungle. But, unarmed, to do battle with a great bull-necked ape was a test he would scarce have welcomed at any period of his wild existance.

Yet in the haunts of civilized man Tarzan had mastered certain methods of scientific warfare unknown to jungle folk. A few years ago he would have met this brute's rush with brute force. Now, he remembered a night in a London athletic club when one fighter delivered a mighty right into the solar plexus of the other. He swung his fist to the pit of the great ape's stomach.

Tarzan's solar plexus blow sent the huge anthopoid double and the beast sank to the ground. Before he could regain his feet, his white-skinned foe had pounced upon him. Vanished the last shred of the ape-man's superficial mantle of civilization. Now, again, he was Tarzan, foster-son of Kala the she-ape. With an exultant yell he caught the hairy throat of his enemy in [illegible]-like grip.

In a circle about the battling pair, the rest of the ape-tribe stood watching and enjoying the spectacle. Once in a while they would mutter low gutturals of approval as though the affair were much to their liking. Tarzan's powerful fingers held the mighty fangs from his own flesh as his other arm beat with the blows of a steam-hammer upon the ape's snarling, foam-flecked face.

W. J. PATRICK IS NEW PRESIDENT

John B. Kennedy Entertains Dunsford Telephone Association Trustees and Employees.

AT FOWL SUPPER.

DUNSFORD, Dec. 1.—On Monday evening, Nov. 24th, John B. Kennedy and his daughter, Miss Ethel Kennedy, entertained the trustees and employees of the Dunsford Telephone, Light and Power Co-operative Association Limited. At 6.30, the guests, fourteen in number, sat down to a bountiful fowl dinner. The tables were most tastefully decorated, a beautiful large bouquet of chrysanthemums, presented to Mr. Kennedy earlier in the day, with the best wishes of the officials, employees and subscribers of the Association occupying the place of honor. In proposing a toast to Mr. Kennedy, the president, Hugh Elliott, referred to the splendid service he had rendered, not only for almost twenty years as secretary-treasurer of the Telephone Association, but throughout his life in all the various activities of the community. Later in the evening Mr. Kennedy tendered his resignation as secretary-treasurer of the Association. Mr. Elliott retired from the presidency and assumes the duties so ably performed for many years by Mr. Kennedy as vice-president. W. J. Patrick succeeds Mr. Elliott.

I'm Alone Case Pending.

The report notes that the case of the I'm Alone is still pending. Nothing is said in the report of the activities of the United States' government in its investigation of the ownership of the I'm Alone, but it is known that when the arbitrators, Mr. Justice Duff and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Willis Vandevanter, begin their hearings the United States will hope to prove that the I'm Alone was owned by Danny Hogan of New York at present awaiting trial for implication in the I'm Alone's career. The I'm Alone, flying the Canadian flag, was sunk by coastguard gunfire tw ohundred miles at sea.

Twenty-seven thousand seven hundred and nine persons went to jail for violation of the prohibition laws in 1930—5,107 more than in 1929. And 4,238 more cases were pending at the close of the year than at the close of the previous year.

"Enforcement of the National Prohibition Act" says the report "showed improvement over 1929."

FIRST APPLE STEMAER.

The first steamer to carry apples direct from Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, to London, England, was the Neptune, which sailed on April 2, 1881. The shipment consisted of 6,800 barrels, and arrived in London in 14 days. This venture was fairly successful, and from that time the business has continued to increase in volume.

SKIPPER RELATES EXCITING STORY

Tells How Maple Bay Weathered Storms For 5 Days at Bete Gris Inlet.

ENGINES BADLY SHAKEN.

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 1.—(CP)—The present trip down the lakes caused him more anxiety that he has experienced for many years, Captain Robert Graham of the steamer Maple Bay said when the freighter docked here today enroute to Port Colborne. The Maple Bay was overdue last week and it was feared for a day or two that the ship had gone down.

We started the trip from Fort William in the face of storm signals and bad weather said the Captain, and after getting out into the lake we encountered a south west gale that at times had the small craft wallowing in the trough of the seas, snow added to the difficulties of keeping on the course.

"Realizing the danger o fattempting to continue," Captain Graham went on, "we made for shelter in the Bete Gris Inlet on the American shore of Lake Superior. There the Maple Bay rode the storm for five days while adjustments were made to the engines which had been badly shaken by the pounding received in the lake.

"I sent messages to our head office immediately after I got ashore and with the fuel almost exhausted decided to head for Marquette, when the weather moderated. Later we found this would be unnecessary and we continued straight for Sault Ste. Marie. No doubt those who were expecting us at Marquette became anxious, hence the reports that we might have met disaster."

the defeated candidate, the "Y" booth polling 81 for Rutter and only 21 for Hunter, and Trinity station giving Rutter 17 to Hunter's 11. However, Mark Street turned out in full force to give Hunter a solid 87 votes, Rutter getting nothing.

A mass meeting of the boy electors was held in the Y.M.C.A. to hear the results. Twelve lucky lads won passes to the Regent and Capitol theatres. The others remained in the "Y", enjoyed a movie show and had refreshments served them. It went down as one of the most successful Boy Parliament elections ever held here.

In Police Court

Ten days was the sentence handed down this morning by Police Magistrate Longley to C. D. Clute, who was tried on on a charge of operating a car on George street while intoxicated and found guilty. Two police constables and two witnesses testified that Clute was drunk when taken to the police station following an accident a week ago Saturday at the intersection of George and Simcoe streets.

A local man took a drink—in fact he took several drinks—on Friday afternoon. Sometime Sunday morning he woke up in the police cells. He admitted to the magistrate that he didn't know what it was he had been drinking, whether "it was wood alcohol, dope or something else more powerful'" He admitted it had put him "away" for thirty-six hours or more. He was fined $10 and costs.

Another local man was fined $50 and costs for being drunk. However, this was a second offence.

C.G.E. RECEIVES SEVERAL ORDERS

Wire Department Will Be Working at Full Capacity, E. G. Patterson Tells the Examiner.

WORKING OVERTIME.

The strong upward trend in business and the large rush of orders to manufacturing plants which not a few Canadian economists foresee for early in 1931 is already being felt in one big department of the Canadian General Electric Company's plant here. The wire department of the C.G.E. is working at full capacity to complete many large orders recently received.

"Yes, the wire department is working at 100 per cent of capacity, and everything indicates that it will remain busy for a long time to come," E. G. Patterson, general manager told The Examiner to-day.

The wire department is working overtime because of the lack of power, resulting from the shortage of water, Mr. Patterson explained. All night long the machinery in this department hums on. In the daytime it is not running at maximum because the power available must be divided among the other departments.

Church Services.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH

"Some illuminating things about what we read" was the interesting and helpful theme of last night's sermon, delivered by the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor of St. James' United Church.

Bearing on this subject, portions of scripture were read from the 12th Psalm and from II Timothy, with Psalm 119:11. Thy Word have I hid in mine heart that I might not sin against Thee," as the basis around which the discourse was built up.

As a guide to life and labor it is a necessary thing to have God's Word in our hearts. There is nothing more effective in your life and mine as a strength in resisting sin.

There is a fine literary value in the sweet, pure English of the Bible when viewed from that standpoint alone.

It is the greatest Book in print for its circulation exceeds that of all other books by millions. These, however, are not the main reasons why we should read the Bible, but because of its value to ourselves individually, as a food to our devotional lives. Therefore, let us read the best first, and avoid all other writing, even such as that of Bunyan or Thomas a Kempis, if they exclude the Bible, which is the eternal Word. The Psalmist, who had at his command only a small portion of the scripture, including the Pentitude, Chronicles and the prophetic writings, advises us to hide it in our hearts. We should not only read it, but commit it to memory.

Fiction has been classed as four different kinds. The first, to which seventy per cent. of our books belong, is described as "gambling," for they arouse in us only a feeling of excitement. Ten per cent. are termed as "literary gossip," while another ten per cent. are but the "fashion or fad" of to-day's literature. The remaining ten per cent of our fiction is profitable only to a degree. The highest and best of fiction is that which is true to life such as the works of Dickens and Hugo, but the best of all is the Holy Writ. Precious and mighty as this message is, still more effective is Christ Himself, the Incarnate Word of God, who will dwell in our hearts by Faith.

The Psalmist, who hid the Word of God in his heart that he might not sin against God, is an example to us, particularly to young people.

While we err greatly in sinning against our fellow-men, we sin grievlously toward God. If we let God into our hearts, through His Word, it will make a marvellous change in our lives. For if Christ comes in, light, life, salvation and immortality enter.

The very fine music by the two choirs, assisted by Master Orville Wainman, the boy soloist, added much to the spiritual tone of the service in the following program:

Anthem, "Seek Ye the Lord (Roberts), Senior Choir; Solo, Mr. H. Turner, "Bring Your Vessel" (Morris), Junior Choir. Solos, "O, for the Wings of a Dove," and "O Lord Rebuke Me Not," Orville Wainman.

RAYNOR COMPANY UNABLE TO START HIGHWAY WORK

Prices of Property Planned to Traverse East of Norwood Regarded as Exorbitant.

ELIMINATE CROSSINGS.

Department of Highways Refuses to Sanction Prices Asked By Farmers.

Construction of the five mile stretch of the new provincial highway immediately east of Norwood has been indefinitely suspended.

Prices of property which it was planned to traverse are said to have been regarded as exorbitant by the Department of Highways, and, although the contract was signed by the Raynor Construction Company, the work has not been started, nor is it likely to be undertaken before spring.

This is the substance of the information which The Examiner obtained from T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., Havelock, who has taken a lively interest in the projected highway through his constituency. Mr. Lancaster also stated that the course of the new road between Norwood and Havelock may have to be substantially altered to avoid the property obstacle which has been encountered in the proposed route that has been staked out by engineers of the Department.

Eliminated Crossings

About a month ago The Examiner indicated the location of this link of the highway between Norwood and Logan's crossing on the C.P.R. commonly known as the "long crossing". Immediately east of Norwood, the highway struck off across the fields and farm lands, instead of following the present county road where it crosses the C.P.R. on the east side ofthe village. WISH MINISTRY TO RESIGN OFFICE

Crisis Looming in New South Wales as Premier and Governor Differ.

TICKLISH POSITION.

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 2 (C.P. Cable, via Reuters).—A clash between the Labor Premier of the State of New South Wales, Hon. J. T. Lang, and the Governor of the States, Sir Philip Game, has attained the proportions of a constitutional crisis.

It is being suggested that the Labor Ministry, elected to office little more than a month ago, should resign and contest a new general election on the sole issue of the Governor's right to block the acknowledged will of the people upon a trivial point of procedure—in the Ministry's words.

Premier Lang claims he received a "mandate" in the elections to abolish the Legislative Council, or Upper House. The latter refused to consent to its own demise, whereupon Premier Lang approached the Governor, who promised to create sufficient new members to swamp the present House.

When Premier Lang duly presented a list of names, the Governor refused to approve them. According to the newspapers the Governor will not agree to more than 25 new appointees, whereas Premier Lang wants 40 to ensure a majority in the Upper House.

The Ministry terms the Governor's attitude an "untenable one." It is recognized that a request for the Governor's recall would only further delay public business. So unless the Governor is instructed to accept the Government's advice there may be a serious prospect of a new election.

November 31

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Members of Parliament received something of a shock with their salary cheques to-day when they noticed that the latter bore the mythical date "November 31." They were reassured later, however, when they learned through inquiry at Whitehall that the warrants would be honored on presentation.

12 Below Zero

Winter came in earnest here last night. Early yesterday the thermometer began to dip and continued to fall until it hit 12 degrees below zero, where it remained. At 7.30 this morning it was still 12 below, but by 9 o'clock it had moved up to 10 below.

While such weather is not unseasonable for early December, still one's mind can't help going back to only two weeks ago when dandelions, buttercups and lilac buds were being picked about the city and sent into The Examiner Office.

SCOTTISH STRIKE TO BE CONTINUED IS UNION DECISION

Failure of Delegates to Reach Decision Regarded as Menace to Industry.

ANXIETY IN ENGLAND.

Position to be Laid Before Federation Meet in London—Seek Gov't Interview.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Dec. 2.— (AP)—Union delegates representing 90,000 striking Scottish coal miners today decided to continue the strike despite efforts to attain a temporary agreement with mine owners.

Failure of this delegates' conference to reach any kind of agreement was regarded as particularly menacing to the country's coal industry. It has been recognized that this conference would determine to a large extent whether the Scottish strike might extend to other coal areas.

Wanted Agreement Tuesday

It has been thought extremely important that the Scottish mines be working by Tuesday, when a conference of National Union delegates meets at London, so that it would not be necessary to take a vote at London session on the question of a national strike.

The delegates here also voted to place the Scottish position before the Federation Conference at London on Thursday and asked for an interview with the Government.

Meanwhile the Collieries in England and Wales remained almost entirely unaffected, but anxiety was expressed lest the Scottish example might be followed elsewhere.

REPRESENTS EAST RENFREW

LONDON, Dec. 2. — The debonair "Boxing Marquis" of Clydsdale, fresh from victory in the East Renfrew by-election took his seat in the House of Commons today to the accompaniment of a storm of cheers from the Conservatives to whose ranks he is a welcome addition.

As he walked to the table to sign the Parliamentary roll, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald leaned forward with some remark which made the Marquis smile. The incident did not escape the attention of the Labor leftwingers.

"Congratulate him, Ramsay,' they shouted. "You did your best for him."

They were referring to the fact that the Labor Party with-held its official support from Clydesdale's Independent Labor opponent in the by-election.

NO PESSIMISTS ARE TO BE FOUND AT NASHUA PLANT

Company Will Have in 1930 Best Year in Its Canadian History.

DEPRESSION STATE OF MIND.

Planning For Bigger Business Next Year Carries Maximum Staff.

Pessimists and their cry of business depression get no consideration in the business activities and plans of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company. Employees of the Nashua Company's plant here are optimists and go-getters, and that goes for the sales staff and the hands in the factory, for John R. Marshall, the general manager, and the youth who sweeps out the office.

By strenuous sales effort and expert factory production, the Nashua Company is now going into the final month of its most successful business year. In 1929 the local plant increased its business more than 70 per cent. over the previous year. This year will see even 1929's banner business topped by another 15 per cent. or more.

Tariff Changes Adverse.

All this accomplished, despite the fact that others were throwing up their hands and yelling "depression," and the recent tariff changes were, as Mr. Marshall said, "slightly adverse to their industry."

Not only that, but the Nashua Company and employees are going ahead planning and building for bigger business next year, feeling fully confident that they will find it—or dig it out. South Africa and Mexico will be placed on the company's export list next year in the search for wider markets. This year Nashua products were shipped from Peterborough to New Zealand, Australia and the British West Indies. In Canada their business extends from coast to coast.

Sitting in his office yesterday afternoon, Mr. Marshall gave The Examiner some of the facts in the company's progress and also some of his own business philosophy, which has had much to do in pushing his firm's business on to new heights.

First, he said that the Nashua plant had carried its maximum number of employees all through this year and each worker had had considerable overtime throughout the entire period.

"No doubt" Mr. Marshall admitted, "there has been a general depression existing since the beginning of what we preach; that is, get out and wha we preach; that is, get out and work hard for more and better business, with the result that we have been able to keep sales ahead

Claims Instructions Came From Paris—Asked to Do All Damage Possible.

SPYING DONE FOR FRANCE.

MOSCOW, Dec. 2. (CP) — Leonid Ramsin, "arch plotter" of the eight men on trial here for working to overthrow the Soviet Government today told how he and his men spied on Soviet industries and passed their information along through devious channels to the officers of the French general staff.

This happened in the trial where the four judges ruled only a few days ago that there would be no more mention of "friendly foreign governments."

Through the mysterious agents identified by the letters, K, A, and R, said Ramsin, he and his associates passed every kind of information they could about the Soviet industrial development to a "certain French institution in Moscow."

The only "French institution" in the Soviet capital is the French Embassy. The defendants admitted to-day that most of their spying was done for the French, but they insisted that an espionage organization existed among the engineers in Soviet Russia for many years before the plot was organized.

"Most of the instructions from Paris," said Ramsin, "came from 'K.' They were demands for industrial information and for facts about military activities. We were instructed to disable military and electrical industries and to cripple the railways at every opportunity. In this connection our suggestions were approved by 'R'."

Missing Australian Aviatrix is Safe

Mrs. Keith Miller, famous Australian aviatrix and holder of the women's American transcontinental flight record, who, after being missing three days on a flight between Havana and Miami, is reported to be safe on one of the Bahama Islands. Aviation circles are greatly puzzled as to why Mrs. Miller ended her flight in the Bahamas, which lie much to the east of the normal Havana-Miami course.

Four Hunters Die When Camp Burns

Party of Fourteen Housed in a Two Storey Frame Cottage in the Bush Near Otis, Mass., Given First Warning When the Stove Exploded.

TEN, SCANTILY CLAD, MANAGE TO LEAP OUT WINDOWS INTO WEATHER THAT REGISTERED FIVE ABOVE ZERO

OTIS, Mass. Dec. 2.—Four hunters were burned to death and six burned and wounded by exploding shells when a camp housing 14 at Larkin Pond was destroyed by fire early this morning.

The dead are: Otto Rittner and Joseph Genniv of New Britain, Conn.; Thomas Hill and Daniel Reilly of Shelton, Conn.

The six injured men were rushed to a hospital in Winsted, Conn., by East Otis residents.

The hunters, who were housed in a two-story cottage owned by Pearl Prescott of Canaan, Conn., were awaked when a stove exploded. The fire had gained great headway by this time and boxes of shotgun shells began to discharge about the rooms.

10 Leap Out Windows

Ten of the scantily clad hunters jumped through windows; either from the first or second story, into frigid weather that registered five degrees above zero. The place was a mass of flames and the survivors were unable to aid their four trapped companions.

The camp was located a half mile from the nearest telephone and it was only after farmers noticed the flames that aid arrived. The six injured men, suffering from burns and wounds, were taken to the hospital when residents arrived in automobiles. Two of the four automobiles at the camp were burned, while the keys to the others were lost in the blaze.

No search for the bodies could be made because of the intense heat.

Fire Warden William Worden and State Troopers John Collins and William Faron rushed to the scene to give aid.

Clover Leaf Salmon Special Campaign

Save Twenty Per Cent. On Purchases Made On Wednesday.

A great campaign is under way tomorrow which should be of interest to all Canadians, inasmuch as it is a money-saving proposition for the purchaser, and at the same time brings to the front one of our greatest natural industries, that of the British Columbia salmon packer.

The campaign of buying Canadian-made products can be helped materially if our citizens will ask their grocer to-morrow to add to their order a goodly supply of Clover Leaf salmon, one of the most necessary and valuable articles of food that any home can stock. The large advertisement in this issue will show the big saving that can be made.

AVIATRIX TELLS OF FIGHT IN GALE

Flew Seven Hours Looking For Land After Compass Gave Out.

PANCAKED INTO BUSHES.

HAVANA, Dec. 2. (AP)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, who was forced down in the Bahamas during a flight from Havana to New York, to-day gave the Associated Press the first story of her adventurous experience.

"A terrific gale blew me off my course somewhere between Havana and the mainland" she said. "Then my compass went haywire and I flew seven hours looking for a place to land.

"The gas began to run low and I got panicky. I didn't know whether I was in the Gulf of Mexico or somewhere over the Atlantic. It was a fearful relief when I did see a spot of land. I thought it was Florida.

"But it was this village called Kemps Bay on Andros Island. There was a terrific wind, but I came in with full motor, then stalled her and pancaked into the thick bushes. I locked the ship over and it was O. K.

"I started out to walk and it was sixteen miles to the first telegraph station I came to. I walked all night over the rockiest beach I ever saw. My feet were blistered and I was mighty tired. I am sorry I can't send you more."

That last reference was to the telegram in which this interview was contained. The avistrix sent it by wireless from Nassau to Miami and it went thence by cable to the Associated Press bureau at Havana.

France is sending more table fruit to this country than ever before.

UNTIRING SERVICE RENDERED CITY BY MAYOR PRAISED

City Council Holds Its Last Regular Meeting For Year 1930.

CHANGE GARBAGE CONTRACT

Tribute is Paid Mayor Denne By Other Members of the Council Board.

Members of the City Council were entirely unanimous on at least one motion which was placed before them last night at the last regular meeting of the 1930 Council. It was a motion paying tribute to the work, energy, and clear judgment given the city's business during the year now closing by Mayor Roland Denne.

The motion was phrased as follows: 'That the sincere appreciation of the members of this Council be expressed to His Worship Mayor Roland Denne for his untiring and valuable services in his office during the year; for the help he has given to the Chairmen of Committees in carrying out their duties; and for the expeditious, courteous, and business-like manner he conducted the meetings of the Council."

The motion was introduced by Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, and was seconded by Alderman Daniel Holland. The councillors rose to the question as one man and shouts of "Aye, aye" echoed through the chambers.

Duty Of Every Citizen.

Alderman Harry Huffman, as the chairman of the Board of Works, claimed that the Mayor had rendered him greatest assistance, and on that score seemed unsatisfied with the motion, but rose and especially thanked His Worship. Mayor Denne, stated Alderman Huffman, was ready at any moment to leave his own business and tend to any detail of the city's affairs. The ease with which the Board of Works had accomplished many improvements to the city and kept the streets clean was mainly due to the keen interest the Mayor had shown always in that department's work and the paternal way in which he had advised its chairman.

Modestly, His Worship replied to the expressed esteem of his councillors. He stated that it should be every citizen's aim at all times to

GALA CEREMONY AS QUEBEC OPENS ITS LEGISLATURE

Garrison Troops Attend as Lieutenant Governor Reads Speech From Throne.

TASCHEREAU HAS 69 SEATS.

Grim Ramparts Mantled in White Make Fine Background For Bright Costumes.

QUEBEC, Que., December 2 (C.P.). — The cheery jingle of sleigh bells and the dazzling brilliance of a bright sun and new fallen snow lends traditional color to the opening of the Quebec Legislature to-day. The grim ramparts of the old fortress city are mantled in white, becoming background for the vivid colors of military uniforms and parliamentary regalia.

Garrison troops attend the ceremonial opening this afternoon when Lieutenant-Governor H O Carroll, in full panoply of office, will read the Speech from the Throne, giving life to the fourth session of Quebec's Seventeenth Parliament.

Last night and this morning the members of the Legislative Assembly the Legislative Council, and the ministers of Premier Taschereau's Cabinet arrived at the Capital in groups of two and three, preparing for the session.

The Liberal Government of Premier L. A. Taschereau is strongly entrenched with 69 seats out of the 85 in the Assembly. The Opposition Party, Conservatives under the leadership of the energetic Camillien Houde, Mayor of Montreal, occupy 13 seats, an increase of one seat since the House last convened.

SENDS CONGRATULATIONS.

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 2 (C.P.). —Acting Governor of Burma, Sir Joseph A. Maung Gyi, to-day telegraphed Governor Sir Charles Innes, congratulating him and his delegates at the round table conference at London on their decision to allow separation of Burma from India.

Conservatives Are Meeting in Toronto In Big Convention

Endorsement of Premier Bennett's Statement in Reply of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas is Voiced at Annual Meeting By Attorney General W. H. Price.

SEVEN YEARS OF FERGUSON ADMINISTRATION BEST YEARS ONTARIO HAS EVER EXPERIENCED

Time Has Come Declares Col. Price When Canada Wants a Real Live, Red Blooded Canadian at London—Man Who Will Be Firm Is Needed.

TORONTO, Ont., December 2 (C.P.). — An imposing array of Provincial and Federal Cabinet ministers is attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Conservative Association which opened here to-day. In addition, delegates are present from all parts of the Province.

In addition to brief discussions on a number of public questions, the officers of the association for the coming year are being elected. John R. MacNicol, president for many years, may retire from that post, and if so the new president will probably be W. H. Ireland, M.L.A., Conservative Whip in the Ontario Legislature.

Endorsement of Premier Bennett's statement in reply to Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, was voiced by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General of Ontario.

Pride in Premier Bennett.

"When we read the papers this morning and noticed Mr. Bennett's statement," said Col. Price, "we were thrilled and the whole people of Canada was thrilled, whether they agree with what was said or not. No one who is a Canadian, who loves Canada, and who loves the Empire could fail to feel that we have a man representing Canada at the heart of the Empire. Our good wishes go out to Mr. Bennett. We have pride in him as our Prime Minister and as the leader of our Party."

Continuing, Col. Price said Ontario Conservatives were very sorry to lose the leadership of Premier G. Howard Ferguson. The seven years of Ferguson administration had been the the best years Ontario had ever experienced. But he was satisfied, he said, Mr. Ferguson would do a great work for Canada and the Empire as Canadian High Commissioner in London.

"The time has come" he said, "when we want a real, live, red blooded Canadian in London" one who will be able to sit down with the leaders of Great Britain and the other dominions and state the position of Canada. I do not wish to reflect on the work of any former High Commissioner, but we want a man who will be firm and win his point once in a while."

Clifford Blackburn, president of the Toronto Conservative Association also praised the stand taken by Premier Bennett and expressed regret at the impending departure of Premier Ferguson.

It was learned to-day that Premier Ferguson has consented to address a banquet in London, Ontario, about January 12. This is taken to mean his departure for London will comes shortly after that date, probably January 15.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 2 (C.P.). — A large section of the Dominion Cabinet has moved down to Toronto to be present at the banquet of the Ontario Conservative Association to-night. Federal ministers who have gone to Toronto are Hon H. A. Stewart, Hon. R. J. Manion, Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Hon. W. A. Gordon, and Hon. Donald Sutherland. All of these ministers represent Ontario constituencies.

'HUMBUG' CHARGE ROUSES BENNETT; LASHES CABINET

Claims Govt's Failure to Censure Thomas Equal to Endorsation.

RESENTED BY CANADA.

Warns That Dominion May Take Other Means of Improving Economic Position.

LONDON, December 2 (C.P. Cable) —Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, said to-day that he does not propose to make any reply to the strong statement of Premier R. B. Bennett of last night, at the Empire Conference, and also in which the Canadian Prime Minister censured Mr. Thomas for his description of the Canadian proposals the British Government for its attitude.

Premier Bennett's statement was issued after due deliberation upon the statement made by Mr. Thomas in the House of Commons on Thursday last, in which Mr. Thomas used the word "humbug." Mr. Thomas' language is deeply resented by the Government of Canada, and the failure of the British Government to denounce it must be regarded as endorsation, Premier Bennett said.

Returns on Thursday.

Premier Bennett has now concluded arrangements to return to Canada on board the steamer Duchess of Atholl, sailing on Thursday for St. John, N.B.

Premier Bennett in vigorous language declared that the Secretary's statement in Parliament "was a condemnation in terms, unusual as they are injurious, of a proposal made by myself on behalf of Government of Canada, which we sincerely believe contains the best solution of the urgent problem of closer Empire economic association."

"The principle of preferential tariffs" he also said, "has been approved by all the overseas Dominions and among them there was a com-

MORNING BLAZE HITS PLYMOUTH

Several Families Left Homeless as Business Block Burns.

$200,000 DAMAGE.

PLYMOUTH, N.H., Dec. 2. (CP)—Several families were driven to the street and two of the principal buildings of the business section of the town were destroyed by fire early to-day. Damage was estimated at $200,000. The fire was of unknown origin.

The blaze started in the Tufts block, a three story wooden building. Flames jumped through the partitions from the cellar and spread through the Western Union office, a meat market, a millinery store, and a drug store, all located on the first floor.

The Fox block, three stories and of brick, caught from embers carried by a brisk wind, several families were driven from upper floor apartments in the latter building and doctor's offices were destroyed.

Aid was summoned from Lanconia, Meredith and Ashland to extinguish the flames.

The Weather.

This morning at 8.30 the temperature was 12 degrees below zero. It was no lower during the night. A year ago to-day, four inches of snow fell, and sleighs began to make their appearance. Sleighing continued with little interruption until March 1.—W.P.

Mrs. Keith-Miller Forced Down on Lonely Island.

GALE, LACK OF GAS BLAMED.

Tramp Through Bush Five Miles For Aid—Sends Message to Friends.

NASSAU, Bahamas, December 2 (C.P.). — Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, for whom a widespread search was made after she failed to arrive in Miami, Fla., on Friday on a flight from Havana, to-day told of being forced down on a remote link in the Bahamas Island chain by adverse weather, which tossed her far off her projected course.

She said compass failure and a gasoline shortage also were contributing causes to her descent on Andros Island on Friday. Andros Island is approximately 125 miles south by east of Miami and search was not made in that vicinity, for aviators, recalling a 30-mile an hour east wind on Friday, had expressed the belief that her re-conditioned plane would be blown westward.

Had No Radio.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, whose "bullet" was without radio, bank and turn dials or equipment for blind flying, said she ran into a heavy gale soon after leaving Havana and came down in the bush, five miles back of Kemp's Bay, Andros Island. Her plane, she said, was undamaged and she was uninjured.

The aviatrix said she walked to Kemp's Bay and was given pawpaws, a tropical fruit, and shelter by an aged negress, who lived alone with a child.

Commissioner Forsyth at Andros Island, she continued, helped her obtain a small boat to bring her here yesterday to despatch messages to her mother in New York, and friends.

She said she planned to return to Andros Island to-day and fly her plane to Miami. She radioed to Miami for gasoline, but Captain W. N. Lancaster, a British associate in her flying activities, said he would come here from Miami to-day and attempt to dissuade her from continuing in "The Bullet" herself.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, wife of a Sydney newspaperman and holder of a two-way transcontinental woman's flight record, was returning to Pittsburgh from Havana after a two-stop flight from the Pennsylvania city to Cuba.

Message to Mother

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (CP)—The courageous mother of a flying daughter to-day awaited her return from the Bahamas.

Mrs. E. M. L. Beveridge, mother of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, ended a solitary four-day vigil last night when she received this message:—

"Safe. Notify friends. Love. Jessie."

With trembling hands and wet eyes, Mrs. Beveridge sent the following cablegram:—

"Delighted to hear of your safety. Come back soon."

Mrs. Beveridge, the widow of a Melbourne banker, said she expected her daughter would start for New York at once and then go to Pittsburgh, where her adventure started on Nov. 22.

"I couldn't believe that Chubbie would be lost in such a short flight" said Mrs. Beveridge.

No Special U.S. Drive To Deport Canadians

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Writer).—Canadians ought to understand, said Commissioner-General of Immigration Harry H. Hull, that they should not come into this country as visitors and then settle here and get jobs. The Commissioner was commenting upon an erroneous report received here that a "drive" to deport Canadians illegally in the country was under way.

Mr. Hull said of course the Immigration Department was carrying on its regular work in checking up on those who had made illegal entry to the United States, and deportations of all Nationals ran now about 1,500 a month. Perhaps 15 or 20 per cent. of illegal entries were made across the long Canadian border, but many of these who evaded immigration restrictions were not Canadians. These people were often deported to their own countries: England, Italy, Germany or other parts of the world.

Currie Sails Monday On His Way To India

MONTREAL Dec. 2. (CP) — Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, will leave here on Thursday, Dec. 4, for England, en route to India, as official representative of the Canadian Government at the ceremonies at the opening of New Delhi as the Capital of British India, from Feb. 4 to 9. He will be accompanied by Lady Currie and Captain A. P. Sprange of the Department of National Defense, Ottawa, who was Sir Arthur's chief clerk during the war.

One of the main features of the ceremonies at New Delhi will be the unveiling of the Dominion columns, at which Sir Arthur will unveil the Canadian column.

IN COMA 5 DAYS BOXER SUCCUMBS

Charles Watson of Michigan Soo Unconscious 100 Hours After Bout.

ARRESTS EXPECTED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., December 2. — After being unconscious almost 100 hours, "Charles ("Kid") Watson of Michigan Sault died yesterday morning in the General Hospital of injuries of which he complained following a boxing bout with Charlie Evans of this city in the Canadian Legion Hall, last Wednesday. Soon after the fight with Evans was over, Watson said he had a headache, and then lapsed into unconsciousness in his dressing room. He was removed to the General Hospital, where he remained in a state of coma until the time of his death. He was believed to be suffering from a hemorrhage at the base of his skull.

An inquest will be held. A post-mortem was conducted yesterday afternoon.

The bouts last Wednesday night were held under the auspices of the Canadian Legion. Percy Perryment physical director of the Y.M.C.A. was the referee. Watson's seconds were his brother, Ray Watson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and "Kid" Parker of the Michigan Sault. Arrests are likely to follow the inquest, the police say.

engineers was to eliminate not only this rather dangerous crossing, but also the "long crossing."

By taking this course the highway would be made safer for the heavy traffic which it will undoubtedly attract, and at the same time it would provide a straighter road omitting corners and the longer distance of the old road between Havelock and Norwood. The proposed route was to parallel the C.P.R. on its south side. For the most part it was laid out comparatively close to the railway, and apparently provided a new and presumably valuable highway frontage for the farms it crossed.

A Similar Contract

The contract for this reach of the road was let about the same time the Brennan Construction Company was awarded the similar job east of Peterborough, and Mr. Lancaster expected that both contracts would be in progress at the same time. However, instead of obtaining prompt settlement with owners of property where the projected road leaves the village and leads out into the township, the representatives of the Department of Highways were confronted with prices which, it is understood, they would not sanction. Meanwhile, November moved on into the wintry weather of December. Nothing has been done and Mr. Lancaster stated that the proposed route may be abandoned.

If the epartmenth ad instructed the contractors to proceed on these disputed properties, and leave their valuation to arbitration, the government's position might have been prejudiced, Mr. Lancaster said. At any rate this arbitrary means of possessing the proposed right of way was not adopted.

Any delay in the construction of this important highway will be regretted by all those residents of Peterborough and Hastings counties who are hoping for its early completion. Another factor was the employment that would have been given this seasonr to men in the Norwood area. The present impasse means loss of time in the construction of the road and temporary deprivation of wages when no doubt they would have been especially welcome.

COMPANY SEEKS RE-ASSESSMENT FROM COUNCIL

Firm Kept Faith With Town When Business Was Running at Loss.

CAMPBELLFORD MEETING.

Communication Received From Board Regarding Unemployment Relief Work.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2. — The regular meeting of the Campbellford Town Council was held last night in the Public Library, Campbellford with Mayor C. H. Davidson in the chair. Those present were, Reeve J. M. Bygott; Deputy Reeve N. Stone; Councillors, H. N. Carr, N. A. MacColl, W. J. Abernethy, W. S. Wiggins and J. O'Sullivan.

Before the business of the evening commenced Deputy Reeve Stone thanked the members of the council for their kindness in remembering him with a bouquet of flowers during his recent illness.

Rev. R. Sedore addressed the council in regard to the assessment of taxes of Mrs. Martin Frederick. He stated that she was a widow whose income was very small and that her last assessment had been increased by $250.00. This he thought was a mistake, as there had been no improvement on the property to warrant the increase.

The town assessor, R. Lowry, speaking on this matter stated that there had been no intention of increasing this assessment and that it was an error of figures which would be adjusted.

Unemployment Relief

Several young men of the town approached the council in regard to the relief work and the possibility of getting on to the gangs. It was explained by the mayor and by Councillor O'Sullivan that every precaution was being taken to see that the right men were being hired. These were either married men or single men who had a widowed mother to support.

Among the correspondence read by the clerk was a letter from J. A. Ellis of the Provincial relief board, asking that the town submit monthly a report covering the number of married and single men being employed by them under the unemployment relief scheme. It was passed on motion that this letter be received and the information forwarded.

The Campbellford Cloth Company also communicated with the council in regard to the decision of the Court of Revision regarding their assessment. This letter asked that the town re-assess the company's plant at Campbellford with a view to lowering the tax.

The company stated that they had run the local plant at a loss for years and that they had kept faith with the town. After some discussion it was moved by Councill Wiggins and seconded by Councillor Abernethy, that Reeve Bygott and Councillors Carr and MacColl be a committee to draft a letter replying to the communication of the Campbellford Cloth Company.

LURED UP LANE ITALIAN IS SHOT

Victim With Wound in Nose Tells Police He Was Taken For "Ride."

ASKED OUT TO LUNCH.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.) — Accepting an invitation to dine at an East Side restaurant tendered by two fellow countrymen, Anthony Nevalli, recently arrived from United States, was taken for a "ride" instead.

His compatriots, whose names Nevalli claimed he did not know, told him to get in the car and they would provide him with a meal. The pair stopped the car on King near Berkley street, and ordered Nevalli to follow them up a nearby lane, where they are alleged to have aimed a shot at him with a revolver from close quarters. The bullet struck Nevalli's nose, after ploughing its way under his right eye. Physicians termed it a murderous shot.

A. E. Brummell, a taxi driver, found Nevalli running along Princess street this morning shouting "I am shot," as the blood gushed from his wound. The taxi man drove the victim to the police station, where he told his strange story, adding that the men had fired another shot at him as he tried to escape. He could assign no motive as to why they wanted to shoot him.

700 GOLD CLAIMS STAKED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.). — More than 700 claims have been staked in the Matachewan gold strike area, it was revealed at the Ontario Department of Mines. Prospectors are becoming increasingly active and diamond drilling will soon be started, it was stated.

The scene of the first strike is thickly dotted with claims, while further out prospectors have staked in fewer numbers.

FINLAYSON IS ILL.

BRITAIN ASKS U.S. TO PROBE NEGRO DEATHS

Compensation Sought For Two Subjects Shot While Visiting Florida.

SLAIN BY POLICE.

Sheriff Fails to Recall Incident —Affair an Accident Says Vice Consul.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 2—Governor Carleton announced yesterday that he had been asked by the State Department in Washington to furnish it with information regarding the reputed arrest and slaying of two negroes, both British subjects, who were visiting in Florida.

He said the State Department advised him it had been informed Hoskin Nemo was arrested by Miami police and shot to death, and that James Maijor was arrested by Broward County authorities and slain by gunfire.

Settlement Demanded

The Governor quoted the communication as saying the British Government had made an investigation, and claims there was no reason for the men being killed. The British authorities were described as demanding a settlement of $2,000 in each case, as well as punishment of those who killed the negroes.

The Governor did not say whether the communication stated in what part of the British Empire the negroes dwelled.

He turned the communication over to Attorney-General Fred H. Davis without comment.

Killing was "Accident"

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—L. A. Oates, the British Vice-Consul, recalled that Hoskin Nemo, negro, a British subject, residing at Nassau, Bahamas, was shot to death by policemen here in March, 1928.

The Vice-Consul said he had been advised the shooting was accidental. He did not mention other details of the killing, although he said he had been trying to collect insurance on Nemo's life for his widow.

Only Whites Killed

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 2.—Sheriff W. A. Turner of Broward County said no negroes had been killed by officers in this county for several years. He said several white men had been shot and wounded by authorities, but all had recovered.

mon eagerness to canvass their detailed application. "The principle of preferential tariffs was neither approved nor categorically disapproved by he delegates of the United Kingdom in the Imperial Conference, nor was there offered by them any definite alternative to the general scheme endorsed by the Dominions."

Statement Presented

After a detailed explanation of the Canadian attitude at the conference Premier Bennett declared:

"Now the Secretary of State for the Dominions has condemned beyond the possibility of further discussion and in language which is deeply resented by the government of Canada, the proposal which I made in the earnest desire to meet our individual and our common needs. He must be taken to have condemned alike the principle approved by all the Dominions and the specific illustration of it which was advanced to remove our debate from purposeless and unprofitable generalities out of which there can never come a concrete and stable agreement.

"He has condemned it despite the resolutions which were passed despite the statement of policy of his Government, despite the fact that during the whole period of the conference neither the principle of tariff preferences nor my plans to make them operative were discussed. And he has condemned it without offering a single positive proposal which might be reviewed as an alternative to mine.

INFURIATED DEER KILLS ITS KEEPER

Buck Being Fed at Fort Frances Gores Park Superintendent.

RESCUERS ATTACKED.

FORT FRANCES, Dec. 2 (C.P.) — Gored by a large buck within a deer corral at Pither's Point Park, Charles H. Gadd, Superintendent of Parks and Cemetries, was found dead yesterday by friends who, alarmed by his absence, had begun a search.

Mr. Gadd left home immediately after his noon-hour luncheon to feed the deer at the Point. Mrs. Gadd became uneasy over his absence and telephoned to Delbert Henry, informing him of Mr. Gadd's lateness in returning.

Mr. Henry went to the park, where he found the body of Mr. Gadd lying within the deer enclosure. Going over the fence to assist the prostrate man, he, too, was attacked by the buck. Hastily climbing back, he ran to the Fort Frances Brewery, nearby, for assistance. A party which was formed entered the corral, but the infuriated animal again attacked. After an effort was made to beat him off from Mr. Gadd's body, the deer was shot.

ALCORN IS NEW LINDSAY MAYOR

BITTER CONTEST.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 2. (Special to The Examiner).—In the snappiest as well as the most exciting election contest in the history of this town, the voters yesterday elected the municipal council for 1931. In the contest for mayor, S. Alcorn defeated Mayor Stewart by a majority of 272, James Begg, a former mayor defeated John O'Rielly for the deputy reeveship by a majority of 448. Thirteen candidates contested for the board of aldermen, the following being elected: H. B. Black, G. Weeks, Dr. White, J. G. Wenman, P. Pogue, F. Armstrong, and E. Michell. Four members of the retiring council were defeated. A record vote was polled and feeling ran righ during the day. The features of the campaign was the large woman vote and the activity of female canvassers; also the defeat of Deputy Reeve O'Rielly a former mayor, reeve of the county and active for 35 years in municipal affairs.

John Francis, England's biggest policeman, who weighed 420 pounds and measured 63 inches about the waist, died recently at Hereford.

PRICE OF BREAD JUMPS 2 CENTS

Retail Price Delivered at Door is Now Nine Cents Per Loaf.

FORMERLY TEN CENTS.

Peterborough housewives are paying nine cents a loaf for bread now. Several weeks ago bakers in the city opened up a price-cutting war and bread was delivered at the door for seven cents a loaf until yesterday, when the price was raised to nine cents.

At that, local housewives are saving one cent a loaf since the bakers' war because previously they were paying ten cents. Nine cents a loaf is the general price of bread in cities throughout Ontario, the head of one of the city's large bakeries told The Examiner to-day. Most of the bakers in Toronto are selling bread at ten cents, he said.

The baker emphasized that housewives should remember that bakers are buying flour and not wheat and that they should not get put out with the bakers if bread prices are not on a level with wheat prices. "We are compelled to buy our flour from the millers," he concluded, "and it is they who are really setting the price of bread."

Most of the stores are retailing bread at seven and a half and eight cents a loaf.

Automatic telephones are being installed in Paris.

DIAMOND JUBILEE CELEBRATED BY NORWOOD MASONIC LODGE

Over 200 Members and Guests Attend Monster Banquet.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM.

NORWOOD, Dec. 2.—Large numbers of brethren from district lodges gathered here recently on the occasion of the diamond jubilee celebration of Norwood Lodge 223, A. F. and A. M., which was celebrated by a monster banquet held in the Town Hall under the chairmanship of Worshipful Master Dr. H. G. Carleton of Norwood.

Among the some 200 or more guests present was included P. M. Lieut.-Col. Stuart of Toronto, accompanied by his wife and son. Colonel Stuart is one of the Past Masters of Norwood Lodge. Mrs. W. J. Drope of Grimsby, the widow of a former Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, was also present.

Dr. N. D. Buchanan of Peterborough delighted his brethren with a vivid travelogue of a trip to the West Indies, while a quartette from Ionic Chapter, Campbellford, also sang several selections. Brother John Storey of Campbellford also sang numerous comic songs.

The program was further augmented by Excelsior Orchestra, Hastings, which played for dancing. For non-dancers there were numerous tables of bridge.

Visitors came from Hastings, Peterborough, Havelock, Campbellford and Toronto.

Norwood Lodge, which was founded 60 years ago, now boasts a membership of about 125.

REV. A. J. WILSON SPEAKS ON THE EAST AT ROTARY

Campbellford Club's Guest Speaker Gives Vivid Picture of China To-day.

RECENTLY RETURNED.

Many Factors that Overcome Unfication of Country Explained at Weekly Luncheon.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2.—A vivid picture of the conditions facing China and the causes that hinder the unification of the country as a nation was given to the Campbellford Rotary club at their weekly luncheon, held on Monday in the St. Lawrence Hotel when the Rev. A. J. Wilson, pastor of Trinity United Church, Napanee and president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, spoke for the purpose of making a study of the conditions that prevail there. President H. N. Carr occupied the chair.

Mr. Wilson in explaining his trip, stated that only by understanding the east and the problems that face it can we realize the deep sense of responsibility that faces us as westerners, when striving toward that ideal, the brotherhood of man. The east, he explained, who was emerging from its past of backwardness into the age of apparent western civilization, in the same way that England had done after that feudal period.

Taking Japan as an example he explained how that nation had in the past few years, with its population of sixty-five million, risen to be a first class power. They were a people who loved order, who had good railways and a fine system of education. But the one big problem there was unemployment. This was caused by the fact that only one seventh part of the country was cultivatable, with the result that the people from the rural areas drifted into the cities, which causes a preponderance of population in them. Then there was the small wage for those who worked and the shortage of food, all these things constituting a big problem. But in comparison to China, Japan was well off in the speakers opinion.

The condition in China, said Mr. Wilson, was one that looked almost hopeless to the west. The problems that face it and which are inconceivable here, are the outcome of the revolution, and now the Nationalist government are trying to establish a democracy in one generation, and this was an impossible task. This task was impossible because there were factors that overcame the unification of the country.

The first of these the speaker said was the home life as it existed in China.

Families did not live separately but in groups, and in each of these groups the head man was the one to dispense justice and to issue regulations. There was often no communication between each group with the result that there was no national consciousness in the country. Added to this was the fact that women was on a lower plane than man, which made it impossible for the home to be a place where a man could entertain business associates and friends, with the result that such functions were held outside the home and amid associations that were lacking in moral. This segration of the home with the ancestral worship which it created and which caused people to look back instead of forward, was one of the factors that overcame unification.

And the second of these factors, the speaker said, was the poverty that existed in China. Cities were teeming with people, labor was cheap, human life was cheap. The cheapness of the standard of living was shown by the fact that a family of two could live for $35.00 a year, a family of three for $58.00 and a family of six for $100.00 a year. Hunger was a thing that was common, the eating of dirt as a means of subsistance being practiced.

Mr. Wilson then spoke of the lack of communication as another detering factor. China was a country of four hundred million people with a very small and poor railway system and no roads, the rivers being the chief means of communication, these and coolie labor. And coolie labor was a dear proposition the speaker said, stating that it would be cheaper for the millers of the country to ship in Canadian wheat from Alberta than to transport it on the backs of coolies a matter of five hundred miles.

And then the need of education was a big factor. China was a country where three hundred million people could neither read or write, for in the past education had been confined to the ruling classes. Now, however, an effort was being made by a few idealists to rectify this condition, with the result that education was slowly covering the masses, and one pleasing feature the speaker said was the fact that a minister of education had been appointed by the government, the first in the history of the country.

With whole families working long hours in the mills, with the exploitation of the economic situation, with unwanted babies being thrown in the rivers and disease rampant, it was going to be a long time before unification was possible in China.

It is our duty Mr. Wilson said in conclusion, with the power, wealth and influence that we have, to understand what is going on in this part of the world, stating that he hoped that the conception of brotherhood and love that was inbibed in Rotary would be helped by the facts that he had been able to present to them.

President Carr conveyed to the speaker a hearty vote of thanks for the interesting address after which the meeting concluded with the song of service.

OBITUARY

CHARLES CHRISTIE.

Charles Christie of Dummer Township died last evening at the House of Providence here at the age of 79 years. The late Mr. Christie was a life-long resident of Dummer, and was particularly well known in Norwood district. He retired from farming about 10 years ago, and of late had not enjoyed very good health.

The funeral will take place on Thursday, December 4, to Norwood Catholic Church and Cemetery.

Smokers of China consumed fully 100,000,000,000 cigarettes in the last 12 months.

FLIERS CONTINUE HUNT FOR GRIFFIN

Scan Niagara Peninsula For Trace of Aviator Missing Since Last Tuesday.

NEVER REACHED BUFFALO.

HAMILTON, Dec. 2.—A wide search of the country between here and Lake Erie was made yesterday by Samuel Foley, instructor at the Hamilton Airport, and Gordon Rayner, in the hope that they might find some trace of the monoplane in which William Griffin set out from here for Cleveland last Tuesday. Neither he nor his machine has since been heard of. It was first reported that Griffin went from here to Buffalo and then was last seen heading toward Cleveland. That report, however, was not substantiated, and it was learned today that Griffin never reached the Buffalo Airport. It is feared that he crashed, either in Lake Ontario or Lake Erie.

PULPWOOD RATES WILL BE ALTERED

C.N.R. Notifies Railway Board of Move on Soviet Product.

MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—Notice has been filed by the Canadian National Railways with the Board of Railway Commissioners at Ottawa of its intention to cancel a preferential rate given to Russian pulpwood from Sorel and Three Rivers to Northern New York. The rate was less than the rate on Canadian pulpwood from the same district to Northern New York.

The Canadian Pulpwood Association claimed that, in placing Russian wood at lower rate than Canadian, the railway was making a discrimination. The railway then advised the association that it was cancelling the preferential rate, and had filed necessary notice to that effect with the Railway Board, to take effect on Dec. 16.

Following publication of the rate, the association protested to the railway, and was told that a rate one-half cent per 100 pounds lower than the rate on Canadian wood had been established, but that it had not been considered discriminatory against Canadian shippers, since its purpose was to divert to Canada the handling of wood which was already reaching the New York market through the Port of Albany.

was read, stating that a certain loud speaker used by a resident of Campbellford located on Front street was a disturbance, as it was installed outside the owner's property and should be removed. The Council agreed with this request and appointed Mayor Davidson and Councillor Wiggins as a committee to interview the owners of all loud speakers in town with a view to the stoppage of the disturbance.

A letter was also read from the Provincial Government asking that the town draw up a by-law authorizing the Clerk and the Mayor to make an agreement with the government in regard to the receiving of the Government grant. It was decided, on motion, that the town Solicitor be authorized to draw up a by-law covering this matter.

An application for the laying of a water main on Portage street, under the Local Improvement Act was made by J. Jacobs and four other signees. This, on motion, was referred to the Clerk for verification.

The Clerk brought before the Council the fact that the present Transient Traders' by-law was out of date. It was impossible to make a conviction under it, as it was not in conformity with the statutes of the law. On motion, the Solicitor was authorized to bring this by-law up to date. A by-law covering the storage of coal oil, and passed in 1896 was also brought out, it being thought that a revision was necessary in this instance also. This was also referred to the Solicitor for inspection, with instructions that if it was not in order that a new one be drawn up.

The town Solicitor, D. J. Lynch, drew the attention of the Council to the fact that the Judge handling the county assessment would sit in Campbellford on December 17, and that it was necessary that the town make preparation for this meeting. He stated that all town assessments were being raised and thought that the county assessors had not followed the Assessment Act when covering Campbellford. They had only made twelve assessments and only one of these was a business property. He also stated that if the assessment stands as it was raised, the town would have to pay a county rate of $5,000.

After discussion on this matter it was passed, on motion, that Deputy-Reeve Stone, and Councillors Wiggins and Battisby with the Solicitor be appointed to value the properties outlined on the county Assessor's list for presentation to the judge at the Campbellford hearing.

Mayor Davidson was appointed to make inquiries regarding the insuring of members of the local fire brigade.

All accounts were presented and passed. The usual pay sheet amounted to $2,478.76, and the pay sheet for the unemployment relief work totaled $7,174.34. This last amount included material and labor.

A letter was also read from Councillor Wiggins thanking the Council for their expression of sympathy in the death of his mother.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Prices were expected to be lower for eggs on the market yesterday, but most dealers held their quotations steady to country shippers and slightly changed to retailers. Receipts of fresh supplies from Ontario points were very few, and quotations to retailers were based mostly on shipments from British Columbia. Cars from the coast have been rolling in steadily during the past few days, due to the strengthening of the local market, but brokers found sales not so easy yesterday, which was probably due to a momentary lull in the demand.

Local brokers have been asking, and getting, 60c for extras, 55c for firsts and 50c for pullet extras from the coast, while a few sales of strictly fresh Ontario eggs were reported yesterday at 58c for extras, and 54c for firsts, in free, used cases. As mentioned before, the demand was only fairly good and dealers expected to see a drop in prices. Quotations to the consumer have, of late, been too high to stimulate consumption and it was the opinion of many yesterday, that a lower market would result.

Egg Prices

Country shippers were quoted 57c to 60c for extras, 50c to 52c for firsts, 32c to 35c for seconds, and 45c to 46c for pullet extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Higher prices for B.C. firsts and pullet extras and steady prices for extras, have prevailed on account of carlots being available. But these prices were not so easy to get yesterday.

Retailers were offered extras in cartons at 65c, extras loose(63c, firsts loose, 60c, seconds loose, 38c to 40c, and pullet extras, loose, 55c.

Trading in butter was dull, with a few sales made and these at 30c to 30¼cf or No. 1, and 29c to 29¼c for No. 2. The prices included Western as well as Ontario supplies, and only the best of offerings commanded the higher figures.

Cream

Cream prices were steady with the decline of last week at 31c for specials, 30c for No. 1, and 27c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese

Cheese was steady at 14¼c to 14½c for new large, 14½c to 14¾c for twins, anl 14¾c to 15c for triplets, to shippers. But the quotations to the retail rade for new cheese were lower ¼c at 16½c for new large, 16¾c for twins, and 17c for triplets.

Potatoes

Carlot potato dealers were quoting higher prices to shippers, on track Toronto. Ontario's were priced at 80c in bags and 70c in bulk, which was 5c higher than the previous low. New Brunswick's were steady at $1 in bags and 90c in bulk, and Prince Edward Island Mountains, were quoted at $1.10 in bags and $1.00 in bulk, an increase of 10c in bags and 5c for bulk.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 2. — Receipts at the Union Stock Yards today were: 5,294 cattle, 332 calves, 710 hogs, 2,003 sheep and lambs.

There was a moderate supply of cattle here yesterday but opening trade was dull on killers with no butcher cattle selling to packers up to 11 o'clock. Bids are 25 cents a cwt., lower on all grades.

Small buyers took a few fairly good butcher steers at $6.75 to $7.25 a ctw., and a few good cows at $5 to $5.25 a cwt. Store cattle are selling from $5.50 to $6.25. The calf supply is light and prices are steady at $12 to $13 a cwt., for choice vealers, and downward to $4 a cwt., for common grassers.

The lamb market is active with prices steady at $8.75 for good ewes and wethers with culls and buck lambs selling at $6.75 to $7 a cwt. Good light butcher sheep at $4.50 to $4.75 a cwt. The hog market is unsettled with bids of 25 cents a cwt., lower than last week's close at $8.50, f.o.b., or $9.50 t o$9.75, w.o.c., for bacon.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 2. — In a quiet and featureless session, Winnipeg wheat prices traded at lower levels yesterday and closed out with net losses of ⅞c to 1¼c.

Export demand was very limited, and other buying interests so small that it was hardly noticeable, and values just naturally eased off. There was no real pressure of offerings, and pit operations reached a small aggregate.

Weakness in the Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets were factors in the decline.

An indifferent demand existed for cash wheat, while trade in coarse grains was dull and featureless.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 2—Cheese prices were lower and eggs were easier, while butter and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

On the cheese market prices were half a cent lower, Ontario being 12c to 12¼c and Quebec 11½c to 11¾c a pound. Receipts were 86 boxes.

Retail prices of both fresh and storage eggs were slightly shaded. Special brands were quoted at 66c to 68c; fresh extras, 63c to 65c; fresh firsts, 55c to 57c; fresh pullet extras, 53c to 55c; storage extras, 40c to 42c; storage firsts, 37c to 39c, and storage seconds, 33c to 35c a dozen. Car-lot prices were: Fresh extras, 60c; fresh firsts, 55c, and fresh pullet extras, 50c a dozen. Receipts were 730 cases.

On the butter market Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized grass-make was 29c a pound. To retailers solids were 32c and prints 33c a pound. Receipts were 58 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountains were 95c and 90-pound bag on the potato market and Prince Edward Island potatoes were $1 for Cobblers and $1.10 for Mountains per 90- lb. bog.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—In the face of the fact that wheat deliveries on December contracts reached a huge total of about 15,000,000 bushels yesterday, prices held steady. The chief reason was that, as expected, the bulk of the mountain of wheat apparently found its way into the strong hands of Government-sponsored agencies, and the market therefore kept an even keel, fluctuations of values being mostly fractional and showing no decided trend. Meanwhile, corn advanced owing to wintry weather and smallness of receipts.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ranging from 1c off to 3-8c up, as compared with Saturday's finish. Corn closed ¼c to ⅝c net higher, oats were unchanged to ⅛c advance, and provisions varying from 15c setback to a rise of 5c.

WHEN RULES SHOULD BE BROKEN.

The Department of Pensions and National Health is holding an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the refusal of the officials at Christie Street Hospital to admit a dying war veteran because to have done so would have been a breach of the regulations.

If the investigation accomplishes nothing else, it should lead to the issuing of orders to those in charge of military hospitals everywhere that in cases of emergency where an ex-service man is patently in need of medical attention there shall be no question of rules.

What does it matter if the hospitals might occasionally be imposed on?

Surely it would be better to undergo the risk of that development than to slam the door in the face of an ex-soldier whose condition necessitates immediate assistance.

Military hospitals were established to take care of disabled soldiers, and while necessarily there must be regulations and in ordinary cases it is desirable that the veteran's right to be treated should be reviewed, an emergency appeal for admittance is on a different footing.

The first instinct of a medical staff in such a moment should be to give the ex-soldier the immediate attention his case demands; there will be plenty of time afterward for red tape, medical files and official reports.

In civil life a doctor asks no question when he is called upon to aid a badly injured man—he simply goes to work with the utmost speed and skill he can demand.

Surely an institution that exists solely for the treatment of veterans should not stand on ceremony when a soldier is in dire peril.

PROMOTING EMPIRE TRADE.

The possibilities offered by the West Indies as a market for Canadian products are admirably suggested in a West Indies supplement that has been issued by the Montreal Star, and that contains all the material embodied in five West Indies sections that have appeared in regular issues of that paper during the past two months.

The object of this series of features is explained by the Star as that of bringing the British West Indian colonies and the Dominion of Canada closer together in bonds of mutual understanding, both economic and social.

The supplement should do much to bring about this much desired closer entente inasmuch as it contains a mass of information that should be of mutual interest to the people of both countries and accomplish a great deal in the direction of stimulating greater trade between these two units of the British Empire.

Despite differences of opinion at the Imperial Conference, the advantage of inter-Imperial trading where it can be carried on to the mutual profit of both parties cannot be denied, and in adopting effective publicity as a means of bringing about this end in the case of Canada and the West Indies, the Montreal Star deserves credit for undertaking a campaign that should be decidedly helpful in its effect.

It is understood that this special supplement will be given widespread distribution throughout Bermuda, Bahamas, the West Indies, British Guiana and the British Honduras, as well as to Canadian firms interested in West Indies trade and travel.

THE BOYS' PARLIAMENT.

For the second time John Hunter has been elected as Peterboroughs member in the Ontario Boys' Parliament, and he will go to Toronto to represent this constituency when the Boys' Parliament is called together in a few weeks.

This Parliament for 'teen age boys should prove decidedly worth while as a factor in inducing the youth of the land to take some interest in the business of government—a development that would seem to be badly needed.

Boys from all over the Province are brought together in Toronto, and there their business is conducted on strict parliamentary lines and with due regard to the formulae that older politicians feel it necessary to observe.

The youthful members in this way absorb some of the atmosphere of political life and learn a few things at least about the way the political wheels go round.

That should be useful education.

There is only one disquieting feature about the local election.

Apparently less than one-half of the possible voters used their franchise.

In other words the apathy that is too often a feature of political contests and that is indicated by the failure of large numbers of electors to use their ballots exists also among the youthful voters.

If this Boys' Parliament is to completely serve the objects for which it is intended something should be done to awaken the interest of the young electors.

If they are to become wideawake citizens when they attain maturity they must be early impressed with the importance of using their franchise.

DEPORTING THE NEWCOMERS.

A good many people will agree with the Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, that the wholesale deportation of single unemployed aliens who because of economic conditions have become public charges, is rather an unfortunate procedure.

The movement in that direction has been started in Calgary, which municipality proposes to have deported some 300 single men who are at present without jobs.

Calgary's right to ask for the deportation of aliens who have become public charges will not be disputed, but the wisdom of sending out of the country men who were brought in at considerable expense and who under normal conditions are likely to become good citizens is open to question.

The present depression will pass; work will open out again on its usual scale, and the men now being deported will be needed.

Would it not be better business for Canada generally, having regard to the fact that the Federal and Provincial Governments are financially assisting the municipalities to take care of the unemployed, to include these men in the unemployment relief scheme and tide them over until the time when their services will once more be in demand?

That is the view of the Minister of Immigration, and it will be shared by many other Canadians, who have confidence enough in Canada to look beyond the present slump and visualize the busy days that lie ahead.

ON THE WARPATH.

British Conservatives are on the warpath in earnest. And the failure of the recent Imperial Conference to achieve anything definite, in an economic way, is the chief weapon in their party equipment.

* * * *

Developments in the House of Commons this week and Mr. Baldwin's fighting speech before 800 delegates to the Central Council of the National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations—what a title!—yesterday, reveal what the Conservative leader and his colleagues have in mind. Things are going to be decidedly lively from now on.

The delegates attending the Conservative meeting in London gave Mr. Baldwin a vote of confidence, and it must have been very welcome to him, especially its unanimous feature, in view of the heavy criticisms directed against his leadership during recent months. Of course, the "Empire free trade" branch of the Conservative party, headed by the Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, actually absented themselves from the gathering and no doubt they still believe that it would be a good thing for the party were a new leader selected. However, Mr. Baldwin seems to have taken a fresh grip on his office and all the indications are that he will be directing party fortunes when the political groups of Great Britain go into electoral combat perhaps a few months hence.

* * * *

Mr. Baldwin's speech yesterday was fairly bold. True, the reports we have read do not credit him with coming out 100 per cent. for the Bennett plan of Empire reciprocal tariff preferences, but he is quoted as flatly demanding an emergency tariff on manufactured goods and promising that this will be brought about "as soon as the Conservative party can return to power." There is a vast difference between placing a tariff on manufactured goods and placing a tariff on food—the latter suggested by Premier Bennett in order to permit the institution of a preference plan—but it is interesting to see a British political leader advocating any kind of a tariff. Mr. Baldwin is also greatly concerned with the "dumping" of foreign products into Great Britain. "Whatever stands in the way of abolishing foreign dumping," he assured his audience, "that obstacle will be removed." By "dumping," of course, Mr. Baldwin meant the practice of sending surplus production from one country to another at a price established with little regard to the cost of production.

If the former Prime Minister did not embrace Mr. Bennett's food tariff idea—really the only type of tariff that will interest Canadians, as far as establishing an Empire preference system is concerned—he did anything but shut the door on the suggestion. He charged the Labor administration with having failed to secure results at the Imperial Conference. The Dominion Premiers, Mr. Baldwin declared, had urged the Motherland to try and found an economic union, but they had been sent home empty-handed, except for an undertaking that some of the subjects might be discussed within a year at Ottawa. "And that," the Conservative leader said, "is the only good thing that has come out of this conference, because they will be discussed at Ottawa and they will be discussed by our party."

* * * *

Still another indication, however, of the reluctance of the British Conservative party to place itself in the position of espousing the traditionally-hated "food taxes" is seen in another part of Mr. Baldwin's speech. His party, the ex-Premier said, was prepared to do everything in its power to work with the Dominions for imperial economic unity. "We want a free hand and we rule nothing out," he said, "reserving only to ourselves, as all statesmen in the Empire must, this one thing—that we have to consider our own people. That, we all have to do. Mr. Bennett said, 'I am a Canadian first.' I am an Englishman first."

Here we see, of course, the great obstacle that will confront the Imperial Conference delegates when they reassemble in Ottawa next summer. The British delegation may be Labor or it may be Conservative, but the British reluctance to place a tariff on foodstuffs will still be a factor of supreme importance. Unless Britain is prepared to throw aside tradition, unless she is ready to do the thing that Mr. MacDonald has declined to do and that Mr. Baldwin is still apparently far from accepting, it is difficult to see how the Ottawa conference can accomplish much. However, as we have said, the door is not closed, plenty of things can happen during the next few months and perhaps the British world will be pleasantly surprised. An overwhelming Conservative victory in the next general elections might, as we pointed out the other day, be interpreted as a straight mandate for Mr. Baldwin to do the very thing Mr. Bennett has suggested.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Will the Toronto Star and Mr. Ferguson kiss and make up before the latter leaves to take up his residence in London?

It is the duty of Canadians not only to do their Christmas shopping early but to confine it as much as possible to articles produced in this country.

Less red tape and more common sense is called in Canada's treatment of her war disabled soldiers.

The thermometer is less spectacular than other weather signs, but perhaps offers a more accurate indication of the arrival of winter.

Reports from Hamilton say that the people of the Ambitious City are slowly recovering from the shock of the Tigers' downfall.

As the Globe points out, the Conservative caucus allowed Mr. Ferguson to be boss until the very end.

Mayor Webb of Winnipeg has been re-elected for the fifth time. The voters in the Manitoba capital evidently believe in keeping a good man on the job.

One thing is fairly obvious. Gunmen who are serving long terms in the penitentiary very rarely do any shooting.

At least the farmer has no reason to complain of any lack of advice. Somebody is always telling him what he should do.

Get busy with that Christmas shopping and you will help to make somebody at present out of a job busy too.

THE SILVER HAWK

By

WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Aurore paused again. A shoulder of the western range had cut off the setting moon and a darkness was swiftly mantling the wilderness. On down the bosom of the lake a shadowy island rose out of the water straight in front of the drifting canoe, and on the island the lofty spires of great pines took on form nd outline — dark-silvered minarets uplifted to the star-glistening heavens.

From some naked pinnacle a wolf howl came wavering lonesomely. Farther away, high up on the mountainside toward the mesa, a human voice, a mere pin-point of sound in the brooding silence, rose in a halloo, twice repeated, calling Dorn's name. Aurore turned, as though to answer it; but the distance was too great.

In the darkness Dorn could no longer see Aurore's face, but only the silhouette of her shapely head against the sky — proudly poised, with stars tangled in her dishevelled hair. She seemed vanishing to a voice and a presence; and his clasp tightened upon her hand to keep her from vanishing altogether.

When she spoke again it was in a new strange tone, no longer penitent, but courageous and triumphant.

"Jim, in those hours I think I must have gone down and down and touched the bottom of abysmal hopelessness, for when I couldn't sink farther a courage gradually came to me — the fiercest kind — the courage of despair. During twilight the train entered into the mountains where I'd lived in wild freedom with Dad, and I saw them again for the first time in several years, and all those precious girlhood memories came flooding back. I was mountain-born and -bred, and it was like coming home again.

"It seemed my father was present with me then, Jim. I could hear his voice telling me that for years I had been a parasite — the worst of things in his eyes; and had made no use of my money or my education. And then, as he always did after scolding me, he gave me new courage, telling me to fight, to keep circumstances from degrading and breaking me, to escape the terrible thing that was looming upon me like an avalanche.

"I began to plan. I felt no compunction. Carter-Snowdon had lied when he said he loved me; he had veiled his real purpose in the marriage; he'd never told me that I was to be used publicly. My marriage vow was sacred and I swore to keep it so, and you can witness, Jim, I did — against love itself. I saw it was my stern duty to keep secret my separation from him and not injure him in his campaign; and you can witness — from that telegram and the newspapers — that I did want to keep it secret and did shield him from any consequences of my act. So far I felt obligated by duty and honor, but no farther. I no more felt honor-bound to immolate myself than a caught and caged bird will stay prisoner if the door is left open for an instant.

"With all his power and money behind the hunt for me, I knew there'd be no safety in civilization. I thought of the lonely lake two hundred miles north where Dad and I had spent four happy, sunlit summers. Of our cabin there, the great pines on the island, the cold blue waters and the winds blowing off the snowfields; and in my fever it was a vision of heaven to me, Jim. I prayed God I could escape somehow and make my way north and live there, beyond his ever finding me.

"In my plans I thought of old Dad Bergelot. He would befriend me and find some way of getting me north — if only I could fight off . . . could save myself till we reached Titan Pass.

"Our train was still forty miles west of there when night shut down and I was left alone in the coach with — with the man I had married. If he had ever known, every suspected my thoughts, my wild plan . . . our compartment had locks on it, and he would have overpowered me with his brute strength . . . but he never guessed. With every artifice of a person fighting for life I kept him from the faintest suspicion. I laughed with him, laughed at his coarse jokes, talked his simpering language, played coy and modest — the hunted, the elusive — and he liked that game.

"I was watching ahead for the moonlight on Titan Major. The instant I should see it, I meant to whisper that I wanted a few moments alone, out in the fresh air of the platform and then I'd come back to him; I meant to kiss him and whisper things in his ear till he'd release me and I could flee out of the coach and escape when the train thundered into Titan Pass.

"That last half hour was a black nightmare. I fought for every mile, for every minute; and all that time, when I wanted to cry out in horror and expected him every instant to suddenly pick me up in his arms, I sat on his lap and smiled at him and allowed him to run his coarse fingers through my hair. I know what hell is, Jim; I lived an eternity of it in that half hour, fighting that great hulking . . . but he's dead, Jim, up on that fire-blackened mesa, and only the truth remains — the blessed truth of God's mercy to me in that battle — for I won."

Chapter XXXVI

AN END TO PARTNERSHIP

In the chill gray of dawn Kansas Eby and old Luke Illewahwacet, stumbling in their weariness, came back down the mountain from their futile hunt for Dorn.

The Silver Hawk still rode at anchor a few yards out; but the canoe was gone and Aurore was gone and the fire they had built there on the sand as a beacon to guide Dorn had burned to dead ashes.

All yesterday afternoon and through the dark hours of the night just passed, Kansas and old Luke had searched up and down that Carrier trail trying to locate Dorn. They had explored by-paths and looked fearfully along the foot of ledges, and hallooed his name from high cliffs, but not a trace of him did they find.

They had discovered the body of the detective and given it burial in a rock cairn and cut a lobstick to mark that lonely winderness grave. On the mountain slope south of the mesa they had found Harry Quillan. His pack-chute had failed to open till he had plunged almost into the pines; his ankle was broken, he was cruelly battered and bruised; his life was a matter of getting him quickly to a doctor. Temporarily they had left him up at the edge of the mesa a hundred yards from the charred plane, at the brush shelter which old Luke had built for himself when Dorn stationed him there.

The conviction had grown on Kansas that Dorn was dead, and he cursed himself as the cause of his partner's death. He saw now that he should have kept track of Dorn instead of giving his attention to Aurore and old Luke. He had watched every second while Dorn battled his way across the fire-swept mesa and turned and found the blazing biplane, and then groped on to safety at the north edge. Dorn had not seemed badly hurt when he lay down in that cauldron pool. But Aurore. . . .

Winging overhead during those frenzied minutes, Kansas had seen the old Indian carrying her in his arms, off the mesa, down the trail; and he could see that Aurore was unconscious, and he thought she was terribly wounded. At the time, he had considered it the wise thing to light in the lake and come back afoot and help old Luke with Aurore.

He understood pretty clearly now what Dorn's state of mind must have been after the catastrophe. Dorn had not known that his shouts to the detective had reached old Luke at the mesa edge. The pines and the steep slope had shut off his view of the meadow, and he had not seen the old Indian loping out upon the little plateau—a gaunt scarecrow with that greasy medicine-robe flapping from his shoulders—and pulling Aurore from the wreckage. There was only one explanation of Dorn fighting on into the fire: he had thought Aurore was still in the biplane. The catastrophe had probably dazed him, stunned him. In his stricken anguish he likely had fallen from a ledge or wandered off into that God-forsaken wilderness where he could never be found.

For the last twelve hours Kansas had cursed himself with every step he took "I ought to have kept track of Dorn. Jim Dorn was worth an acre of girls." In his self-damnation it never occurred to him that hindsight was easy; that he had acted as any man would have; that he had done all that lay in his power He had risked his life, brushing low over the mesa, in that desperate attempt to make Dorn understand what old Luke had done; but still he blamed himself.

During that night he had hoped Dorn might be alive, and might have found his way down to the lake where they had left Aurore to watch for him. But when Kansas trudged out of the woods and saw the empty landwash, his last hope flickered out.

Old Luke, with a glance at the dead ashes and a grunt of surprise at Aurore's being gone, stepped forward and searched along the sand like an old hound cold-trailing. At his sudden "Huh!Ho!" Kansas hurried over to him.

"Look!" old Luke jabbered, reading a book that was closed to his white companion. "His track! Bigger than yours It come out of woods. He come while we gone; three, four hours ago. He sick, track wobble, no walk straight. Look, she standing by fire, she ran to him, they stand here together a minute . . . Saghelie!—Look there—she write bug-tracks on sand for us——"

Kansas took one glance at Aurore's message, "Jim has come." With a whoop, forgetting his exhaustion, he grabbed the old Indian's arm, splashed out into the icy water, shoved Luke into the rear seat, whirled the Silver Hawk, jumped in; and with his cold engine spluttering like sporadic machine-gun bursts, he started taxiing across the lake.

Down the path Aurore came running to meet them as they waded ashore in the cove, and fairly ran into Kansas' arms with her news, and when he clasped her hands, Kansas had no need of asking whether Jim Dorn was in any danger of his life.

Aurore was worn-out from her long suspense and her all-night vigil. There were telltale circles beneath her eyes and a weary droop to their beautiful lashes. But she had bathed her face to a glow and combed her hair and mended the slits in jacket and skirt; and in her happiness she seemed a different creature from the heart-broken girl Kansas had left over on the opposite shore twelve hours ago.

"Why didn't you signal us?" he asked, a little reproachfully, as they went up the path together.

"But I didn't have any gun, and I couldn't shout that far. I'd have built a fire, but till he went to sleep, just a little while ago, I had to stay with him every instant. He seemed to think that if I went away from him . . . he seemed be be . . . " not entirely . . ."

Kansas knew what Aurore meant to say and could not. Out of his experience with crack-ups he was more inured to such a thing than she was. It was only a couple of months ago that Dorn had dragged him out of a splintered plane and for more than sixty hours he had been "not entirely . . ." He said: "You mean the shock upset him? I suspected. He went through enough, Jim did. Is he bad hurt otherwise?"

"He's terribly burned and wounded and . . but I'll let you—if you'll promise to be quiet and not disturb or talk to him—I'll let you see . . ."

Kansas looked askance at Aurore. In her words there was an unconscious proprietorship that hurt him worse than the news of Dorn being injured.

He answered rather dryly: "I'd like to see him. I'm some interested in him too. Dorn and I, we sort of associated together for several years."

SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF GOLD; FURTHER DEPRESSION FEARED

League of Nations Has Gloomy Outlook—Remedial Measures Are Being Considered.

DEBASING OF CURRENCY.

GENEVA, Dec. 2. (By the Canadian Press)—That the world is faced with a serious shortage of gold in between four to eight years, leading to a further depression of prices with the accompanying effect on trade and prosperity, is the opinion of the delegation appointed by the financial committee of the League of Nations to examine the whole question of the fluctuations in the purchasing power of gold, their causes and their economic effects. The delegation suggests a number of remedial measures in its interim report, just published by the Secretariat of the League, and promises further reports dealing with the problems of the distribution of gold and the effect of price fluctuations on general prosperity. The interim report confines itself to the question of whether the prospective supply of gold is likely to prove sufficient to meet the probable monetary demand in the future.

The world's supply of gold available for monetary purposes is nearly 11,000 million dollars. The world's annual production is about 400 million dollars, of which a little less than half goes to non-monetary purposes, largely to satisfy the demands of India. There is likely to be a slight increase in world production of gold for the next two or three years, but thereafter a steady decrease owing to the gradual exhaustion of the South African mines, which account for over 50 per cent of the world's production. In 10 years' time failing the tapping of new considerable sources of gold or the discovery of new technical processes making it possible to tap mines at present unprofitable, annual production will drop to about 370 million dollars. The non-monetary demand for gold increases at about 1 per cent per annum and the demand for gold caused by the expansion of the world's trade and production by between 2 and 3 per cent. The average amount of gold reserve legally required to cover notes and sight liabilities is about 32 per cent, but in practice a margin of 7 or 8 per cent in excess of this amount has to be maintained.

On the basis of the data, the delegation worked out four separate sets of estimates in regard to the increments to gold reserves required per year to provide cover for average increases in notes and sight liabilities. The lowest of these estimates, based on a 2 per cent increase in demand and a 33 per cent cover, shows an excess of demand over the world's supply of gold for monetary purposes by 1938; the other three estimates, of which the highest is based on a 3 per cent annual increase in the demand and a 40 per cent cover, shows an excess of demand by 1934. By 1940, the lowest estimate gives an excess in demand of $34,000,000 over $170,000,000 available for monetary purposes, and the highest $238,000,000.

These figures led the delegation to consider what surplus stocks exist and how they might alleviate the situation in the future. Fifteen countries hold over 90 per cent of the gold reserve of the world. In 12 of these countries the surplus over the amount required to provide a 33 per cent cover for notes and sight liabilities is about $2,750,000,000 of which $1,500,000,000 are in the United States of America. Even taking the average minimum legal requirements for these 12 countries of 38 per cent and adding a margin of 7 per cent for normal use, the surplus is about $1,000,000,000 ,of which over $550,000,000 is in the United States of America. At present, says the delegation, it is sufficient to indicate that:

"If the distribution of gold is the result of excessive or abnormal competition by a few countries, or if it has the effect of sterilizing important amounts of monetary stocks, serious consequences will arise affecting the general level of prices.

"In recent years an unusual movement of gold has taken place. Thus in 1929, France and the United States of America together, increased their reserves by some $540,000,000, of which probably about $140,000,000 were withdrawn from commercial banks and from private boards. Ten countries acquired $1,055,000,000 during the three years ending Dec. 31, 1928—a sum equal to nearly 90 per cent of the total amount of new gold mined during this period."

As regards the remedies to avert the threatened scarcity of gold supplies and so to keep the level of prices steady at least for the next decade, the report suggests a further extension of the practice of substituting notes for gold coins or gold certificates in domestic use, a substitution of token coinage for notes of small denominations, and an agreement by at least the chief gold-holding countries to reduce the minimum gold cover required in proportion to the amount of currency; as the amount of this cover is largely a convention, says the delegation, the change could be effected by international agreement without weakening confidence or the credit structure. To make this agreement effective, central banks should come to a common understanding to reduce the proportion of gold cover which was held in practice. The use of gold might be economized by extending the use of cheques, post office banking facilities, giro transfers, etc., and by developing and improving the mechanism of clearings. In this connection the effect of stamp duties in discouraging the use of cheques should be considered. Care should be taken to see that these measures should not result in building up a credit structure exceeding the normal growth of production and trade in gold-using countries, so as to avoid, not only deflation, but also inflation.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 2nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to midnight.

The personal intimate part of your life will be adversely affected by planetary influences on this date. It is, however, a propitious time for journeys, and new business ventures. Do not take health risks!

Children born on this December 2nd will have aggressive natures and considerable "push" to them. They will learn very easily, and could, if they desired, be leaders in their school work. They will be able to do both manual and brain work well.

You are an ambitious person, but you are an impatient one, and you are seldom willing to wait for your successes. You are not a loving, tedious worker, every move pondered to its end, but are an erratic and a hurried one. It is only when you are sure of your path that you can safely quicken your pace, and you do not always heed this principle. Where drastic action, and unrestrained efforts are required, you are an efficient being. You jump at your enemies; never creep up on them.

If you be a man, you are a typical dollar-chaser and fame hunter. Your gods are material ones. If you be a woman, you are not an effeminate type. You have a man's sense of sportsmanship, and a man's head for business. Tea parties, gossip chats, and light fiction bore you. You are interested with affairs of the world, politics, economics, history and biographies. From preference, you choose the friendship of the opposite sex. Both men and women born on a December 2nd have a keen sense of justice, and, although always playing a hard game, it is a fair and straight one.

Sexually you are not romantic, although you have a love of adventure. Your moral reputation will always be an untainted one, and you will make a steady husband or a faithful wife, as the case may be.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE T O THE EXAMINER

In a letter accompanying the annual financial statement to shareholders, Southern Canada Power officials state that the customer-ownership offering made on October 13, was over-scubscribed within 36 hours. Ten thousand preferred shares were offered at the same price as the year previous, $106 share with a limit set of ten shares to each customer. 2,742 customers applied for 10,600 shares. The company welcomes any suggestion or constructive criticism from customer-owners.

Despite the general business depression, officials of Canadian corporations are expressing their confidence in the future in a very tangible way. During the month of December no less than four of the Canadian banks declared extra dividends and the list of bonuses includes distributions by several industrial corporations. That the first few days of January will bulk large in extras is indicated by the fact that over the week end, Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Montreal City and District Savings Bank, Canadian General Electric Company and Supertest Petroleum Corporation have declared bonuses in addition to their regular quarterly dividend. In the very near future several meetings of various boards are stated that may bring similar action. Directors of Service Stations, Limited, will meet shortly and in view of the fact that earnings for 1930 are expected to run more than twice the dividend requirement. The street is hopeful of further consideration for the company's stockholders. British American oil is another company that quite frequently makes an extra distribution in the closing months of the year and it is quite possible directors will see fit to again reward their shareholders for 1930. In 1929 there were numerous corporations to pay bonuses and from all appearances the closing month of 1930 is going to be another big period for such distributions.

C.C.W.P. Statement.

The printed financial statement of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, reached Toronto to-day and a comparison of the balance sheet figures indicate a drop in total assets and liabilities of almost $15,000,000 stocks of grain on hand as of August 31, 1930, were valued at $38,337,479, a reduction from $49,452,512 at the end of the preceding period. Of this total $34,386,359 represented wheat and $3,951,120 coarse grains. Open sales contrasts show a substantial reduction at $8,117,544 contrasted with $34,804,294 at the end of the 1928-1929 season.

A decrease in bank loans from $68,236,049 to $52,525,701 is noted on the liability side. In looking over these figures it must be remembered that the statement covers the pools activities to only August 31, 1930, and therefore, does not deal with any phases of the situation which have developed since that date.

Canada Steel Appeal.

Nothing has yet been heard from London on the appeal of the Steel Company of Canada before the privy council against the decision of the Canadian courts that the common stockholders were entitled to back dividends before the preferred shareholders receive participating dividends with the ordinary shares. It was understood the case would come up on the first day of this month and the street is expecting a final decision at any time now.

Prices were virtually unchanged to Toronto Stock Exchange, the first couple of hours this morning. Some of the leaders showed small gains, others small losses, but in neither case was there a defined trend. As the morning progressed, the market became even duller. The wriggling ribbon of tape stilled and the ticker ceased its muttering for long moments on end. The recent favorites in the oil group, McColl Frontenac and Supertest were both lower again, McColl down a couple of points, Supertest down one. Service Stations also indicated profit taking sales.

UPWARD TRENDS PREDOMINATE ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE DURING THE LATTER WEEK OF NOVEMBER

Favorable Turn in Stock Market Sentiment Said to Have Been Brought About by Re-accumulation by Those Who Had Liquidated Their Holdings Early in the Year.

REPRESENTS CHANGE FROM PASSIVENESS TO ACTIVITY ON PART OF SPECULATORS

Outside of a small reaction a week ago, the New York stock market has shown firmness throughout the past week, with daily upturns, and while all the advances have not been held, still the trend has been upward, with prices to-day throughout the general list of securities well above those of a week ago. The favorable turn in stock market sentiment is said to have been brought about by re-accumulation by those who liquidated their holdings early in the year, and seems to represent a change from passiveness to an actively constructive view-point by those usually well informed quarters. Naturally the bears have not been altogether inactive, and they have tried for reactions on the advances, but their offerings have been well taken in resent sessions. It is logical to expect the bears to contest any advanced market; being flushed with their success of the past few months they are in a financial position to resist upturns, but all their attempts of the past week have disclosed that there is a better demand for stocks than has existed in some time, particularly when moderate reactions have been recorded. These have indicated conclusively that scale supporting orders have been in the market. Some of this scale support has been highly significant because it has come from strong interests who have been out of the market for some time. In several stocks there has been buying for the account of those who disposed of their shares last April and who have remained out of the market until this week. This is true of Steel Common, American Can and other popular stocks which have been subject to bear pressure from time to time, but which have been able to absorb the offerings and maintain a moderate upward trend. While the upturn seemed overdue on technical grounds alone, it appeared to pivot on the fact that the copper interests had reacced an agreement for curtailing production throughout the world, the percentage of reduction averaging 15 per cent. Added to this was the posting of list price of $1.60 per 100 pounds for steel bars, shapes and plates by the Carnegie Steel Co. of the U. S. Steel Corporation. While it represented no assurance in price, it is regarded as a definite stand being taken at this time by the steel industry against granting price concessions, and in effect should mean better earnings to the several companies. Also it is reported that the Youngstown interests are hinting of a price advance in steel products after the first of the year. Encouragement was also derived from the report of unfilled tonnage at the end of October by the U.S. Steel Corporation, showing a gain of 57,425 tons. While the decline in stock prices since the middle of September has been substantial enogh to justify anticipating a further upward turn, the general opinion is that no major upward turn is in sight at present so far as all stocks are concerned. While in many cases it seems reasonably clear that the readjustment of share prices in logical relationship to earnings, yield and prospect of several more months of business depression has gone very far towards depletion, unfortunately, the mechanics of speculation are such that in a severe decline such as the present one the pendulum cannot avoid swinging beyond the point of economic logic. We suggest the purchase of conservative stocks which offer a yield of 6 per cent or more and good possibilities for eventual price appreciation.—E. J. Bawlf Company.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN COPPER PRICES

GREATER DEMAND.

TORONTO, Dec. 2. (Special to Examiner.)—According to a New York wire to-day some customs smelters have sold copper at 11.25 cents per pound delivered against 11 cents yesterday. Producers price is still at 12 cents. This is the second increase in price quoted by customs smelters in the past two days quotation moving up from 10.5 Saturday to 11 yesterday. London prices for both standard and electroltype copper also were up to-day.

The rise is taken as an indication of improved enquiry for copper. Volume of sales last week was at an exceptionally low point, the price maintained by the customs smelters being considered merely a basis on which to base payments for intake. Metal circles are anticipating somewhat higher sales for the current week.

The trade is looking forward to the publication of month end statistics of the copper industry, which should be out in the next ten days. Although it is too soon to expect curtailment agreement to have had any very great effect on production a decline in the stocks on hand is within the limits of possibilities in view of heavy purchases last month. The surplus of copper over hanging the market is expected to be the pointer by which the direction of events will be shown in the course of the next six months or so.

Resumed Operations.

Gossip around town has it fairly definitely established that three or four of the more promising properties in the Eastern Kirkland Lake camp are going to resume operations after the turn of the year. Financial negotiations are said to be practically completed by several companies and announcements of interest may be expected at any time.

STANDARD ISSUES FIRMER IN TONE

All Classes of Stocks Display Majority of Gains To-day.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2. (CP)—The few minor changes in evidence at noon to-day on the mining market showed a somewhat firmer tendency. All classes of issues displaying a majority of small gains. Turnover, however, continued light.

International Nickel gave a fairly strong performance, moving up 65 to $18.75, while Noranda held unchanged. Amulet, Ventures and Arno were up slightly from last night. Sherritt Gordon eased a couple to 80 and other Lindsleys and Base Metals were holding.

Mining Corporations recovered 5 to $1.60 in better demand. Teck Hughes was up 15 to $5.70, and Lake Shore and McIntyre firmed 5 each. Dome with a loss of 5 was the only easier spot in the golds.

Acme remained listless, easing another point to 31, and Alberta Pacific was off 3 to 30. Dalhousie, Petrol Oil and Imperial showed small advances, other oils were unchanged.

Station is Named After Errol Boyd

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 2.— (By the Canadian Press.)—A station on the Hudson Bay railway will be named "Boyd" after Capt. J. Erorl Boyd of Toronto, the first Canadian to fly across the Atlantic. It is at Mileage 250.1 and was originally named 'Linklater,' but as there is already a station and post office in Saskatchewan called "Linklater," the postal authorities asked that the one on the Hudson Bay railway be changed. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, took this opportunity to honor the Canadian aviator.

LIST LEADERS HOLD STEADY

Favorites Show Mixture of Gains and Losses With No Definite Trend.

ON TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Dec. 2. (CP)—Listless trading accompanied by only minor price changes marked operations on Toronto Stock Exchange the first couple of hours to-day. Leaders showed a mixture of gains and losses, with no definite trend

Recent leaders on the side of the advance were subject to profit-taking as speculative interest subsided. McColl Frontenac and Supertest, two oils which had been strong and higher, both declined, the former a couple of points and the latter one point. McColl later regained half of its earlier loss. The remainder of the oil group was firm but not active.

Nickel sold fractionally higher above 18. Ford of Canada, Dominion Stores Gypsum, Walkers were unchanged. C.P.R. reflected weakness in New York, slipping less than a point. Atlantic Sugar lost part of its recent advance back down to 13½ this morning, Brazilian was fractionally easier without showing weakness.

Three Are Burned In Furnace Blast

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 2.—(C.P.)—One man was probably fatally burned, and two others less seriously burned in an explosion of an electric furnace in the American Cynamid Company's plant here to-day. Molten slag enveloped the men, setting fire to their clothing when the blast occurred.

Louis Pearson, Stamford township, was burned all over the body. Physicians said he could not recover. The other two men injured are Stephen Vince and William Gillespie, both of this city.

Stock Market Ticker Briefs and Flashes

Twin City Rapid Transit has declared a common dividend of $2 Montreal. The dividend is for six months ended Dec. 31, 1930 and is paid in scrip of notes maturing on or before July 15, 1937 bearing interest after Jan. 15 at 6 per cent. per annum payable semi-annually July 15 and Jan. 15, such notes and scrip may be exchanged for first lien and refunding bonds or cash at option of company at or before maturity.

In May 1930 the Company announced it would pay dividends on the common in notes or scrip reserving cash for redemption of bonds. Six months ago a similar payment made on common, prior to the payment of the dividend in notes or scrip, the stock was on a $4 annual cash basis.

Bawlf and Company—"Activity in wheat is going increasingly to Winnipeg. Freedom to follow conditions in corn is attracting specultaive interest."

Daily Investment News—"Probable bulge on President's message, but would not advise to buy on bulge, rather taking profits if long. Can. to meet stock around twenty and steel around 47. Best possibility for further rally, Manville Biscuit Company.

"The outstanding feature is extreme dullness," says Clark in commenting on the situation. "It is a dullness which marks the resting period that follows every bad decline. Next important move should be upwards, but dullness can easily be extended through first of the year. Believe chances justify purchases on setbacks. Food, Tobacco, Can. and Chem. issues will make comparatively good showings."

MOTHER VICTOR IN COURT CASE

Court of Appeal Rules Child Be Brought Up Roman Catholic.

ADOPTED BY PROTESTANTS.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent)—The Court of Appeal to-day rendered an important judgment concerning a child who had been baptized as a Roman Catholic but was adopted by a Protestant couple. The mother had transferred the custody of the infant, a girl, to a Protestant Rescue Society. To-day's judgment was in favor of the mother, who is anxious that the child should be brought up in the faith in which it was baptized, the Roman Catholic faith.

Before the Court of Appeal Sir Thomas Inskip urged on behalf of the Society that even assuming the mother genuinely wished for the child to be brought up in the Roman Catholic religion, yet the court should consider the interests of the child and if so, over-ride the wishes of the mother.

Mother's Right Upheld

On the mother's behalf Serjeant Sullivan submitted that even if a parent had still a right to require the child to be brought up in the parent's religion. In this case the mother had not forfeited the parent's religion.

Lord Justice Scrutton said that in future it was desirable that these adoption societies, whether Catholic, Protestant or anything else, should enquire the religion of the parent and the name of the adopting parents should be disclosed. The societies were doing good work and could divide the work without clashing, he suggested.

The child in the case had been with her Protestant foster parents about 12 months, or since she reached the age of six months. The Appeal Court further ordered her to be produced tomorrow and handed over, not in court, but in Lord Justice Slesser's private room.

"As I am offering the hospitality I should like to have a lady there," Justice Slesser said.

TRUCK UPSETS, DRIVER MAY DIE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 2. — Edward Creswick will probably die as a result of injuries sustained last night when his small truck overturned, pinning him underneath. His skull is fractured, six ribs broken and his lungs punctured. A. Higgins, also in the truck, escaped injury. The truck skidded on the icy pavement, turning completely over on top of Creswick.

GERMAN DELEGATION URGED TO QUIT

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—Withdrawal of the German delegation from the Geneva disarmament parley was urged in a resolution adopted today by the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag. This action was advocated as a result of the refusal of the majority of the nations participating to accede to the German demands for more complete disarmament.

CHILD RESCUED FROM FIRE

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 2.—Lorune Baldwin, operator of a gasoline station on No. 3 highway near Port Alma this morning rescued his five-year old son from their burning home. The mother had left the sleeping child a few minutes before to visit a neighbor. Baldwin who was working some distance away noticed the smoke rising from his dwelling and rushing to his home he found his entry cut off by the flames. Smashing a window he found the child unconscious, but he soon revived.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL REFUSES TO COMMENT ON CONTROL MOVE

Reports Circulated Control of Enterprise Has Returned to United States.

NEW YORK BANKS BUY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (CP)—Executive offices of the International Nickel Company, which controls about 90 per cent of the world's output of nickel, declined to comment to-day on widely circulated reports in the financial district that control of this enterprise had been returned to the United States.

Control passed into Canadian hands two years ago, with the formation of the International Nickel Company of Canada, as successor to the International Nickel Company of New Jersey. The company's properties are primarily in the province of Ontario.

New York banking interests are rumored to have been large purchasers of the stock during its recent decline to less than $20 a share, against last year's peak price of $72.

NO PESSIMISTS

of last year, which up to then had been our banner year.

"All indications point to equally as good or better business for 1931" he continued, "due to the fact that, in my opinion, the so-called general depression now existing is largely a state of mind rather than an economic condition. True the value of our agricultural products have lowered materially and the return to the farmer for his products has been small, but I think that this condition reflecting itself in a few other industries has caused many people to talk hard times where hard times did not really exist.

Thinking Times Are Hard

"Our business brings us in touch with many lines of trade and I can state that in many cases business depression is directly due to this thinking on hard times. On the other hand hand one sees many outstanding industries throughout Canada still doing business in as large and prosperous a way, as formerly, chiefly because they refuse to recognize the existence of the so-called business depression."

The capacity of the Nashua plant here was increased 100 percent during 1929. Machine for machine was duplicated almost throughout the entire plant. Plans for further additions in machinery are now under consideration. "This machinery had to be kept going and the sales staff went out and secured the business. In 1929 we increased our business 70 percent more than in 1928, and this year, despite the hard times we will put up at least 15 percent above the 1929 total."

Mr. Marshall visions better business conditions for every industry within the next eight or ten months. "Much depends on the tariff changes at the next session of parliament" he affirmed, admitting that his company hoped for a slight re-adjustment from the change made in the Bennett Government's first session, which had not proved altogether satisfactory. "Business will go ahead with new power when a definite governmemntal policy has been announced."

The Nashua Company manufactures wax paper used in wrapping food products such as bread, confectionery, etc., and all lines of gummed sealing tapes, which are sold largely to manufacturers, wholesalers and retail stores, in the interest of better parcelling and handling of packages.

The Sealright Company manufactures paper containers and milk bottle caps. These containers are new in Canada and were introduced into this country by the Sealright Company in Peterborough as a container for ice cream, moist foods, pickles and so forth.

"Our business has shown great growth from year to year, chiefly through the educational methods adopted in selling campaigns," stated Mr. Marshall. "Our growth depends entirely on the people's desire for cleaner and better food, and our sales' efforts are directed along these lines. The Sealright Company has also enjoyed a good year, and indications are that there will be a marked increase demand for this class of goods in the near future."

HARD LUCK STORY FOOLS MANY

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 2.—Nova Scotia police were looking to-day for the Norwegian of "prepossessing appearance," whose appealing letter on behalf of his wife and "five-months-old child," addressed to Sinclair Lewis, aboard the Drottnimgholm, induced the winner of this year's Nobel Prize for literature, to part with $25, pending an investigation of the case. The investigation, conducted by a local newspaper and subsequently by the police, disclosed that the letter-writer, under various names, had victimised a score or more of people in Halifax, including a prominent banker, a member of the Halifax Harbor Commision, and several clergymen.

FERGUSON'S LAST ADDRESS

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2.—Arrangements have been made for Premier G. Howard Ferguson to address a banquet in London, Ont., about Jan. 12. This will probably be Premier Ferguson's last public appearance in Ontario before going to London, England, to take over his duties as High Commissioner for Canada.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was a dull, featureless affair when the trade passing was practically all local. The market opened lower and prices during the first period declined from 1¼ to 1¾ under the close on Saturday, from which low point there was some slight re-actions due to some support coming in due mainly to buying against the daily bids. The early selling came from these who had been buying on Saturday, but on the extreme recession there was not much pressure of offerings being light and with moderate short covering in the late trade the market was able to show a more stubborn tone, the latter being helped by firmness in Chicago in the nearby futures. The demand for cash wheat was very small and spreads were unchanged to two cents lower from the close on Saturdays. Offerings were not heavy but shippers have their cargo pace pretty well taken care of unless some fresh space is chartered which at best will only be small as large stocks are now across the Lakes to take care of the winter demand. Exports over the week end were confined to an odd load here and there with foreign demand for North American wheat generally disappointing. Liverpool closed 1½ to 1 5-8 lower, with cables stating there was a poor demand for nearby wheat while Argentine was pressing for January and February shipments. On the late cables Buenos Aires was 1¼ lower. The On Passage supplies of wheat and flour decreased 3,824,000 bushels with the World Shipments last week totalling 13,072,000 indicating a broad consumption of foreign wheat abroad. The Canadian Visible supply of wheat decreased 4,483,000 bushels, while the U.S. Visible decreased 2,446,000. Country marketings of wheat Saturday in Western Canada were 1,293,000 bushels as against 481,000 a year ago. Some showers were received in Argentine over the week end but the weather this morning was reported clear and warmer. Winnipeg futures closed 7-8 to 1⅛ lower.

Coarse grains—These markets were firmer, but there was very little offered. The cash markets were quiet, no feature. Oats closed 5-8 to 3-8 higher. Barley ½ higher to unchanged. Rye 3-8 to ½ higher.

Liverpool cables due 1-8 to ¼ higher based on Winnipeg.

NO CONSPIRACY DENTON RULES

Toronto Mayor, Controllers or Aldermen All Cleared in Salary Increase Probe.

ACTION STARTED APRIL.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.). — No evidence of a conspiracy on the part of the Mayor, Controllers and Aldermen to increase salaries was found by Judge Denton, whose report on the investigation into civic salaries was made public to-day by Mayor Bert Wemp. The investigation was the outcome of criticism of the Council's action in April last when salary increases were voted for the Mayor, members of the Board of Control and Aldermen.

His Honor finds there is no evidence upon which he can find as a fact that the members of Council entered into a conspiracy or had an understanding that if the proposed legislation permitting the increase to the Aldermen was obtained, the Aldermen would, in increasing their own salaries, vote in favor of an increase to the Controllers. In this connection, however, he says: "It does not require any judicial investigation to enable the electors to see that mutuality of interest often creates that kind of gentle breeze which helps materially in bringing a vessel and its cargo safely into port."

Mayor Not Active.

"Passive acquiescence" characterized the attitude of Mayor Wemp, Judge Denton says. He finds that the Chief Magistrate of the city, while favoring increased aldermanic remuneration, was not an active agent in securing the increases.

"Undoubtedly Controllers Pearce and Summerville were, more than any others, the two members of the Council who were instrumental with Sam Wright, M.L.A., and Fred McBrien, M.L.A., in introducing and getting the legislation through and of the two Controllers, Pearce had the greater driving force," His Honor finds.

In connection with the Mayor's position in the matter, Judge Denton says: "It is one thing to say that the permissive legislation had its origin in the Mayor's office, and it is quite another thing to say that His Worship the Mayor is responsible in equal measure with the others for seeing that the legislation was obtained."

LABOR MEMBER PASSES.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (C.P.).—Another vacancy in the House of Commons resulted from the death to-day of Walter Baker, Labor member for East Bristol since 1923.

Mr. Baker was assistant general secretary of the Union of Post Office Workers, and was 54 years of age.

He was elected in 1929 by a majority of 11,821 over C. G. Spencer, Liberal, the vote being practically two to one.

NEW YORK LIST STRENGTHENS IN LATER TRADING

Gains More Numerous Following Hoover's Address to Congress.

SOME BREAKS IN LIST.

U. S. and Bethlehem Steels and John Mansville Among Issues to Advance.

(By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The stock market again found the line of the least resistance led upward to-day, but it was not enthusiastic about it.

Gains were extended a little, and trading showed signs of picking up for a few minutes after financial news tickers printed summaries of President Hoover's message to Congress in the early afternoon, but the list soon wavered, and part of the advance was lost.

After a momentary sag in the first hour of trading, the list crept almost steadily upward until early afternoon. Most of the prominent shares recorded net gains of a point or so, while a handful gained more than 2. U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville, Allied Chemical, American Banknote, and Continental Baking "A" were among shares advancing about 2 points. Some of the office equipments were conspicuously strong, International Business Machines gaining, 6 points, and Underwood Elliott half as much.

The President's recommendations appeared to have been almost fully discounted previously, since they were closely in line with brokerage forecasts. If Wall Street had been in a bullish frame of mind, the suggestion that anti-trust laws be changed to conserve natural resources and prevent wasteful competition might have been greeted with enthusiasm.

Strength in the steel issues seemed to reflect fresh rumors that large producers were planning an advance in quotations for the first quarter of 1931. The coppers moved up a little here and there, as at least one custom smelter sold the red metal at 11¼ cents, against 10½ last week.

POLITICAL RALLY REQUIRES POLICE

Reading of Tresaurer's Statement Almost Starts Battle at Toronto Hall.

WOMEN PLAY PART.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.) — Threats to request action on the part of two police constables who were present in the hall were necessary last night to calm a general disorder that broke out during the annual meeting of the Ward 2 Liberal-Conservative Auxiliary Association here.

Trouble was anticipated to start with as the presence of the policemen at the door denoted, but the near battle royal which developed after the reading of the treasurer's statement was more than had been prepared for.

Catcalls, jeers, sneers, hisses, stamping of feet, shaking of fists and other acts of belligerency, made the large gathering of women look anything but members of the so-called "weaker sex."

In the election of officers, the "Revolters," those who had expressed opposition to the proposals placed before the meeting by the officers, were victorious, as their candidate for the presidency was elected.

The fox held by Urban Gillis is valued at $5,000, and although only four years old has sired 150 fox puppies. This fine animal and the other foxes which were carried in a Canadian National Express car, were worth approximately a quarter of a million dollars

COLORED VIEWS OF NEW ZEALAND

Photographs Lent to C.P.R. Through the New Zealand Government.

NATURE'S PHASES, MOODS

Many people have no doubt have been privileged to see the exhibition views of New Zealand, loaned by the Government of that island to the C.P.R. in one of the show windows of Eaton's (Housefurnishing Department).

The photographer has indeed caught the color charm of the island, the smallest Dominion in the British Empire. Every phase and mood of nature, the tropical suggestion of the scenery, and the blending and contrast of colors convey in a lifelike manner the true idea of the loveliness and romance of New Zealand.

The most beautiful picture is "Milford Track." Here there is a conception of the 'forest primeval' with a 'riddy' in ferns and bracken; to the left there is a rustic walk; to the right is a rugged stream with green hills rising from the side and a mountain soaring into a sunlit sky. "Waino Road" is more intensive in its picture of undergrowth and ferns, and is marked by its bewitching hue of green.

"Geyser Valley—Rotorua" shows the more dismal mood of nature, with its rocky steppe land and numerous small geysers. The gruesome is portrayed in "Tongariro National Park." It is marked by Colorado scenery; bare rocks and curious-shaped boulders, in the background is a snow-capped Fujiyama; and a sultry atmosphere pervades the whole. However, a more joyful mood is again shown in "Mokau Falls," where a silver stream surface. Nearby a jutting shrub-covered cape comes daringly near the fore with only a shallow ribbon of water to hold it back.

"Maori Haka," "Poi Dancers," "Maori Pa," "Bathing" all of Rotorua, show different scenes of natives. "Gannett's Cape Kidnappers" portrays a Matterhorn shaped elevation of sand covered with birds; on either side the sea stretches out.

It is the weird scenery of "White Island—Crater" with its red granite rock and lack of verdure that finally drives us to view the sea.' A first glimpse is gained in "Lake Hawea—Otago," on the right of which there is a steep wooded slope and on whose left is a gentle rising. There is a wealth of coloring in the bare buffs in the center and in the clouds in the background. In "Lake Waikaremoana" one looks from a road on the left through a steep sided valley onto a rim of sea. There are two scenes of "South-east-Bay—Mayor Island," the first of which is a fresh water body with crescent shaped shore line and an opening to the sea through a narrow outlet, and the second of which is a view through bare trees to a sunlit expanse of ocean blue.

"Silver Island—Lake Hawea" shows a green rocky surface raising from the water and separated from the other islands only by narrow lagoons. An eerie picture is "Lake Paradise" in which is depicted an elevated lake in the lap of a copper colored elevation, "Cape Kidnappers," consists of a long narrow arm stretching from the right to the middle, with transparent blue water sending up whitecaps onto a sandy shore. A similar picture is that of "Lake Taupo," only with small islands scattered in the distance. The sand, the wonderfully formed waves and the green table land mark "Trout Fishing—Lake Taupo." "Lake Waiki" has deep blue green water with shrubbery on the shore to match and differentiated tints of mountains according to their distances from the photographer.

Dusk begins to gather. "Entrance to Pelorous Sound" has a weirdness in its portrayal of the sea and bleak islands. Finally twilight settles over sickly hued water reflecting the purple mountain behind which is a snow-capped peak in the dim distance, all mark this photograph.

MANY IN WANT ACROSS KENORA

Ontario Gov't Failed to Fulfill Election Promises Heenan Charges.

RAPS WAGE CUT ACTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.) — A statement, in which he claimed that the Ontario Government had utterly failed to live up to pre-election promises made in the Kenora district and many unemployed there were facing a bleak winter, was issued Monday by Hon. P. Heenan, former Minister of Labor, on his return from his constituency.

"The one achievement of the Provincial authorities to date in that area has been to slash wages 70 cents a day, a move made possible by the present abundance of labor." Mr. Heenan said. "Men are now working on roads at $2.80 a day, less a dollar a day for their board, when they should be getting four dollars a day."

After explaining that prospects were generally poor in the Kenora district owing to the low prices of farm products and the lack of demand for pulpwood and lumber, Mr. Heenan's statement concludes:

"The Ontario Government is entirely callous and indifferent to the suffering of the people in that country, and it is doing more to create radicals than any other agency I know of in the country."

France's new social insurance law provides for payments in case of sickness, incapacity, old age and death, and for financial assistance in burdens entailed by reason of family charges, maternity and involuntary unemployment.

Millbrook

Prize winners in the Girls' Garden and Canning Club for Durham County for 1929 listed as follows, according to the official statement issued by the office of the Department of Agriculture, Port Hope:

For those who brought their exhibits to the Millbrook Fair to be judged: 1 Iva Smith, Cavan, $2.00; 2, R. Van der Horne, Cavan, $1.50; 3, May Smith, Bethany, $1.00.

For those whose exhibits were judged at Port Hope: 1, Margaret Falls, Millbrook, $2.00; 2, Marian Earle, Millbrook, $1.50; 3, Vera Kerslake, Hampton, $1.00; 4, Sadie Rowland, Millbrook 50c; 5, Marie Rundle Bowmanville, 50c.

Miss Iva Smith, of Cavan, was the high girl of the competition this year, but owing to the fact that unless at least ten girls are in at the finish of the contest, the award of two weeks' course at Macdonald Institute, Guelph, could not be given.

Usually fifteen girls is the number fixed by the Department of Agriculture in order to be eligible for the free course, but a reduction to ten was made this year wing to the fact that the Garden and Canning Club was new in Durham; unfortunately only nine completed the competition, hence the high girl received only the cash prize.

However, all the girls competing this year are eligible to again enter the Club and take part in the 1931 contest, and Mr. Summers, the agricultural representative, expresses the hope that "we will be able to receive a large enough number of entries in 1931 to qualify the high girl for the course."

Help The Postman

The Postmaster-General has announced the suspension of mail delivery on Christmas Day.

Members of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers greatly appreciate this concession, as it enables them to be at home with their families on this holiday. But, being public servants and anxious to serve the best interests of their patrons, they take this opportunity of requesting the public to mail their gifts, etc., in sufficient time as to enable the letter carriers to deliver all the Christmas mail on the days preceding Christmas Day.

If the public will co-operate with the letter carriers and other postal officials in this matter, says John J. Reaves, Secretary-Treasurer of the association, there will be no congestion or delay in this important public service.

Captain Brown, aged 100, who saw Florence Nightingale during the Crimean war, has died at Wallasey, England.

Home Secretary Clynes of England made his first film appearance recently in taking part in a talkie illustrating health and welfare in industry.

MAN WHO RODE WITH CZAR QUITS

John Bain, of Aberdeen, Scotland, who was second in charge of the train which carried the Czar and Czarina of Russia from Aberdeen to Ballater on their way to Balmoral Castle in Scotland, has just resigned from railway service at 65 years of age. During the Czar's journey, says Bain, police were posted within speaking distance of each other all along the line. Bain has also acted as guard on trains which carried Queen Victoria, King Edward, King George and Queen Mary.

INGENIOUS BOOTLEGGER'S CACHE YIELDS $60,000 WORTH OF BOOZE

Police Seize Hidden Cave and Discover Two Huge Train Shipments.

CONSIGNED TO U. S.

(Special to the Examiner—Copyright 1930)

MONCTON, N.B. Dec. 2—Decisive victories were won by officers of the New Brunswick Customs Excise Preventative Service in their vigorous but bloodless battle against the rum-running interests during the last week. As a result one of the most ingenious "hides" ever developed by the fertile brain of a smuggler was uncovered. The total value of the week's harvest—the fruits of which are safely guarded under lock and key in Customs warehouses in Saint John and Moncton—is calculated conservatively by L. A. Gagnon, chief of the New Brunswick forces, with headquarters in St. John, to be worth $60,000. The contraband reckoned in bootleggers' values, however, would be worth more than $100,000.

In the first seizure—at New River beach not more than 25 miles from Saint John where the clever cache was brought to light within a stone's throw of the sandy playground where thousands in holiday time disport enjoying Fundy's warm breezes and exhilarating waters — was made after one of the biggest single hauls ever made in the province.

Preventive officials had long held in their possession plans of the man-made cave in the side of a rocky embankment overlooking the beach. Watchful waiting netted them nothing, however, but the smugglers "put one over" when they slipped in one night and unloaded a rich cargo of St. Pierre, Miquelon liquors from a schooner and stored it in the cave where they intended it should repose until they were ready to transport it across the border—30 miles away—in trucks.

But the sharp-eyed preventive men, checking back just for safety's sake on the dug-out which had been unused for so long, discovered that the clever camouflage of earth, stones and brush had been disturbed slightly. Little further investigation was needed to prove their suspicions true, the cave was filled with contraband.

Followed a lonely night vigil while the preventive men waited in vain for someone to come and claim the booze, but when dawn broke, they set to work in earnest. The job was bigger than was at first anticipated for the small hole which proved to be the entrance to a large underground room was large enough to admit only one man crawling on his stomach. And as there were 97 cases of alcohol, each case containing two tins of two and a half gallons capacity each and 67 cases of assorted liquors—whisky, brandy and gin—it necessitated many trips, when the water rose some 35 to 40 feet, enabling the cases to be placed in a fisherman's dory and rowed around to the beach.

It was believed that the construction of the unique cache must have cost its users at least $1,000 for the cave to which the five-foot entrance lead was a room 10 feet by 11 feet and five feet, 10 inches in height. Walls, ceilings and floors were of solid planking and the door was a solid piece cut to fit tightly in a slanting position to be exactly like embankment from which the hole was cut. None but the sharpest of eyes could detect anything suspicious and no ordinary passerby would think for a moment that inside that innocent looking hillside was a store of liquor which would have been worth many thousands of dollars to certain interests had not the Preventive men "nipped their plans in the bud."

The two other seizures which brought the total up to $60,000 were made in Moncton and vicinity. The first was when Preventive men, acting on information, boarded a freight car in Moncton, and found 2,000 gallons of illicit alcohol.

"Potatoes" for Windsor

Within 24 hours, following up another tip, Preventive officers sped to Painsec junction just a short distance from Montreal and as a train was pulling out of the yards, Ontario bound, boarded it and found a refrigerator car packed tightly with cases of choice liquor. Both consignments had been billed under fictitious names and to mythical parties in Upper Canada, the first as "dry lumber" and the second as "potatoes." The "potato" cargo was billed for Windsor, Ont., so probably many Detroit families will of necessity go potatoless at Christmas.

It was believed by Preventive officers that the liquor had all been landed at Pointe de Chene a Miquelon rum-runner and that captured at Painsec, an out-of-the-way siding, had been brought there to be loaded on the train by truck.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC REPLACES MILL

"Mill at the Bend" Marks Seigneurial Days of Seventeenth Century.

POPULAR RENDEZVOUS.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 2.—Venerable and picturesque landmarks of seigneurial days, the old Moulin du Crochet, the "mill at the bend", built about 1861, is being dismantled at Laval des Rapides across the Riviere des Prairies from this city.

Roofless, with gaping empty windows staring from grey stone walls a yard thick, the old mill has stood unoccupied for years, mourning the glory of two centuries agone when purling rapids turned her creaking wheel to grind the grain of the early habitants.

The mill and the land upon which it stands was purchased by the Montreal Island Power Company in connection with the dam and hydro-electric plant under construction further down the river.

In 1681 the mill was built by the Seminary of Quebec. It is notable that practically all the settlers on Isle Jesu originated in Quebec and their descendants still have customs different to those of the surrounding countryside. In 1695 the mill was bought by the Sisters of the Good Shepherd of Montreal. The Sisters installed in the mill their Maison Lorette and Sainte Domitille. The mill wheel that one ground grain turned machinery for their laundry.

In stirring days when riverbanks resounded to the shouts and laughter of the lumberjacks guiding massive lumber rafts down from the Ottawa and levre rivers, the long rectangular stone mill was a popular rendezvous before the rapids, a place of rest and a quite smoke.

JELLICOE PRAISES NEW ZEALAND SPORT

Former Governor-General Pleased With His Four Years' Stay.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP).—Speaking at the Authors Club of the four and a half very happy years which he spent in New Zealand as Governor-General, Earl Jellicoe said what struck him most was the pride of the people in the Mother Country, and the spirit of sportsmanship. There was racing on 300 days a year, and it was controlled, so far as betting was concerned, by the electric totalisator, which, curiously enough, was invented by the son of an Archbishop of New Zealand. He had spent many happy hours stalking, which was quite a different thing to deer stalking in Scotland ("there being no gillies to carry your rifles.") Nor was it possible to carry home the deer; all that could be taken was the head. They were limited to two heads a year.

The children of New Zealand were older for their years than the children at home, and more self-reliant, and they were loyal to the backbone. About 68,000 were members of the Navy League. He did not suppose there were 6,000 members in this country. Possibly in no country except Belgium were the opportunities of education as good.

AMERICAN VEXES SCOT GUIDE

Americans ask such silly questions, declares the guide at the door of Holyrood Palace in Scotland. Although there is a sign in front saying the royal apartments are open to the public, they usually inquire if they are open, he declares. "An American wumman was just askin' me why that sentry was walking up and doon there wi' a kilt on," he added. "So I just said, 'Wad ye like to see him walkin' up and doon' there without a kilt on?"

GALT COLLEGIATE GOES ON THE AIR

Radio Entertainments Are Given on Friday Evenings.

STAFF PLAYERS' CLUB

The staff and pupils of the Galt Collegiate Institute and Vocational School are this term carrying out a very successful community broadcasting program. These radio entertainments are given on Friday evening at 8.15 o'clock, from the stage at Tassie Hall, the school auditorium, and at intervals of about two weeks. The stage is permanently equipped for the transimission of the programs to the station at Preston, some four miles distant.

The opening program was a presentation of Merrill Denison's, "Brothers In Arms," by the Staff Players Club, on the evening of October 10th. On October 24th, Tassie Hall Hour consisted of violin, piano and vocal solos by the pupils and because it fell in Education Week, papers were given by Mr. C. E. Appleyard, B.Ss., and Mr. F. J. Phelan, on Technical Education, and the History of Vocational Education. On the evening of November 7th, Miss C.R. McLachlan, M.A., read a brief paper on the texture of the drama, "Macbeth," and Miss J. W. Carter, M.A., recited a French-Canadian poem. Six selections by the School Orchestra completed the occasion. On November 28th, the School Glee Club and Orchestra will be heard in choruses from Gilbert and Sullivan, and on December 5th, the broadcasting of the Annual Commencement Excercises will conclude the activities for this term. In addition to the regular program, the School Armistice Memorial Service was bradcasted on the morning of November 11th.

These endeavours are conducted by a committee of the Staff Players Club, and are only possible through the generosity of radio station CKPC at Preston. The purpose of the plan is to project the School and its personnel into the life of the community, and to give to the pupils the opportunity for practice in the field of radio. The various School organizations taking part are supplied with a definite date and function for which to practice, and it is hoped that a slight but worth-while contribution is being made to the entertainment of the community.

DOUKHOBOR MOVE LEANS TO MEXICO

Colony Negotiates For Land in Northern Part—Asks Gov't Aid.

10,000 MAY QUIT CANADA.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2. — Peter Verigin and Aaron Sapiro, representatives of the Doukhobor colony of Canada, conferred today with the Secretary of Agriculture regarding the possibility of 10,000 to 20,000 Doukhobors coming to Mexico if the Government would help them to acquire land.

Verigin and Sapiro received the support of the Executive Committee of Commerce yesterday, and this group obtained the hearing before the Secretary of Agriculture

It was said that if the Doukhobors came to Mexico they probably would settle in the northern portion

The Doukhobor religious faith of non-conformist peasants originated in Russia in the middle of the eighteenth century They endured persecution for many years, but eventually began to emigrate, and many of them went to Western Canada.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS IS CHOSEN AS THE EXAMINER'S NEW STORY

Lovely Story of a Small Town Girl With Big City Ideas.

IN NEW YORK WITH .22

"JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS" is a fast [illegible] romance and [illegible] a bree[illegible] be enjoyed and will am[illegible] Examiner readers. Fol[illegible]

A series of amazing adventures [illegible] transferred from the [illegible] of a Connecticut village [illegible] the social events of the Inwo[illegible] Set of Peter Pan Hilltop, 5th Avenue, New York where she is put [illegible] charge of the Miniature Baby Fair.

The [illegible] idea of an eccentric millionaire who believes that women's place is in the home and [illegible] to bear children. It is his [illegible] that to give a little girl a doll which he insists be called a miniature baby, is to channel the instinct of motherhood in her, and he backs up his theory with a gift large enough to give every poor girl in New York a doll for Christmas.

There are three other contributions to the seasonal atmosphere. (1) Jean's discovery of little Ellen Simpson, three years old, orphaned by two murders and as essential to the plot as is Joan. Ellen comes to symbolize the child mind and spirit as concerns Christmas. She is taken on a tour of the shopping district and toy departments. (2) Jean's unreasonable yearning for an ermine wrap—which she must inevitably get. (3) Jean's indication to Phillip Baldwin, the small-town sweetheart she has left behind, that she might marry him if he appears at her door with a marriage license on Christmas morning. This last is a logical development of business in the first chapter.

The main plot takes Joan through 23 chapters of love, intrigue, ecstacy, action and suspense.

"No girl" says Jean in the first chapter, "ever quite outgrows the illusion of Santa Claus." Being fed up with the small town she craves change and of her own personal Santa Claus she asks for adventure. And does she get it?

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne,—

There were some excellent thoughts and good advice in your article in The Examiner issue of November 21. I have the same thoughts as you concerning the wasting of mental energy in things not worthwhile, and of a mass of unassorted thoughts jumbled up in the brain, if idle talk about other folk, business, etc.

If we are seeking to live orderly, then our thoughts and our speech will become orderly and we will think with effect and speak things worth while and helpful, and we will be inclined also not to waste precious time on second hand things but seek to put first things first.

I am reminded also right here that I have not answered Ad Nauseam's last letter which I think came out in the paper on the 7. Just around that time I was under the weather myself and letter writing and other duties got somewhat behind.

It is quite all right Ad Nauseam that on second thought you feel you would rather remain as a shadow friend, but if at any time you alter your mind well that will be all right too.

I hope you are getting stronger, we are having such wonderful weather for this time of the year, last Sunday afternoon my husband and I were out walking across a field and I saw quite a few dandelions also I picked two or three pansies in our garden, you will be expecting me to say next that I picked some strawberries but we have not any plants.

I was glad you were helped by some of my quotations from the Word. I myself have often had passages that seemed to stand out apart from the rest like letters of fire, not as a dead letter but vivified and alive.

We have only another four weeks and Christmas will be here. I know that with many folk there is almost a panicky dread wondering what to get what to give and all the extra work detailed, but if we take one thing at a time, and don't get excited I notice all things fall into order and at any rate we need not copy the Joneses but dare to be original and simplify things as far as possible.

There is always a nice spirit at Christmas time, people find that the thing they dreaded has a real kick in it and that the promise holds good—Give and it shall be given you, good measure, pressed down and running over.

Best wishes to you Anne and all the neighbors.

Yours truly,
WATER-LILY.

Thank you Water-Lily for your words of commendation. We certainly have had marvellous weather, haven't we, but I fear your dandellons and pansies will be all covered now. Don't you love seeing the snow now? It did seem rather dreary to see it come at first, but once here I think it is delightful, and it gives everyone the Christmas spirit don't you think?

Dear Anne,—

I received my pattern you sent me last week and am much pleased with it. I was wondering if you would get me a man's shirt pattern just a plain work shirt with attached collar in size 17 neck?

I have watched your paper for one but have not been able to see one.

I am sending you my recipe for lemon crumb pie also doughnuts.

I have enclosed fifteen cents for pattern and stamp.

Thanking you for past favors I am,
Sincerely,
SUNBEAM.

I am sorry Snbeamu that our Fashion book does not carry any pattern for men only ladies' dresses and children's wear. I am therefore returning you the fifteen cents which you enclosed. Thank you for sending your recipe for doughnuts and lemon crumb pie.

FASHION SERVICE

2845

It has all the cachet of Paris—and more too—it has practicality.

Its inspirator was carried out in rich dank wine red canton crepe—immensely popuolar.

Don't you love the sleeves. They have just enough fulness in their gay puffs to give them snap.

A curved hip band that meets the belt at the center-front normal waistline does much toward slenderizing the hipline. The attached circular skirt extends into a softly flaring hemline.

Style No. 2845 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

This interesting model may also be made of crepy woolen and is charming in dark green with pin gold dots.

Black transparent velvet is exquisitely lovely.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children, embroidery, Christmas suggestions, etc.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

THE HAPPY MAN.

I found him not 'mid the giddy throng
Of society's grand array,
Where one gets stung with the slanderous tongue,
And vanity holdeth sway.

Nor yet in the noisy, hustling crowd,
That dabble in stocks and shares,
As the tape runs out they gesture and shout
In the language of bulls and bears.

He was not found in the toiling mass
Where industries' wheels doth spin
And like a screen the dust is seen,
As a sunbeam ventures in

On a far-off isle in the southern seas,
Serene 'neath the tropic sun
Untutored he in the things that be,
I found the happy one.

Happy was he and free from care,
Where he neither toils nor plods,
A superman after nature's plan,
And we call him a heathen, ye gods!
ye gods!

SALMON SCALLOP (NEW STYLE)
(Contributed by Beatrice)

One small can red salmon; ½ can green peas; 4 medium-sized potatoes; 2 tablespoons flour; 2 tablespoons butter; 1½ cups milk; salt and pepper, and ¼ onion.

Peel and cut potatoes as for scalloped potatoes; make a cream sauce of the milk, butter, flour, and seasoning. Line a pudding dish with a little sauce, then a layer of potatoes, sprinkling with onion and well seasoned; then a layer of salmon and a layer of peas. Repeat until dish is full; bake in moderate oven until potatoes are soft; if the escallop seems dry add more milk. Dot the top layer with butter, and sprinkle with paprika before putting in oven.

Japanese Oranges For Chrstmas Trade

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Examiner).—One of the surest signs that Christmas is not far off is the fact that over the week-end two special Canadian National Railways trains sped eastward across the Prairies carrying in refrigerator cars more than five million Japanese oranges.

The shipments are the first reported by the railway this season and in the first train which left Vancouver Thursday there were twenty-two cars piled high with the Christmas fruit. The second shipment which unloaded Saturday morning consisted of 50 cars. In the first shipment there are 12 cars consigned to points west of Winnipeg, seven cars for Winnipeg, while the remaining cars are for lake head and east.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

WHAT THE SLOUCHY ATTITUDE DOES.

In Great Britain they contend that it is because the individual is weak that he assumes a poor position when he stands or sits. It is the weakness of the body that lets it sag.

In the United States and Canada the feeling is that it is the poor position, the careless position one assumes, that causes the ailments.

I am of the opinion that acrelessness may be a factor in some cases, and that inherited weakness may be the cause in other cases.

My thought is not to enter the controversy but to try and show what happens to the body and the working of the body processes when one sits or stands in a careless position.

In the first place, a careless, slouchy, or stooped position means round shoulders, flat chest, and a sagging abdomen.

The flat chest means insufficient room for the lungs to expand properly, and to some extent lessens the outward movement of the heart. These are "vital" organs, and their work should not be hampered.

The sagging abdomen means that all the organs—liver, stomach, intestines and others—are crowded downwards and naturally cannot do their work properly. Hence follows indigestion of various types and constipation.

All these abdominal organs, in which the circulation of the blood should be maintained at a steady rate, are filled with blood that is not sufficiently pure to do good work; it is more or less stagnant.

You can thus see that if you allow your body to droop or sag as you stand or sit, that you are lessening its ability to work by as much as 25 per cent. at least.

This means that you are not only going to be that less efficient in your work, but you are actually inviting trouble in the various organs of the body by slowing up the circulation of the blood.

All you need to remember to get a correct position is to sit tall and stand tall.

This throws chest out, and draws abdomen in, the shoulders back, and the chin back.

Trying to touch the toes with knees straight, about 20 times, night and morning, will "tighten" the abdominal muscles, and tight abdominal muscles mean an erect carriage.

That the Maharanee of Cooch Behar is responsible for the return of the long skirt to the dance floor, is the belief of many of fashion's followers in London. She was very fond of dancing during her visits to London, and looked so particularly slim and graceful in her sari compared with the English "legginess" that many society women adopted the idea of long skirts.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Have you ever thought of how many different and novel recipes can be made from apples? There are quite a number and for the Christmas season they are especially attractive.

• • • • • • •

Here is one. Apples and Sweet Potatoes: Take an equal quantity of apples and sweet potatoes, measured after being peeled and cut into slices. Or allow one sweet potato to one apple of approximately the same size.

• • • • • • •

Greenings or Baldwins are recommended. Arrange these ingredients in layers in a buttered quart pudding dish, starting with the potato slices. Combine the following ingredients:

• • • • • • •

¼ cup melted butter, mixed with 3 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and one egg, well beaten.

• • • • • • •

Over this pour 1½ cups warm milk, and stir until well mixed. Pour over the potatoes and apple slices. Sprinkle lightly with fine bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven for half an hour or until the apples and potatoes are tender when pierced with a fork.

• • • • • • •

This is served as a vegetable and is especially delightful when served with roast pork.

• • • • • • •

If the apples are tart use more sugar, and nutmeg can be used instead of cinnamon if preferred, or the spice can be omitted entirely. For a richer dish increase the amount of butter.

• • • • • • •

Novelty compote is made by cutting the apples in slices and cutting each slice with a small fancy cutter. Or use the potato ball cutter, and scoop out wee balls from peeled apples. Then cook in the syrup, the rest of the apples can be used for apple sauce or pies.

• • • • • • •

Ginger apple compote is made by putting a bit of ginger root into the syrup. For cinnamon apple compote omit the ginger and put in a stick of cinnamon. Any apple compote can be served instead of apple sauce. Spiced compotes can be served as a dessert or supper dish with cookies or small cakes.

• • • • • • •

Fancy Apple Betty: Arrange layers of bread crumbs alternately with slices first of apples, and then dates. Finish with a layer of breadcrumbs.

• • • • • • •

Over all pour ¾ cup maple syrup or light corn syrup, or a homemade syrup of ½ cup sugar to 1½ cups water boiled five minutes. Cover with bread crumbs dotted with butter. It is decidedly better if the bread crumbs layers are also dotted with butter.

• • • • • • •

Bake forty minutes in a moderate oven. Figs can be used instead of dates or both figs and dates and apples may be used.

WEDDINGS

WALDON—AVERY.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Avery, 175 Park Street, when their niece, Kate Avery, became the bride of Alfred Trude Waldon, son of Mrs. Henrietta Waldon and the late Fred Waldon of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. Wren, pastor of Trinity United Church.

Miss Genevieve Nicol acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Ernest Waldon, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

After a sumptuous wedding repast, Mr. and Mrs. Waldon left for Detroit, where they will reside.

They received many handsome gifts from a large circle of friends.

MUSICAL PROGRAM IS MUCH ENJOYED

Two Choirs of St. James' Church Unite in Presenting Concert.

It is seldom that a program of such high musical and dramatic excellence delights its audience as did that provided by the Board of Stewards and the two choirs of St. James United church on Monday evening.

Mrs. Georgia Langmaid Pearce, M. E., of Oshawa, a graduate of Ontario Ladies' College, was the visiting artist, who with her amazing versatility once more held a Peterborough audience in fascination. In pleasing manner she easily reverted from pathos to comic during the evening.

Rev. A. E. Moorhouse ably acted in the capacity of chairman complimenting the Board of Stewards and his two choirs for their invaluable work in the church.

The opening number on the program was an anthem rendered in fine style by the Senior choir, Mr. Henry Turner singing the solo part.

Solo numbers which were heartily encored were given by Masters Orville Wainman in his sweet soprano voice. His first group consisted of "Daddy" and "The Big Brown Bear", while his second group were two sprightly numbers "Keep on Hoping" and "The Lilac Tree". Selections by individual members of the choir in solo and duett, interspersed the readings. The first of these was a vocal duett by Mrs. Ernest Kitney, A.T.C.M., and Mrs. J. Monk; Mr. and Mrs. T. Turner were also heard in a duett while "The Little Brown Owl" was charmingly sung by Mrs. E. Frost. Mrs. E. Kitney delighted the audience with her fine contralto voice. A high standard of excellence was also displayed in the piano selections, including the solo "Sonata Pathetique" by Ashton Fife and the duett "Warblers of the Forest" with a recall "The Shepherd Boy" by Misses Olive Prest, A.F.C.M. and Aileen Rose.

The St. James S. S. orchestra conducted by Clifford Russean, was an added attraction contributing several fine numbers, including an offering by the String quartette and a violin solo by Mr. Cecil Searles.

Mrs. Pearce first selected "Canadian Born" and as an encore gave the touching little poem "Dommique". The fine sense of patriotism shown in these selections and the sympathetic rendering won repeated applause.

"How Billy Lost the Race" was the story of a brave little English jockey who was true to his ideals. Mrs. Pearce did this ample justice and generously responded to the encore with a story for little folks, "Of the Red House with no windows or doors and a star Inside". Reverting to a purely humorous theme the reader gave "Who's Afraid?" adding a touch of Irish came the recall "For the Love of Mike" with piano accompaniment. Her concluding offering "Home by the American poet Edgar Quest was one of the best received with its tender pathos and piano obligato "Home Sweet Home". Mrs. Pearce gave her final encore "Hush-a-bye". "Humming" was given with fine choral effect by the Junior Choir and the two massed choirs were heard to splendid advantage in the concluding number of the program "Rule Britannia".

Mr. Frank Stevens, organist and choir leader is to be congratulated upon the talented work of his choirs, both individually and en masse. Mr. Stevens accompanied at the organ, while Miss Olive Prest, presided at the piano throughout.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT

EDDIE CANTOR IN "WHOOPEE."

The blithe Eddie, whose shadow never grows less, is with us this week, to give us a good time. He may be only among us as a two-dimensional person, as Floyd Gibbons puts it but anyway, he's going strong at the Regent Theatre all this week, and he's getting just as many laughs as usual.

This time, the cheerful Eddie is a hypochondriac, a gentleman who suffers from a lot of diseases, mostly imaginary, and is ready to give you an "organ recital" at any moment of the day or night. He goes West to die and remains to cheer the weary moments of a lot of the inhabitants.

Not that they need cheering, at that. The impression of the great and woolly West received from this talkie is one of carefree philandering and fun, with a lot of gay cowboys in fine feathers dancing and cavorting with an equally gay lot of cowgirls, dressed to kill.

The whole picture is in technicolor, which adds immensely to the realness of the story.

Well, Eddie has the spotlight, as usual, and he carries it off with his carefree grace. His black eyes roll hilariously as he sings about "Making "Whoopee," and he does a lot of Yiddish bargaining when, attired as an Indian chief, he sells a blanket and a doll to an inquiring Eastern millionaire. He has a line of swiftfire gab that entrances giggles from a delighted audience and he makes his laughter-producing way across the stage in a series of funny situations. He fills himself with pills, discourses eloquently about his various illnesses, and defies anyone, even the millionaire, to beat his operation for length and thrills. He has a blonde nurse who is determined to marry him, whether or no, and he flees from her at odd moments, to succumb ungracefully during the last hectic scenes.

There is a dainty romance included in the picture, with Eddie doing the rescue act for a lovely girl whose cruel father designs to marry her off to a bullying Western sheriff, a handsome brute whose idea of lovemaking is to pursue the lady with vigor and vim. But the maiden loves a youth with an Indian strain in him and a glorious baritone voice that sends thrills through the hearts of all the women who listen to him sing "I'll Still Belong to You."

With Eddie Cantor's wise cracks and blithesome acting, with plenty of gay scenes and fine singing and splendid coloring, with lots of action and go, "Whoopee" is just like its name, and is good, clean entertainment. There are many laughs in its swift-moving sequence, and it is drawing record crowds to the Regent this week.

—Jeanette.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR EVERYBODY.

Both young and old will enjoy solving the Christmas Tree Puzzle. Its educational value will readily be seen; the children will find it interesting and helpful in improving their addition. The older folks, too, will enjoy the hours spent in trying to solve the puzzle.

Everybody will, of course, have their own way of working the problem, but as a suggestion we would suggest cutting the tree in dozens of small pieces. You will find it easier to check the figures if you number each clipping.

NOTE

At an early date Goblin Magazine will be changed to a weekly publication which will appear under the name The Montreal Record. Present Goblin subscribers who enter this Contest are requested to write "Renewal" on their entry forms which will prevent two issues of the same date being mailed. New subscribers will kindly write "New" in the margin on coupon.

Treaty Of Versailles Revision Is Sought

BASLE, Switzerland, December 2 (C.P.). — Newspapers here to-day received reports from Budapest that Premier Count Bethlen, who has been visiting various European capitals during the past year, had announced that a formal agreement has been reached between Hungary, Italy, Albania, Turkey, and Bulgaria to attempt to secure revision of the Treaty of Versailles.

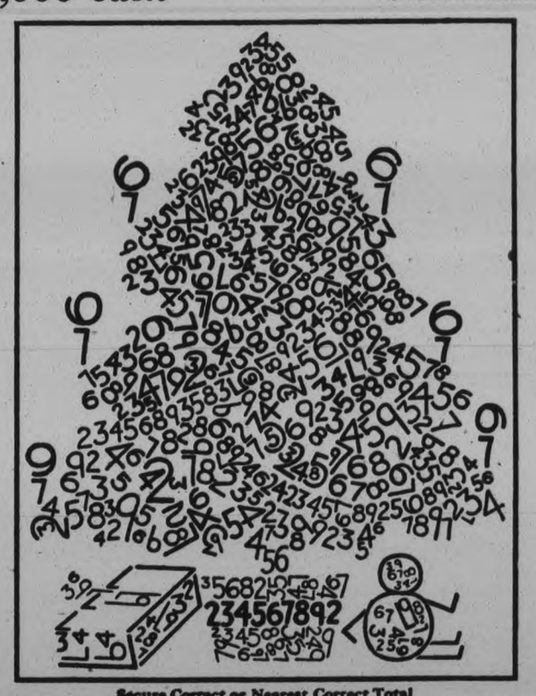
Correct Answer Unknown

To prevent the Contest Department, the artist or anyone else from knowing the correct answer to this puzzle, certain figures were erased by the Contest Judges: Messrs. E. A. Williams, Toronto Star Weekly and H. M. Sandison, Regina Leader-Post.

Neither of these gentlemen know what figures the other erased, but after the Contest closes, they will announce what these figures were and when these figures are subtracted from the total of the figures used by the artist, this will give the correct answer to the figures in the puzzle.

There are no tricks to this Contest. It is merely a matter of skill in finding all the numbers shown and then adding correctly. We wish it clearly understood that there are no hidden figures. Every number can be plainly seen. The degree of your care and skill will determine the prize which you will win.

The ONLY requirements for entry to contest are those listed here. You will note their extreme simplicity and a careful reading now will avoid any possible confusion later.



Will your prize be on 'The Record' Christmas Tree?

Early Answers Rewarded.

GENERAL RULES

(1) Contest is open to everyone except (a) Employees of this firm and their immediate family; (b) Prize Winners in former Goblin contests who won more than $100.

(2) To enter contest it is necessary to enclose at least a $2 subscription to The Montreal Record.

(3) All solutions must be accompanied by a cash subscription, otherwise they will not be accepted. All solutions are recorded and cannot be changed once they are received at the contest office.

(4) It is not necessary for a contestant to send in the entire amount of subscription money at one time. Accounts records are kept, and every time a contestant makes a remittance, the amount will be added to the previous amount which a contestant has to his credit.

(5) Contestants can send in a different answer to the puzzle each time they make a remittance, but not more than one prize and bonus will be paid to one family living at one house address.

(6) EXTRA PUZZLE FORMS MAY BE OBTAINED FREE BY WRITING TO THE CONTEST DEPARTMENT.

(7) All money orders, cheques, or postal notes must be made payable to The Montreal Record; acknowledgments will be made immediately upon receipt of solutions.

(8) If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant, the prize will be awarded for the nearest correct solution.

(9) In the event of a tie, a second puzzle will be mailed. This puzzle will be a chain problem requiring accuracy in addition and subtraction. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle.

CLOSING DATE

(10) The last day for mailing solutions to this contest is December 22nd, 1930. Solutions mailed and having the postmark of not later than December 22nd, 1930, will be accepted. Contestants are advised to send in their answers as soon as possible.

(11) In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Montreal Record reserves the right to amend or add to the rules of this contest, if necessary, for the protection of the interests of both the contestants and this publication. The right is also reserved to refund subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants when the judges, the contestants' representatives, deem undesirable.

Secure Correct or Nearest Correct Total

The problem is to add together all of the numbers shown above. Each figure is clearly indicated, and they run from two to nine; the sixes have a curved stem; the nines a straight stem; all are single numbers, there are no combinations; add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column. Every figure in the picture is complete. If in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with a figure marked, to the contest department, which will gladly tell you what it is.

EVILS OUTLINED IN DOLE SYSTEM

Miss Bondfield Claims $3,500,000 Paid Out Weekly More Than is Received.

BIGGER LOAN NEEDED.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—With more than 2,225,000 persons on the register, England is paying in doles every week about $3,500,000 more than is received. This was disclosed by Right Hon. Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, in the House of Commons. She also told the House of an increasing number of abuses of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Miss Bondfield moved a financial resolution, which is preliminary to introduction of a bill to cover the fund's deficiency. She asked for another £10,000,000, which it is estimated will carry through until next March. Later it is proposed to increase the borrowing powers under the act to about $350,000,000.

Meanwhile the fund is about $275,000,000 in debt, she stated. Half-yearly interest due on March 31 would amount to about $7,500,000.

Miss Bondfield revealed how a large number of persons earning fairly high wages during intermittent periods of employment also drew the benefits of the dole. Employers took advantage of the rule to qualify men for the dole. She cited a colliery company, which is operating in such a manner that its workers are eligible for the dole every second week. This more than covered the reduction in wages.

EFFECTIVE SLEEVE

A rich purply-blue flat crepe afternoon frock has butterfly sleeves that slope into deep cuffs the outside panels of which are rich gold and purply-blue brocade. The normal waistline belt fastens with a stunning enameled pin the same rich tones as the brocade.

SHIP TRAVELS BY SHIP, MULE

When the steamship Ollanto arrives at its destination at Lake Titicaca, in Peru, it will have traveled by ship and by mule pack. It is being constructed at Hull, England, and when finished will be taken apart, packed in sections and shipped in a steamship to South America. It then will be taken overland by mule pack. The ship is 270 feet long.

Belleville Juniors Win From St. John's 6-1

LOCAL JUNIORS OUTPLAYED BY QUINTE CUBS

Youngsters Play Clever Hockey in Pre-season Tilt at Belleville.

DEFENSE MEN GOOD.

Miller Plays Spectacular Game —Merrett Scores Only Goal For Saints.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., December 2 (Special to The Examiner). — Showing a far superior brand of combination and almost midwinter condition, Belleville Cubs, junior entrants in the O.H.A., defeated St. John's Hockey Club here last night by a score of 6 to 1.

It was impossible for the Litt Loot crew to compete against the locals, as the Cubs were able to go at top speed the entire time, while the St. John's had to be subbed at frequent intervals. Ellis, the hefty and speedy defence man, was rendered hors de combat early in the fray when he twisted the ligaments in his ankle on a spectacular rush. He was attended by Dr. Chant of this city, and it appeared it would be some time off the injured leg.

St. John's trotted out a shifty fast-skating crew that were wizards at the poke-checking game, and through this medium held the score down. Prominent in this respect was Calladine and his substitute centre man Merrett. Both boys showed well, and although a little on the light side, delighted the fans with their trick skating and short, snappy passing.

White showed well on the defence, and was a hard man to round, and he and Sherry of the locals had many a bumping duel which the fans enjoyed.

Dallin Stars

Dallin was easily the best man on the St. John's team and worked himself into exhaustion on the right boards trying to beat the local defense.

Miller was superb in goal and only his brilliant saves kept the score down. Many times the locals had the whole team beat, but he stood between them and the hemp. His goal-minding was spectacular but not lucky, and he played all of the shots like a veteran.

Belleville forced the issue from the opening gong and the St. John's team replied in kind and the fans soon realized that a hockey game was in progress and not just a listless exhibition fixture. The Cubs this year have been considerably strengthened and will take some beating for the championship of Eastern Ontario in the O.H.A. body. The team has a mixture of veterans and beginners and they are being moulded into a machine under the steadying hand of Stan Burgoyne, their mentor. They break fast, pass the rubber at every opportunity and in this respect had the Peterborough team on the run.

The first goal was scored in three minutes from the opening of the game when McGuire was given a beautiful pass at the goal mouth by Runnions and Miller did not have a chance. Runnions poked a waist-high drive into the upper corner of the twine eight minutes later, this ending the scoring for the period. The second frame was the fastest of the game with the play ranging up and down with lightning rapidity. Merrett scored a pretty goal when he beat the Belleville team single-handed to beat McKinnon from close range. Runnions got the goal back with a combined effort with Young on the passing end. St. John's could not maintain the pace, and Ethier poked in a loose puck after Runnion and Morgan had combined the length of the ice.

McGuire scored the last two goals, one on a pass from Riggs and the other from Morgan. Bill Green and Ken Colling handled a good game. There were no penalties on either side. The line-up:—

St. John's—Goal, Miller; defense, White and Ellis; centre, Calladine; wings, Dallin and Gardner; subs., Merrett, Willshaw, Burke, Milliken and Robinson.

Belleville.—Goal, Morton and M. McKinnon; defense, Young and Sherry; centre, Ethier; wings, Runnions and Morgan; subs, Riggs, Connors, St. Denis, McGuire and McDonald.

Referees—Green and Colling, Belleville.

Lakefield Will Have Two Hockey Teams

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 2.—Lakefield Hockey Club will have two teams, junior and intermediate, in the O.H.A. this season. The following officers were elected at the reorganization meeting just held: President, J. R. Hall; Secretary-Treasurer, N. W. Kyle; Committee, K. A. Mackenzie, T. W. Chaplain, John Sabatino, B. Blewett, H. Stabler and E. Briant; Manager of Intermediates, W. Murdoff; Assistant Manager, J. Macdonnell; Manager of Junior team, W. Hamblin.

Newmarket's Rally Defeats Brantford

TORONTO, Dec. 2. — Newmarket and Stratford juniors advanced to the third round of the S.P.A. junior series as a result of the doubleheader played at the Arena Gardens last night. In the first engagement, Stratford won out by 6 to 2, while Brantford extended the Newmarket youths until the final period when the latter scored three goals, taking the verdict 3 to 0.

In the first game, play was very ragged for the most part, with both teams skating all over the ice and backchecking fiercely, but when the Stratford combination did get working their sharpshooters generally found the mark. Both teams showed plenty of speed, but they will need some more work together to get their plays perfected before they will be conceded a chance to cope successfully with other teams that have appeared here lately.

Play had hardly started when McCully, defense player for Stratford made one of his dangerous rushes and tallied with a fast shot. The teams battled on even terms until near the end of the period when Bennett and Devere broke away for Galt. The former sent over a perfect pass to Devere, and the latter's quick shot found its mark. This evened the score, but one minute later Stratford again took the advantage when Vrooman sent a pass to Brenneman, and the latter made no mistake, going right in to pull McGregor out of position, and then slipping the puck in the other side of the net.

WESTERN CHALLENGERS ARE STRONGER TEAM THIS SEASON

Regina Roughriders and Winnipeg Native Sons Do Not Lack Confidence.

LEAVE FOR EAST.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2.—(By the Canadian Press.)—As Regina Rough Riders, champions of Western Canada speed eastward to-day for the Dominion football final with Balmy Beach, Eastern Canada monarchs, local enthusiasts of the gridiron pastime are cogitating several matters.

How good are the westerners? is the leading question. The Regina squad this season is rated the best ever developed on the prairies and good enough to give Hamilton Tigers, Interprovincial Union and former Dominion titleholders, a close struggle while the Bengals were staging a pre-season tour of the west last October. The Jungle Kings were just about at their best then, but the Roughriders, according to Coach Mike Rodden of the Tigers, gained yards from scrimmage more often than any eastern team has done against the former deminators of Canadian football.

Entrain For East.

Averaging 160 pounds in weight and 20 strong the Roughriders entrained for the east to-day and will arrive here in time to work out at Varsity Stadium on Friday.

While Eastern fans and critics are practically unanimous in their opinion that Ab Box, brilliant Beach half-back is the greatest find made in years, Coach Al Ritchie believes Saul Bloomfield, 22 year old left-footed kicking star of the Roughriders, will hold his own in the punting exchanges with box.

On the line the Westerners have two real threats in "Herk" Meyer and "Tiny" Thompson, heavyweight lineman. Coach Ritchie has timed his team's plays down to perfection this season and even though the forward pass has been prohibited in the final, it is believed by critics who have seen the Westerners perform that they are quite capable of causing as great an upset as the Beaches did in defeating Tigers last Saturday.

Frigid weather today, with the thermometer reported registering zero for the first time this season, will not help Eastern Canada's Junior finalists any. Hamilton Collegiate Grads and Toronto Argonauts, the finalists, clash here tomorrow for the title and the right to meet Winnipeg Native Sons, for Dominion laurels. The Ontario Rugby Football Union crown will also be at stake, so that despite the cold the teams are bound to display plenty of hard effort, if nothing else.

Argos are slight favorites to beat the well balanced Grad squad, owing to their powerful backfield led by the great running half, Clarke Bell.

Hockey Loop Meets On Tuesday Night

A meeting of the South End Hockey League will be held in the Raybestos office at 7.30 tomorrow evening. The league's executive will be elected at this meeting and the different groups formed. Every team who is considering entering the league is urged to have a representative present at this meeting.

MANAGER IS NAMED FOR RED SOX TEAM

John Collins Appointed as Pilot of Boston Americans.

BOSTON, December 2. — John F. and Red Sox outfield star, yesterday returned to the American League as ("Shano") Collins, former White Sox the 1931 manager of the luckless Boston club.

In announcing his appointment, owner Bob Quinn, who has tried out three other pilots since he assumed control of the club, said: "Collins has made a wonderful record as a minor league manager and I see no reason why he should not do well with the Red Sox.

"I have not signed him for any year or term of years, but have promised him the job as long as I live if he hustles and runs the club to my satisfaction. I am tired of engaging managers and have high hopes that I have solved this managerial problem for the remainder of my baseball career."

Collins told the Boston baseball writers that Quinn offered him the position a short time after the Red Sox owner failed to induce Joe McCarthy, now manager of the New York Yankees, to attempt to build up his club.

GEORGE TOPORCER SUCCEEDS TINKER

Former Rochester Infielder to Pilot Jersey City Club in International.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 2 (C.P.)—George Toporcer, veteran infielder with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Rochester Red Wings, yesterday was signed to manage the Jersey City club of the International League.

Signing of Toporcer as successor to Joe Tinker at Jersey City was the first deal made to strengthen the club by the new owner, Samuel Colacurcio.

Toporcer, one of baseball's few be-spectacled infielders, spent several years in the majors with the Cardinals but has been a bulwark in Rochester's inner defense for the last three years. He was recalled by the Cardinals at the end of the 1930 season and then given permission to negotiate for a manager's post in the International League.

Tinker was made acting manager of the Jersey City club in the middle of last season, succeeding Nick Allen.

Len Grosvenor Will Play With Senators

OTTAWA, Ont., December 2 (C.P.). — Len Grosvenor, star of the London Tecumsehs of the International League, will play for Ottawa Senators after to-night, it was announced by the local National Hockey League club. Grosvenor was sold to the London team early in the season, but circumstances have arisen which have given the local club the right to exercise a recall, and they are doing so.

N.H.L. PASSES SLASHING RULE

Twenty Minute Penalty Period of Intentionally Cutting Opponent.

OLD LAW IS "OUT."

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—The double major penalty for cutting an opponent with a stick was wiped from the books yesterday at the regular meeting of the governors of the National Hockey League here. The rule, which had been in force only since the opening of the 1930-31 season, was legislated out of existence effective with to-morrow's games. In its place will be a rule distinguishing between intentional and unintentional slashes. Unintentionally cutting an opponent will draw for the offender five minutes in the penalty box, as in former years, which deliberately slashing a player about the head will bring the offender a 20-minute match penalty.

The rule abolished called for a ten-minute penalty for all cuts, regardless of whether they were intentional or unintentional. Strick enforcement had met with disfavor in most league cities. Representatives of Detroit, Boston and Chicago clubs voted for its retention and New York Rangers, New York Americans, Toronto, Philadelphia and Montreal voted for its abolition.

The Canadiens and Ottawa were not represented.

The International Hockey League, which follows the playing code of the National League, will adopt the new major penalty rule and eliminate the "double penalty system.

Genie McGowan Stars As Hamilton Wins

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.)—Showing the same splendid form which carried them into the Eastern Canada final of the Allan Cup playdowns last season, this city's representatives in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series, easily defeated Paris, O.H.A. Intermediate champions, in an exhibition game here last night by a score of 6 to 1.

"Gene" McGowan, star centre ice performer, was the standout performer of the Hamilton attacking trio; single-handed he practically broke up the Paris thrusts and in addition supplied three perfect passes to Jack Cain, former Toronto Senior, who converted the assists, into half of Hamilton's scoring total. Lough and Hayhoe got the other Tiger Tallies, while Kepthorne, Paris luminary, scored his team's only goal.

Wolverhamton, England, council has protested against the proposed establishment of a police college at a cost of $750,000 to train 50 officers a year.

N.H.L. SECTION LEADERS ENTER FRAY TO-NIGHT

Toronto Leafs Will Meet the Fourth Place Bruins at Boston.

THREE CONTESTS.

Montreal Maroons Face Tough Proposition in Tangle With Chihawks.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.) — Three games are scheduled to-night in the National Hockey League. All are international clashes which find the respective leaders of the Canadian United States sections opposing strong teams with the possibility both may be humbled.

Toronto Maple Leafs, who have upset predictions by leading the Canadian group race from the start, will find a difficult obstacle to surmount in Boston, where they meet the fourth place Bruins. Art Ross' team has not been setting such a dizzy pace in the American group this season as they did last, but they are still one of the strongest aggregations in either section.

The Leafs flashed improved hockey Saturday night to beat Detroit Falcons, co-holders of the second run with New York Rangers, and if they can improve still further, should lengthen their lead by "taking" Boston, an accomplishment that would bring unbounded joy to Coach Art Duncan.

Whether Montreal Maroons' remodelled team can make the grade in the major league should just about be determined in the Forum, where they meet the searing Blackhawks, who are the surprise team of the league to date. The Maroons still have the best of last season's performers on their line-up, but their relief players consist mostly of last season's Allen Cup winners who have not as yet startled the hockey world by their performance.

Hawks Undefeated

While the Montrealers are imbedded in the cellar position of the Canadian group as the result of but two victories in six games, their opponents are flying along at the head of the American section parade. So far, the Hawks are undefeated and only a tie marks an almost perfect record in their six games.

While their fellow townsmen are battling at home, Montreal Canadiens will be in Philadelphia, engaging the lowly Quakers in a contest that will probably result in the Flying Frenchmen catapulting into second place, as they are tied for the third rung with New York Americans and are but one point behind the second place Ottawa Senators, who are idle.

Canadiens gave an indication Saturday night they have returned to last season's form when they won the Stanley Cup. Playing against Boston the Habitants eked out victory by one goal after a gruelling struggle. To-night's game should be easy in comparison.

HAMILTON GRADS MEET SCULLERS

Defeat of Montreal Winged Wheelers on Saturday First Surprise of Season.

COURAGEOUS TEAM.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Fans who like the open brand of football would be well advised to attend to-morrow's Eastern Canada Junior final at Varsity Stadium between the Hamilton Collegiate Graduates and the powerful Argonauts. When it was arranged that the highly rated Montreal Winged Wheelers would play at Hamilton against the Grads it was feared that the local Oarsmen had surrendered their chance to win the Canadian title, as it had been agreed that a Montreal victory meant elimination for both Hamilton and the Argos. The critics firmly believed that the Wheelers would gain the verdict, but the Grads sprang one of the biggest upsets of the season, and won decisively, and for this feat the Argos are certainly grateful. The Hamiltonians are apparently much better than rated. They have mowed down all opponents, and the latter have not been weak. Playing at Varsity Stadium they will be handicapped, but they are a courageous aggregation, and will battle hard for victory. Argonauts started the season inauspiciously, but with Gordon Thom as their coach they improved steadily, and the further they went the better they became. In their game against Penetang they rode roughshod over the Northerners, and piled up the score at will. They will start to-morrow's game as favorites, but this doesn't mean much in these days of upsets. The Eastern champions will play against Native Sons of Winnipeg in the Canadian final at either Hamilton or Toronto next Saturday.

Forty-ninth Annual Bicycle Race Swings Into Second Day.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The spectacular sprinting of Bill Peden of Toronto and his partner, Al Grossley of Boston, stood out during the second day of the forty-ninth annual international six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. The pair romped off with most of the early morning and afternoon sprints to bring their total to 79, which easily put them in first place in the points standing, and during the evening managed to cut down the gap by one circuit which put them only two laps behind the leaders.

The change was made on application of the league and as a result of the recent United States census. Under rules of the National Association, leagues whose aggregate population is from 150,000 to 250,000 are classified as "C" leagues, those with an aggregate population of 250,000 to 1,000,000 as class "B."

CARPET BOWLING

The Mark Street United Church Carpet Bowling League announces a very successful schedule with increased membership this season. Two teams make up the loop and these play every Wednesday evening. Anyone wishing to join the league will please get in touch immediately with the officials.

O.H.A. BULLETIN.

Instead of two groups of three teams each in the O.H.A., senior "A" series this season, as originally arranged, there will be one of six, and the teams interested will meet in the sports room of The Star Building, tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 to draft a schedule. Marlboros, Nations, U. of T., Port Colborne, Kitchener and Hamilton will make up the series.

London East A.C. has been added to intermediate group No. 11 for which Harry Lecky of London is convenor. London East will not play in the senior "B" series.

Group convenors are requested to call meetings at once. Schedules should be returned to O.H.A. headquarters not later than Monday of next week. Before that day preferred.

The annual meeting for O.H.A. referees, managers and coaches will be held at the Prince George Hotel Wednesday, Dec. 11, at 2.30 p.m.

Clubs are reminded that applications for amateur cards should be sent direct to the A.A.U. of C., Ontario Branch, Room 203, Atlas Building, 350 Bay Street, Toronto.

DARING TRIPLE STUNT PLANNED BY INTREPID CANADIAN AIRMEN

Will Attempt Parachute Jump of 26,000 Feet, Cross Canada and Cross Ocean Flight.

START IN MARITIMES

By A. Malcolm McGowan
(Special to the Examiner—Copyright 1930)

SAINT JOHN, N.B., December 2—Gentlemen of aviation—perhaps most apt description of A. Daniel Rolfe and Frank Harley of Saint John.

Wishing to attain great heights in their game, yet proceeding with a minimum of show, which for a time cloaked their plans in silence, Rolfe, pilot of experience, in war time and peace, and Harley, expert engineer and parachute jumper, have been prevailed upon to unburden their secret.

Modestly and reticently, the pair have announced air plans which for daring, exploit and insight leave little to the imagination. Their's is a gigantic undertaking — one which will heap mighty aero honors on their heads should they meet with any degree of success.

Announcement of a three-fold plan, any one feat of which would bring renown and distinction as airmen to them and their beloved Dominion, is just another indication of Canada's assertion for recognition in the aviation world. An assault of the world's altitude parachute jump record is first on the program. Following which a trans-Canada flight is scheduled. Thirdly, and most hazardous in achievement, comes a proposed oceanic flight to England.

Have Financial Backing

Each trick will require coolness, absolute knowledge of flying skill and daring. The three trails are fraught with danger. But they're doing it for Canada, for their profession and for their city of adoption—Saint John. There will follow monetary reward, of course—but that is merely associated with other honors which go with success.

There must of necessity be a financial backer for such a venture. The intrepid pair have been assured this is forthcoming. Three concerns sought to co-operate but negotiations with an Upper Canadian organization have just about concluded with pledged support in that direction.

There are outstanding features in connection with each flight schemed. Details of their proposition are not yet completed but much progress has been made and the two hope to realize their dreams at least in part, this winter.

To Jump 25,000 Feet

The parachute attempt means Harley, chute performer of many years' experience, must step out onto the ceiling at better than 25,000 feet. Rolfe will pilot the machine, which must be of special design and functioning, to at least 26,500 feet above the earth. If 30,000 can be reached and the jump made, so much the better Harley declares. He will hop out at the greatest height possible. Early this month they plan, is the time. The place, Saint John.

The New Brunswick city is also to be the jumping off and final landing point of the proposed across-Canada jaunt—a round trip. It will take the form of a good-will tour on the westward flight, the plane, with Rolfe again at the controls, making official stops at principal cities enroute. Vancouver is the destination. The return is planned non-stop to the airport here.

The same plane is intended for all three flights. Rolfe will again assume command when they undertake to span the Atlantic. It is in mind to fly to an English airdrome. The last thing in aviation instruments will be part of the plane's equipment and these pals of the air desire to demonstrate the feasibility of Atlantic overhead navigation from Saint John with properly equipped machines.

To Broadcast Jump

A feature of the parachute drop will be a radio broadcast of his experiences by Engineer Harley as he sinks away towards terra firma. Adaptable sending apparatus will be part of his equipment.

Dan Rolfe, born in Bedford, N.S., but resident here since his return from overseas in September, 1919, learned aviation when transferred from his original unit, the 25th Nova Scotian Infantry Battalion, C.E.F., joining the Royal Flying Corps, later known as the R.A.F. His frontal experience was gleaned as pilot of a single-seated scout. Near the close of the Great War he was flying instructor at Recar, Yorkshire, an English aviation school.

Harley, associate member of the Institute of the Aeronautical Engineers and a member of the Institute of Patentees, has flown since 1911. In that score of years his range of lighter than air, and heavier, all types of aerial craft, has been an extensive one. The call to arms naturally found Harley responding so hastily that he was one of the first six engineer observer gunners to cross to France in 1914. He had been one of the first 200 civilians to join the R.C.F. in 1912. He participated in 26 air combats during his sojourn in the war theatre.

The urge to soldier attracted Harley to other areas of strife after the Armistice and he saw service in Egypt, Palestine, Arabia, Sudan, Southern Russia, Turkey and Somalia Land. He was captain attached to the romantic figure of Arabian revolt against Turkey—later King Hussim of the Hedjaz.

Inspected the R-100

Recognition of Harley's worth brought about a British Air Ministry inspectorship—of five years. An important assignment, that of inspecting the experimental girders of the famous British majesty of the air — the R-100—was his. On arrival in Canada in June, 1929, Harley, located in St. John, between 30 and 50 parachute jumps have been made by him since.

His initial flight is singular now that a trans-Atlantic flight is planned, in that he accompanied the late Sir John Alcock aloft at the time,—at Brooklands, England. Sir John's negotiation of the Atlantic by air ocean in 1919, will adorn aviation's archives for all time.

His first parachute decent took place in 1913 from a Willows airship, using a Calthorp "guardian angel" chute. With nerves of steel, heart of iron and not the slightest acquaintance with fear, Harley's veteran service as a jumper will stand him in good stead when he leaps away from Rolfe to set a new world's mark.

His partner, Rolfe, is a street railway motorman here. Of modest manner, little inclined to talk of his flying career. The Nova Scotian has been employed fully five years at his present job, not one co-worker even knew he was an airman, flying at every chance. He is a married man with several children.

Engineer Harley, Englishman by birth, has worked about Maritime airports since locating here. He has no home ties.

Since announcement yesterday of their immense triple project, the pair have been receiving many invitations to perform in the east. These, thus far, have been declined, devoting all available moments to the task which confronts them.

WHEAT KING RETURNS TO LEAD

CHICAGO, December 2 (C.P.). — After having been absent from the competition since 1926, Herman Trelle, noted wheat grower of Wembley, Alta., has stepped into the race as one of two favorites for the title of 1930 wheat king at the International Live Stock Exposition. Trelle's exhibit was adjudged the best in the hard red spring class, in which samples were shown from all Western Provinces of Canada, and from some of the Northern United States.

The highest ranking United States grower was Hugh Ross of Bartlgate, North Dakota, who finished thirty-first.

FOOTBALL EXPERTS PREDICT DEFEAT FOR NOTRE DAME SQUAD

South California is Favorite to Win From the "Irish" on Saturday.

ROCKNES ARE STALE.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—It seems that there will be a football game here Saturday between Notre Dame and Southern California, and there are quite a few things to be said about that. Some of the important things are:

1. Ninety thousand seats have been sold for weeks, and there isn't a stadium in the land big enough to hold the multitude that would like to see the battle. There isn't any scalping because even the scalpers want to see this one.

2. The national football championship will be at stake, unless you share the belief that Alabama and Washington State have something to say about that.

3. Everybody out here has a very definite idea about the outcome, to wit: that Southern California will win by at least two touchdowns.

As for the two teams, Notre Dame is enroute from Chicago, but will not arrive until Friday night, taking a two-day layover in Tueson, Ariz. Southern California started secret practice yesterday. Coach Howard Jones was closeted most of the day with Aubrey Devine, former all-America quarterback under him at Iowa, who scouted the Notre Dame-Army game on Saturday and was incommunicado to everyone.

Incidentally, Devine is one of the few in this section who isn't certain of Southern California's ability to take the Irish.

"I do not believe that there is another team in the country that could have survived the schedule Notre Dame has been through, not even Southern California" commented Devine. "It is one of the most resourceful teams I ever have seen."

Think Irish Are Stale

The concensus among Southern California supporters, however, is that Notre Dame has worn itself out in the last two games against Northwestern and Army and will wilt before the Trojans' devastating attack which has rolled up 382 points in nine games. Some of the reasons cited among the more rabid Southern California adherents as to why Notre Dame can't cope with the Trojans seem to be a bit far fetched.

City League Meeting On Thursday Night

Hockey enthusiasts are reminded of the City Hockey League meeting to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Thursday night at 7.30. Reports of the financial standing and competition in the league will be made by the executive. Election of officers will be held and entries of the teams received. Everyone interested in the promotion of hockey in Peterborough is urged to attend.

CAVAN UNITED CHURCH LAYMEN GATHER AT SUMPTUOUS BANQUET

Dr. Cochrane, Secretary of Home Missions, Toronto, Guest Speaker.

SPLENDID ADDRESS

CAVAN, Dec. 2.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The ladies of Ebenezer served a sumptuous banquet for the Laymen in the Cavan United church on Wednesday evening when Dr. Cochrane, secretary of Home Missions, Toronto, was the guest speaker.

Rev. W. R. Archer, chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery presided and the Rev. R. F. Stillman of Norwood, Secretary of the Peterborough Presbytery Missionary and Maintenance Fund spoke briefly stating that wherever Christianity is introduced it raises the standard of living. For this reason more money is needed today to do the work than it did a few years ago.

He quoted from an address by Bishop Lucas on the Lambert Conference saying: "The United Church of Canada is giving leadership to the world." The Anglicans united in India with other congregations to form a United Church and further the work and God will raise up a great church of Christian people united for God."

When the vision of God comes into our hearts, we will give of ourselves and our income to accomplish what we should in this great work. The Peterborough Presbytery is allotted $39,000. We have never reached it but we are climbing a little higher.

Mr. Campney of Havelock who had accompanied this Rev. Mr. Archer, sang, "My Task," in a fine voice, his mother playing the accompaniment.

The Rev. Dr. Cochrane

The Rev. Mr. Archer, in introducing Dr. Cochrane, congratulated the Cavan people and their pastor on having the Generalissimo of all the forces of Home Missions to address them.

Dr. Cochrane stated, "The marching orders of the United Church are: "Ye shall be my witness both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and in Samaria and unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

"Christ's religion is a world religion—all races, with human souls are equal in the eyes of Jesus. Any man with a lesser vision is not a Christian. The church is not a social clique, not a national organization. Christianity is nothing if not international—the world that Jesus knew was just a fringe of what is open today.

A citizen of Canada in the twentieth century is a citizen of the world.

If we cannot make Jesus dominant in our own domestic and political life we should not ask the Orient to adopt it. Paganism is present in our domestic life with its many separations and divorces, in political life with its many betrayals of trust, etc.

"The church is essentian to the development of Canada."

The speaker with the intense enthusiasm for the work generated by the great work being accomplished in pioneer outposts by the church, and the great need for much greater work, told of many definite situations in which the church and its heroic missionaries and their undaunted wives have accomplished much for these pioneer settlers. In Quebec during the past five years several pulp towns have sprung up, with half of their population protestant and the United Church has representatives in each. In Northern Ontario many outposts have been established some of them now self supporting. There is a new Manitoba 850 miles north of Winnipeg and a man is there doing his utmost to minister to its settlers.

Many pathetic incidents were told showing the need that the missionaries are filling among the people.

"If there ever was a time when men needed God is it now, in the face of world conditions." In the speaker's opinion the capital weakness of the twentieth century church is it does not cost enough to be a Christian.

If the people of the church could only catch the spirit of Christ as shown in some of His missionaries who are sacrificing their lives and comforts of home and civilization for the love of Christ, they would give until there would never be any deficits.

The Rev. Mr. Archer voiced the appreciation of the audience for the splendid addresses given and Mr. Chanteny sang "Abide With Me," and the meeting was closed with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Stillman.

The tables for the banquet were very attractive with decorations in pink and green. Candles were in green and pink holders and tall glass and silver dishes with apples and grapes added to the general effect.

The ministers present included the Rev. W. W. Jones, Millbrook; the Rev. W. R. Archer, Havelock; the Rev. R. F. Stillman, Norwood; Dr. Cochrane, Toronto, and the Rev. T. E. Whitham.

The Isle of Pines is enjoying one of the most prosperous years in its history.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TIGHT CORNER.

"What was that noise last night?" asked Baby Bunty one morning as she slid down the banister railing instead of walking on the stairs to get her breakfast in the hollow stump bungalow. "What was that banging noise in the night, Unkie Wig?"

"Oh, I just let the Fuzzy Fox have some of my bottled sunshine," answered the rabbit gentleman with a laugh.

"And did it shine all over him?" eagerly asked Bunty looking at her own bottle of sunshine on the mantle.

"Tell us, Daddicums!" begged all the other rabbit boys and girls who were also eating breakfast. "Did your bottle of sunshine make the Fox blink his eyes?"

"Well, the bottle did, for I threw it at him and banged him on the nose," Mr. Longears answered. "But I am sorry to say, Bunty, that not a gleam of sunlight came out of my milk bottle. And, what is more, I don't believe any will come out of your pickle bottle."

"Oh, I'm sure it will!" cried the little orphan rabbit, "why, see, my bottle is full of sunshine now." She pointed to it on the mantel. Truly there was a yellow gleam in the corked pickle bottle. But perhaps that was because it stood in a ray of sunshine that glinted through the bungalow window. "And when we have a dark and gloomy day," went on Bunty, "I'll uncork my bottle and let the sunshine in it make everything light."

She climbed up on a chair and reached for the bottle.

"It didn't make the dark night light," Uncle Wiggily said. "At least my bottle didn't." The day before he and Bunty had sat on a grassy hillside filling a milk bottle and a pickle bottle with sunshine which they corked up. Uncle Wiggily had the milk bottle.

It was Bunty's idea that if she could bottle up some sunshine it would be lovely to let it out on a cloudy, dark, snowy day. But in the night Uncle Wiggily heard a noise at his bungalow door. He slipped down and got his milk bottle of sunshine intending to make it glare in the face of the Fox, to drive him away. But no sunshine came out of the bottle and then Uncle Wiggily threw the bottle itself at the Fox, banging him on the nose. Then the Bad Chap ran away.

"I can't believe but what there is sunshine in my bottle," said Baby Bunty as she finished breakfast. "I wish we would have a cloudy, gloomy day so I could tell." Bunty had her wish that afternoon when she came home from school. For clouds covered the sun and the air was cold as if it would soon snow.

"Now I'll open my pickle bottle and let some sunshine out!" cried Bunty gaily dancing into the bungalow. She climbed up on a chair, reached for the bottle and carefully took out the cork. But she was much disappointed when the clouds were as thick as before and no golden gleams brightened the gloomy day.

"I guess Unkie Wig was right," sighed Bunty, waiting a while. "You can't keep sunshine in a bottle. But I know what I'm going to do," she went on with a little laugh. "I'll go fill my bottle with water and let it freeze ice and then I'll make some ice-cream. I can get ice in my bottle if I can't get sunshine. And to-night will be cold enough to freeze water, I'm sure."

Bunty went down to the duck pond to fill her pickle bottle. Now it happened that a little while before Uncle Wiggily had also gone down to the duck pond to see if it was freezing so he could go skating. There was a fence around the pond and Uncle Wiggily crawled under to look at the water. It had not yet turned into ice, but might at night.

Then, all of a sudden, while the rabbit stood there, over the fence jumped the Bob Cat. The Bad Chap rushed at Uncle Wiggily, who ran into a corner hoping he might find a way out there. But there was none.

"Ha! Now I have you!" yowled the Bob Cat. "I have you in a corner!"

"Yes, it's a tight corner," said Mr. Longears. "Don't you want to play Puss in the Corner Game?" he asked, thinking if the Bob Cat would go over in the other corner there might be a chance to escape.

"No, I'm not going to play any silly game like that!" snarled the Bob Cat. "I'm going to scratch you and then bite you!"

Baby Bunty, coming to the duck pond to fill her bottle, heard this talk. Peeking through a knot hole in the fence she saw Uncle Wiggily in his tight corner. And Bunty made up her mind to save him. She filled her bottle with water and then, all of a sudden, she tossed it over the fence so it fell right on the Bob Cat's head and broke. The water splashed all over him and made him sneeze. And then the Bad Chap was so surprised that he never said a word when Mr. Longears ran out of the tight corner, crawled beneath the fence and hurried home with Bunty.

"You brought a lot of sunshine into my life by saving me just now, Bunty," said the bunny gentleman. "Even if you didn't have any sunshine in your bottle."

"I'm awfully glad!" said Bunty, giggling a little as girls do.

Norway Pine Syrup

Pneumonia Left Her With a Terrible Cough

Mrs. A. W. Power, 581 Jane St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"Eight years ago I had a very serious illness. I had a bad attack of pleurisy and pneumonia and was six months in bed. This illness left me with a terrible cough. I tried several cough medicines, but they did not seem to have any effect. One day my mother brought me home a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after I had taken several more I noticed my cough gradually leaving me. Since that time if ever my husband and children or myself have bad colds I always get 'Dr. Wood's.'"

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 55c.; at all druggists or dealers.

CAMPBELLFORD DOING ITS BIT

Town Donated $15.00 Cash and Use of High School to Oratorical Society.

H. DAWSON CRITICISED

CAMPBELLFORD, December 2 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Much comment has been caused in Campbellford by the statesmen of Robert Dawson, speaking at the oratorical contest staged by Seymour township at Campbellford on Thursday, November 27, to the effect that Campbellford had made no donation toward the contests being staged in the county of Northumberland with the exception of donating the use of the Campbellford High School for the township finals.

This statement is incorrect, and Mayor C. H. Davidson has asked the Examiner to make it known that on November 12, R. A. Bateson interviewed the Campbellford Town Council, asking for a grant toward this contest. This was received favorably with the result that on motion of Councillor H. N. Carr, seconded by Councillor J. R. Battisby, a grant of $15 was allowed.

It is thought by the citizens of town that with the grant of $15 cash and the giving of the High School Auditorium, which would under ordinary circumstances cost $25, that the town should at least be credited with the sum of $40.

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

Farmers in this district seem well satisfied with the rain on Sunday and the snow the previous day, all of which combined to fill up the wells in this part of the country and water the ground. Rain was badly needed and coming as it did proved a deliverance from a bad dry spell.

Many members of the local Masonic Order attended the anniversary night of the Norwood Lodge on Friday and report a good time. The Campbellford Lionic Quartette was on hand and helped with the program.

We are pleased to know that Mr. J. R. Battisby is well enough to be up and was down town one day last week.

The Rev. C. J. Cameron of Toronto, who conducted Anniversary services at the Baptist Church on Sunday, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Weston during his stay in town.

We regret to state that Mr. Jabes McCollough is reported to be very ill.

Mrs. J. F. McGregor attended the funeral at Orland on Sunday of her aunt, the late Mrs. E. Wright.

TINY OSHAWA GIRL IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Tot of Six Years Steps From Path of One Freight in Front of Another.

OSHAWA, Dec. 2.—Kate Much, age 6, was instantly killed yesterday when she was struck by a C.N.R. train on a bridge crossing the Oshawa Creek.

Kate, who was on her way to school with her brother 5, and sister 9, were crossing the bridge when the three stepped aside to escape being struck by a westbound freight and in doing so Kate failed to notice the oncoming passenger train. The wheels of the locomotive passed over her body and hurling it fifteen feet. The mutilated remains were moved to the mortuary where an inquest will be held.

The three children live on the south side of the creek while the nearest school is on the north. In order to make the distance shorter the children are in the habit of crossing the creek on the railway bridge.

Rev. Samuel Martin Will Give Address

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 2.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Rev. Samuel Martin of Churchill, Hudson Bay, (known as the man who put the church in Churchill) will speak at a laymen's banquet to be held at Springville United Church, Friday, December 5. Other speakers for the occasion are Rev. A. E. Moorhouse of St. James', Peterborough, and Mr. Thomas McIndoo of Fairmount, vice-president of the Laymen's Association of the Presbytery. Miss Evelyn Scott of Peterborough will be the soloist for the evening. All laymen, members and interested friends of Fairmount and Springville congregations are looking forward to a real treat for both mind and body.

The executive of W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid of Springville met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Whitfield to make all necessary plans for the banquet.

SOUP FIRM PICKS SITE AT TORONTO

Campbell Company Acquires 15 Acres—Start Buliding at Once.

EMPLOY 250 TO 500.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.).—Announcement has been made of the formation of Campbell Soup Company, Ltd., with a capital of $2,000,000 and the purchase of a fifteen-acre site in New Toronto, where construction of a plant employing 250 to 500, according to the season, will be started immediately.

The announcement was contained in simultaneous statements issued by C. B. Annett, assistant to the president of the Campbell Soup Company, and C. L. Burton, president of the Toronto Industrial Commission. The new company is a Canadian corporation, and intends to purchase all materials and supplies in Canada.

The Campbell Soup Company has been established in the United States for over thirty years, and the Canadian development came after prolonged study and eighteen months' negotiation with the Toronto Industrial Commission.

UNTIRING SERVICE

forward the city's interests and that he was ready and willing to do his part at all times. "It is the city where I was born and raised, where I have my business and interests, and it will have the call on my services at all times," he said.

He concluded by inviting the members of the Council and all civic officials to a banquet to be given by himself in the Empress Hotel on Monday evening. These banquets were inaugurated by Mayor Denne as an opportunity for the aldermen with their wives to meet socially and to give some small recognition to the valuable services given the city by its officials.

Outspoken and unstinting recognition of the many years of service Harry Evans, foreman of the Board of Works, has given the city was expressed by Mayor Denne and several of the aldermen.

On Friday night the Property Committee agreed to give the tender for garbage collection to Robert Manley and Fred Board, but last night the Council voted the tender to Justus Blodgett and Norman Harper. Manley and Board's tender was for $8,475, and Blodgett and Harper's $8,400.

The subject of the garbage collection tenders created much discussion. Alderman McIntyre expressed complete satisfaction with the manner in which H. T. Withers had carried out the work last year, and said that either Mr. Withers or the lowest tenderers should get the job. Alderman McNabb also moved that the lowest tender should get the work. Alderman Fitzpatrick stated that Blodgett and Harper were capable men with long experience in the work and that they intended hiring the men who were now engaged in the work, all of whom have large families.

Alderman Tuggey stated that the garbage collection should be let on a three-year term, which would be to the interests of the city and allow the collector an opportunity to get full service out of the apparatus that must be secured for the work.

Committee Named.

The request from the Trent Waterway and Iroquois Trail Association for a grant of $500 at the present time to allow the association to enter its exhibit at the New York Motorboat Show was held over. The letter from the association pointed out the great publicity gained for this district last year by the exhibit and motion pictures of the Trent system at the New York Show. Aldermen Stocker, Fitzpatrick, and McIntyre were appointed a committee to inquire into the benefits gained this district by the exhibit. Last year the city made the grant.

Twenty-five dollars was granted to the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage to supply Christmas cheer for the kiddies there. A cigarette and tobacco license was given J. P. Brownlee, the blind newsagent, free of charge.

The chairman of the Parks Committee, Alderman Stocker, was authorized to employ caretakers for the city's skating rinks.

The Utilities Commission reported to the Council that the illuminated fountain suggested for Victoria Park would cost $2,200 without the removal of the present fountain. The Commission suggested that it do the work and that the cost come out of the Waterworks profits, which are annually turned over to the city by the Commission, and that the Commission pay for the maintenance of the fountain. The report was received.

LOBLAW GROCETERIAS OPERATE NINETY-SIX STORES IN ONTARIO

Company Expansion in United States Should Bring Future Profit.

SHOWS GOOD GROWTH

Canadian Business Conducted at Higher Profit in Current Year.

(Financial Post)

Loblaw Groceterias Co. operates a chain of some 96 self-serve stores in Ontario which handle all types of groceries but do not sell fresh fish, meats or vegetables. While operations are centred in Toronto with 41 stores, there are one or more stores in all of the principal Ontario cities from Ottawa to Windsor and north as far as Sudbury.

In addition to the Ontario stores, which are operated directly, the company owns controlling interest in Loblaw Groceterias Inc. which operates some 45 stores in Buffalo and Western New York State and 80 stores in Chicago.

Shows Good Growth

Originating from a single store operated by T. P. Loblaw in Toronto, the company has grown to its present size during the past ten years under the direction of Mr. Loblaw, now president of the company, and his former associates. Sales in 1922 were $1,829,577 and in the fiscal year ended May 31, 1930, amounted to $18,435,087, while net earnings were reported at $1,190,328.

The company maintains comparatively large inventories in each store and a wide variety of brands and foods is therefore available to customers. The average sales per store in the year ended May 31, 1930, was $194,054 which was lower than in previous years, but the net earnings per store amounted to $12,530 which has been exceeded only once, in 1927, when earnings were $12,819. The ratio of earnings to sales in the last fiscal year was 6.46 per cent, which constituted a record for the company and this ratio is much higher than is usually the case in chain stores operating on somewhat similar lines. The warehouse of the company at Toronto is reputed to be one of the most modern of its type and facilitates the handling of goods which are shipped mostly by truck to all of the stores in Ontario.

Expand in U.S.

While stores have been operated in New York State for some time by the United States subsidiary, the expansion in the Chicago area is comparatively recent and full results have not as yet been attained. Of the 56,033 shares of no par value common outstanding of Lowlab Groceterias Inc., the parent company owns 28,600 shares, so that when the American chain is on a sound earning basis, Canadian shareholders in the parent company will benefit to a considerable degree.

The outstanding capitalization of Loblaw Groceterias Co. consists of 467,541 shares of class A stock and 383,300 shares of class B stock, both having no par value. The class A shares are entitled to cumulative preference dividends of 50 cents per year and participate equally with class B shares in any disbursement after B shares have received dividends of 50 cents. The class A shares are also redeemable at $50 per share. Class B shares have sole voting power.

Many Stock Splits.

In 1921, capitalization consisted of 2,400 8 per cent participating preferred shares and 3,600 common shares, each with $100 par value. In 1922, due to the participating feature, the dividend of the preferred stock was 12 per cent and this stock was changed to a 12 per cent second preferred and a new issue of 7 per cent prior preferred stock was issued which was retired in 1925. At this time the first public financing of the company was done with an issue of 7 per cent prior preference and the common shares were split 20 for 1.

In 1927, the common shares were again split two for one and the 12 per cent preference stock was retired through exchange of six common shares for each share of preference. On December 31, 1926, rights were offered to common shareholders to purchase one new share of common at $25 for every 10 shares held and in February, 1928, rights were again offered at $60 per share on the same basis. In april, 1929, the common shares were split four for one, each share being split into two class A shares and two class B shares. Preferred shares were called for redemption in August, 1929, with the option of exchange into six class A shares for each preferred share held. In May, 1929, class A and class B shareholders were offered rights to subscribe to additional class A shares at $10 on the basis of one new share for each 10 shares of either class held.

In 1929, an option was given for purchase of control of the company and negotiations were under way to merge Loblaw Groceterias Co. with Dominion Stores Ltd. The option was not exercised and negotiations were discontinued.

THOMAS RAPPED BY BRITISH PRESS

Hints Thrown Out as to Question of Minister Retaining Position in Cabinet.

NO REPLY TO BENNETT.

(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Premier R. B. Bennett's statement censuring Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas obtains the leading position in the majority of morning newspapers, most of which print the complete text of it.

The conspicuous exception is the Government's unofficial organ, the Daily Herald, which gives but 20 lines to the statement.

Every newspaper with the exception of the Herald, fastens upon the word "humbug" and its use by Mr. Thomas in their introductions to the statement.

It wil be noted however that Premier Bennett himself did not repeat the word in his statement.

The News-Chronicle says that Mr. Thomas was shown the statement and remarked:

"Oh, I did not know anything about that. I shall be interested to study the statement, but until then I can make no comment."

Mr. Thomas today however said he did not propose to make a reply.

Should Consider Position

The Daily Telegraph declares that Mr. Thomas and his Cabinet colleagues should consider gravely and immediately, the question of his personal position as a member of the Cabinet. It is one thing that the Cabinet should agree with the opinions expressed by the Minister, but it is another thing that the minister "who brought about such a situation as is made distressingly clear in Mr. Bennett's statement should continue in office."

The Morning Post declares Premier Bennett's proposal was well worth the serious consideration of any industrial country. Mr. Thomas's reference to that proposal as 'humbug' is not the sort of language a Minister of the Crown should use concerning an offer by the Prime Minister of a Dominion. If the British Government will do nothing to befriend the Dominions they might at least refrain from insulting and estranging them."

Are You Letting the Chance of Securing $100 a Month Slip By?

There will always be people who will prefer to let the future take care of itself. They think they will get along somehow. True, they see people who have become dependent on friends or relatives for a living and having a very rough time of it.

But they think such an unpleasant fate couldn't happen to them. Of course, not! And yet what are they doing to prevent it?

Very few people can put by sufficient money for emergencies. Something they "want" always comes along to wipe out their savings. Money that is easily got at is almost never kept.

There must be some way so that their savings can be protected, even from the saver, and there should be also a provision for financial help in case of an emergency.

Just such a helpful and workable plan for providing you with a safe, sure income has been devised by the Canada Life. It will create an immediate income for your dependents should you die before the time comes when you plan to retire. But the real thought is to make you independent of friends or relatives, or the whim of an employer, when you get on in years and your earning power begins to lessen.

It means an effort, of course, for the person who undertakes to be independent, but it is better to realize the facts about this vital matter now before it is too late. Our plan is already helping thousands of others along the road to safety and comfort in later life.

If you are a thrifty, forward-looking Canadian citizen, determined to look to no one but yourself for your support, we suggest you fill out and mail the coupo.. below. It will bring information by mail without any obligation on your part.

THIS COUPON WILL BRING BOOKLET BY MAIL.

MINERS CONSIDER STRIKE DISPUTE

Owners Offer Scheme Which May Mean Temporary Settlement.

ONE COLLIERY PICKETED.

GLASGOW, Dec. 2 (C.P.)—Delegates from every Scottish coal field affected by a strike of 90,000 miners, which began yesterday, met this morning to consider a tentative compromise by mine owners and there was a general feeling of optimism that Labor disputes in this important area might be settled before a serious coal shortage is felt.

The owners, it was understood, had offered a modification of the "spread-over" working schedule which is the principal point at issue, and agreed to pay the existing wage scale over a six weeks' period of temporary agreement during which no miner shall work more than eleven 8-hour days in two weeks.

This is contrary to the provisions of the new Coal Mines Act, which creates a 7½-hour day, but it also is a concession from the owners' demand that any reduction of working hours shall carry a wage cut with it.

So far as could be learned from delegates who were not doing much talking, both sides are willing to talk things over amicably, and it was thought not unlikely that this temporary arrangement might be accepted.

Early to-day, however, there was an attempt at picketing in one colliery. Union representatives assured the owners, after the picketers had dispersed, that there was no possibility that the unions would call out the "safety men" left to guard the idle properties.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 8 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

But soon the tribe became silent in amazement and expectation. They saw the mighty white-ape wiggle upon the back of their king. With steel muscles tensed beneath the armpits of his antagonist, he bore down mightily with open palms upon the back of the thick, bull-neck. The kin-ape shrieked in [illegible] and floundered helplessly about upon [illegible] of jungle grass.

The little audience of fierce anthropoids heard the creaking of their king's neck mingling with his agonized roarings. Then the bullethead crumpled forwardd upon the great hairy chest. They saw the newcomer place a foot upon the back of the figure at his feet and, throwing back his head, give vent to the wild, uncanny challenge of the bull-ape that has made a kill.

Across the jungle rolled the terrible notes of the victory cry. The little monkeys in the tree tops ceased their chattering. The harsh-voiced, brilliant-plumed birds were still. From afar came the answering wail of a leopard and the deep roar of a lion. Then the pig-eyed apes knew that their king was dead. Tarzan turned questioning eyes upon the beasts. What would their next move be?

One of the younger apes, a huge, splendidly muscled brute, was edging threateningly closer to the ape-man. Through his bared fighting fangs there issued a low sullen growl. Tarzan stood perfectly still, waiting. He saw the beast was of wondrous proportions, standing over seven feet upon its short, bowed legs. With stiff, jerky movements it began circling around the alert ape-man.

OPEN EVENINGS.

Under City B-Law 2864 passed by the Council on November 4, 1929, as a result of a petition from the merchants through the retail section, Chamber of Commerce, "The six days, not counting Sundays, before Christmas day are to be treated in so far as shopping is concerned the same as Saturday, that is, stores may remain open until 10.30 o'clock in the evening."

The by-law further provides that while it is permissible to remain open evenings before a public holiday, New Year's Eve is an exception and stores are therefore to be closed on New Year's Eve. Thus, the late closing for the local stores will come into force this year on December 18 (Thursday).

ERROR IS .7 PERCENT

In the heading on a feature story in Saturday's Examiner about the operation of the Bell Telephone switchboards it said that the error was seven percent which should have read .7 percent or seven errors in one thousand instead of one hundred. The body part of the story carried the correct figures.

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES

The local Fire Department was called out to two chimney fires last night and this morning. One call came in from 157 Rutherford avenue, at 11.43 p.m. yesterday, and the other from 112 Sophia street, at 5.09 a.m. to-day.

Farm Hand Is Found In Dying Condition

Man Went Deer Hunting and Was Overcome by Cold Weather

EAST OTIS, Mass., Dec. 2.—Perry Walker, 53, a farm hand employed here, was found in a dying condition from exposure in the woods by a hunter to-day. Walker went deer hunting yesterday and when he failed to return last night it was thought he had found refuge in some cabin or with some family. Another hunter found him unconscious and he was brought to the village. The temperature to which Walker was exposed through the night dropped to zero or below with a wind of 35 miles an hour.

ROYAL ARTHUR LODGE HONORS RETIRING WORSHIPFUL MASTER

Beautiful Jewel is Presented to Chris Graham, Retiring Master.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Chris G. Graham the retiring master of Royal Arthur Lodge was presented with a beautiful jewel emblematic of his exalted office by the members of the lodge on the occasion of the annual installation banquet held in the Empress Hotel last night. Over 100 members of the craft were present and the banquet presided over by Mr. Graham proved to be one of the most auspicious in the history of the lodge.

R. F. Downey was the principal speaker and the subject of his address proved an inspiration to those present. Musical numbers were provided by W. Grieves with John Crane presiding at the piano as accompanist and song leader.

H. R. H. Kenner presided at the installation ceremonies held prior to the banquet. The following toast list was observed:

The King and the Craft; the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario, proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. J. Crane and responded by Rt. Wor. Bro. J. Comstock; Our absent brethren, proposed by Very Wor. Bro. E. B. Fowler; Our sister lodges and visitors, proposed by Wor. Bro. W. R. Breyfogle and responded to by Wor. Bro. J. E. R. Munro, Peterborough Lodge and Wor. Bro. C. J. Ray, Corinthian Lodge; Our newly installed master and his assistant officers, proposed by Wor. Bro. Carl Browne and responded to by Wor. Bro. Dr. J. J. Craig.

The following are the officers who were installed:

J. J. Craig, W.M.; C. G. Graham, I.P.M.; W. L. Ferguson, S.W.; Jas. Abraham, J.W.; W. A. Logan, Chaplain; John Crane, treasurer; G. W. Haley, secretary; J. G. M. Wilson, D. of C.; J. A. PRAISE FROM A LEADING PIANIST

Warm Tribute to Beauty of Heintzman Upright Grand Piano.

It is worthy of notice that His Majesty's Chapel Savoy Choir rendered ther delightful song programme in the Collegiate Auditorium last Friday to the accompaniment of a beautiful Heintzman Upright Grand Piano. This instrument was loaned by Heintzman Hall, George and Hunter streets, and its distinctive adaptability to the needs of the occasion is warmly acknowledged by Mrs. Heft, the choir's accompanist, as follows: "The Heintzman Upright Grand is truly a beautiful piano; it is a great pleasure to play on such a superb instrument."

As is well known in musical circles, Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co.'s pianos are favorites with the worlds greatest musical artists, their tonal purity, volume and versatility being peculiarly suitable for concert work in all its ramifications. Such recommendations as that from Mr. Heft, coupled with those from thousands of other leading pianists and vocalists, are unquestionably playing no small part in influencing the selection of a piano for domestic use.

'HI-Y' CLUB HEARS C. A. SALMONSEN

Successful Tradesman Must Have Natural Liking For His Trade Declares Speaker.

C. A. Salmonsen, General Superintendent, C.G.E., in addressing the "Hi-Y" Club at their regular weekly supper meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening, stated that a successful tradesman must have an inquiring mind in connection with his own respective trade. He must have a natural liking for his vocation. Unless he is by nature and by practice a skilfull workman he is a misfit.

Mr. Salmonsen said that business does not expect or demand any more than society is entitled to. He said it was necessary to build up a public confidence.

Tradesmen, said the speaker, were as skilfull in ancient times as they are to-day but this is an age of speed and production. Where an article took hours and perhaps days in the manufacture it now takes a matter of only a few minutes. The modern aspirant to success must be alive to the situation and consider very carefully the different trades and professions before making any definite decisions.

The musical part of the program was well taken care of by Reg. Kingdon who rendered a violin solo, accompanied by Max Parnall.

C. S. Cummer, manager George street branch, Bank of Montreal, will be the speaker next week. He will address the group on the subject, "Banking."

Trouble Is Looming In Cotton Industry

MANCHESTER, Eng., Dec. 2. — A crisis in the cotton industry involving about 200,000 workers has been created by refusal of the weavers to negotiate with employers regarding a new wage scale and certain changes in the mill operation system.

The employers have offered a new scale with an advance of about ten dollars a week if the weavers of certain qualities of cloth will agree to attend eight looms instead of the usual four.

It is contended that this "doubling up" would reduce production cost materially so that prices to the consumer might be shaved and weavers would have more work. The men opposed the system on the ground that it would result in large displacement of labor.

Mercury Drops Over 20 Below in Chapleau and Cochrane Districts.

BLAST STAYS ICY.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2.—All Ontario shivered to-day as an icy blast swept out of the north, bringing in its wake the coldest temperatures of the season.

Northern Ontario cities reported the mercury dropping at a rapid rate. Chapleau, Cochrane, Englehart and Coral Rapids experienced frigidity ranging between 20 and 25 degrees below zero.

Central and other parts of Ontario were comparatively mild, even though citizens of these sections dressed in the warmest attire available.

In this city the thermometer dropped below the zero line for the first time, when a two below mark was reported from the northern outskirts.

The cold wave followed on the heels of a mild week-end during which parts of the province suffering from drought experienced a heavy rain storm which relieved the water famine.

WILL DESPATCH STRONG PROTEST TO RED CAPITAL

Speech Regarded as Inciting British Workers to Revolution.

HENDERSON TO ACT.

Broadcast in Direct Violation to Anti-Propaganda Agreement.

LONDON, Dec. 3 — The British Government will send a formal protest to Moscow against a radio speech broadcast from the Soviet capital last night, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, today informed the House of Com-

The speech, he said, is regarded as "inciting British workers to revolutions.

tion" and was in direct violation of the anti-propaganda agreement.

Departs From Agreement

The Conservative Member, Oliver Lampson, asked Mr. Henderson what he was going to do about this speech which has aroused considerable indignation in Great Britain, and the Foreign Secretary explained that the full text of the address from Moscow had been given to him only an hour or so before.

"In that short time", he said, "I have come to the conclusion that while this speech does not constitute incitement to revolution, as some of the members of the House seem to believe, it is nevertheless a departure from the agreement regarding propaganda.

"I am instructing His Majesty's ambassador in Moscow to address a protest to the Soviet Government

Lampson advised the foreign secretary to tune in on Moscow tonight for the next "propaganda installment", but Mr. Henderson said he had "better things to do".

PARLEY IS HOPE OF MINE STRIKE

Centre of Action in Scottish Coal Crisis Moves to London.

MACDONALD TAKES PART.

LONDON, Dec. 3 — The centre of action in Great Britain's coal mine crisis shifted to-day from Glasgow, where a meeting of miners yesterday failed to patch up a temporary truce with the owners, to London where a National Miners' Conference assembles to-morrow in an effort to prevent the Scottish strike from extending.

Union executives met for preliminary discussion this morning and this evening they had been promised an interview with Premeier Ramsay MacDonald, who is more anxious than any one to avert a general strike which might well be a national catastrophe.

The point at issue is the spared-over system of work by which the miner owners put on shifts in five 8-hour days and one 5-hour day a week instead of working them through a week of straight 7½ hour days as provided in the new Coal Mine Act which became effective Monday. The miners in Scotland have refused to accept that system and it is hoped that some temporary compromise may be reached for South Wales.

He has been in practice in Kemptville for some years and lately has acted as Police Magistrate for Grenville County.

Converted Youth Confesses Robbery

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 3.—Donald Heald, Ingersoll youth, became converted at an evangelistic meeting a few evenings ago and thereby solved a mystery for he confessed to the theft of 3,000 rounds of 22 cadet ammunition from Ingersoll Collegiate. The robbery had been puzzling police, although the greater part of the goods were soon recovered.

Heald and Andrew Young, also of Ingersoll, pleaded guilty this morning in police court and were remanded until Monday for sentence.

HOUSE OF LORDS CENSORS GOV'T ON ITS ATTITUDE

Liberal Newspapers Join in Support of Laborite Herald Backing Gov't.

TORY PRESS OUTSPOKEN.

Lord Hailsham, Sir Kingsley Wood and Amery All Bitter in Attacks.

LONDON, Dec. 3 (By Thomas Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—The "humbug" pot is still boiling. The Labor Government was defeated in the House of Lords last night on a motion by Lord Hailsham, former Lord High Commissioner, censuring the Government "for its refusal to respond to the advances made by the Prime Ministers of the Dominions towards closer fiscal relations." Numerous Conservative stalwarts, in the House of Lords and in public speeches at different centres, attacked the Government for its attitude at the Imperial conference and denounced Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, for his use of the word "humbug" in the House of Commons, in reference to the Canadian proposals. And weighty press comment was forthcoming to-day on Premier R. B. Bennett's reply to Mr. Thomas. Liberal newspapers join in support of the Laborite Herald on behalf of the Government, but the Conservative organs are outspoken.

Busy Final Day

Meanwhile Premier R. B. Bennett spent his final workday in London to-day in one long succession of interviews. From an early hour he was busy with appointments. He has received many cables of congratulations from friends in Canada on his vigorous reply to Mr. Thomas's House of Commons statement. To-morrow he sails for the Dominion, on board the steamer Duchess of Atholl, bound for Saint John, N.B. He has been away from Canada for more than two months.

Mr. Thomas's statements and Premier Bennett's reply were brought up repeatedly in the debate in the House of Lords last night. Lord Hailsham minced no words in describing the "cheap personalities" of Mr. Snowden and the "wilful perversions" of Mr

TORONTO PAIR SENTENCED 27 MONTH TERMS

Chas. McCinny and Roy Clarke Arrested in Lindsay Two Weeks Ago.

ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

Face Second Charge of Theft of Motor Car in the Queen City.

LINDSAY, Ont., December 3 (Special to The Examiner). — Before a crowded court room to-day, the two Toronto men, Charles McCinny and Roy Clarke, were sentenced by Police Magistrate Jordan to twenty-seven months in Kingston Penitentiary on the charge of burglary. Both pleaded guilty.

The pair were arrested by Constable Hodgson about two weeks ago with loot valued at $500 which they had stolen from W. Nicholls' general store here. Prior to their capture they said they lived at a Toronto hotel, and followed the vocation of magazine agents. An officer from Toronto will reach here to-morrow with a warrant for their arrest on the charge of the theft of a car in that city which was loaded with loot when Constable Hodgson effected their capture.

ONTARIO PREMIER GOING TO LONDON AS A PUBLIC DUTY

Premier Ferguson Delivers His Valedictory to Ontario Conservatives.

GREAT IMPERIALIST.

1,700 Supporters From All Parts of Ontario Gather in Toronto.

(By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3. — Only his belief in the British Empire and the opportunity of contributing perhaps a little to its maintenance, consolidation and development induced Premier G. Howard Ferguson to accept the post of Canadian High Commissioner in London. This was the statement he made last night to a gathering of some 1,700 of his supporters from all parts of Ontario at the annual banquet of the Ontario Conservative Association.

Real Imperialist

Speaking of the services of the British Empire to civilization and of the advantages each of the British nations derived from its association in the empire Mr. Ferguson declared, "I have been called an imperialist and I am an Imperialist".

"Holding these views", he went on, "I go as a matter of public duty to see if there is the slightest thing I can do, as a representative Canadian to draw closer the bonds which bind the Empire, together or to quicken the blood which runs through its veins."

Cabinet Members Attend

Though attended by all members of the Ontario cabinet and six members of the Dominion Government the banquet was in reality a Ferguson love feast. It was the last time the Ontario Premier would address a gathering representative of the whole Ontario Conservative party prior to his departure for London and speaker after speaker paid tribute to his services as Prime Minister and leader.

PROMPT ACTION SAVES 35 LIVES

Minister Runs Half Mile to Give Warning as Ship Runs Aground.

COASTGUARDS MAKE RESCUE

HOLHEAD, Eng., Dec. 3.—Thirty-five men composing the crew of the Norwegian steamer Asmund were saved last night by coastguardsmen after the vessel rammed into rocks.

The rescue was credited to a minister, the Rev. H. H. Jones, who was walking along the coast with a woman parishioner when he happened to see, through a dense fog over the Irish channel the Asmund go on the rocks.

The minister ran half a mile to the nearest telephone and reported the accident to the Holyhead coastguard station. Rockets were sent up to reassure the imperilled mariners, while lifeboats and lifesaving equipment were rushed to the scene.

Three of the crew were taken ashore by lifelines and the others in a lifeboat.

The Asmund, bound from Novorossiysk to Manchester, struck the rocks at high tide and this made her release extremely dificult.

The Weather

A decided change in weather conditions has occurred during the last 24 hours. Last night's lowest temperature was 14 degrees above zero, and by daybreak the temperature was almost up to the freezing point. One thing that is noticeable in our winters of late is that cold dips seldom last more than one day. In years gone by, one could usually look for a cold dip to last three days—the most severe one being central. This will be borne out by any observant person of mature years. Rain or melting snow is still badly needed for farmers' wells, creeks and power purposes.—WP

Two Large Moose Shot in Cavendish

Yes there are moose in Peterborough county. The above picture was taken at the Squaw River camp of the Windover hunting party in the township of Cavendish. In the picture are shown the two large moose which were recently shot by the party. The larger moose weighed 1,300 pounds and the antlers measured three feet eight inches. The party consisted of Stan Bancroft, William Thompson, Percy Hunt, Earl Windover, John Barker, Port Hope, William Barkwell, Port Hope, E. Metcalfe, C. V. Fouse, Toronto and George Windover. Many tracks were noticed by the hunters who believe the moose have wandered south from Algonquin Park. A large 214 pound buck was also shot by the hunters.

W. G. MORROW GIVES SCHOLARSHIP TO VOCATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL

Sum of $180 a Year is Donated By Former Secretary of Board of Education.

WELCOME NEW MEMBER.

W. G. Morrow, an ex-pupil of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and for many years secretary of the Board of Education, has intimated his intention, that commencing with the school year 1930-31 he will be pleased to donate the sum of $180 annually to provide scholarships to be competed for by pupils in the Commercial, Industrial and Household Arts departments of the Vocational School.

The announcement of this generous gift from Mr. Morrow was made to members of the Board of Education at the regular meeting held last evening, by H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, who will announce the details of the scheme of award at the next meeting of the Board.

Mr. Kenner explained to the Board that the present scholarships consist of the Nicholls Scholarship of $100 in value, which is open only to pupils in the Academic School, and the I.O.D.E. Chapter Scholarship of $12 to the pupil who stands first in the First Form of the Commercial Department and $8 to the pupil taking second place.

The Nicholls Scholarship is the result of a gift made by the late Mrs. Nicholl to the Board of Education of $2,000. This sum was invested at 5 per cent, which brings in a total interest of $100 per annum, from which the scholarship is derived.

Dr. J. J. Craig, chairman of the Board, expressed his own appreciation and that of the Board, of Mr. Morrow's philantrophy.

A welcome was extended to J. R. Marshall, the newly appointed member of the Board, who succeeds to the vacancy caused by the lamented death of Joseph John.

Damage at Schools

James Dutton, chairman, property committee, reported that trouble is still experienced by wilful damage which is being perpetrated to school property. He mentioned as an instance the breaking of a hydrant outside Prince of Wales' School. He thought possibly someone had driven into it with a car. The hydrant was broken off at the base and the Fire Department had had to be called out to prevent the danger of flooding the school property. So far as he knew the hydrant was not part of the school fire apparatus. It was not a standard size hydrant, so he had given instructions that it be plugged up and filled in, instead of being replaced, as there was another full sized hydrant on the opposite side of the road, in close proximity and easy of access to the school.

At Central, Mr. Dutton also stated a great deal of glass is still being broken. Two men had been placed on duty in an effort to trace the culprits, but so far their vigilance had met with no success. "The situation is quite serious," said Mr. Dutton, "and a great deal of money was spent on glass replacements last summer."

Acting on Mr. Dutton's suggestions that there should be some under-

North Bay Jobless Dislike Prospects Of Working to Eat

NORTH BAY, Ont., December 3 (C.P.). — It might be the diet, it might be the cold weather, and then again it might be the prospect of work. Whatever it is,—nearly 20 members of the free meal fraternity were missing last night after city officials had brought into effect a ruling that four hours' work each day must be given in return for free board. Some departed on "freights" when they found they must return labor for food, apparently destined for more hospitable hosts.

North Bay still has its quota of homeless, however, 56 unemployed men spending last night in the old jail which has been opened as a hostel.

SHEPARD PLANS FIGHT FOR LIFE

Claims Wife Often Suggested Death as Means of Escaping Melancholia.

FORMER BELLEVILLE MAN.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 3 (C.P.) —Possible lines of defense were indicated in a statement by Major Charles A. Shepard, formerly of Belleville, Ont., issued in advance of his trial to-morrow on a charge of murdering his second wife by administering poison.

The 59-year-old army physician's statement asserted his innocence and recalled that Mrs. Shepard in an effort to save infected teeth had used excessively an antiseptic containing poison. It asserted, too, that Mrs. Shepard was alcoholic, who often suggested death as a means of escaping intense melancholia.

Mrs. Shepard died at Fort Riley, in June, 1929. Some months later an autopsy was conducted, and Shepard was indicted on a Federal warrant charging first degree murder.

Engaged to Stenographer

In his statement, amplified by interviews with reporters yesterday, Major Shepard told of becoming engaged five months after his wife's death to Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 22-year-old stenographer of San Antonio, Tex., who is among the Government's witnesses.

Major Shepard pictured his wife, formerly a nurse in his private sanitarium at Sierra Madre, Cal., as a secret drinker who filched whisky from his army physician's kit, in which were poisonous antiseptics.

His statement said Mrs. Shepard "had been at that satchel that night when she became ill." He recalled and named numerous physicians who treated Mrs. Shepard at different times when she was ill.

Reporter Fires Gun At Spanish Premier

MADRID, Dec. 3—A newspaper reporter waiting with other correspondents in the office of Premier Berenguer to-day drew a pistol as the Premier entered, and fired at him. The bullet went wild and the reporter was overpowered by guards.

Berenguer was not injured.

The reporter, a man named Joaquin Lligo, represented the newspaper El Sol of Madrid. He was hustled away in the custody of the police.

DR. HUGO ECKENER TO GIVE HIS VIEW OF R-101'S CRASH

Noted German Enters Court Room Arm in Arm With Sir John Simon.

ALL DOCUMENTS PRESENTED

Important Calculations and Experiments Made in 3 Weeks' Adjournment.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 3. (CP)—The court of inquiry into the crash and destruction of the R-101 in France recently was resumed to-day after an adjournment of several weeks with Dr. Hugo Eckener, master of the Graf Zeppelin, present to give his expert testimony.

Dr. Eckener was an early arrival at the court. He met Sir John Simon who is sitting as judge, and the assessors in a private room remained talking with them for half an hour before court convened.

Assisted by Lieutenant Colonel J. T. C. Moore Brabazon and Professor C. E. Linglis as assessors Sir John Simon is endeavoring to ascertain the probable cause of the disaster with its loss of 48 lives. During three weeks' adjournment important experiments and calulations were made and the evidence growing out of them will be given next week.

Graf's Master, Lauded

Sir John Simon entered the court room arm in arm with Dr. Eckener and escorted him to a seat almost immediately beneath a suspended model of the stricken dirigible. He paid a tribute to the Graf Zeppelin's master in his opening remarks, referring to him as "the very distinguished German authority" who had been at pains to read the whole of the R-101 evidence taken at previous sessions.

"He is prepared" Sir John said, "to give us any help which is in his power in analysing possible explanations of the disaster."

Sir John said that some additional facts bearing on the disaster would first be presented and some technical testimonly heard. Then, if time remains, Dr. Eckener will give his testimony heard. Then, if time remorrow.

Solicitor General Sir R. Stafford Cripps announced that he was satisfied now that every possible document bearing on the catastrophe had been placed before the commission.

Herman Trelle Is ChosenChampion For Second Time

Peace River Valley Farmer, 1,200 Miles North of Chicago, is Crowned World's Wheat King—Brings to Canada Her 6th Championship in 12 Years.

TRELLE'S WINNING SAMPLE WAS THE HEAVIEST EVER SHOWN, WEIGHING 67.5 LBS. PER BUSHEL

Another Canadian, George Avery of Kelso, Saskatchewan Won the Reserve Championship With His Sample of Durum Wheat.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (C.P.). — From the Peace River Valley of Alberta—1,200 miles north of Chicago — Herman Trelle brought his favorite sample of hard red spring wheat to the International Live Stock Exposition last week. To-day it made him "Wheat King" of 1930.

Another Canadian, George Avery, of Kelso, Saskatchewan, won the reserve championship with a sample of Durum.

Trelles championship was the sixth for Canada in the 12 years of the International Grain and Hay Show. The other six times, it has gone to growers from Montana.

The 1930 monarch of wheat also won that laurel in 1926. Only one other grain man, the veteran C. Edson Smith of Corvallis, Mont., has been twice-crowned in this realm.

Trelle's winning sample was the heaviest ever shown at the show, weighing 67.5 pounds to the bushel. Avery's reserve champion sample of soft Durum—the first of that variety to win one of the show's major wheat honors—weighed 66.1 pounds to the bushel.

Won First In 1926

At the International Hay and Grain Show in Chicago in 1926 a comparatively unknown farmer from Wembley, in the Peace River district of Alberta, was adjudged the winner of the wheat and oats sweepstakes. It was the first time on record that a single individual had captured both of these coveted awards, and to the amazement of United States competitors the championship grains came from a district 00 miles north of the international boundary. A continental-wide acclaim was accorded the victor, Herman Trelle, then only 31 years of age.

As Trelle sprang suddenly into fame so did the remote Alberta region where he had made his home. To migratory agriculturalists the Peace River area became the center of interest, and the trek into the vast fertile hinterlands was immeasurably increased by the achievements of the young Wembly farmer.

Ten years previous the new "wheat king," according to his own admission, did not know wheat from oats. Born in Idaho in 1886, of German-American parents, he came to Alberta with his family in 1900, receiving his preliminary education partly in that province and partly in Germany when his parents returned to visit friends.

IRELAND NAMED PARTY PRESIDENT AT TORY RALLY

Succeeds John R. MacNicol Who Has Held Post in Association Many Years.

PREMIER SORRY TO LEAVE.

Church Has Protest—Mrs. H. Falls Elected Second Vice-President.

TORONTO, Ont., December 3 (By Frank Flaherty, C.P. Staff Writer). — Assembled on the eve of Premier Ferguson's retirement from office, the annual meeting of the Ontario Conservative Association here yesterday attracted a large representation from all parts of the province. Both Mr. Ferguson and Mrs. Ferguson spoke feelingly of their regret at severing their many friendships with party workers and with the people of the Province.

W. H. Ireland, M.L.A., Conservative Whip in the Ontario Legislature, was elected president of the Association by acclamation in succession to John R. MacNicol, who has held the post for many years.

Short speeches on a wide variety of topics from agriculture to athletics and from education to mining featured the discussions. It remained for Thomas L. Church, ex-M.P. and former Mayor of Toronto, however, to protest against the failure to include the unemployment problem on the agenda.

No Mention of Hard Times.

"This party ride into office, according to every careful observer," said Mr. Church, "on the issues of hard times and unemployment. Yet there is no mention of either of these to-day. With hard times on the farm thousands of farmers are on the verge of bankruptcy and there is distress on all sides in the cities.

GERMANY PLANS BIG EXPENSE CUT

Minister of Finance Announces Intention of Slashing $345,000,000 Annually.

Includes All Departments.

BERLIN, Dec. 3. (CP)—Germany is going to cut her annual expenditures by $345,000,000, Hermann Dietritch, the Minister of Finance, told the Reichstag to-day as it assembled to consider Chancellor Bruening's program of drastic financial reform.

"We must cut deeply into every department which costs us money," he said, "and not one department of the Government will escape. We must live like Spartans for the next three years, and we must resign ourselves to it.

"If by chance our income should be greater in those years than we expect, we will have to use any excess to wipe out our debts and cut down our taxes. This goes not only for the National Government, but for every state and commune."

STRIKE MAY HIT ENGLISH MINES

Miners' Federation Secretary Claims Scotland Cannot Be Left Alone in Struggle.

AYRSHIRE BREAK LOOMS.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Fear ran high last night that the strike in the Scottish coal fields will spread throughout the coal fields of Great Britain.

"Scotland cannot be left alone in the struggle," said A. J. Cook, powerful secretary of the Miners' Federation.

His statement was made after receipt of word from Glasgow that at a conference of miners' leaders it was decided the strike should continue. Another disquieting fact was that delegates from Ayrshire, where the men have continued at work, promised to endeavor to bring the miners in their area in line with the strikers.

The next important step in the situation as a whole is expected to-morrow, when a conference of National Union delegates meets in London. At the Glasgow meeting it was voted to place the position of the Scottish miners before the conference.

BROKERS JAILED AFTER CREDITORS MEET IN TORONTO

Bail of $25,000 Each Demanded For G. F. Cronan and A. W. Northup.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE LAID.

Police Allege Amount Involved in Insurance Investments Firm is $275,000.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—Gerald Francis Cronan, aged 41, of 1 Elm Grove Avenue, and Aubrey W. Northup, aged 43, of 482 Armadale Avenue, President and Secretary-Treasurer and Vice-President, respectively, of the Insurance Investments, Limited, 347 Bay street, were arrested last night charged with conspiracy to defraud the public. The company of which the accused were officers carried on a business advertised, as insurance stock-brokerage, and was formed some four years ago. Police state that the amount involved is in the neighborhood of $275,000, but it is learned that in all it may total approximately $430,000.

Following a meeting of creditors of the company, now declared bankrupt, before O. E. Lennox, Official Receiver, at Osgoode Hall yesterday, Attorney-General Price ordered a warrant issued for the arrest of the two men. This was executed last night by Detective-Sergeants Joseph Ewing and Harold Waterhouse, who arrested the men in their homes.

At the hearing before the Official Receiver it was brought out that the nominal deficit of the company is $35,888, being liabilities over assets; but it is understood that shareholders, as well as investors, are sufferers. The former, it is stated, are affected to the extent of $300,000.

Evidence at yesterday's meeting was to the effect that some orders of clients had not been executed, and Cronan is said to have admitted that money so left for investment had been deposited to the operating account of the firm. It is stated also that the firm had made investments in stocks and lost through the falling market. One instance is cited of a listed depreciation in a certain stock from $140 to the present price of $8. Frederick M. Moffat is examining the books of the company, and will make a report to the Crown.

Bail was set at $25,000 for each man but until an early hour this morning both were still in custody.

TORY MEMBERS QUIT COMMITTEE

Seven Do Not Agree With Decision Regarding Death Penalty.

CONCLUSIONS SECRET.

LONDON, Dec. 3 (A.P.)—Seven Conservative members of the House of Commons select committee on capital punishment withdrew from the group last night as it met to consider its draft report.

It was understood that they felt they could not be parties to the report in its present form and that any effective amendment not only would be impracticable, but would lead to indefinite delay.

The conclusion of the investigation remain a closely-guarded secret, but there is general belief that the committee will recommend abolition of the death penalty for five years as an experimental measure.

IRELAND NAMED

where many men, women, and children are without proper food clothing and shelter. The program seems to include everything of little importance except the question of "How old is Anne?"

Mr. Church's remarks were made just after A. M. Edwards, M.P. for South Waterloo, had concluded an address on anti-dumping legislation and included a denunciation of the practice of importing electric power into Ontario. He said the question of dumping was a serious one, but Mr. Edwards might well have gone on to protest against the "dumping of American super-trust power and Quebec-owned and quasi-American power into Ontario without the consent of the people."

"Protest should also be made," said Mr. Church, against the "dumping of many purely provincial burdens on the municipalities without their consent."

Premier Given Cheer.

Premier Ferguson was greeted with loud cheers when he came to the platform but the cheers died down quickly when he said it would be the last annual meeting he would attend for some time.

"Leaving as I am in a short time, though I am still Prime Minister," he said, "I cannot express the wrench and the pain it is for my wife and I to sever the friendship we have had with the people of this Province, regardless of politics and religion."

The officers elected were: W. H. Ireland, M.L.A., president; Arthur R. Ford, London, first vice-president; Mrs. Howard Fallis, Peterborough, second vice-president; C. A. Sequin, M.L.A., Ottawa, third vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Van Koughnet, Toronto, fourth vice-president; W. C. Clysdale, Toronto, secretary; Major Locke, West York, treasurer.

While a hymn was being sung at James Church, Manchester, England, flames burst from the vestry, and choirmen, in their cassocks and surplices, dashed out and extinguished the blaze with buckets of water.

Voter in Lindsay To Stage a Crawl

LINDSAY, Dec. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—An interesting municipal election wager, which hinged on the result of Monday's mayoralty contest, is to be publicly carried out during the next three days. A supporter of Mayor Stewart had entered into an agreement with another voter to the effect that if his candidate lost out he would crawl the distance of three blocks (either side) of the main street on his hands and knees. The winner is determined that the wager will be carried out, while the loser is equally determined to stage the crawl.

SHIP SEEKS HELP OFF CHINA COAST

British Destroyer Rushing to Rescue 14 Swedish Sailors on Board.

CRASHES ON PRATAS REEF.

HONG KONG, Dec. 3 (C.P.)—The American gunboat Mindanao, lying in West River last night, picked up an S.O.S. from the Swedish motorship Hedvig, on Pratas Reef, between the Chinese coast and the Philippines, and asking for aid.

The Hedvig reported that she was a total loss, with heavy seas battering the wreck, and her crew of 14 was in grave danger.

The Mindanao relayed the message here and the British destroyer Storm Cloud was despatched at full speed to assist the Hedvig, expecting to reach her about noon to-day.

The United States liner President McKinley, bound to Manila from Hong Kong, also picked up the S.O.S.

Pratas Reef is an island group about midway between Hong Kong and the northern end of the Philippine Island of Luzon.

ONTARIO PREMIER

Arrangements had been made for Premier R. B. Bennett to address the meeting by telephone from London but at the last minute they fell through. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals was the chief speaker of the federal government and combined a review of record of the Bennett administration with an attack on the policies of the late Liberal Government.

No Man Been Happier

On the eve of his retirement from active politics Mr. Ferguson spoke with feeling of the loyalty and devotion of his supporters in the Government and the legislature. No man in public life he said, had ever been happier in those he was associated with.

"We have never had a suspicion, a quarrel or a dispute in the Conservative party in the ten years I have been leader" he said. "True we have had our discussions but when they were over and I ventured to suggest the course I thought we should pursue the others invariably fell in behind me."

"For almost half my life I have beaten a path to those old Parliament Buildings" said the Premier. "It will be difficult for me to follow another path. But if one devotes one's life to public service one must rise to opportunities, must be prepared to assume new responsibilities and new duties. There now comes a time when I feel there is a wider and greater field in which I may, or so it has been impressed upon me, be of some service, not only to my Province but to the Dominion and perhaps to the Empire."

Manion Lauds Bennett.

Premier Bennett spoke for the whole Government of Canada when he issued his reply to Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas Monday. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, declared here last night at the Ontario Conservative Association banquet. All members of the Government endorsed the Prime Minister's stand on the question of Empire trade and his utterances in London.

"Premier Bennett was the outstanding man at the Imperial Conference," said Dr. Manion, "so much so that many thinking people in Great Britain would like to have him over there as one of their leaders."

Reviewing the activities of Premier Bennett in the past few months, Dr. Manion declared he was a "superman." He had fought and won an election, formed a government in ten days, called a session of Parliament in five weeks at which he acted as Prime Minister, Minister of Finance and Minister of Labor, provided $20,000,000 for unemployment relief, revised the tariff, went to the Imperial Conference and laid before it a definite and well-prepared proposition.

The Bennett proposals in connection with Empire trade would ultimately be adopted, he predicted. They might be modified to some extent but before many years the British Empire would be established on a solid basis of sentiment and business.

Wild Dog Bands Kill Brant Sheep

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 3. — That wild dogs originally from this city, the majority of which are police dogs, are ravaging the sheep flocks of Brant County is the allegation made by sheep producers who have made efforts to hunt down the marauders. The Brantford Township Council has been called upon to pay $2,000 this year for sheep killed or worried.

Married Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. James Farrell of Campbellford, who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The bride and groom of 50 years ago were married in Marysville in 1880 and in 1894 moved to Plainsville, north of Belleville where they resided until coming to Campbellford in 1902. Six of their seven children were present at the golden wedding celebration.

PRECEDENT SET BY AUSTRALIAN

Native Born Chief Justice To Be Next Governor General.

Succeeds Lord Stonehaven.

LONDON, Dec. 3 (C.P. Cable).—A native-born Australian will succeed Lord Stonehaven, the present Governor-General of Australia, in the person of Rt. Hon. Sir Isaac Isaacs, Chief Justice of the Commonwealth, according to the announcement made here yesterday.

Sir Isaac Isaacs will take up his duties when Lord Stonehaven's term expires at the beginning of the New Year.

Yesterday's announcement of his appointment, made by the Imperial Government, on behalf of His Majesty, constitutes a precedent in Empire annals. The new Governor-General will be the first native-born citizen of his country to represent the King in any of the dominions.

The present Labor Government of Australia, under Prime Minister James Scullin, had insisted for months that the next Viceroy should be an Australian. There was considerable political opposition to this proposal in the House of Representatives, and numerous societies signed petitions asking the Imperial Government not to appoint a native, but to adhere to the custom of appointing a Briton to the high post.

Mr. Scullin, however, brought up the question at the Imperial Conference and his viewpoint prevailed.

Chief Justice Isaacs had been mentioned for the post in Australian despatches as early as last May.

OLD CASTLE RESTORED

After being used as a fortress a state prison and an arsenal Blackness Castle at West Lothian, Scotland, is being restored. The old high roofs are being removed and are to be replaced by lower ones on the original gables. During the work so far interesting finds have included the original stone pavement which formed a walk around the building, the outlines of three fireplaces in the banquet hall, and an old stone basin built into the wall of an adjoining room.

PATIENT TEMPORARILY INSANE

WELLAND, Ont., Dec. 3.—Investigating the death of Oliver Chouinard, local resident, who jumped out of a hospital window here soon after a successful operation for appendicitus had been performed on him, and was drowned in the Welland canal nearby, a Corner's jury brought in a verdict last night that Chouinard was temporarily insane. They found he had received good care in the hospital.

Madoc Home is Destroyed by Fire

MADOC, Dec. 3. (Examiner Correspondence). — About one o'clock on Tuesday morning the fire alarm called Madoc's Volunteer Fire Department to the scene of a blaze, the residence of A. V. Gabel, on Elgin street, east end. The united efforts of the firemen held the fire in check for a lengthy period, and all the household effects were saved, but it was found impossible to save the house, which was the property of Bruce Embury. The loss is only partly covered by a small insurance.

CHEESE MAKERS SHOW PROGRESS

Quality of Cheese During Past Year Improved, Belleville Convention Told.

REPORTS OPTIMISTIC.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 3.— More than 100 cheesemakers from this district gathered yesterday for the third annual convention of the Cheesemakers' Association of Central Ontario, which will conclude with a banquet to-night at which Hon W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, will speak. The delegates were welcomed by Mayor George A. Reid and Col. Roscoe Vanderwater. Warden of Hastings County, W. V. Drewery presented his annual report, saying that the district had improved its record for special and first-grade cheese by 1 per cent. "An innovation," said the President, "is the cheese factory patrons' farm and herd competition and which was inaugurated with the idea of encouraging our patrons to increase both the quantity and quality of their raw product by supplying them with a double incentive to do so, and thereby enabling us to retain and, if possible, to improve our position in the markets of the world." It was the opinion of the executive that the Provincial Government should help with a grant of sizeable proportions.

Martin Love Is Dead At His Toronto Home

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3.—Martin Love, 78, President of the Canadian Feather and Mattress Company of Ottawa and Toronto, and a director of the Toronto Globe, died at his home here following a heart attack.

Mr. Love was born on a farm near Temperanceville, York County. While still a young man he journeyed to Western Canada, living at Winnipeg and Lumsden, Sask. Later he returned east to engage in the manufacture of bedding.

Surviving are his widow and one daughter of Toronto. The funeral will take place from the home to Mount Pleasant Cemetery on Thursday.

Exactly 50 years since he began his scientific work in Egypt, Sir William F. Petrie, the noted archaeologist, now 77, has just resumed his researches in Palestine.

Mongolian or Not, Indians May Wed

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 3—Joseph Anderson, 20, full-blooded Comanche Indian, and Miss Dorothy Hall, 19, white, applied for a marriage license in Alameda County. Miss Anita Clements, clerk, refused to issue a license, saying Indians are Mongolians and unable legally to wed white persons.

An appeal was taken to District Attorney Earl Warren.

"If a Comanche Indian was ever a Mongolian, it was so long ago the statute of limitations has run," Warren said.

600 RABBITS DIE; NEGLECT ALLEGED

Breeder Near Windsor Faces Cruelty Charge After Inspector's Visit.

ANIMALS STARVED.

WINDSOR, Dec. 3.—Shocking conditions were revealed yesterday, it is alleged, when Humane Society officials paid a visit to the Malden Fur and Rabbit Farm located on the Malden road, a few miles outside the Windsor city limits.

In a corner of the yard lay approximately 400 dead rabbits while several score more diseased animals were running at large, the officers reported. The discovery was brought about when several prospective rabbit purchasers who visited the farm, reported the conditions they found to Windsor authorities.

Inspector Alwyne Norton, of the Humane Society, after viewing the place, served notice of summons on Lawrence Sherlock, Sandwich, and he will appear in Sandwich police court to-day on a charge of cruelty.

The rabbit farm, it is said, is now in the hands of the bailiff. Inspector Norton declared he found 400 dead rabbits under a pile of straw, while another pile lying in a gully and partly concealed by snow revealed some 200 dead bunnies. In some of the cages rabbits were found dead and others apparently dying.

No food had been provided for the animals, nor was there any shelter from weather exposure, the inspector stated.

LIBERALS ORGANIZE IN WEST HASTINGS

Delegates to Toronto Convention Are Given Definite Instructions.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 3.—At a large and enthusiastic gathering the West Hastings Liberal Association, which has been inactive since the death of Colonel E. D. O'Flynn, came into being yesterday afternoon. The organization meeting was held in Frankford Town Hall. Besides electing the officers, four delegates were appointed from the riding to attend the Liberal convention to be held in Toronto.

Speakers included Hon. Nelson Parliament, organizer for the party; Harold Holton, defeated candidate at the last Provincial election; Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater, and Charles E. Hanna, ex-M.P. The platform of the party was discussed, and the delegates were given definite instructions. Officers elected: Honorary residents, Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater; Charles E. Hanna, ex-M.P.; Harold Holton, Mrs. (Colonel) Vanderwater, D'Arcy Ketcheson and Mrs. (Dr.) John Farley; President, Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Belleville; First Vice-President, Morley Sine, Frankford; Second Vice-President, Miss Anne Hurley, Belleville; Secretary-Treasurer, Charles Richardson, Trenton. The delegates to the convention are Morley Sine, Frankford; Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater, Mrs. (Colonel) Vanderwater and Mrs. McConnville, Trenton.

LINDSAY DISTRICT NEEDS WATER BADLY

Farmers Hauling Supply For Their Stock From River and Lakes.

LINDSAY, Dec. 3. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—A serious situation is confronting the farmers in this district owing to the great scarcity of water. Many wells are reported dry, and farmers are hauling water from the river and lakes for domestic as well as stock purposes. Very little rain had fallen before the last heavy frost, and the supply in the wells was at a very low ebb. It was hoped that Saturday night's copious rainfall would have continued during Sunday in order to relieve the situation.

Reports from the northern part of Victoria county and also from Haliburton county are to the effect that the lakes, which serve as reservoirs for the Trent Valley Canal system have not been so low in years.

MADOC WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HEARS NOMINATING COMMITTEE REPORT

Society Holds November Meeting at Home of Mrs. D. Moorcraft.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

MADOC, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—Madoc Women's Institute held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Moorcroft with a good attendance. A short time was spent in singing and after the Institute ode, the minutes and roll call followed, which was answered by "Bright thoughts for melancholy days." Reports were received from the euchre party of last week and also of the balance for electric lighting, and a committee was appointed to take charge of this matter. Three homes were offered for afternoon teas, and Mrs. W. Ross offered her home for a euchre party which was accepted, for Wednesday evening, Dec. 3. The following were appointed to arrange for the euchre and a social evening, Mesdames W. Whytock, E. West, W. E. Connor, Rupert, C. Whytock, Tumelty and Hough.

A shower of cups was arranged for the paper bag social for December. Mrs. W. E. Connor, reporting for the relief committee, a parcel valued at about four dollars sent to a family in need, asked that used clothing be contributed to be used as need arises.

The delegates to Belleville convention, Mrs. E. West and Mrs. E. M. Tumelty, gave a most interesting report of the convention of Belleville area, which all enjoyed. The delegates also graciously reported that no bill for expenses would be forthcoming, that being their donation to the funds of the Institutes. Mrs. T. L. Nickle gave the report of the nominating committee report, which was accepted by convention on motion of Mrs. Nickle and Mrs. Deviney, which was as follows:

President of the Belleville convention area—Mrs. W. R. Munroe, Demorestville.

1st Vice-President—Mrs. Chas. Macoun, Campbellford, Ont.

2nd Vice-President—Mrs. C. A. Bleecker, Marmora, Ont.

Secretary-treasurer—Mrs. W. K. Grass, Wooler, Ont.

The committee also recommended that the five officers above named act as the managing committee for the convention.

Chairmen of standing committees: Health—Mrs. B. Jones, Belleville, Ont.

Banquet—Mrs. S. Fox, Redneysville, Ont.

Registration — Mrs. Meggison, Belleville.

The committee of federation delegates elected Mrs. Shaw of Stirling as federation representative.

On motion of Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Connor, a hearty vote of thanks was extended to those reporting for the excellent and interesting report.

The National Anthem and a social half-hour followed.

FOUR SUCCESSFUL IN SEWING CLASS

Examinations Under Auspices of W. I. Held at Home of Mrs. Wilson.

YOUNG'S POINT, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—The final examinations for the girls' sewing class in connection with the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Wilson on Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. Cameron, of Lakefield, as judge.

The following are the winners: 1, Miss Loretta Young; 2, Miss Evelyn Tedford; 3, Miss Marie Webb; 4, Miss Muriel Brooks.

A small gift was also given to every girl of the sewing class by the Institute.

This class has been instructed at the different homes of the members of the Institute every Saturday afternoon by one or two women of the Institute.

Mrs. Bedford, Mrs. William Young, Mrs. A. Brooks, and Mrs. Dave Darling also attended the examinations. Afternoon tea was served at the close.

Pearce to Marry Australian Girl

TORONTO, Ont., December 3 (C.P.). — "Bobby" Pearce, world's single sculling champion, who is now residing in Hamilton, is to join the ranks of married men shortly, according to an announcement made recently. "Bobby's" fiancee, who has been living in Australia since the famed sculler left, is expected to arrive in Vancouver on December 5 and continue to Hamilton, where the wedding will take place on December 10.

Pearce, who is now employed by a distillers company in Hamilton, is more than satisfied with the country, and although he will be unable to represent Canada in the next Olympic Games in 1932, he will row in all the Canadian amateur and single sculling events.

REV. C. CAMERON GIVES LECTURE

Toronto Preacher Describes Trip Through Countries of Europe, at Campbellford.

BAPTIST ANNIVERSARY.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A good audience greeted the Rev. C. J. Cameron of Toronto on Monday evening when he delivered a splendid lecture in the basement of the Baptist Church, Campbellford, in connection with the anniversary services of that church.

The program comprised the lecture, which was divided into three sections, interspersed with musical numbers. Richard Weston was in the chair, and opened the program with the singing of a hymn.

The subject of Mr. Cameron's lecture was "A Trip Through Eleven Countries of Europe." This proved a very interesting theme, and the lecturer proved himself a past master in the art. Describing each country and the customs of the people, he brought before his audience the social, moral and family life of those lands across the sea.

The trip included the countries of Holland, Germany, France, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Belgium, Sweden, Norway, England, and several sea views taken on the voyage. These pictures were taken when Mr. Cameron conducted a party from Canada to the Baptist World Alliance held at Stockholm, Sweden, in 1924. During the course of his remarks he stated that it was an outstanding fact that Sweden leads the world in her educational system, in the application of electricity, and is also one of the cleanest countries in the world.

The musical portion of the program was as follows: Vocal solo, "Killarney," Mrs. Clifford Weston; two readings by Donald Lloyd; vocal solo, "Gentle Annie," Rev. L. M. Smith; vocal solo, "Bells of the Sea," Albert Gifford.

The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Soaring prices on corn became the centre of attraction yesterday for grain traders, corn showing a maximum rise of 4¾c over quotations current last week. With arrivals of corn in Chicago reduced to nearly the vanishing point, and with but slim apparent prospects of any increased movement of corn away from the farms, the corn market proved itself quickly responsive yesterday to cold weather likely to enlarge feeding demand. Iowa reports said corn for delivery as far off as next summer commanded 5c to 9c a bushel over the Chicago May delivery, whereas the usual rate was the Chicago price less freight.

Chicago closing quotations on corn were firm at the topmost level reached, 1⅞ to 2¾c higher than Monday's finish. Wheat closed ½c to 1½c up; oats at ¾c to 1½c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 50c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, December 3.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were: 922 cattle, 194 calves, 550 hogs, 660 sheep and lambs.

There were 2,600 cattle left over from Monday with the fresh arrivals at the market yesterday morning. Trade in all classes of killers continued slow with prices generally 25 cents a cwt. lower for the week. Very few butcher cattle sold up to eleven o'clock with steers and heifers making an extreme range of $4 to $7.50 a cwt. Butcher cows brought $3.50 to $5.25 a cwt., with canners selling at $1.75 a cwt. Good bulls sold steady up to $5.00. Store cattle are fairly active with sales at $5.00 to $6.25 a cwt.

Calves were a light offering, with prices unchanged at $12.00 to $13.00 a cwt. for choice. Grassers are selling at $4.00 to $6.00 a cwt. The lamb supply also is very light with good ewes and wethers selling steady at $8.75 a cwt. Culls and buck lambs are selling at $6.75 to $7.00 a cwt., with culls downward to $2.00.

The hog market is still unsettled, with bids on bacon f.o.b. $8.50 to .75. Dealing is a shade stronger than Monday.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 3. — Winnipeg grain values, following a good class of moderate buying, were on the upgrade once more yesterday, wheat recording substantial advances. At the top wheat values were about 2 cents a bushel above Monday's close, and the finish yesterday was just fractionally down from the high levels.

Export business was on the light side, but there was a good class of buying which pointed to increased confidence in wheat at present price levels. The session, as a whole, was not active, but the advance was steady on a fair volume of trade. Strength at Liverpool was another factor in the upturn here.

Cash wheat and coarse grains continued in indifferent demand, though quotations followed the wheat futures to higher ground.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM REEDS

OMEMEE, Dec. 3—(Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Eliza Morrow, relic of the late William Reeds was held on Friday, November 28, to Riverside Cemetery, services being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Weir, Omemee, and Canon Marsh, of Lindsay.

The deceased lady was born in Victoria County 74 years ago and was in good health until a week before her death. She was a highly respected citizen.

Mrs. Reeds has been a member of Christ's Anglican church, Omemee, since living with her son, previously attending service at Reaboro for some forty years. She was also a member of the Women's Auxiliary.

Surviving her is a family of ten, Mrs. Whiteworth, Toronto; Mrs. Hutchison, Dunsford; Mrs. McKay, Reaboro; Thomas, Fenelon Falls; George, Walter and Charlie of Ops; Earl of Lindsay; Howard of Cannington and Reuben at home.

WILLIAM KNOX

MARMORA, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late William Knox took place on Monday afternoon, a large number of residents turning out to pay their last respects to one so favourably known to them in life. With the exception of his sons, George and John, all the children were present. The service at the limited church was taken by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard and his comforting words to the bereaved were based on Luke 16.29, words occurring in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. The hymns sung were the same as sung a little over two months ago at the funeral of the late Mrs. Knox, wife of the deceased.

They were "Safe in the arms of Jesus," "Jesus Lover of my Soul," and "In the sweet bye and bye." Beautiful wreaths were sent by members of the family and friends. The pallbearers were W. A. Sanderson, R. E. Bonter, H. W. Sabine, G. B. Airhart, D. Shannon and D. E. Bell. Interment was made in the family plot in Marmora Public Cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET ARCHER.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Archer of Toronto was held at Burnbrae Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, with the Rev. Donald A. McKenzie officiating. The pallbearers were: J. A. Irwin, G. A. Kingston, Sanders Burleigh, William Anderson, J. Belshaw, and A. E. Caddy.

Mrs. Archer, who died in Toronto on Sunday in her 63rd year, was formerly a resident of Campbellford, leaving this town about six years ago to take up residence with her family in Toronto. Before her marriage she was a Miss Watters. By faith a Presbyterian, she comes of old Ontario stock, her family being old time settlers in this part of the country.

She is survived by her husband, David Archer, who is at present sick in Toronto, four sons, Ralph of Pembroke, Cecil and Jack of Toronto, and Patrick of Manitoba,; two daughters, Mrs. McWilliams of Toronto and Madge at home, and one sister, Mrs. Denmark of Peterborough.

MRS. WILLIAM F. CROWE

WARSAW, Dec. 3. (Examiner Correspondence).—One of the largest funerals in the history of Warsaw was held for Milly Crowe, wife of William F. Crowe who died on Friday evening at her home, after an illness of about eighteen months. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson conducted the services at the house and at Lakefield cemetery where interment took place. Mrs. George Taylor and Mr. Rufus Payne sang a duet, "A Beautiful Land", at the house.

Mrs. Crowe, whose maiden was Milly Watley, leaves her husband, W. F. Crowe, a daughter, Mrs. Donaldson of Peterborough, a son, Melville, at home, and Melville's three children, whom she mothered after their own mother's death, as well as two sisters, Mrs. Frank Harding and Mrs. Pearson, and two brothers, Sidney Watley and Ed. Watley.

The bearers were: Messers Charles Bowers, Joseph Crowe, William Lane, William Gray, Everett Dunford and William Pearson.

Ten British aircraft manufacturers sent exhibits to this season's Paris automobile show.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following; Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids the Canadian Acousticon Ltd., Dept. 4-56, 45 Richmond St. West, Toronto, Ont., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any one person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1930

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

There is something to think about in the fact that daylight saving by-laws received a decided set-back in the municipalities in which this proposition was submitted to the electors on Monday.

Only three centres, Georgetown, Brantford and Niagara Falls, out of the eight in which a vote was taken piled up a majority in favor of the summer-time plan, Carleton Place, Paris, Parry Sound, Cornwall, Barrie and Kitchener voting thumbs down on daylight saving.

It would be interesting to learn the reason for this change of front.

The most likely explanation is that the people of many Ontario centres have grown tired of the haphazard system that has developed in recent years, which finds daylight saving adopted for varying periods by some municipalities, while other cities and towns and most of rural Ontario continue to regulate their activities in accordance with standard time.

Generally followed, daylight saving offers several advantages that makes its adoption desirable even in the face of obvious disadvantages.

But when a checkerboard plan is followed and an Ontario man away from his home community is never sure of the actual time, it is not difficult to understand that a formidable amount of opposition to summer time has developed, as the adverse vote registered in five towns on Monday indicated.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR CANADA.

The announcement that the Campbell Company, the world's largest manufacturers of canned soups, has decided to locate a plant in Canada is of particular interest to the people of the New Toronto district where the factory is to be located, but is also good news for Canadians generally.

The company, which announces that Canadian products will be used in the manufacture of its soups, will be a heavy buyer of poultry, meats and all kinds of vegetables, offering an important market for Canadians who produce those things.

At the same time the huge new industry will be a worth-while customer for Canadian manufacturers of tin cans, fibre containers and other packing material, and provide new business for Canadian railways.

The products of this company have had a heavy sale in this country, despite the fact, as Premier Ferguson pointed out in a vigorous speech at the Canadian National Exhibition, that the ingredients used were all grown in the United States, and that the purchase of these foreign-made soups meant the loss of a market for the products of Canadian farmers.

The situation, of course, will be completely reversed with the opening of a Canadian branch, for Canadian vegetables, meat and poultry will be used exclusively in the Canadian factory, and, as has been pointed out, will afford a new market of considerable importance for those products.

Incidentally, the decision to build a new plant at this time shows that the company is satisfied that the present depression will speedily pass and that Canada offers splendid possibilities as a market.

THE COUNCIL'S TRIBUTE.

The unusual tribute of a formal resolution of thanks and appreciation from the City Council to His Worship Mayor Denne for his untiring services during the present year echoes the general opinion as to the value of the work done by the city's chief magistrate.

The resolution stresses the help given by His Worship to the various committee chairmen in the carrying out of their duties, and the "expeditious, courteous and business-like manner" in which he has conducted the meetings of the Council.

Such an unanimous endorsation from his colleagues around the Council table must be gratifying to Mayor Denne; a tribute like this from the men most closely associated with him and thereby in the best position to correctly estimate the service he has given will undoubtedly be doubly appreciated.

The Examiner is sure the majority of Peterborough's citizens will feel that the City Council in honoring the mayor in this way has done simple justice to one who has never spared himself, who has never hesitated to sacrifice his own time and his own business when there were civic duties to be performed.

Most people realize that the city has no more enthusiastic booster than the man who has been its mayor for the last three years.

They know that Mayor Denne regards Peterborough as the finest place in Canada in which to live, that he never loses an opportunity to impress that fact upon every visitor and upon all whom he meets while away, and that he never ceases to work to improve conditions in the city of which he is so proud.

He has been a great mayor, because he feels that the place in which he was born and has always lived is worthy of every last ounce of energy he can devote to its betterment.

GARBAGE COLLECTION CONTRACTS.

Without any desire whatever to reflect upon the ability of the successful tenderers for the garbage collection contract to give entirely satisfactory service, The Examiner feels it necessary to suggest to the City Council that in allowing a saving of a few hundred dollars to persuade it to make a change the Council is following a principle of doubtful wisdom.

The garbage collection service in this city, it is generally agreed, has been very efficiently and thoroughly done; there have been few complaints, the routes have been systematically and regularly covered, and The Examiner is inclined to believe from information from other cities that the service in Peterborough has been above the usual standard.

In spite of that fact, however, the Council has seen fit to pass over the tender of the contractor who has given such thorough satisfaction and to award the contract elsewhere, because the successful tender was slightly lower.

The danger in such a course is obvious.

If efficiency of service is not to be an important factor in the awarding of contracts, and if contractors for such work as garbage collection get the impression that no matter how well they do the work this year and despite the money they have invested in a plant they may find themselves ousted at the end of the year by somebody who is willing to do the work a little cheaper, they may sooner or later arrive at the conclusion that if they are only on the job for a year it doesn't matter a great deal what kind of service they give.

Ald. Tuggey was on the right track when he suggested that the garbage collection contract should run for a term of three years, affording contractors a guarantee that the money invested in plant would not be thrown away.

MEIGHEN IS MISSED.

The Ottawa Journal, in commenting recently on a speech made by Right Honorable Arthur Meighen in Washington, has this to say:

"The Journal has not always seen eye to eye with Mr. Meighen. But the Journal has ever been among those—and their number to-day must be greater than ever—who have recognized in Mr. Meighen a talent of lamentable rarity, one who gave and would give Canada rich service, one whose absence from our public life is our public life's great loss."

This remark of the Journal concerning Mr. Meighen's ability will find an echo in the minds of all fair thinking men in Canada, whether they agree with that gentleman's policies and ideas, or not.

Arthur Meighen possesses one of the keenest analytical minds that Canada has yet produced, and, though others may be more ornate in parliamentary style, none is able to crowd more concrete facts into a sentence than is Mr. Meighen. It has been thought at times that the pungency of his arguments was dilated a bit by the use of too many superlatives. Either in good humor or in acidy temper, Mr. Meighen could seldom refrain when in Parliament from slipping in a jibe or two at the enemy. It is true that his work on behalf of the nation has had poor recompense, and it might almost be said that the greater the sacrifice men make in the public interest, the less appreciation their labors receive. The public is fickle and one catchy phrase has been known to change the entire policy of a country, and that not to the benefit of the country.

Mr. Meighen, though not in Parliament to-day, still wields no small influence, and one has only to go to London or Washington to ascertain the truth of this statement. Arthur cannot be said to be a diplomat, but his "Yea" is "Yea" and his "Nay" is "Nay," with a real punch, and in business that characteristic seems to be getting him somewhere.

His parliamentary associates were not always infatuated with Mr. Meighen, but the truth is, he was always so far ahead of most of them that undoubtedly he felt it a great loss of time if he had to wait for them to catch up. He thinks like a Gatling gun and strikes like a trip-hammer, which accounts for the fact that he as leader worked almost alone. The slow thinker and indecisive actor could not appreciate Mr. Meighen because he was operating under a sphere away from the former's ken.

He went down to Washington the other day, and made a few cogent observations about peace prospects and the attitude of the United States towards this world ideal. At one point in his address he said:

"The one supremely important task before our world to-day is to bring about an organization against war . . . and such an organization cannot be brought about without the United States. . . . I despair of finding a substitute for armaments except in a universal association of nations."

Undoubtedly Mr. Meighen had in his mind the lamentable attitude assumed by the United States in regard to the settlement of peace problems. He put the case very bluntly in saying that there could be no permanent peace achieved without the permanent co-operation of the United States. The Recorder and Times has made this statement on several occasions but Mr. Meighen perhaps put it more succinctly. Uncle Sam has said he would not join the League of Nations, and up to date that is the only reason given, and it is a political one.

The Republican party has said that nation will not become a member of the League of Nations, and although skirting the problem involved and doing everything but joining the League, the United States holds out. It has representatives on committees at the League of Nations on the International Court of Justice, sponsored by the League, and, in fact, it is to-day doing almost the same thing as the members of the League. But yet it has not signed the Covenant.

Mr. Meighen put it very pointedly, yet notwithstanding all the disarmament conferences, the naval reduction agreements, etc., etc., the world can never be assured of peace until the United States takes the other nations by the hand, as brothers joined together, in the purpose of destroying the demon war. Playing at it, or making believe, will not stand the test, if testing time comes.

Mr. Meighen is right, and further than that, the Recorder and Times believes that Washington thinks the sentiment expressed by him is genuine.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It looks as if this Bennett-Thomas feud might yet have to be referred to the League of Nations.

Your Christmas presents should mean jobs for Canadians. Insist upon Canadian-made articles when buying your gifts.

Canada wheat-growers took the first thirty places in the hard red spring class at the International Live-stock Exposition at Chicago, and may as well win the wheat championship for 1930.

Premier Ferguson will miss gatherings such as that held in Toronto yesterday when he takes over his new job in London.

Make your Christmas gifts provide jobs for Canadians by buying Canadian products.

So many nice things are being said about Mr. Ferguson that he may decide to stay in Ontario after all.

Thessalon is another municipality that is avoiding the expense of civic elections this year. Mayor Shaw has been elected by acclamation for the fifth time.

The Russian Soviet claims that production during the second twelve months of the five-year program exceeded the estimates. The Labor Government in Great Britain, however, should be given some share of the credit.

THE SILVER HAWK

By WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

In the cabin he and Aurore tiptoed into her room where Dorn lay sleeping on her bunk. She had managed to take off his coat and loosen his shirt at the throat. His body was relaxed; he was sunk into the dreamless oblivion of a man who had driven himself beyond the limit of mortal endurance.

Kansas bent over the bunk and examined him. All the "wounds" he could discover were some long, ugly scratches from briar and devil's-club; and the "terrible burns" of Aurore's anxiety were a few square inches of blisters on Dorn's hands and neck. Remembering how Dorn had walked through the fire of that mesa, Kansas whispered: "We've got to be thankful he wasn't burned todeath or disfigured for life. His heavy flying togs, they're all that saved him."

When Aurore had gone out, Kansas softly drew up a chair and sat there beside the bunk. His eyes were misty at the sudden realization that these were his last moments alone with Jim Dorn, and that their partnership was at an end. But that was the truth; somebody infinitely closer than any partner had come into Dorn's life, and henceforth the old relationship must needs be a poor second-best. Already Aurore was speaking not of "Jim and I" but of "We"—that indissoluble we already.

With a jest to cover up the bitter ache, Kansas thought: "We 'vestuck together for six years, Jim, like a double-barrelled shotgun, and we split our dollars when we didn't have any, and we were going to call our air line the 'Dorn P Eby Pacific Airways,' and we've stood leg-to-leg and licked everything from war aces to hospital bills; but now it's finibetween you and me, Jim. I'll go a hell of a ways before I meet your like again, but I've got to go. Two is company, and if I'd hand around I'd be the crowd. I'll help you and Aurore get clear of this ugly fix you're in; then I'll go over to Ontario and take that job you were going to take."

He knew that Aurore was not thinking of the situation she and Dorn were confronted with, and had no idea how ugly it was. At the very least, if Dorn was cleared of any guilt in the death of Carter-Snowdon and the detective, he and Aurore would be dragged into pitiless publicity. This was the kind of thing which newspapers would run screaming headlines about. Kansas reasoned: "This trouble—the notoriety—they'll dread going out and facing it. They'll never be able to shake it off. Twenty years from now people will still whisper about them and point when they walk by. And all that is providing Jim hasn't got a double murder charge hanging over his head!"

He wondered whether he might not some way cover the whole affair up. If he could, it would be his wedding present to Jim and Aurore—a present not to be held in the hand and admired but something far more precious, which no one in the world except himself could give them and which they would treasure as a priceless gift. In those moments when he sat beside Dorn, he reflected: "Aurore's marriage was secret. That'll help. I'll take Harry Quillan Out this morning I'll tell him that if he ever opens his mouth—one little peep out of him—I'll break his cowardly neck. I'll take Ace McGregory and the gunner Out; they're pretty good chaps; they'll probably agree to keep quiet."

So Kansas reasoned and decided. But he did not take into account the prominence of Henry Carter-Snowdon and the hunt that would spring up for him and the inevitable discovery of his feud with Dorn and the manner of his death. And Kansas did not stop to think that by trying to cover up this whole trouble he would make Dorn appear dead-guilty in the eyes of the law, and would be heaping damnation upon his partner's head.

Practical little soul, with tired and hungry men to care for, Aurore had breakfast ready in five minutes. Old Luke took his trout and bacon and bread on a piece of birchbark, and stalked away to a corner of the cabin. Stern old misogynist, hide-bound in the traditions of his vanished tribe—he was willing to save the young squaw-siche of his friend, and would suffer himself to carry her in his arms and even to reverence her in secret; but to sit at table and break bread with a squaw was too, too gross a violation of his ancestral code. So he crouched in the corner, silent, his glittering eyes a-sparkle; and at his food in self-respecting aloofness.

Across the breakfast table Aurore and Kansas talked in low tones, and she told him of Dorn's coming out of the woods to her and of that perilous canoe trip with him over to the island.

Aurore said: "Kansas, his—his trouble isn't anything physical. Don't you think an air journey out to a city would be the worst thing in the world for him now? Son't you think he ought to stay here?"

She might have added, "with me," for that was what she meant. She was pleading with Kansas to say "Yes," and he did agree, knowing that Dorn needed utter rest and seclusion and someone with the understanding power to lead him gradually out of his bewilderment.

He arranged: "I'll fly over this lake to-morrow, and if he isn't bettr or if you need me, spread something white on the boulder where you and I talked that night, and I'll come down."

Aurore asked him quickly, breathlessly: "Kansas—what we talked about that night—my marriage—you told him. What did he say?"

"He didn't believe it."

"But he was forced to. And my—my motives, Kansas—you must have told him of them. What did he say then?"

Kansas saw that his answer was of terrible moment to Aurore, and that all her happiness hung upon his words. She was asking him: "Did Jim lose faith in me? Did he condemn me? Will he condemn me when he's his rational self again?"

Kansas was glad he could answer honestly. He said: "Jim defended you every step. He believed there was something left unsaid about your marriage." He added: "I couldn't force him to think one harsh thing of you, Aurore——"

He stopped. Aurore had looked down and bent her head so that he could not see the tears that blinded her eyes. Kansas made pretense of going to the stove and poking it and fetching fresh coffee. When Aurore looked up again after a little while, she told him:

"There was something left unsaid, Kansas. I want Jim to tell you. Your esteem is precious, too, Kansas; and when Jim tells you the whole truth, then you'll understand why I'm—I'm free to go to him——"

Kansas looked at her sharply. He believed he knew what she meant, but he was not sure. After what he had just told Aurore, he felt he had the privilege of askinga blunt question; and he asked it. He said: "When I told Jim you were Carter-Snowdon's wife . . you know and I know what hurt the worst with him then. Do you mean that it isn't true?"

Aurore met his eyes and she answered him frankly: "It isn't true."

During the rest of that breakfast talk, Kansas kept beating down, as a thing unworthy, his antagonism toward Aurore; and in the face of her girlish comradeship he was able to conquer it. He said nothing to her about his intentions of going to Ontario, or the ugly situation she and Dorn were in; and he left all plans until he should come again and Dorn would be able to talk them over with him.

He could not help wondering what project or ambition Dorn would turn to and throw himself into if he esaped an y guilt of those two deaths. It would be tragedy, he thought, if Aurore McNain's money and her influence should tame his adventuring spirit and turn a man of his promise into a compacent, contented lotus-eater. But studying Aurore across the lilies and crimson anemones she had gathered on some perilous ledge at snow-line, Kansas believed she would prove no shackle to a man's ambition, but would work with Dorn and help him in whatsoever new adventure he bega.n

For Dorn's sake he was honestly glad. Dorn had led too lonely and austere and repressed an existence. He needed the gentle companionship and sunny influence of a girl like Aurore. She would warm him to happiness. In her nature she was better rounded-out than Dorn. She had in superlative degree just that cheerfulness and happy outlook which he sq sadly lacked. She was strong too of personality—strong enough to sway even Jim Dorn; and all the powers of human nature would be working with h er besides.

CHAPTER XXXVII
THE SIGN IN THE SKY

With confused emotions of happiness and troubled fears, Aurore was awaiting the visit of Kansas Eby, this sunset, a week after the tragedy of the mesa. Yesterday Kansas had dropped a note to her and Dorn, stating he would come to-day and wanted to talk with them; and Aurore guessed a part of what Kansas was going to say, and she dreaded his visit as a painful ordeal.

She and Dorn were sitting together there on the moss at the lower end of the island where they had full view of the south pass. Aurore sat with chin cupped in her hand; bare-headed, her jacket open at the throat, her dreamy eyelashes half closed. Aurore was very much aware that Dorn was steadfastly looking at her and had been for many long minutes of reverie; but with her mind on this ordeal, she would not glance at him. Even when he bent nearer and re-tied her boot-lace, which had snagged loose, she did not stir, but kept gazing up, her face upturned, at the south eastern sky where the Silver Hawk would appear and at the once-blackened mesa which was putting out its green again.

The breeze from the snowfields was dying away for the evening; the tops of the great pines were still gently a-rustle, but only an occasional puff of wind pulled the mirrory surface of the Lake of the Dawn. Somewhere in the padded silence of the island a cub fox was plaguing a porcupine with shrill kee-yee-yee's; and Aurore knew it was the little mischief which Dorn had seen that first morning when he approached the cabin. Just in front of her among the marshreeds a mother harlequin duck was teaching her argosy of little snowballs how to tipple and feed. In all the nests of the mossy wildwood the eggs had split open; and pink, gaping mouths were all that Dorn and she could see when they made their rounds each day. The mating moon had passed, with its courtship and battle for mates and feverish home-building; the responsibilities of parenthood had sobered the songsters now; but still in the dewy morning and the brooding quiet of evening, from thicket and hidden nook came the trilling of rare warblers and the lilting cadence of the vireos.

SHAM CHARGES MADE

Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the statement that appeared in The Examiner last Friday, November 28, in the report of the County Council meeting of the woman from Douro who was sent to the Council to state her case of having been refused admission to the House of Refuge.

Mr. Clarke and Mr. Coons, reeves of Galway and Smith, state that they investigated the case. But they relied on what the matron and superintendent said. They discharged me twice on sham discharges without seeing anything proved against me. They also influenced the House of Providence and kept me out of there last year.

I want to state also that in my time there I never had a word of dispute with the matron or superintendent nor any of the inmates, yet they claim I was ugly. I would like to know in what manner? I was sent by legal advice twice to the board to state my complaints and they refused to listen, ruling me out.

If these people could give a real reason to discharge me from the institution, I could not have proved to the County Council what was proved.

The Woman.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGGITARIUS."

If December 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. and from 10:30 p.m. to 11:45 p.m. The danger period is from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

In spiritual and mental things, this date will be eventful; in material matters, almost wholly eventless. An experience will bring real self-knowledge, and will act as an eye-opener. Exceptionally good time for serious study. If possible, avoid travel.

Children born on this December 3rd will have thoughtful, retiring natures, and modesty will be one of their virtues. They will evince little interest in sports, but will be keen about their studies. They will be affectionate, but not demonstrative.

You have an intensely observant nature, and little of genuine interest escapes your eye. You take an amused although not an unsympathetic interest in people. You mentally caricature them. You are able to strip men and women of their silly sham veneer, and to see them "in the rough." Your microscopical inspections are many times quite disconcerting and embarrassing to your victims.

The one word, thorough, describes the type and manner of your mind; no detail, large or small, is slighted. Your efficiency almost makes you a crank, and it is difficult for you to feel sufficient confidence in others to completely hand over any of your burdens, without some retaining strings.

You have many absorbing interests besides your outstanding duties, and you ride your hobbies hard. There is a little bit of the reformer, a little bit of the preacher, in you, and you are not afraid to exert your efforts, for what you consider a person's or community's good. You have very strong convictions and you have the courage to uphold them. It would be well if your tongue were a little freer from sarcasm, for you say things which hurt and rankle. You are not by instinct a bachelor or a bachelor-girl: you need a home, a mate and children for your complete happiness.

C.N.R CANCELS SOVIET PULP RATE

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. (C.P.)—Notice has been received by the Board of Railway Commissioners of the cancellation by the Canadian National Railways of the "preferential rate" on Russian pulpwood from Sorel and Three Rivers, Que., to northern New York State points. This preferential rate was a special ex-water tariff published by the railway when imports of Soviet pulpwood began some time ago.

MEMBERS OF PRINTERS' UNION APPRECIATE ACTION OF MAYOR

Carol Shows His Hand

A red-headed woman, Mme. Lupescu, is again causing trouble. It has been reported that the Titian-haired beauty, for whom Carol II of Roumania renounced his original rights to the throne, has been installed as chatelaine of his palace at Bucharest, to the horror of his subjects and the humiliation of the royal family.

One of Outstanding Unions in City Writes Letter of Appreciation.

KEEP PRINTING AT HOME

Mayor Denne has received from the Peterborough branch of the Typographical Union the following letter which no doubt is especially grateful to him because it is a warm appreciation from one of the outstanding Unions in the city:—

523 Romaine Street,
Peterborough, Ont.,
December 1st, 1930.

R. Denne, Esq.,
Water Street,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—At the regular monthly meeting of International Typographical Union, Local No. 248, held Saturday, November 29th, I was instructed to write you voicing the appreciation of the members for your interest and endeavors to improve the status of the printers of this city.

We surely do appreciate the efforts put forth by yourself to bring to the notice of the merchants, and other purchasers of printing in Peterborough, the fact that there are printers out of work, and others working only part time, while lots of printing is being executed out of the City.

The annual payroll of the Printing establishments is in excess of $150,000 per year, practically the whole of which sum is being spent in Peterborough.

Could we only get the merchants and other purchasers of printing in Peterborough to realize, as you have Sir, that by buying their printing here in their own city they would benefit to a far larger extent than by merely saving a few cents on an order of printing placed outside.

Again thanking you for your efforts put forth in our behalf, I remain,

Yours truly,
M. DUNKLEY.

Springbrook S. S. Is Entertained In Hall

SPRINGBROOK, Dec 3—Members of the Springbrook Sunday school were entertained in the Gospel Hall on Thursday evening, when there was a splendid attendance, including visitors from Peterborough and Belleville.

After a hearty supper, a program was given, in which every child took part, the program being made up of recitations, songs, etc. Fred Peer, of Belleville, addressed the gathering after which the prizes for the year were presented. This entertainment brought to a close the Sunday school for this year.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

Having checked accounts for November, brokers now state the market has been well located for some time, that accounts are in good shape and forced selling a factor which can be entirely disregarded for the time being. There is nothing to stimulate buying and markets are thus likely to continue dull and doggy for some time into the future. Names of clients on brokers books have undergone a great change, even this year. The nimble trader is inactive, either because he has been wiped out, or because he finds conditions unfavorable to scalping profits from a quick turnover. His place has been taken by the purchaser who thinks in terms of years rather than days. This second type of purchaser, who belongs to the "investment" class, is picking up his stocks in five and ten share lots, selecting carefully, spreading his risk over a number of securities, and, he is buying outright. He asks no margin, buys within his means and is therefore better protected. Brokers dependent upon such business are not likely to acquire sudden wealth, nor to pay huge Christmas bonuses to the staff, but they have the satisfaction of knowing the market is being placed on a surer foundation. The number of persons who buying stocks in small lots outright, is astonishing. One local house reported more clients on the books the month of October than for many months past

Borden Dividend.

Canadian shareholders of the Borden Company received a pleasant surprise to-day in the declaration of a three per cent stock dividend by the Borden Company. Shareholders of the City Dairy Company who exchanged their shares for those of the Borden Company are particularly fortunate in that they receive on December 31, a cash dividend for the quarter of 75 cents a share and shortly after the first of the year will receive the 3 per cent stock dividend, which at the market has a cash equivalent of approximately $2. Thus the loss of two months dividend on City Dairy due to the exchange will be more than made up in very quick time. It is interesting to note that when President S. J. Moore wrote City Dairy stockholders advising them to accept the offer made by Borden, he pointed out the later company had paid a cash dividend of $3 a share in 1929 and had declared an inaugural stock dividend of 3 per cent in that year. Mr. Moore then quoted from the financial statement of the Borden Company as follows: "It seems probable that in such years as earnings and conditions warrant further extra dividends will be declared at such rates and in such forms as then seems justified." In 1929 earnings per share amounted to $5.80 and judging from the declaration of the stock dividend profit for 1930 will be maintained close to the level of the previous year.

Since the acquisition of the City Dairy Company, the number of Borden Company stockholders resident in the Dominion is officially estimated at over 2,400 holding above 300,000 shares, having a market value in excess of $22,000,000, on this basis the proportions of the stock dividend to accrue to Canadian wills have a market value of between $600,000 and $700,000. Operations of the Borden Company are carried on extensively in the Dominion with the total value of the company's assets in the Dominion estimated at $16,000,000 seldom has the fundamentally sound position of Canada been more apparent that during the present period of disturbed conditions, say Wood, Gundy and Company.

On Satisfactory Basis.

Notwithstanding the world-wide depression, business in Canada has been maintained on a reasonable satisfactory basis and the ability of large Canadian industries to continue to operate successfully has been widely commented upon. "One result is that the eyes of many investors abroad are turned toward Canada and there is every evidence that ample capital will continue to be available for further construction development of natural resources," state Wood, Gundy and Company in pointing to these conditions as having demonstrated the wisdom of buying Canadian securities.

Market followers, especially traders who purchase for a reasonable quick turnover are somewhat superstitious fraternity and are given to looking for both favorable signs and portents and to playing hunches. Here's one that may provoke a hunch: in the latter part of October a man walked into a brokers office and looked over the board. For a moment the broker didn't recognize a former client so long as it since he had visited the office. The client told his broker to prepare a list of stocks for investment purposes and he would call back in a day or so. When he returned he stated that he had been out of the market for seven years and now thought it was an opportune time to purchase. Accordingly he made heavy committments, spreading his risk over a diversified range of securities—and buying them outright.

The purchases were made on October 22 and on that day the financial news bureau index for Toronto Exchange stocks went down to 64; the lowest on record. Since then it has not again touched that figure, hovering at 67 most of the time the question naturally arises —did this client, after an absence of seven years, return to the market and purchase at the lowest level obtainable, if so, what of your hunches for the future trend

BANK DEBITS FOR DOMINION DECLINE ON WHOLE FOR MONTH

Greatest Decline Experienced in British Columbia With 20 Per Cent. Drop.

FOR OCTOBER.

TORONTO, Dec 2. (Special to Examiner.)—While financial transfers in the form of bank debits, after seasonal adjustment were less during October in Canada as a whole than in the preceding month, important gains were shown in Quebec and the maritime provinces.

The greatest relative decline was experienced in British Columbia, where the drop was nearly 20 per cent. The decreases in Quebec, Ontario and the Prairie provinces ranged between 18 per cent and 19 per cent, while the maritime provinces showed a decline of only 11.5 er cent.

pBank debits in the clearing centres of Canada showed general declines from the high levels of October, 1929. The total of $3,681, 000,000 in October, compared with $4,713,000,000 in the same month of last year, a decline of 23.3 per cent. Wholesale prices in Canada declined 15.9 per cent in the same period.

Each of the thirteen centres of Ontaro showed a decline in October, the aggregate for the province being down 17.0 per cent. The debits of Toronto were $976,000,000. A decline of 19 per cent the ratio of bank debits to bank deposits in October, was 173.5 per cent compared with a turnover of 211.6 per cent in the same month of 1929. In the twelve month interval the sum of the notice and demand deposits of the chartered banks declined 6.4 per cent while the decrease in bank debits was 23.3 per cent in making this comparison there are taken into consideration bank deposits as of the end of September and bank debits during October.

NICKEL DROPS ONE-HALF POINT

Only Important Inter-listed Issue to Retreat—Balance of List Steady.

OIL SECTION FIRMER.

TORONTO, Dec. 3. (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange market underwent no appreciable change in the morning session to-day. Wall Street turned down ward at the opening and wheat prices in both Winnipeg and Chicago were off but locally the effect was negligible. Nickel was the only important interlisted issue to retreat from where it had left off last night and in the case of nickel the loss was less than ½ point.

The great majority of stocks such as Brazilian, Ford of Canada, C.P.R., Steel of Canada, Bell Telephone at midday were selling unchanged.

The oils were firmer but up only a minimum fraction. Supertest was inactive and McColl eased somewhat in the second hour.

Atlantic Sugar continued its show of strength, rising a point to 16 to-day. Goodyear Tire common added 2 points to yesterday's gain, selling at 99 this morning. Canada Malting was up a couple of points to 15 on a limited turnover.

SUDBURY POLICE SEEK MERCHANT

Goods Reported to Have Been Stolen Found in Owner's Store.

GIVEN BANKRUPTCY ORDER.

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 3—Merchandise valued at between $3,000 and $4.000 which has been identified as belonging to Abraham Schnapp, Sudbury storekeeper, who claimed the goods had been stolen, were located by Special Investigator A. E. Moss and Provincial Constable Campeau of Sturgeon Falls, at St. Charles last week. On October 15, Schnapp, who had been in the ready-to-wear goods business here for about a year, reported to the police that goods amounting to approximately $4,000 had been stolen from his store. A final order in bankruptcy was given to Schnapp on November 12 and investigation showed his liabilities to be $11.000, while his assets amounted to only $3,000. An investigation followed and the goods located. They are now in the store in Sudbury and an inventory is being made. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Schnapp.

Hunting Tragedy Laid To Overheated Stove

LEE, Mass., Dec. 3.—Fragmentary remains of the four men who lost their lives in a fire that destroyed a hunting cabin at Larkum Pond, East Otis, early yesterday, have been claimed by relatives from Shelton and New Britain, Conn. Anything like positive identification was impossible and those who visited the undertaking rooms here, to which the remains were brought, had to content themselves with what identification could be made from a floor plan of the cabin that showed approximately the location in which the men were sleeping when the fire broke out.

Investigation by the State Police and Medical Examiner F. C Downing had led to no other conclusion than that the fire was caused by an overheated stove.

New Wheat King

After having been absent from competition since 1928, Herman Trelle, noted Canadian wheat grower, of Wembley, Alberta, now steps into the limelight at the Chicago International Live Stock Exposition with the title of 1930 Wheat King.

MINING TREND IS IRREGULAR

Reactionary Tendency Noticeable in Base Metal and Oil Groups.

LINDSLEYS INACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3. (CP)—While a few firm spots continued to mark the mining list, general price trend was irregular to-day with a somewhat reactionary tendency noticeable in the base metal and oil groups.

McIntyre recovered 15 to $17.75 and Teck Hughes and Dome firmed 5 each over last night's close. Howey and Kirkland Lake gold also showed minor advances, but balance of the golds were just holding.

International Nickel managed to retain yesterday's gain, selling almost unchanged from last night at noon, while Noranda turned easier, price dropping 35 to $17.75. Mining Corp. was down 5 to $1.55. Lindsleys were inactive.

Acme Gas, whose Oklahoma well will likely be brought in to-day, was up several cents at 35½ at midday. Chemical Research regained 13 to $3.35, East Crest 6 to 70 and Home Oil 4 to $2.05. Nordon remained soft, however, displaying a small recession at noon and Imperial was somewhat lower at $17.65.

Two Toronto Brokers Remanded For Week

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3. (CP)—A week's remand was granted Gerald F. Cronan and Aubrey W. Northup, President Vice-President, respectively of the defunct Insurance Investments Limited, when they appeared in Police Court to-day on charges of conspiracy to defraud. Bail was set at $25,000 each but at noon to-day was not arranged.

Cronan and Northup were arrested last night, following a meeting of creditors of the company. The warwants for their arrests alleged conspiracy involving $270,000. At the meeting Cronan admitted he had asked clients who had purchased insurance stocks from the company to exchange their holdings for shares of the National Liberty Insurance Company.

CLAIM INITIATION FATAL TO SON

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3.—Allegations that their son's death was hastened by the effects of initiation processes at the Victoria Park Collegiate, were made by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Boulton to-day. The parents claim the boy, Edward, 17-year-old freshman, was suffering from a weak heart and weak kidneys, but the initiation, which was comprised mainly of ducking, spanking and "blanketing" resulted in his death.

EMPLOY MORE CANADIANS

TORONTO, Ont. Dec. 3.—In an effort to employ more Canadians in city relief work, a committee of the Native Sons of Canada asked that the city employ at least 50 per cent Canadians. According to the report issued recently only 45.4 per cent of the people employed are Canadians and that this is only small in comparison with the fact that 80 per cent of the population is made up of Canadians.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Wheat was ¼ higher to ¼ lower during the first period yesterday morning with very little going on, but resistance was shown around closing levels of Monday night, and later when Chicago started to advance, Winnipeg followed with a more friendly feeling locally and with moderate buying by commission houses, Chicago and New York interests. Chicago May went to a premium of 17 cents over Winnipeg May, and this naturally brought in some buying here on spreads. Trade was not large, but offerings were light and it was not difficult to advance prices, which on the extreme bulge were about two cents higher and through the daily offers. Chicago advanced from 1½ cent to 1 cent, with the December month acting very tight. Expert rates over night were very small with seaboard estimating that at 250,000 bushels, naturally all Manitobas.

In the cash market there was a little demand for numbers 1 and 2 Northern from shippers to complete boat cargoes, and some odd lots traded at ½ better than Monday, while other spreads were unchanged. Offerings generally were tight. Just a little new flour business is passing, about sufficient to keep the mills running. Liverpool closed ½ to 1 penny higher, while Buenos Aires was ⅛ to ¼ lower at midday. Liverpool strength was credited to some light frosts in southern Argentine, with offerings abroad less pressing. Broomhall again estimated the Australian crop at least 215,000,000 bushels, giving a surplus at 168,000,000 bushels with shipments already started. There was nothing new in President Hoover's address to Congress beyond featuring the short corn crop in the U. S. and the low prices of wheat and cotton. Country marketings in Western Canada Monday were 1,004,000 bushels as compared with 460,000 a year ago.

Coarse grains: These markets were all firmer, especially oats. The strength in corn and other coarse grains in Chicago was chiefly responsible for the upturn here. There was very little selling pressure, but consumptive demand continued very ordinary, the cash markets being dull and featureless, only an odd car changing hands for Eastern Canada.

Liverpool due 1 3-8 higher based on Winnipeg.

LIST DECLINES IN LATE TRADING

Fairly General Declines of Point or More Follows Extensive Selling.

ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE.

(By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The stock market slowly retreated to-day as an ooze of molasses-like liquidation appeared in its path.

After a slight slump in the first hour, the list recovered until more extensive selling appeared in the early afternoon, causing fairly general declines of a point or two. Shares sagging a point or more included such issues as U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can., American Water Works, North American, Air Reduction, General Electric, Loews, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Bethlehem Steel, Anaconda and Kennecott. United Carbon, Case, Western Union, Allied Chemical, Oppenheim Collins, and Pere Marquette lost 2 to 3 and Atlantic Coast Line nearly 5.

Credit conditions held steady, with call money still at 2 per cent. There was little demand, and offerings were light. There has been some relaxation of the money market since Monday, however, when loan calling was extensive.

Ontario Waterpower All In Use In 15 Years

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3.—Within 15 years all the available water power in Ontario and Quebec will be in use, T. H. Hogg, electrical engineer told a meeting of electrical scientists last night. Dr. Hogg said more than 30,000 men are now employed in the construction electrical plants on Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie provinces.

Former Keene Pupil Wins Oratory Prize

William McLaughlin, former Keene pupil, 12, second son of Rev. A. McLaughlin, won the Haldimand Township Public Speaking Contest. He represented Grafton School and competes in the County Final at Castleton on December 4 against 28 contestants from 15 different schools. The prize is a silver cup.

LUMBERMAN IS KILLED

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 3—Fortunat Charset, 39, of St. Stanislas, Champlain County, Quebec, a bushman employed by the Eastern Lumber and Investment Company, at Camp 12, in the Ranger Lake area, north of the Sault, was killed when a dry limb from a tree he was falling struck him on the head. He lived but a few hours. Charest leaves a wife and nine children.

J. W. GRAVESTOCK FAVORS SHORTER FISHING SEASON

Preservation of Bass May Be Obtained Only By Later Opening Date.

GOVERNMENT GIVES AID.

Ontario Federation of Anglers Will Meet at Hamilton on December 8.

A telegram was received from P. Alexander, Toronto, by J. W. Gravestock, of the Canada Crayon Company, notifying him of a meeting in Hamilton on Monday, December 8, at 2 p.m., of the Ontario Federation of Anglers. Although Peterborough has been asked to send five delegates, Mr. Gravestock, C. Graham and A. Wells will possibly be the only ones able to attend. Hon. Mr. McCrae will give an address after the banquet. The Deputy Minister will be there for the first time to lend support and co-operation to the club.

The local club has had and is having an interesting time. The Government placed over 100,000 good trout in district streams, and interested men have learned much about hatcheries. Peterborough is therefore anxious to be represented at the coming meeting, both to thank the Government and to offer their help, and to thereby gain extra consideration in ensuing years.

Replying informally to a recent editorial asking the extension of the fishing season back to the original June 16, Mr. Gravestock gave much interesting information. He said that the numbers of bass had been decreasing greatly of late years, and the season should therefore be as short as possible. Again, bass are very easily caught in the middle of June for this reason: The father bass has a school of thousands of small ones about him; the parent at that time is very docile—if a stone is thrown at him he will go and swallow it, thus making it easy to catch him. But what will the young fish do? It is true that local hotels may lose tourist trade by the later opening of the season, but if the waters are all fished out, then there will be no trade.

The propagation of the bass species cannot be brought about in the manner in which it is in any other fish. In the latter case the eggs can be easily removed from the female by squeezing, and fertilized by the milk from the male. But this cannot be done with the bass, and so nature must be left to take her own course, and the fish given every protection.

Government Aid.

The Government invited the anglers of Toronto and surrounding districts to visit the fish hatcheries at Normanville. It was the first time that men had been able to gain details of the affair. "It is the desire of the local club," said Mr. Gravestock, "to let the others know what the Government has done for Peterborough." Photographs of the large fish placed in Clear Lake were highly appraised by the Government and will no doubt be appreciated by other clubs.

All counties, with the exception of Peterborough and one other, are allowed to fish from a boat before the open season. The two counties mentioned have not been allowed to do so in order to preserve what few bass there are left. Again there is no winter fishing here as in other places, where heated huts are rented, holes cut in the ice, and tackle loaned to the fisherman.

Another thing, too, is important. Fly fishing should be demanded instead of the plug casting, although the latter is much easier. In conclusion, Mr. Gravestock said that he would very much like to start fishing on the 1st of June, but that he and all others must realize that neither they, in their old age, nor their children, will be able to fish here if the decrease in the all-important bass continues.

SCOTTISH YOUTH GIVEN SIX YEARS

Gets Two Months For Assaulting Aged Lady—Six Years For Burglary.

DEPORTATION FOLLOWS.

HAMILTON, Dec. 3.—Robert Halliday found guilty of entering the home of Mrs. Alexander Thompson and assaulting her, was sentenced to six years in penitentiary by Magistrate Burbridge in police court this morning. Halliday will be deported to Scotland upon the expiration of his term.

Evidence given in court this morning established the fact that the prisoner was the burglar who entered the Thompson home and who was captured there by the police after a struggle. The Crown pointed out that the prisoner was one of a number of destitute men who had been arrested some weeks ago for sleeping in box cars. The Magistrate had inflicted a 50 cent fine, and in Halliday's case, had paid himself to give the youth liberty. On the charge of assault the accused received a two month term to run concurrently with the six years for burglary.

His defense was that he was too drunk to know what he was doing. The court refused to accept the plea and pointed out that all the prisoner's actions pointed to careful reasoning on this part.

Stock Market Ticker Briefs and Flashes

Biggar and Crawford Wire.

Principal industrials in Tuesday's session were checked in early dealing by selling and by news of a further reduction in average production of the steel industry as a whole. U. S. Steel, whose operations were unchanged last week, sold off a point to 146⅝, while Woolworth declined ½ to 66¾. Considerable pressure also was exerted against rails and utilities on failure of these groups to follow previous day's upswing in the industrials department. However, offerings found a good market, and recessions generally were not extensive.

There is little change in U.S. Steel operations. Steel ingot production during the week ended last Monday was down only one per cent. on the daily average although observance of Thanksgiving Da yin the mills resulted in the larger drop for the entire week. The average at the beginning of the current week was 39 per cent. against 40 per cent. in the preceding week and 43 per cent. two weeks ago.

Larger companies which are increasing rail mill operations to take care of early deliveries next year to the carriers showed little change in their rates. This is true of U.S. Steel, B.S., Inland, and others. Reduction in the current rate is due to the letdown among other independents which do not make rails. There was no change by U.S. Steel Corporation which continued at 45 per cent. as in preceding week, compared with 47½ per cent. two weeks ago.

Directors of the United Carbon Company meet shortly to discuss dividends, and there is some question as to the outcome. Initial dividend of 50 cents was paid on common January 1 last from 1929 earnings. In the following three quarters similar payments were made from 1930 earnings, bringing the total payments from earnings to 1.50 a share.

New York Daily Investment News: "Probably point or two strength after opening and thereafter reactionary turn and this reaction might extend about to lows of november seventeen and twenty-eight. There we would look for confirmation of bottom being made and buying points, believe trading should await signal of next two or three days."

HERMAN TRELLE

During his high school days in Edmonton he watched the settlers' ox-carts forming themselves into caravans for the long trek into the Peace River Country, but the thought of following after the vanguard never occurred to him. At the age of 17 he was the champion boy orator of Alberta. He gravitated naturally to the University in Edmonton where he enrolled in the civil engineering course.

While young Trelle was displaying studious habits at the University of Alberta the world war broke out. Along with his companions he offered to enlist, but his German name and ancestry made him the object of suspicion, and things became uncomfortable. His parents had already preceded him in the Peace River country and had filed on a homestead for him, the young Trelle being then under age. With his course at college still incomplete, he decided to go farming.

In addition to his own quarter section he broke and planted another, and his first crop was an enormous one. Later, however, he completed his engineering course, and by virtue of this heobtained a commission in the Royal Air Force. The war, however, ended before he had a chance to see service overseas.

Returned to Farm

Without money or position, he decided to return to the farm. He married and with his young wife from the western states Trelle set about to acquire all the agricultural knowledge available through the medium of agricultural bulletins and farming literature of all kinds. No small amount of his tuition he received from the Dominion Government Experimental Station, near his farm. He increased his holdings to 480 acres, developed an enthusiasm for quality grain and achievements began to come in due course.

Following his spectacular victories in Chicago in 1926, Trelle became a celebrated figure in the realm of agriculture. His grain was sought far and wide for seed purposes. In a material sense he became independent. Big colonization enterprizes in the United States made attractive offers for his services, but nothing could lure him from his Wembley farm. To numerous interviewers he modestly attributed his success to his wife.

His experimental work he continued with unabated enthusiasm. In addition to the grains, however, his particular pride was his orchard. Despite the natural barrie he proved that the Alberta hinterland can grow many fine hardy varieties of fruit. His orchard numbers 100 trees.

The faith and enthusiasm of Mr. Trelle is now shared by many thousands of farmers in the great Peace River area which is fast becoming one of the great producing areas in the Canadian west.

RUMOR FERGUSON SAILS TO LONDON ON JANUARY 15

Unlikely Premier Will Hand Over Reins For Some Little Time.

MUCH SPECULATION RIFE.

Henry Regarded as Probable Successor Though Many Favor Price.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3 (C.P.) — Two questions remain to be settled before Ontario Provincial politics return to their normal course, so recently disturbed by Premier G. Howard Ferguson's appointment as High Commissioner in London. One is how soon Mr. Ferguson is to resign and the other is who is to succeed him. Linked up with these is the question of a reorganization of the Cabinet.

It is now understood Mr. Ferguson will not leave for London until January 15. In the meantime he has plenty of time to clear his desk at the Parliament Buildings and hand in his resignation to Lieutentant-Governor Ross at his leisure. While rumor had it he would resign this week, it is unlikely he will hand over the reins of office for some little time.

When he does hand in his resignation the Premier will advise the Lieutenant-Governor on the choice of his successor and the new Premier will be summoned to Government House and sworn in the same day. The order of proceedings at the banquet of the Ontario Conservative Association last night lent support to the view that Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, would be the next Premier.

Ferguson Praised Henry

Mr. Henry was chosen to introduce Mr. Ferguson and spoke of his long association with the Premier and his services as "Chief Lieutenant." Mr. Ferguson, in turn, praised Mr. Henry's qualities and said because of their intimate associations he could not be accused of discrimination in selecting Mr. Henry for special mention among his Cabinet Ministers.

Although Mr. Henry's selection is regarded as probable there is a strong body of opinion in the Conservative party in favor of Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General. In the likely event of a party convention being called next Autumn to select a permanent leader, Mr. Price will probably be a strong contender.

As Mr. Ferguson now holds the Department of Education and Mr. Henry the Department of Highways, some re-alignment of the Cabinet will be necessary. The new Premier may continue as Minister of Highways and take a new man into the Government as Minister of Education. On the other hand he might decide the duties of Prime Minister are enough and take two new Ministers into the Cabinet.

SHIP WRECKAGE BARES TRAGEDY

Believe 10 of Crew on Pulp Carrier Linton Perished in Storm.

ONE BODY FOUND.

YARMOUTH, N.S., Dec. 3 (C.P.)—One body, attached to wreckage from the motorship Linton, drifting ashore at Yarmouth Cape, near here, to-day, is believed to indicate the loss with all hands of the 391-ton pulp carrier. The Linton sailed from this port for Selmah, Hants County, at midnight in the teeth of a northwest gale. The Linton, under command of Captain Percy Ritchie, of Lehave, N.S., engaged in the pulp carrying trade between Nova Scotia and New England, was owned by the Eastern Canada Coastal Steamships, Limited, and normally carried a crew of 10. She was built in England in 1921.

WEDDINGS

CORNELL—LOWE

OMEMEE, Dec. 3.—Trinity United Church, Omemee, was the scene of a quiet wedding this morning at 8.30, when Mary Alfreda, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Lowe, Omemee, was united in marriage to Evelyn Arnold Cornell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram E. Cornell, Omemee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard.

The bride looked lovely in a dainty frock of beige georgette, with lace trimming, hand-embroidered gold and black hat, beige scarf, kid gloves, and hose, and black satin slippers. She carried a bouquet of bronze baby 'mums

Attendants were Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Wansbrough of Lindsay.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cornell left on a trip to Niagara Falls, N.Y., and other points. The bride travelling in a rubytone satin-faced crepe dress, trimmed with egg-shell satin; black silk broadcloth coat, trimmed with wolf fur, and matching accessories.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a handsome travelling case with fittings. On their return they will reside at Maple Lodge Farm, west of Omemee.

MARMORA, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — With seven teams [illegible] Loveless team captained by H. O. Loveless was successful in the Prone Method Competition staged by the Deloro Safety Committee at Deloro Hall on Monday evening following the regular monthly meeting. A. Kennedy's team secured second place, while S. B. Cloverdale's team [illegible] The difficult task of judging was undertaken by Mr. W. H. [illegible] Personal Director of the Provincial Safety Commission. Referee in the marksmanship was Mr. R. O. Cousins of Marmora. Prizes of $20 and $15 were awarded the successful team.

The team, as shown in the photo, N. Kippen, captain; J. Shaw, G. Kinch, J. Robertson and C. Tandy. H. Simpson's team A. Nokle, G. Young, H. Smith, Jr., and S. Hajurka. F. Cox's team I. R. Rundle, J. Doyle, A. Reynolds and C. Holland. H. O. Loveless' team T. Cousins, W. Carpenter, H. Doyle and G. Empey. E. Hewitt's team F. Bradley, H. Price, H. Wright and P. Brawley. A. Kennedy's team R. Neal, W. Scott, M. McCoy and J. French. A. Mackenzie's team W. Foster, W. Foreman, C. McIntoy and C. Brady. C. Nicholson's team V. Lynch, H. O'Connor, H. Brady and J. Auger. S. B. Cloverdale's team C. Quinn, J. McCrossin, M. Corrigan and H. English. G. Brooks' team W. Meehan, G. McWilliams, D. Sanderson and L. Hillsman. J. Rice's team L. McIntoy, F. Leal, M. Emmorey and O. Trumble.

Mr. Milligan gave a very fine address in which he congratulated the Deloro Safety Committee on its excellent showing in respect to this work. He also demonstrated the most improved methods of resuscitation at the earlier meeting. R. A. Elliott, chairman, presided over a large attendance of members.

Five suggestions, four of which merited award, were reported as having been received during November. Floyd Gray, chairman of the Inspection Committee, gave a good report and was asked to carry out the inspection during the ensuing month. The flag was divided between the Generals and the Engineers, and the star was awarded the Engineers.

R. D. Murray told of having given prone method practices at the Oxide during the past month, and J. Judge was appointed to carry out similar practices at the boiler and machine shops during December.

C. H. Buskad gave a very satisfactory statement of the Benevolent Relief funds, while W. R. Reynolds for the Publicity Committee reported the change of the board to the Golden Stairs.

W. G. MORROW GIVES SCHOLARSHIP

standing about school janitors who are off duty through illness, the Board decided that in future when a man is sick the Board will be justified in demanding a medical certificate.

Mr. Dutton did not suggest malingering on the part of any of the janitors, but pointed out that in the past the Board had in some instances paid the wages of these men according to the merits of the case and the man's service. He thought that the Board should be entitled to the consideration he had outlined.

It was also decided on Mr. Dutton's suggestion, that another spare man be employed to assist the janitors. Such a man would be instructed in janitor duties and should the need arise could be called upon in emergencies of any kind.

Ventilation Problems

Referring to the question of ventilation trouble which is experienced at the Collegiate Institute, and which was discussed at a previous meeting of the Board, Mr. Dutton said he had been unable to get any action. He saw Mr. Thomas last Thursday and had told him of the conditions which obtained at the school. Last Friday evening on the occasion of the visit of the choir, stated the speaker, the temperature in the Auditorium was 66 degrees, in the basement it was 55 and in the tunnel 106. "A very wide variation!"

Mr. Dutton concluded that the best way was to have Mr. Thomas down here on the next occasion on which there is a concert; he will then be enabled to study the condition himself.

Mr. Dutton tendering a report of the Vocational Advisory Committee of which he is also chairman, recommended that J. Young, janitor of South Central School, be paid an additional salary of $15 per month during the time the motor mechanics night classes are carried on. The alterations recently made at South Central, the speaker said were very satisfactory. Eighty men were registered, 22 of whom are garage employees. The latter groups meet two nights each week. Two 2½ gallon extinguishers are to be placed in the school, in view of the extra fire hazard, and to provide further fire protection.

The question of the removal of the Aviation classes from the Vocational Institute to the South Central School, where there are two suitable rooms to be utilized without any further expense is to be considered. Such a step would tend to decrease the pressure on the Collegiate and Vocational School accommodation which is heavily taxed at present.

Christmas Holidays.

A request from Mr. Kenner that the Collegiate should close for the Christmas vacation on Friday, December 19, instead of on Monday, December 22, was granted.

Mr. Kenner contended that in view of the number of non-resident members and the fact that several of the other pupils are working during the holiday period, it seemed unnecessary that the school should be opened on the Monday of that week. The Board was in entire agreement. The principal stated that the Collegiate and Vocational commencement exercises will be held on Friday, December 12th.

Attendance for the past month at the Collegiate was 97 per cent, while in the Public schools the attendance was 95 per cent.

Dr. A. W. McPherson's monthly report shows a generally satisfactory state of affairs so far as the health of the school population of the city is concerned. There were no cases of an infectious nature reported.

At the conclusion of the Board meeting a hot nourishing drink was served to the members through the courtesy of Miss Olga Johnson, teacher of the Domestic Science Class, who was the recipient of the warm thanks of the chairman, Dr. J. J. Craig. His remarks also included Miss Johnsons assistants, the Misses Fontaine and McQuaig.

Rain Over Week-end Of Value To Farmers

BALLIEBORO, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—The gentle rain which fell on Saturday night and Sunday was valuable beyond estimation to the villagers and farmers of this district.

During the last three weeks there has been a real famine for water in the locality. Wells that haven't been known to go dry for the past twenty years have exhausted their supply. There was scarcely a cistern in the village that hadn't gone dry also.

Some of the villagers had to go five and six miles to procure drinking water and farmers were driving their stock long distances to water.

The cold weather of last week almost put the residents in a panic as they feared it was going to freeze up before the rain arrived. The recent rainfall, however, helped out wonderfully, even though there has not been sufficient to fill the wells, there has at least been plenty to fill the cisterns and thus tide the people over for a while.

The cold weather did not freeze the ground too hard for the rain to soak in and the major portion has been absorbed by the dry soil.

U. S. Gangsters More Dangerous Than Cannibal Tribes

William B. Seabrook, famous explorer, who for years has been trailing magic among wandering Bedouins, cannibals of unexplored West African Colonies and delving into strange voodoo rites, told a New York audience that the United States gangsters and racketeers are far more dangerous than cannibals and voodoo practitioners, and that he felt far safer in darkest Africa than he does now back in the "sheltering arms" of civilization.

AS A WOMAN THINKETH

MILLBROOK, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — An intriguing story of the amazing and beneficial results which followed the cultivation of the subconscious mind was presented by the play, "As A Woman Thinketh", given in the Town Hall, on Friday, November 28, by the Dramatic Club of Knox Church, Peterborough, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Saint Andrew's United Church, Millbrook.

Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., extended a hearty welcome to the visiting players, and their friends, as well as to the audience, at the outset of the entertainment, mentioning as a fact of peculiar interest that for the eleventh time the Knox Dramatic Club was presenting its popular, three-act drama, and has still one or more engagements to fulfill in the near future.

The play opens in the untidy sitting-room of the Weeden home on a Monday morning, when Mrs. Ida Jeanette Weeden (Mrs. A. Huffman), discouraged by the fault-finding and bad temper of her husband, Chas. Weeden (Bill Wedlock), has her troubles multiplied as she learns through the untimely call of her pastor, Rev. Mr. Dunning (Gord Morrison), and his wife (Pearl Finnie), that her daughter, Beth (Gladys Chalmers), is running round with Charles Whitney (Don Gillespie), familiarly known as "Chip", a bar-tender in the town, for whom she has cast aside her old playmate, Jack Philley (Earl Huffman); that her son, Will (Tom Wallace), is smoking and keeping bad company; while a chance visit from her married daughter, Olive Mead (Miss B. Morrison), shows that the latter grows more and more extravagant, and her husband, Caleb Mead (Alex Wedlock) is lazy and careless, lacking a wife who takes any interest in her home, or gives him encouragement in habits of industry.

However, the scene changes after a call from Mrs. Weeden's friends, Mrs. Gertrude Parker (Lillian Campbell), who brings with her Professor Baba Majarajah (John Donaldson) a Hindu who expounds the psychology of the subconscious mind, persuades Mrs. Weeden to try its influence on her family, for whom Rev. Mr. Dunning has told her she was absolutely responsible, keeping ever before her the promise, "According to your faith be it unto you."

High lights in the play include Mrs. Weeden's repetition of her favorite phrase, "Love save my soul," a saying to which Beth eventually gives real meaning as she is debating the rival claims of "Chip" and Jack to her affections; Mrs. Dunning's ridiculous habit of echoing all her husband's questions and statements as though a mind of her own was completely lacking; Dinah's shamefaced entrance with her apron up in front and filled with brooches, tie-pins, silver spoons, scarves, etc., which she had filched, the 'subconscious mind treatment' compelling their return; the gay preparations for the birthday party of Mrs. Weeden coming as a happy surprise when she and Mr. Weeden return from a motor drive; and the announcement of Mrs. Parker that Professor Baba Majarajah was a fake, "nothing but a common negro." This climax, however, means nothing to the mother whose whole family and household have benefited greatly from the teaching he gave, though the so-called Hindu himself may have been an impostor.

Musical numbers between the acts were supplied by the visiting artists, and before the drive home after the entertainment, the Y.P.S. served lunch, and a social good time was enjoyed.

MISS H. TUMELTY READS TRAVELOGUE

Women's Institute Holds November Meeting in Eldorado Public Library.

(Examiner Correspondence)

ELDORADO, Dec. 3.—Miss Oryl Lawson gave a realistic interpretation of the Passion Play and Miss Helen Tumelty gave a delightful travelogue at the November meeting of the Women's Institute held at the Assembly Hall of the Public Library.

Miss Tumelty told of her delightful trip to Europe and of the places of interest which she visited. Miss Lawson told of the Passion Play at Oberammergau, and the speakers were introduced by Mrs. Stuart Richards, who voiced the gratification of the Institute to these two ladies.

Throughout her address, Miss Tumelty, whose home is in Madoc Township, kept her hearers in a pleasant state of anticipation. She told of the historical settings, the famous buildings, streets and squares of Paris; the miles of tunnels cut under the chalk of Vimy, and the beautiful military cemeteries.

Among places of interest visited in Germany were the Museum of the Universe, the toy shops of Nuremburg, the model farm at Dresden, the former Kaiser's palaces at Berlin and the training school for Zoo animals at Hamburg. The speaker's visit to the British Isles was also mentioned.

Marmora

Mr. and Mrs. C. Spry and children spent Sunday in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Smithson of Toronto attended the funeral of the late William Knox on Monday.

The C.G.I.T. group under leadership of Miss Hilda Thomson, held a very successful sale of home cooking and candy on Saturday afternoon in the front sample room of the Royal Hotel.

Thugs Get $1,000 In Bank Robbery

An armed thug entering Brooklin, Ont., branch of the Dominion Bank, forced the teller to hand over $1,000 in bills. An eye-witness declares a woman accomplice waited for the gunman in a car outside the bank. Above are shown: (1) Branch of Dominion Bank at Brooklin, near Whitby, Ont., scene of hold-up. (2) F. J. Quinn, teller of bank who was robbed of the $1,000, and (3) Jack Horton, junior member of bank staff, only other person in bank at time of hold-up.

MORE MONEY IS CONTRIBUTED

Large Increase Shown in Bible Society Collections for Cavan District.

YEAR'S REPORT

CAVAN, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — Returns from the Bible Society collectors are being handed in and one District Treasurer stated recently at a Cavan meeting that in spite of hard times, more money is being contributed in his district this year than for some time past.

The following article on the year's report is interesting: "Few surveys of religious or philanthropic societies maintain the high literary standard of the popular reports issued by the British and Foreign Bible Society. This year's report entitled, "In the Mother Tongue," is no exception to the rule. The ideal behind the report is the power of native speech in the deepest and highest human experiences, and developed along the lines of Bible translation in the vernacular.

Some six hundred and thirty translations out of a possible nine hundred stand to the credit of this great society.

The report abounds in apt literary quotations and the chapters are headed by quotations from poets as diverse as Milton, Tennyson, Dryden and J. W. Holme. The very titles of the chapters are suggestive: 'Tongues of all the world,' 'Largess to Mankind,' 'Chapman of the Word,' Finding the Saviour in the Mother Tongue,' 'Language of Gratitude.'

Amongst the illustrations is a beautiful photograph of Saint John's Harbour in New Brunswick, which is one of the greatest immigration ports at which the Society distributes the word to each incoming immigrant in required speech.

There are references to Canada in the volume, and special mention is made of the services of the Rev. Dr. Roscoe Heine, one of the special immigration agents and a colporteur of proved value not only at the seaports but in the lumber camps and wherever groups of workmen are found in Eastern Canada. Dr. Heine, it is said, habitually uses fifteen languages in his work amongst the immigrants and is said to speak twenty-four.

District Churches

MILLBROOK, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — A special service in the interests of the Sunshine Mission Band was held at morning worship in Saint Andrew's United Church on Sunday, November 30, the boys and girls of the society forming the choir, and the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.A., giving an address appropriate to the occasion.

As a processional hymn the children sang, "Praise Him, Praise Him," their other numbers being "Little Pleaders," and "Long Ago in Bethlehem," the latter being by six of the older members of the Mission Band, Gordon Jones, Kenneth Kidd, Lloyd McMahon, Marjorie McDowell, Esther Might, and Audrey Garside. Miss Estelle Hetherington presided at the organ. The hymns for the service were all peculiarly suitable to the younger folk, and included, "God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall," "I Think When I Read the Sweet Story of Old," and "When He Cometh."

The offering was especially in the interests of the Mission Band, the two little lads who took up the thankoffering envelopes in the choir being Gordon Might and Freddie Garside. The Band has an objective of one hundred dollars to reach annually, and is making an extra effort to complete the amount before the close of the current year. The "White Gifts" Christmas, which has an annual feature of the boys' and girls' work each December for some years now, will not take the form of a public entertainment this season, the children bringing their parcels on Sunday morning, and later a bale will be packed and sent to the Wahstao School Home in Alberta. Any of the older members of the congregation who wish to help with this worthy cause may leave their contributions with the superintendent, Mrs. M. McDowell, or her assistants, Mrs. W. Ridge and Miss Phyllis Kidd.

Rev. Mr. Jones, who has a particular gift for speaking to the boys and girls, chose "Bees" as his subject on Sunday morning, illustrating his remarks, which did not fail to carry a good lesson for the older folk also, by means of a "hive," and from this the boys and girls were allowed to come forward in turn and draw a "bee,"—slips of paper on which were written texts, pertinent to the topic, and to be taken home where the parents might emphasize the truth taught by looking up the passage in the Bible and reading it again to the young "apiarist."

The question and answer method kept the children's attention fully focused, as they named the different kinds of bees, the speaker intimating that "my name is that for which I stand," and went on to mention the story of the new name as recorded in Revelation 2.17: "To him that overcometh I will give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it."

Some of the "bees" upon which emphasis was laid were: "Be not afraid," "Be Kind," the "Busy Bee," the "Bee of a good name," "Be truthful," "The Praying Bee," "A cheerful Bee," "A pure bee," "The Useful Bee," "The Earnest Bee," "The Seeking Bee," "The worshipful Bee," and "The Reverend Bee." As the scripture passage was read, the minister made suitable application of the text, pointing out in closing that while the bee gathers honey for itself, boys and girls may improve upon that and bring sweetness into the lives of others.

At the close of the service the children were asked to pass out by way of the pulpit platform, and were given the opportunity of taking some "honey" out of the hive, a layer of candy in the bottom providing a treat after the special effort of the morning, and the rather lengthy worship period, following as it did the usual Sunday School session.

Next Sunday, December 7, morning church service will be at 10.30 o'clock, and the Sunday School will revert to the afternoon for the winter months, beginning at 2.30 p.m.

SIXTH PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

A very pleasant meeting of the Sixth Troop opened at seven o'clock with flag breaking on Monday evening, with Scout Master Wolff in charge.

Patrol competition was started during the meeting and it was a very close run with the Fox and Chickadee patrols leading with a tie followed by the Beavers and Crows with another tie.

Towards the close of the meeting investiture of three boys into the Brotherhood of 2,000,000,000 Scouts was carried out by the Scoutmaster assisted by his assistant and troop leader. The new boys who were welcomed in to the Troop were Frank McNulty, Claire Carroll, and Ray Bennett.

Following this the S.M. called a council meeting at which he gave a few announcements and the Scout Silence followed and lowering of the flag brought the meeting to a close.

SEYMOUR COUNCIL REGULAR SESSION

Accounts Passed Show Large Sum Spent on Road Work.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The regular meeting of the Seymour Township Council was held on Monday in the Clerk's Office, Campbellford, with Reeve G. VanVolkenburg in the chair. Other members present were Deputy Reeve R. Innes, and Councillors W. J. Duncan, W. S. Milne and H. T. Rutherford.

In the absence through illness of the clerk, G. A. Hay, it was decided on motion that J. J. Lewis Hay act in that capacity pro tem until the first meeting of the new year.

The Council, in open session, discussed the equalization of the assessment but took no action.

On motion, all communications were received and filed.

Mr. Scott addressed the Council in regard to a culvert but this matter, on motion, was referred to the road superintendent.

Fred Skinkle also approached the meeting in reference to a rebate for a fire loss and it was moved by Deputy Reeve Innes and seconded by Councillor Rutherford that a rebate of $4.80 be granted.

George Anderson presented the school report, which was accepted and passed. In regard to a car accident, it was passed, on motion, that the account be referred to the insurance company.

Accounts amounting to $2,136.12 were presented and passed. This amount with the exception of $113.50 for gravel and $78.18 for salary and printing, was spent on road work.

Y.P.S. HOLD THEIR WEEKLY MEETING

St. Andrew's Young People Stage Their Program Under Devotional Committee.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, was held on Monday evening in the church, with Frank Roe in the president's chair. Miss Grace Blue acted as secretary, and W. A. Newcourt as pianist.

The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn, Scripture lessons from Romans 1 and Corinthians 9, and prayer by Mr. Newcourt, after which the business session was held.

The program was sponsored by the Devotional Committee, with Flossie Henson in the chair. The topic, "Our Responsibility to Spread the Gospel," was given by Geraldine MacMullen. A number of useful hints were added to this topic by Frank Roe, and Mr. Newcourt gave a short address on the subject.

At the conclusion of this portion of the program, a contest was staged with the assistance of Miss Grace Blue, which proved a very interesting feature. The meeting closed with the benediction.

AGED LADY HAS 87TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Thomas Henderson, Life-Long Resident of Village of Lakefield.

PRESIDENT OF W.M.S.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Thomas Henderson celebrated her eighty-seventh birthday very quietly at her home here on Sunday, November 30. Mrs. Thomas Arthur Mcarthar odarth a Hendren has spent most of her life in Lakefield where she is very well known and has a wide circle of friends.

She has been for more than sixty years connected with the Presbyterian Church and is probably the only charter member of the W.M.S. still living. She entered the Union with Knox Church and is honorary president of their W.M.S.

At a very pleasant little ceremony a few years ago, Mrs. Hendren and Mrs. Peter Baptie, since deceased, the two veteran members of the Society to which they had given nearly a life time's faithful service.

Despite her years Mrs. Hendren is remarkably active and hears and sees well, taking a keen interest in village affairs. For the past few months, she has been a sufferer from neuritis which has curtailed her activities.

DR. ALLAN SPEAKS ON MISSION WORK

Returned Missionary is Sunday Morning Speaker in Fenella Church.

FENELLA, Dec. 3—(Examiner Correspondence)—Dr. Frank Allan, a missionary to West China, who is home on furlough, delivered an address in Fenella United Church on Sunday morning in the interests of the Women's Missionary Society.

Dr. Allan taught school in this district about thirty years ago and is remembered as an earnest spiritual worker in the church he attended. It is twenty-four years since Dr Allan first entered West China and he told his audience that many difficulties were encountered as the result of the Boxer rebellion of 1900, of the tidal wave of anti-foreign hatred that swept over China in later years because of the teachings of communism, but sandwiched in between these two periods he told of some of the work accomplished by the little band of which he was a member. One of the great difficulties facing the missionary in China is how to reach the teaming millions and preach to them the gospel. There are as many as three hundred families on less than two hundred acres of land.

So the missionaries start out to train the young men and women as missionaries and nurses and doctors. In 1918 the first ordination service was held for a class of twenty-three and there are now seventy men and women studying medicine in the universities of West China. The first girl graduated in medicine in West China last year.

They have now ten teaching stations for young people, one hundred and fourteen preaching places. While dwelling very lightly on the sufferings and hardships endured he told of the suffering from cold experienced by their party on its arrival in China, how it is always so necessary to never get away from one's own food supply and bedding and how a number of the missionaries break down from the strain of living in the fighting zone, of living in the midst of the revolution, and always within the sight and sound of the guns.

He concluded with the cry of the Orient: "Send us more missionaries, more doctors, more nurses and teachers!"

TRENT RIVER

Electricity was turned on for the first time at the afternoon services of the United church on Sunday.

Mr. Percy Tyler who has been confined to his bed suffering from an attack of jaundice is making a good recovery.

Mrs. John Free attended the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wright, who passed away in Brighton on Saturday.

Friends of Mr. David Burgess will be sorry to learn he is confined to bed through illness.

Mrs. Alley has returned to Peterborough accompanied by her son, Fred, who has been ill.

Mr. A. L. Riendeau of Campbellford held the lucky number for the quilt sold by the Women's Institute.

Miss Ethyl Longmuir has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be out again.

Dare You Risk a Lesser Help for That Cough?

Creomulsion is made for difficult coughs—coughs from colds that hang on. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is used for quick relief, for safety.

For milder coughs a lesser help may do. But dare you take the risk when any cough is a signal of some danger? Is it not wise to use this seven-way help to be sure?

Creomulsion costs $1.25—a little more than most helps. But it costs you nothing if it fails to bring the quick relief you seek. Your druggist guarantees it. Use it for safety's sake.

Lakefield Dance Successful Affair

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—The dance held on Friday evening under the auspices of the Lakefield Agricultural Society was a huge success.

Moncrief's Orchestra supplied the music and an excellent supper was served. The handsome bridge and parlor lamp offered as a prize for the best exhibition of the old time waltz was won by Mr. and Mrs. George Willson, of Buckhorn, and Jack McManus won the step dancing contest.

A.Y.P.A. Euchre

Nine tables were played at the A.Y.P.A. Euchre on Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Miss Dell Watson and Leo Allen and the Consolation prizes by Mrs. Lake and Clarence Duff.

Knox Church Tea

The Ladies' Guild of Knox Church held a successful tea on Friday afternoon in Leonard shop and did a good business with dainty fancy articles, home cooking and delectable candy. Afternoon tea was served.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PLANS CONCERT

Miss Madeline Gray Appointed to Fill Vacancy in Omemee S. S.

Y.P.S. MEETING

OMEMEE, Dec. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Arrangements were made for the annual Christmas tree and entertainment which is to be held on Tuesday, Dec 23 at the monthly meeting of the teachers and officers of Trinity United Church S.S. held at the home of H. Lamb.

Miss Madeline Gray was appointed primary room teacher because of the vacancy made by Miss Elsie Day who had gone to London.

It was decided to change the annual promotion of classes from Easter to the New Year because of the ordering of supplies.

Y.P.S. Meeting.

Dr. McPhee, vice-president of the citizenship department was in charge of the Y.P.S. of Trinity United church. The scriptural lesson was read by Miss Marjorie Tripp after which Miss Evelyn Morcombe played a piano solo. Vocal selections by the Misses Lowe and Parsons were enjoyed by all. The topic for the evening was on duty given by Dr. McPhee.

Ten dollars was voted to Christie Street Hospital and a box of Christmas cheer is to be sent to the Cheerio radio station for distribution among the poor of Toronto.

The recreation period was in charge of Miss M. Faulkner, and consisted of a contest and peanut hunt and community singing.

Ladies Hold Tea

The ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held a tea in the church parlors on Saturday evening. The tables were prettily decorated with cut flowers and the supper was all that could be desired.

Damages Gas Pumps

A car driven by B. V. Magee of Lindsay crashed into a gas pump of the service station of T. C. Ivory, knocking over the pumps and breaking the globes. Mr. Magee was driving west when a car going east occupied the centre of the road, and to avoid hitting the car, he applied the brakes, but owing to the icy roads, the car skidded and crashed into the pumps. Outside of a broken bumper no other damage was done to the car.

DOUGHNUTS

(Contributed by Sunbeam)

1 egg
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon nutmeg
Beat well and add:
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda dissolved in a little warm water
2 tablespoons melted butter and flour to make a dough not too soft to handle easily.

Roll and cut with doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat being careful not to burn.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

THE TURQUOISE RING.

The splash of color on my hand
Comes from a distant, sun-kissed land,
Shaped for a dark-skinned maid to wear
Bound close against her midnight hair;
Like a forget-me-not in Spring,
Or sky rain-washed, my turquoise ring.

The stone is blue as wings of bird,
And carved thereon are magic words
First spoken in a bygone age
By some forgotten Aztec sage;
It wards away all pain, regret,
This potent turquoise amulet.

And yet to me most joy it gives
Because in such small compass lives
A mirrored bit of tranquil sky
As vivid as we glimpse on high,
To prove how each heart's love may be
A part of love's infinity.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

BEING A GOOD SLEEPER NOT ALWAYS A GOOD SIGN.

It was my privilege some years ago to visit an institution for the feeble minded.

Every opportunity was afforded for a close inspection of the inmates at play, at school and at leisure.

I learned that although there were some inmates who for various reasons were not hearty eaters, every inmate was a good sleeper.

As you know, a great many of these patients suffer from a lack of gland development, particularly the lack of the proper development of the thyroid gland in the neck.

On the other hand, individuals with over-development of the thyroid are very active mentally, and unfortunately are not generally good sleepers.

Now, this doesn't mean that if you are a heavy sleeper your thyroid is deficient, or that if you are a poor sleeper that your thyroid is too active.

A chap who had always been active and alert, up early in the morning ready for work, or play, or a fishing trip, became gradually a little lazy, no desire to get up early even to go fishing, and was often found sleeping during the day.

What was the reason for this sleepiness?

Simply a number of infected teeth that had so poisoned his system that he was tired and sleepy all the time.

And when infection gets to the point that you are tired, heavy, and sleepy all the time, it is doing real damage to your system.

The reason a feeble-minded individual sleeps well is because he has nothing on his mind to keep him awake whereas the normal individual may have cares—worries, or other emotional disturbances—that keep his mind too active for sleep.

So, whether you think you sleep too much, or think you do not get enough sleep, it is worth your while to investigate the matter.

Sleep means as much to that body of yours as food. Too much sleep increases weight—wears out the body.

While it is natural to feel a little heavy, a little sleepy after a heavy meal, if you find that you feel sleepy during the day, have your family doctor and dentist look you over.

If you can't sleep at night and have no particular reason for wakefulness—business or other worries—then have your doctor look you over and check up the thyroid gland.

In thyroid disturbance there is usually a rapid heart, trembling of the muscles, nervousness, slight bulging of the eyes and so forth, but in the early stages all these symptoms may not be present.

CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—Campbellford awakened on Tuesday to find the temperature from 10 to 12 below, the coldest this year. Fortunately there was no wind with this extreme drop so that the day was comfortable, if cold can be that.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Amos Green had the misfortune to slip while walking down her path and fracture her thigh. Hope is expressed that her recovery will be a quick one.

The Rev. L. M. Smith was a visitor to Norwood on Tuesday.

Another thing that strikes the eye is the new coat of paint that the Campbellford Cloth Company has applied to the north end of their plant. The color is green and with the white facing of the sashes it adds greatly to the appearance of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Innes had as their guest, Mr. Arthur Stockdale of Toronto.

"Truth is Stranger Than Fiction"

"Dad," said little Tommy, "teacher told us that the olive branch is the emblem of peace; what is the emblem of war?"

"Orange blossoms," said Dad, with a weary sigh.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Williams attended the Liberal-Conservative banquet in Toronto on Tuesday, making the trip by car.

Mr. A. E. Caddy of Peterborough and Mr. J. Belshaw of Stirling attended the funeral on Tuesday of the late Mrs. David Archer at Burnbrae.

WEDDINGS

ENGLAND—SLOGGETT

WARKWORTH, Dec. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The marriage was solemnized in St. John's Anglican church on Saturday morning, November 29, of Orpha Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sloggett, Warkworth and Philip Henton England, son of Philip England, of Clyst Hydon, Devonshire, England.

The Rev. J. F. B. Belford officiated.

The bridegroom has recently returned from India and now resides in Toronto.

McMILLAN—WARNER

HASTINGS, Dec. 3.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, Nov. 26, at the Manse, Hastings, when Ada, daughter of Mr. James Warner, of Asphodel, became the bride of William J. A. McMillan, Rev. D. A. Thomson, D.D., officiating.

After a honeymoon, the young couple will reside in Hastings.

A nine-foot python was treated for gastric trouble at a London animal hospital recently.

Lace Affectionately Regarded This Season

(1) A beautiful gown of Chantilly lace enriched by a row of black velvet flowers extending from the neckline to the knee. The same velvet runs through the lace at the waistline and forms an interesting girdle. Pale flesh tulle crushed at the neckline and fluttering from the wrists completes the gown, which is sketched by Marie Marot. (2) A lovely gown of black transparent velvet, relying for its trimming simply on velvet flowers. The high georgette yoke is flesh colored. (3) In this gown of Firenzi red transparent velvet, the bands which cross both front and back and disappear into fan pleats falling uncompromisingly to the floor, are the only decoration. (4) A Marie Marot sketch or dark red chiffon patterned in red sequins typifies the shimmering effects, which the season demands for some evening gowns. The crushed girdle of dark red velvet is held by an ornament of ruby stones. Ruby red is one of the most popular colors of the evening mode.

FASHION SERVICE

A black canton crepe displays the newest feeling for femininity in its softly falling cape collar. Note how slenderizing is the long V of the bodice, finishing with a slim little front sash. The wee vestee is lingerie. It's stunning too with the vest of eggshell wool lace. The sleeve detail is interesting.

Black transparent velvet with turquoise blue sheer metal lame vest suggests itself for afternoons and "Sunday Nights." The sleeves may be omitted as the cape collar covers the upper part of the arms in the manner of the moment.

Style No. 2837 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 4 3-8 yards 39-inch with ¾ yard 18-inch contrasting.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children, embroidery, Christmas suggestions, etc.

KING STAYS MUM.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 3 (C.P.).—"I am leaving Mr. Bennett to do all the talking at present," said Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, when asked yesterday, if he had any comment to make on Premier R. B. Bennett's statement in respect to the use of the word "humbug" by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas. "I am anxious that Mr. Bennett shall have just as much leeway as possible," added Mr. King. He had nothing further to say on the matter.

Lonely Bear Wanted to Be Chummy, So Campers Threw It Some Scraps

APSLEY, Ont., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930).—A story about bear that whimpered from fear and sought human companionship is related by Tom Findlay, trapper and guide, on coming out of the bush for supplies.

"It was during the bush fire a couple of weeks ago," he told your correspondent, "when we were laying back-fires up the Coehill road. The bear, not a very big one, came on to the road and looked at us—then backed away toward the smoke—then came nearer glancing over its shoulder at the wall of smoke. It disappeared for a while and we thought it had found a way through the flames, but it returned shortly and came real close to us. We could hear it whimpering, just like a whipped dog.

It stood up on its hind legs, then got on all four paws near a tree and rubbed itself against the bark. It was just like a pet and seemed to find comfort in being near us."

After the fire had subsided the men sat around their cook-fire chatting and resting, when one of them saw the bear at the trees edge. "We threw it some scraps," Findlay said, "and it seemed glad to get them. Next day it was gone and we did not see it again."

TWO ESCAPE JAIL.

YARMOUTH, N.S., Dec. 2.—Stunning Arthur Simms, jailor, with a blow by the heavy jail key, Cecil Tasco and George Nelson escaped from the county jail here last night, and up to a late hour had not been recaptured. Tasco was confined awaiting trial on a charge of stealing cattle, and Nelson for the alleged theft of a suit of clothes.

Safe

to correct this common ailment without habit-forming drugs...

IT isn't necessary to use harsh purgatives to overcome chronic constipation, with its attendant evils of languor, nervousness, bad breath and headaches. To use such drugs may be habit-forming and dangerous.

Nature has her own safe, pleasant remedy. She provides it in natural bran. Just add Quaker natural Bran to your daily diet. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Eat delicious bran muffins made plain or with raisins, or serve in various other ways suggested in every Quaker natural Bran package.

Just one word of warning. Be sure you get Quaker natural Bran. It does not irritate, because made of soft Ontario winter wheat. It is not cooked or treated, just sterilized. Physicians will tell you that Quaker Bran is the best and most effective roughage you can eat.

BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups Quaker Flour, 2 cups Quaker natural Bran, 1 cup Sugar, 2 tablespoons Molasses, 1 teaspoon Baking Soda, 1 cup Seeded Raisins, 1 Egg, 1 teaspoon Salt, 2 tablespoons Shortening, 1½ cups Sour Milk. (Sweet milk may be used if 3 teaspoons of Baking Powder are used in place of the Soda.)

METHOD—Mix shortening thoroughly with molasses and sugar. Add egg well beaten, then milk, salt, flour, bran, soda, and floured raisins. Bake in well greased muffin tins in a hot oven 10 or 15 minutes.

Mrs. William Prest of Prince Street entertained the members of the Wide Awake Bible Class of St. John's Church, of which she is the teacher, at her home. The business session, which consisted mainly of discussion of the feature to be presented by the class at the Christmas concert, was followed by a social hour when refreshments were served by the hostess. Among those present were the Misses Lillian Baldry, Muriel Moorhouse, Hazel Reesor, Irene Parsons, Dorothy Lockhart, Alberta Frost, Jenny Smart, Marion Wood, Zoe McDonald, and Florence Cripps.

• • •

County Judge Joseph Wearing of London, formerly of this city, in opening the Middlesex Sessions in London yesterday, urged every person to make this a "Dickens Christmas," a means to end the business depression. He urged the people to remember as many of their friends and relatives as possible. By sending them gifts they would serve a double purpose—increasing the circulation of money and bringing joy to the lives of the recipients. He mentioned that within the last week about one million dollars had been paid to shareholders in London by an oil company.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

May I ask you a rather personal question, "Are you hard on your things?"

• • • • • • •

Of course you all know that the lasting quality of personal and household articles differs according to the habits of the ones using them.

• • • • • • •

You all know, too, the expression that such and such a person is "hard on things" or the opposite. Some persons treat their belongings in such a way as to seem to want to invite the repair man.

• • • • • • •

Either such persons have shabby belongings or are required to expend actual money for replacement, while the ones who have the faculty of making what they have last longest are still enjoying the original article in its fullest usefulness.

• • • • • • •

One way in which the person who is hard on things hastens the evil when a repair man or woman is required, is in such simple and thoughtless ways as opening a bureau drawer by one handle only, when there are two.

• • • • • • •

All who are acquainted with the beautiful antique and other bureaus where only wooden handles are used, know that the strain on the handles should be divided.

• • • • • • •

The single handle loosens when given the full weight of the drawer. It is doing oneself a personal favor, in saving of time as well as money, to avoid such needless repairing.

• • • • • • •

The cord by which the electric lamp or iron is attached can be handled in such a way as to require expert service in repairing.

• • • • • • •

The person who is hard on things does not take the extra few seconds needed to detach the appliance properly, but gives a tug at the cord.

• • • • • • •

No great length of time is required to have the fine wires within separated from their contacts by such abusive treatment.

• • • • • • •

Fortunately the habit of mind which goes with this sort of handling can be altered in favor of better methods, and is likely to be, when one realizes the actual cost in dollars into which such carelessness runs in the course of time.

• • • • • • •

Likewise, there is the constructive side, that to mend one's ways is better economy than to mend one's belongings—besides being cheaper.

• • • • • • •

Families of large and lesser means are frequently generous in the turning over their used things to those of less fortune.

• • • • • • •

It is a great temptation always to favor those whose way of handling things is careful. I have known cases where this was the rule in making a choice of two destinations to which a quantity of still usable things were to be sent.

He mentioned that during the past week about a million dollars was paid to shareholders in London by an oil company.

IRISH GRAIN FOR HUNTERS.

In the movement in Northern Ireland for the use of Irish products, followers of the hunt are advocating that only Irish grain be fed to the famous Irish hunters. Hunt Master McCalmont has just sent a circular letter to all followers of the Kilkenny Hunt advising that all horses there have never tasted foreign grain and that even the hunting dogs are fed oatmeal from local products. Other hunting organizations are following the same plan.

HOLDS WORLD'S LARGEST PARISH

If Beauty of Country Were Known Tourist Visits Would Be Numerous.

VISITS SOCIETY IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3.—With a thousand square miles of parish, Father Coutre of Longlac, Ont., probably has a greater area under his charge than any single priest in the world. He is Jesuit missionary to a territory that stretches across the Canadian National transcontinental line from Hearst of Sioux Lookout, and from Lake Nipigon north to James Bay. The white men in Father Couture's parish can almost be counted on one's fingers. They are the Hudson's Bay Company employees in about eight posts. His parishioners are Ojibwa Indians, trappers, hunters, guides. The Rev. Father cannot rest in his parish house between services; he has to travel about 3,000 miles a year to keep in touch with the souls in his charge—about 1,600 by outboard motor along the Albany River and its tributaries, and another 1,600 by dog team. Once in the Spring and once during the Fall he leaves his labors among the Ojibways and visits the headquarters of his society in Toronto. His Fall visit finished this week-end, when he left Toronto on the Canadian National Railways for Montreal, on his way back to Longlac.

Father Couture says the appeal of his country to the tourist would be enormous if its beauties were known. In his trip down the Albany he encounters no less than twelve waterfalls of considerable size. The shores drop to the water. Fish are plentiful are high cliffs with almost a straight ful for the only fishermen are the Indians. Father Couture during some winters has existed for months on boiled fish and tea. There is any number of excellent guides, because the Indian in this territory is not "spoiled by civilization," as the missionary expressed it. In his winter travels Father Couture has a team of Malamutes of real Robert W. Service type, from the Mackenzie River district. These dogs are huskies in the true sense of the word, for while the average sled dog weighs about 80 pounds, these brutes average 125 pounds each and almost timber wolves in size and appearance. An Indian remarked in, jest that if one of Father Couture's team died the head could be sent to the Government for wolf bounty.

Clover Leaf Introduces Three Brand Packing

Simplified Shopping for the Purchasers of Salmon—Some Interesting Information.

The difficulties of selecting the brand desired from 123 different kinds of salmon which are now on the market is being simplified for the housewife by the packers of Cloverleaf Brand Salmon. The Cloverleaf packers, who themselves put up 63 different brands, have decided that the time has come for a radical departure from this type of packing.

The new inovation which is introduced to the shoppers of Peterborough to-day is the three brand selection. As pointed out by Mr. Richard Gosse and Mr. Clifford Thomas, officials of the company, who are in the city, there are really three popular kinds of salmon, red, medium red and pink.

The fish from which the three kinds of flesh are obtained are radically different, not only in size and markings, but in habit. The size of the fish largely governs the quality and the breed governs the color of the flesh. The majority of the retailers in the city have been interviewed and their attitude is one of highest commendation for the move inaugurated by the Cloverleaf packers.

The Cloverleaf label has always been accepted as synonymous with highest quality fresh salmon, and that the new plan of marketing selected medium red and pinks under the Cloverleaf label will help shoppers to easily identify the kind of salmon they require for various table uses.

Leafs Lose to Bruins - Maroons Vanquish Hawks

"TINY" THOMPSON'S BRILLIANT GOALKEEPING WINS 3-2 GAME FOR BOSTON IN THE HUB CITY

Bruins in Second Place of American Division as Result of Win.

KING CLANCY STARS.

Both of Leafs' Scores Came From Stick of Charlie Conacher.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 3.—The Boston Bruins jumped into second place in the American division of the National Hockey League here last night by upsetting the flashy Toronto Maple Leafs by 3 to 2. The speedy visitors deserved the victory, but Tiny Thompson, Boston goalkeeper, played far above the standard set by his teammates and ruined all but two of the thrilling Toronto dashes, most of which were led by "King" Clancy.

Both of the Leafs' scores came from the sharp-shooting stick of Charlie Conacher. His opening tally in the first session resulted from Primeau's assist and his other score in the final was on a pass from Happy Day, who as did King Clancy, his defence-mate, did much of the attacking.

Art Chapman scored on Eddie Shore's pass for Boston in the second period and Marty Barry caged the last score when he rushed with Harry Oliver.

MAROONS DO NOT LIKE SCHEDULE

Will Seek For Re-arrangement of it From T. V. H. L. Executive.

NEW UNIFORMS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 3. — (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Campbellford Hockey Club, dissatisfaction was expressed at the present schedule of games as was drawn up at the Stirling meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League for the winter.

Discussing this matter from all angles the committee decided to make representation to the T.V.L. with a view to the re-arrangement of the schedule and with this in view immediate action will be taken.

Another piece of business that was transacted was the decision to purchase new sweaters and hose for the players this year. The colors will remain the same, maroon and orange, but the markings of the outfits will be different. A plain maroon sweater with burnt orange collar and shoulder pieces will be the vogue, with the letter C on the front and the number on the back in orange. The sox will carry the orange stripes on the maroon background.

LOSE ON ROUND.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 3.—(C.P.)—In a hectic battle that was in doubt right up to the final gong, Niagara Falls juniors defeated the aggressive Ottawa Rideaus here last night by a 3-2 score, but the locals lost the two-game round by an 8-6 round.

CHICAGO THROWS UP READING FRANCHISE

President Veeck Admits Inability to Give Pennsylvania City Strong Team.

READING, Pa., Dec. 3. — The Chicago National League baseball club definitely threw up the Reading franchise in the International League last night. William L. Veeck, President of the Cubs, announced Chicago's withdrawal from Reading in a letter to E. J. Poole, President of the local club.

Veeck said the Cubs were withdrawing because of their inability to give Reading the kind of team this city deserves. He said that Chicago could not operate two Class AA clubs, and as it is closely allied with the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast Club of the Pacific Coast League de-League decided to throw up the Reading franchise.
